Out of town guests of the wedding of Kathy Wieland and Marvin Huis Saturday, September 6, at the Atwood Reformed Church were from Charlevoix, Mr. and Mrs. John Wieland and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wieland, from East Jordon, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Danforth and family, Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Diller, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Noirat, Mr. and Mrs. Joe DeVenter, Mrs. Albert Sinclair, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Vance and Mrs. Marie Nelsun; from Grand Rapids, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ficistra, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Andringa, Miss Jean Steenhagen, and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Martindale and son; from Dearborn, Miss Barbara Lusky, Miss Sue Olin, Miss Janice Peruske and Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Olin; also Mrs. Emily Waring of Kewadin; Mr. and Mrs. Rex Wood of Highland, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Howe, St. Clair Shores, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Elzinga, Lansing Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Stanly Huis, Battle Creek; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Dawson, Au Gres; Miss. Sharon Buslipp, Detroit; Bob Johnson, Yale; Wally Sargent, Port Huron and Mr. and Mrs. John DeYoung, Melbourne, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Alward have purchased the Moore home north of town, on the corner next to Mrs. Kittie Black McPhersons home.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dice of Grand Rapids spent a few days the past week with her sisters Miss Kate Bronkema and Mrs. Solomon Goeman. Henry also did some fishing.

The local cannery finished packing beans this week and have begun on packing fingerling carrots and red beets.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hill and four children come to us from Deckerville and have purchased the Jack Van Loo home on Church and Lake St. corner. Hill will serve the Star Twp. Church near East Jordan as lay pastor and is a carpenter by trade. Welcome to our village.

Visiting Mrs. Maude Patterson last week were Mr. and Mrs. Dewitt Patterson and Mrs. George Hunter of Royal Oak and Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Pranger and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Peltier of Muskegon.

Deborah Potter

Miss Potter is engaged

Mr. and Mrs. William Potter, of Rt. 1 Charlevoix, announce the engagement of their daughter Deborah Potter to David Mieras, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Mieras.

Deborah graduated from Charlevoix High School and is planning to attend Northwestern Michigan College this fall.

David is presently in the United States Army, and is to be stationed in Germany by the end of September. His base after two months in Germany will be Viet Nam.

The wedding is planned to take place at the completion of his military service.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Simmons

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Lelah Simmons, 82, a former resident.

At her request, her remains were cremated and are being brought to Charlevoix for services tomorrow at Brookside Cemetery at 10 a.m.

Mrs. Simmons had lived in Albuquerque, N.M., since 1955. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cooper, an early Northern Michigan settler.

REGISTRATION NOTICE
SPECIAL ELECTION to be held in the
CITY of CHARLEVOIX
Charlevoix County, Michigan

On Tuesday, November 4th 1969 to Qualified Electors of the City of Charlevoix, Michigan.

NOTICE is hereby given that in conformity with "Michigan Election Law" I, the undersigned Clerk, will upon any day except Sunday and a legal Holiday, the day of any regular, special, or official primary election, receive for registration the name of any legal voter not already registered who may apply to me personally for such registration. Provided however, that I can receive no names for registration during the time intervening between the Thirtieth Day before any regular, special or official primary election and the day of such election.

Friday, October 3rd 1969, THE LAST DAY FOR REGISTRATION, FROM 8 AM TO 8 PM ON SAID DAY FOR THE PURPOSE OF REVIEWING THE REGISTRATION AND REGISTERING SUCH OF THE QUALIFIED ELECTORS AS SHALL PROPERLY APPLY THEREFOR.

THE OFFICE WILL BE OPEN SEPTEMBER 27th FROM 8 AM TO 8 PM FOR REGISTRATION.

The Name of no person by an actual resident of the precinct at the time of said registration, and entitled to vote at next election, shall be entered in the Registration Book.

HUGH MAYNE, CLERK
City of Charlevoix

Insurance available

A voluntary accident insurance plan covering public school youngsters is available again this year. The student is protected under the plan:

While attending regular school sessions.

While traveling directly and uninterruptedly to or from the student's residence and the school for regular school sessions, not to exceed one hour travel time.

While attending and or participating in any school sponsored and supervised activity to include all sports except high school tackle football.

All benefits paid regardless of any other insurance.

The cost per student is $2.50 for the school year. (Also available is a 24 hour-12 full month program at a cost of $12. per student.)

All students participating in school-sponsored activities are required to purchase the basic $2.50 accident insurance plan.

High School Tackle Football Coverage: An accident insurance program costing $4.50 per player and protecting up to $5,000 is required of all who participate. Coverage here is based on the principle of excess insurance--excess insurance pays where other insurance leaves off. If there is no other collectible insurance, then it pays from the first dollar of covered expense.

LOCAL

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Carey and daughter, Amy, have returned to Midland where Mr. Carey is Dean of Students at the high school there. During the fall they will spend the weekends here.

November	7	8 p.m.	AT St. Ignace

This week:

Rayders at Petoskey, Fri.

CHS over Alpena CC 18-8 in opening game

The opening week of football in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference lived up to expectation, as most of the favored teams won, but by comparatively low scores. The biggest disappointment was Cheboygan's 32-0 loss to Cedillac. The new two point extra point wes tried, and by the end of the season, it is bound to spell the difference in the conference title.

The Red Rayders got off to a successful start, but it could quite possibly cost them the use of Bruce Meggison for a while. Meggison was popped in the knee, and at this writing, the extent of his injury is not known.

The Rayders had to add a last quarter touchdown to assure them of a win over a very spunky Alpena Catholic team, and it took a tricky lateral pass play to do it. Now the Rayders face the Petoskey Northmen at Petoskey this Friday. It could get to be quite a battle, but we see a winning streak coming– Charlevoix wins, by a close margin.

After Boyne's close 14-8 loss to perennial power, St. Ignace, the Remblers should have no trouble at Alpena Catholic. The Ramblers will have to reorganize their backfield this fell after losing 200 points through graduation losses, but its been a long time since Boyne dropped two in e row. Boyne City wins, 20-6.

It has to be the game of the year for the St. Ignace Saints. Located almost in the southern peninsule, the Saints have to save face with the "Upes" sportwriters, end show them they play in a strong conference. Meanwhile, Escanaba Holy Name is expecting a record breaking season this year, and ere loaded for bear.

If John Brown can get untracked, watch out, otherwise the trip west will be enother blunder. Hate to call it, but we see Escanaba winning by two points, 20-18.

Gaylord goes to Cheboygan for another important league game. Both teams suffered losses last week, but some say that Cheboygan lost to en outstanding Cadillac team. The Chiefs have e 200-pound line, while the backfield is built up to be the best in the league. Getting shutout by Cadillac, their backfield proved very little, but enought to get by Gaylord, 20-6.

Pre-season polls showed the Rogers City Hurons to be one of the weaker teems in the conference, but the Hurons will be riding etop the league standings after they easily defeat the TCSF Gladiators et Rogers City Friday. Don Kendziorski ran wild in Gaylord last week, scoring three touchdowns; proving he cen be one of the top backs in the conference this fall.

Rogers City threw only one pass against Geylord, so you cen expect a "grind-me-out" geme. Rogers City by 20.

Endangered species -- scientists have compiled a list and close to the top of the list is the trumpeter swan and the whooping crane. Recent bulletins indicate that a pitiful remnant of these two species may be preserved.

Fifty years ago the migratory bird treaty gave the trumpeter swan complete protection. Oddly enough, the most lawless native gunners have shown respect for the swans, the whistling swan, which sometimes paused in large numbers during migration, and the rare trumpeter.

There are now sufficient numbers of swan, of both species, and of whooping cranes, to encourage the hope that both species may be saved.

The bison, or "buffalo", was an endangered species in the last quarter of the 19th century when hide-hunters were lying in wait for the remnants of the vast herds to visit ancestral water holes. Yet the American bison was rescued from oblivion through the efforts of eastern sportsmen, inspired by men like Teddy Roosevelt.

An endangered species that met its doom here in Michigan was the passenger pigeon. It was a final nesting season near Petoskey that saw the passenger pigeon wiped out as tens of thousands of birds were shipped out on lake vessels. They were trapped alive to be used in trap shooting; they were salted in barrels, they were packed in ice, by the ton. What actually doomed the passenger pigeon was the clearing of beech forests, their breeding and feeding grounds.

Michigan has seen the disappearance of a number of endangered species. The prairie areas of the southwestern counties once had buffalo. Prairie chicken were common wherever there was open country.

Michigan has recorded the last wild elk, caribou -- on Lake Superior Islands -- and now Ford Kellum, Department of Natural Resources biologist, sadly reports that after a long day of exploration he has to admit that there are no prairie chicken left in the northern counties of the Lower Peninsula.

On the endangered list is the alligator, the black-footed ferret end kit fox of the western plains. The spruce hen was common in Michigan swamps half a century ago, but these foolish fowl are hard to find today.

Not much to show

Congress is off on vacation, and many of its members are busy giving the impression that this is well deserved because of the hard work of legislating. Among a somewhat disenchanted public, many may be inclined to ask, "What hard work?"

Few bills have been approved since the present session began in January, and of these only two are of much significance. The national debt ceiling has been lifted; the income tax surcharge has been extended through the rest of the year.

Of the dozen appropriation bills for the current fiscal year, all should technically have been approved by July 1, but not one has been enacted. At the last possible moment a stopgap spending authorization was finally approved on June 30.

Such important measures as tax reform, the abolition of the electoral college and the extension of the Voting Rights Act are either being considered in a very leisurely way or else are not moving at all.

Congress is handicapped by a cumbrous legislative system, true. This is not much of an extenuating circumstance, however, since the legislators have not bothered to improve the system greatly over the years.

Even such a minor and presumably non-contentious matter as electric voting to replace the time-wasting rollcall method has not won approval. The outmoded seniority method of choosing committee chairmen delays and often defeats desirable legislation. Congress does nothing about this.

The truth of the matter is that Congress is enjoying a three-week break from legislative toil without having much to show for that toil. Perhaps a vacation among constituents will remind the lawmakers that many citizens would be better pleased if Congress were not so interminably slow about acting.

Pre-census hints

Next year the Census Bureau, as it has done once a decade since 1790, will launch another intensive effort to find out how many Americans there are. It will also dredge up a lot of other interesting and useful information about us.

Some hints of how the nation has changed since 1960 have already begun to emerge from advance studies. Population is 203.2 million, up 23.2 million, which means we're about one-eighth bigger than nine years ago.

More than 46 percent of us are under 25, yet because of a sharp birth decline there were about two and one-third million more children under five in 1960 than there are today.

These and other data reaffirm that our population is not yet stabilized, but still in a state of flux. The nature and extend of the changes, as revealed in next year's census, will play a vital role in planning for the decade ahead.

Standing idle

It is widely agreed that one thing Americans in general can't abide is idleness. They like to be on the go, whether at work or play. They like to have things functioning, producing, not stagnant.

All this lends special interest to the fact that at this very moment one of the nation's greatest enterprises stands essentially idle—has been since June, will be until September.

With scattered exceptions, the public school perform no useful function during the summer months.

There are reasons for this. Pupils and teachers alike need a break in the educational rat race. Summer is still the traditional family vacation period.

The fact remains that much of our multi-billion-dollar investment in school facilities is unproductive during one-quarter of the year. That seems odd, in a nation whose people reputedly can't stand idleness.

Viewpoint!

Movie sex

BY HANK HOGAN

Discussion of sex in motion pictures ranges over a wide area.

Many stars use the alibi that "artistic nudity" in films is the criterion which determines whether or not they will appear undraped before the cameras.

One star who refuses this is James Franciscus. In an interview with a wire service the TV and motion picture star said, "I hear performers—especially actresses—say that they will do a nude scene or a homosexual story if it fits into the context of the script; or if it has some social significance."

"That's funny. Blatant sex scenes are a mistake. Like any good book or painting, the subtlety of the artist makes the work artful. It leaves something to the imagination."

He has really hit the nail on the head because a woman with very little on is certainly more exciting than a woman wearing nothing. This is why strip teasers have lasted through so many centuries.

But with the barriers of censorship down through the removal of restrictions by our federal supreme court, director after director is trying to sell films the same way certain authors have found to sell books.

The total lack of censorship was really brought out in a recent story in the New York Times. The story told of how a critic was invited to attend the filming of a wild sex orgy scene for low budget nudie film.

The producer of the film told the critic that he had to be secretive concerning the site he was using for the orgy. The actors and actresses were to be assembled for the cameras in a New York City apartment, but the producer refused to let the newsman know the address.

Instead he was told to wait at the corner of 42nd Street and Lexington Avenue in Fun City. There he was met by a driver and taken to the apartment to witness the filming of the epic.

The reporter asked the driver, "Do you have to be so secretive because you are filming in the nude?"

"No," replied the driver, "because we are using a non-union crew."

Here is a document of the times. There is no fear in filming a sex orgy, but the lack of union credentials forces top-secret action.

Forget the power of the press. Disregard fear of the vice squad, but don't buck the unions.

We have sure come a long way, but where are we?

Farm workers

By BOB MYERS

The recent Detroit Free Press series on the deplorable treatment of migrant worker in Michigan was a story that needed to be told. Unfortunately it will be told many more times before anything is done.

In business and industry, there are standards for wages and hours and the work women and children can do. We've had government men at The Press taking urine specimens to be sure we weren't getting lead poisoning. We've had them check our toilets to see if they were ventilated. If a boy works here during school hours, the government has to know about it. There are, of course, also the protections of workmen's compensation, social security and unemployment insurance.

None of these standards or protections apply to the migrant worker. A pretense is made toward minimum wages but it's a farce easily gotten around.

How can a Christian, a decent man, an honest employer, or a conscientious legislator justify laws that make a Mexican-American (or any farm worker) a second class citizen?

I was a farmer. The part I dislike most about farming was that farm prices did not permit me to pay the wages I wanted to pay. My employees need a 50 percent wage increase to put them anywhere near industry but that amount would have put the farm into the loss column every year I farmed.

An individual farmer could do little to better conditions for farm workers. But farm organization and lawmakers could. If all farm wages and working conditions were raised, food prices would adjust to reflect these increase costs. Farmers would have less trouble getting help and they would have better help.

The mistake farmers have made is to oppose minimum wages and minimum standards on the farm. It is a business mistake and a moral one that I would not want on my conscience.

Ag. Dept.

A news release comes from the Michigan Dept. of Agriculture, telling us what to do with unwanted DDT or old DDT containers. The stuff should NOT be taken to the dump because high levels of DDT have been found in dumps. It should be buried in a hole, at least 50 feet from a tree, and covered with 3 feet of earth.

If it were any agency but our bumbling State Dept. of Agriculture, we'd say they gotta be kidding. DDT can still be bought in Michigan and is still being used by the ton. A farmer can legally spray his whole farm with it, but if we have an empty aerosol can, we're supposed to dig a 3-foot hole and bury it.

If it Fitz

Hard to keep laughing

I lost 110,000 readers and the editor said sorry, but he wanted a funny column every week and some weeks I'm not funny, in fact I'm pretty sad, and sometimes my adjectives are too rough on the nouns.

Which was obviously something I should worry about. This was an Ohio newspaper which paid good money. It was, in fact, the first customer I'd lost since this column became syndicated 2 years ago.

Golly gee, I thought, there's really no reason I can't be full of laughs every week. Maybe the trouble is that I worry too much. I'll cut that out, I decided. And I started with the rejection from the Ohio newspaper. I refused to worry about it.

Instead, I went out and played golf. And it was one of those golden days when everything went right.

My favorite enemy was my partner and he was lousy. He couldn't make a putt and this gave me splendid opportunities to insult him. Few things are more satisfying than calling a guy a bum and he can't answer you because he really is a bum and everybody knows it, even him. Marvelous.

After golf, there were good drinks and I drank more than I bought. Next came roast beef with tender edges and just the right splash of red in the middle. Followed by euchre at which I again bested my favorite enemy, the bum.

I came home late to step on my youngest child who, for some reason, was sleeping on the porch floor. He woke up healthy. My other kids are healthy too and I even have a brand new granddaughter who gives every sign of continuing my good luck.

On top of all this good fortune, my wife didn't wake up and she still doesn't know what time I got in. And I'd won so much at euchre I didn't even care when I spied her reaching into my wallet the next morning.

Man, this is the life, I thought as I finished my corn flakes and headed for work in my air conditioned car. I really should write that Ohio editor and promise to be funny every week.

But at my desk, I read the daily newspaper. Daniel Moynihan, President Nixon's top poverty fighter, announced that even if the Vietnam war ended, there still wouldn't be enough money to feed all the hungry kids. The demands of the Defense Department for weapons systems and research will eat up whatever is not spent on Vietnam. Without the war, the defense budget could remain the same or even go higher, Moynihan said.

So what the heck, why end the war?

And then I began gathering the local news: 2 more boys I knew had been killed in Vietnam. That makes 17 from my little county alone. Seventeen boys who didn't grow old enough to vote against politicians who calmly send stuffed shirts to Paris, to talk peace, and young boys to war, to talk no more. I keep wondering who will be the last boy to die, bleeding in the mud while his stuttering leaders make half-hearted attempts to get out of a stupid, unjust war we should never have entered in the first place.

I wonder who the dead boy's parents will be, and would President Nixon like to tell them of their loss?

Funny every week: Sometimes I just don't have the guts to laugh.

Charlevoix Hospital's Board of Director member Fred Willis and mayor Bill Fochtman reported an urgent need for doctors at the hospital. Unless two more doctors could be brought to Charlevoix, it was feared that Charlevoixans would go to Petoskey for medical care and not return to Charlevoix doctors.

With 25 percent of the Charlevoix Community Chest Goal raised by special gifts and summer business division, the division drives were started.

An announcement was made by the Conservation Department as to the date and time of the gill net hearing. The department's point was that gill netting made it impossible to build a desirable trout and salmon sport fishery in the Great Lakes. The commercial fishing is compatible with sport fishing.

At the resignation of Delbert R. Terrill, Mayor Bill Fochtman stated a replacement would be appointed on Oct. 2. Terrill was serving his second term on the council and was an administrator at Charlevoix High School.

The Fly-in sponsored by the Charlevoix Flying Club was a great success with an estimated 2,000 persons attending. Nearly 500 people enjoyed rides in the small planes for 1½ cents a pound.

Football season opened Sept. 18 at Kipke field with the Charlevoix Rayders battling the Rogers City Hurons. The Hurons claimed to have one of their best teams in several seasons.

Medusa agreed to study a new dock location proposal, though by Earl Young, creator of Boulder Park, the dock wouldn't block that much of the view of the lake and sunset.

Charlevoix Township unveiled two plans to supply water to the township. One, being a well system costing $350,000, the other, a system of purchasing water from the city for $153,000.

The Charlevoix County Democrats stated they had the largest turn-out ever at their county convention in City Hall. The Republican convention met with between 100 and 120 persons in attendance.

On this day Mayor E. James Hiller proclaimed Thursday Sept. 17, 1959 as Citizen Day and requested proper observance by citizens of Charlevoix.

Six sailing craft glided into Charlevoix harbor on their first leg of the annual race of sail boats from Traverse City to Charlevoix and return.

First day enrollments at Charlevoix public schools were the same as opening day in 1958, with 914 students enrolling in kindergarten through 12th grade.

Teachers at School

Among the Charlevoix teachers who spent much of their summer away from home working on Master's degrees was Mrs. Betty Poller, fifth grade teacher at the middle school.

Taking Reference Service and Classification and Cataloging, Mrs. Potter spent eight weeks at Western Michigan University where she now has nineteen hours credit toward a master's degree in School Library Science.

Both Mrs. Mary Seaman and her husband Maurice, who teaches at Ellsworth spent six weeks in Mount Pleasant at Central Michigan University. Working toward her master's degree in English, Mrs. Seaman took two three hour course, Modern Linguistics and Contemporary American Literature. She is currently teaching English and Spanish at the high school.

Mrs. Marie Osterberg completed her work for her permanent certification ten hours beyond a BA degree by taking two five week courses of three hours each, principles of guidance and personnel Services and the family in Contemporary America, followed by a two week three term hour workshop in Science Education. The courses were taught at North Central Michigan College under the auspices of Michigan State University. Mrs. Osterburg teaches girls physical education in grades 7 through 12.

In addition to the 17 teachers currently employed in Charlevoix public schools who attended summer school, four who taught here last year and did not return were enrolled in summer courses. They were junior high teachers, Gerald Harris, mathematics, and Mrs. Barbara Cook, science, and elementary teachers Mrs. Jill Deacon, 4th grade, and Mrs. Mary Haggard, second grade.

The Board of Education, at its meeting on Monday, December 30, 1963, passed the following resolution:

"To aid in formulating and encouraging high standards of conduct on the part of students enrolled in the Charlevoix Public Schools, The Board of Education of the Charlevoix Public Schools resolves that:

Any student who drinks an intoxicating beverage, or contributes to such drinking on the part of another student, or who is involved in a criminal act, or whose conduct is otherwise deemed detrimental to the Charlevoix Public Schools, shall, upon proper investigation, hearing, and proof, be liable to disciplinary action by the administration, to the extent of enforced resignation from any office or extra-curricular organization such as the athletic teams, band, student council, newspaper staff, annual staff, etc.

If the circumstances appear to warrant suspension or expulsion, then such action is recommended."

A student is not allowed to smoke at any time in the school building or in the area surrounding the school grounds. This applies to students before school, and at school functions. If a student is caught smoking–his or her parents will be informed and the student may be suspended from school for not more than three days.

Students are responsible for keeping their textbooks in good repair. Students will be charged for lost or damaged textbooks. Textbooks are to be stored in your assigned lockers. Tops of lockers will be kept free of books at all times.

If any student is found guilty of the act of skipping school, the following procedure will be used:

First Skip - Parents will be informed, and equal time will be made up.

Second Skip - Students will be suspended until parents can have a conference with the building principal. Skip time will be made up.

Third Skip - Students will be suspended from school for two weeks, with zero credit for those two weeks. Parents must have a conference before the student may return to school.

ANY skips - after the third skip, a student will be suspended from school for the remainder of that semester with zero credit for that semester.

The Principal's office will be assisted by the Charlevoix County Juvenile Court on attendance cases in violation of the State Law.

If a student is suspended for any length of time during the year, no make-up work will be accepted, and zero credit will be given for the time of suspension in all classes.

'"There is a definite reason for every policy, for every rule or regulation. None of them are arbitrary or unfair, none are aimed to cause anyone discomfort or inconvenience. They are for the best interests of all, and we cannot have the best kind of high school unless we all respect them. If you fail to see the reason for a rule or regulation, ask the Principal or ask your Student Council representative to have it discussed in a Student Council meeting. It is up to each individual to want to do, and to do his or her part so as to make Charlevoix High School one of the finest high schools going!" Smith concluded.

Roamin' around

Rep. Bob Davis will visit Charlevoix next Wednesday afternoon.

"If anyone has a problem I can help them with, have them call Oscar Stroud. He'll pass on the names to me, and we can get together Wednesday," Rep. Davis told the Courier.

An Auto Loan's the Key!
See us for low cost financing

Charlevoix County State Bank officers, standing, Fred Payne and Maurice Foster, explain the bank's New-Auto finance plan to Charlevoix car dealers, from left, Howard Parsel, Parsel Oldsmobile; Bill Kusina, Kusina Motors, Pontiac, Cadillac, Rambler, and Jaguar dealers; Ken DePew, K&A Dodge; and Tom Erber, Erber Auto Company, Ford and Mercury dealers. Absent when photo was taken was representative of Charlevoix Oil Co., Chevrolet dealers. The bank's plan simplifies financing of 1970 cars for both the dealers and buyers.

2 bonuses for car buyers

Charlevoix families buying a new car in the next few weeks will cash in on two bonuses:

Local dealers are offering the widest range of the finest cars ever built, and

The Charlevoix County State Bank will give families who finance their new car with them a $50 U.S. Savings Bond.

Bank executives pointed out Charlevoix's five new-car dealers have a major impact on the community's economy. An estimated half-million dollars a year is spent by Charlevoixians on new cars.

Charlevoix has more new car agencies than other communities of similar size, which is especially significant considering the closeness of Traverse City and Petoskey.

Now on display in Charlevoix showrooms are the 1970 Dodge, Ford, Oldsmobile, Pontiac, Chevrolet, Cadillac, Rambler, Jaguar, Mercury and Buick.

Anyone who buys one of these new models and finances at least $1,500 of the purchase for 24-months or longer at the County State Bank will receive the free $50 bond.

39 new models highlight Lincoln -Mercury for 70

Lincoln Continental for 1970 has been completely redesigned for the first time in nearly a decade. While outside dimensions are almost identical to previous models, wheelbase has been increased one inch to 127 inches resulting in substantially greater interior roominess. The prestige motorcar bears a strong kinship to its predecessors with a striking grille theme and understated elegance. It has wider front and rear treads, new body on frame construction, optional sure track brake system, four new glamour paints, new interior trim schemes, concealed headlamps and windshield wipers and a full complement of new comfort and convenience features. Model lineup consists of a two-door hardtop and a four-door sedan (above).

The Mercury Montego has been completely redesigned inside and out for 1970. It is lower, wider, nearly four inches longer overall, and the wheelbase has been increased one inch to 117 inches for true family size proportions. A four-door hardtop is offered in the Montego line for the first time. Concealed headlights are standard equipment on the Montego MX Brougham (above). Concealed windshield wipers, bias-belted tires, and oval steering wheel have been added to the list of standard equipment on all models. Two completely new 351-cubic-inch engines and a 429 power plant have been added to the list of available engines.

Interior and exterior design refinements, several new comfort and convenience features, mechanical improvements and a host of new options highlight Lincoln-Mercury's Marquis line for 1970. Completely redesigned for the 1969 model year, Marquis for 1970 retains the Continental look with minimal use of bright trim. New grille and taillamp treatment, new upgraded sound package, an optional rear window defroster, a fresh flow air ventilation system as standard and wider front seats also are among the changes for 1970. There are nine Marquis and Marquis Brougham models offered in 1970 including the Marquis Brougham four-door hardtop, pictured above.

The first completely redesigned Lincoln Continental in nearly a decade and an all-new expanded line of intermediate-size Montegos and Cyclones highlight Lincoln-Mercury Division's automobiles for 1970.

"Thirty-nine new models ranging from the classic Mark III to the muscular new Cyclone Spoiler give Lincoln-Mercury the broadest market coverage ever," said M.S. (Matt) McLaughlin, Ford Motor Company vice president and division general manager.

"During the Sixties American car buyers showed an ever-increasing appetite for variety and premium quality. We expect that trend to continue and accelerate during the Seventies and our new models for next year are designed to meet this demand."

There are new power teams and a host of comfort, convenience and safety features standard on all car lines, including a more convenient three-point seat / shoulder belt system, a locking steering column, bias-belted tires, flow-through ventilation system and an oval steering wheel.

The new Lincoln Continental, while undergoing the most substantial change since 1961, remains clearly identifiable as a Continental with a strong grille theme and understated elegance. While outside dimensions are almost identical to previous models, wheelbase has been lengthened one inch to 127 inches and front and rear tread are increased. As a result, interior roominess is substantially greater. The model line-up remains the same as in 1969, with a single series consisting of a two-door hardtop and four-door sedan.

The divisions intermediate line has been dramatically redesigned for 1970 and consists of three Montego series, including a new four-door hardtop, and three performance-oriented two-door hardtops, the Cyclone, Cyclone GT and Cyclone Spoiler.

Both Montegos and Cyclones have their own distinctive appearance.

The Cyclones have a racy look with a forward-thrusting grille and unique European-type running lights. Montegos share the same contemporary profile, with the addition of a luxurious, full width grille.

Wheelbase on all models has been increased one inch to 117 inches (114 inches on wagons) and overall length has been increased nearly four inches on sedans and hardtops and eight inches on station wagons.

MARQUIE, MERCURY MONTEREY, MARAUDER

Introduced last year as completely new models, Marquis, Mercury Monterey and Marauder receive engineering and design refinements for 1970. They retain their market posture by covering all three segments of the medium price field - the upper medium, the lower medium and the sports specialty. All three car lines have their own distinctive features yet share in the classic design heritage of the Lincoln Contintntal.

New front and rear end design treatments give the cars a clean crisp appearance. The Marquis, Marquis Brougham, Marauder and Marauder X-100 have a new die-cast grille with a horizontal pattern and concealed headlamps. The grille on the Mercury Monterey and Monterey Custom is anodized extruded aluminum with a horizontal theme. Headlamps are exposed and combination parking lights / turn signals / front side marker lights are set in the leading edge of the fenders.

Interior improvements include two-inch wider seat backs; more comfortable armrests; pull-type door handles; and new seat trim patterns. Approximately 35 pounds of additional soundproofing materials have been added to reduce exterior road noises.

A noteworthy addition to the option line-up for 1970 is an electric rear window defroster. This device quickly clears the back window of fog and frost and melts small amounts of snow and ice. Traction-Lik rear axle is optional on all models.

COUGAR

Cougar, America's most completely equipped sports compact car, continues into 1970 with evolutionary design changes, a number of mechanical improvements, new interior luxury and new power teams.

The Cougar design has been refined modestly with a new vertical grille and forward thrusting front end. The highly styled Cougar XR-7 grille has a unique bright and black trim scheme giving it a luxury appearance.

Overall length has been increased 2.3 inches to 196.1 inches. All of the extra length is at the front, increasing the sporty flair appearance of the long-hood / short rear deck proportions.

Constantly gaining prominent position in the popularity polls is the Chevy Nova. Advanced styling features such as simulated front fender louvers and body striping give the Chevy Nova Coupe (above) an air of action. A hide-a-way antenna built into the windshield (with all factory installed radios) is now available on the Nova. The new Chevrolet line of cars will be on display September 18.

Wide choice in Chevies

The Monte Carlo — a totally new personal luxury car — headlines Chevrolet's new models for 1970, John Z. DeLorean, General Motors vice president and Chevrolet general manager, said today.

"The 1970's will be an unparalleled decade of individual customer choice," DeLorean said. "

Chevrolet will continue to set the industry pace with a variety of cars and options which allow each buyer to custom tailor his or her personal transportation.

"Monte Carlo adds a new market dimension by offering to the youthful, sophisticated buyer a superb blend of individual, high fashion styling and intermediate-size handling and performance."

DeLorean said seven distinctive Chevrolet lines will be shown in dealerships on Announcement Day, September 18.

"The big Chevrolet has new styling and added power for 1970 and Chevelle has an all-new appearance," DeLorean said. "Improvements in these lines are incorporated in both sizes of Chevrolet station wagons. The fast-selling Nova has fresh appeal in its new models."

Current models of the popular Chevrolet Corvette and Camaro will be continued to the end of this year with new models in each line scheduled for introduction later in the model year.

DeLorean said that among important 1970 engine changes, the base V-8 of the big Chevrolet is increased to 350 cubic inches from 327 cubic inches in 1969 to give added power for options such as air conditioning that continue to grow in customer popularity.

The base six cylinder engine of Chevelle is also increased — 250 cubic inches in 1970 compared wuth 230 cubic inches in 1969.

Chevrolet's top-of-the-line, the Caprice Coupe for 1970, is dressed up with a new front styling of grille, hood and fenders. Recessed vertical taillights and color-accented wheel covers are only two of the many refinements found in the Caprice this year. The new Chevrolet line of passenger cars will be in the dealers' showrooms on September 18.

"A smooth running new 400 cubic inch V-8 that burns regular fuel is introduced as an option on the big Chevrolet and also is available on Monte Carlo," DeLorean said.

"Two new high torque 454 cubic inch V-8's replace 427 cubic inch engines offered on the big Chevrolet in 1969."

He said mechanical improvements include smoother engine acceleration through the use of a transmission controlled vacuum spark advance.

There is extended use of variable-ratio power steering which gives more responsive maneuverability in turns and parking. It is now available on all 1970 models except station wagons and Nova models with four-cylinder engines.

Longer life, fiberglass-belted tires are standard on all 1970 Chevrolet models.

Every 1970 model has extensive safety features for occupant protection, accident prevention and anti-theft.

News for 1970 among Chevrolet's more than 400 options and accessories are improved electric door locks, replacing vacuum locks.

With the electric door locks is a new automatic front seat back release for coupes which unlatches when either front door is opened, for easier access to the rear seat. The latch re-locks securely when the door is closed.

Also new is an electric rear deck lid release operated from inside the glove box.

A new Headlight Delay option reminds the driver with a warning buzzer if he opens his door without turning off his headlights. After the lights are off, he may push a timer button on the instrument panel and lights will turn on for about two minutes to provide illumination after he leaves the car.

Radio antennas contained within the windshield glass will be factory installed when radios are ordered on all 1970 Chevrolets. They replace outside mast antennas used previously and are not subject to being broken or bent. A new highly compact combination AM or AM-FM stereo radio and tape player unit fits snugly in the instrument panel.

Also available is a broader than ever variety of trailering, towing and recreational vehicle accessories.

Chevrolet offers 15 colors, most of them new, for 1970. There are up to seven two-tone combinations, five vinyl top colors and two convertible top colors.

Here are additional details by car line:

Monte Carlo — This totally new Chevrolet blends action and elegance in a sporty personal luxury car. There is one model — a 2-door hardtop coupe.

It has the longest hood of any car in Chevrolet history — a full six feet from grille to concealed windshield wipers.

The distinctive front has a die cast plated metal grille which gives precise detail and brilliance. New single-unit headlights are up to 14 percent brighter than other single lamp systems.

Regular Chevrolet — The industry's top selling car has a new front end appearnce in 1970 with a richer looking fine mesh grille and more prominent headlights.

The exclusive Caprice and Impala Custom Coupe roofline with full-width rear window continues in 1970. This is the largest selling single body style among regular-sized cars in the industry.

Fine-line vertical taillights located in the new rear bumper are a clear change identity from the horizontal lights in 1969.

Caprice models have color-matched side moldings and for the first time have wheel covers which are accented with body color. The popular raised vinyl protective side molding is continued on Impala in five harmonizing colors.

Chevelle — The industry's top-selling intermediate, whose sport coupe is the largest selling single body style on the market, has a completely new look for 1970.

For 1970, Nova continues its blend of clean styling and economy. It features a new finer mesh grille and larger front, side and rear lamps.

Interior and exterior trim and colors are new.

A new concept of elegance is the distinctive Monte Carlo Sport Coupe. This newest addition to the Chevrolet line is characterized by smooth flowing lines and sculptured surfaces dramatically emphasized by the longest hood ever produced by Chevrolet. The plush interior includes a simulated wood burl accent on the instrument panel and extra-thick foam cushioned front and rear seats. The Monte Carlo will be at dealerships on September 18.

Smart, new styling for Pontiac

Smart, new styling for appearance and engineering improvements for safety and handling are among the highlights of Pontiac Motor Division's entire line-up for 1970.

The Catalina, Executive and Bonneville models reflect the influence of the Grand Prix up front, and feature clean, new lines in the rear.

The pace-setting Grand Prix has a new grille complementing the longest hood in the industry.

A new 455 cubic-inch V-8 engine will be standard on all Bonneville models and optional on the Catalina, Executive and Grand Prix.

The luxury Bonneville Brougham offers a 60-40 front seat as an option on the four-door hardtop. This new bench seat is split so that 40 per cent is on the driver's side and 60 per cent on the passenger's side for greater center-seat passenger comfort. This option includes a two-way power operation on the driver's side.

Pontiac, the established industry innovator, will have another exclusive this year...a plastic gas tank that will be offered on a limited basis. This new fuel tank will be installed during the model year on Catalina, Executive and Bonneville station wagons sold in California.

Major advantages of the plastic tank include lighter weight and greater shaping flexibility than steel.

Bias-ply, glass-belted tires and a concealed radio antenna in the windshield are standard on all 1970 models.

EXTERIOR STYLING

The Pontiacs have new front and rear ends including new hood and fenders. The front of the Catalina, Executive and Bonneville for 1970 features the classic vertical center grille. The horn outlets are exposed this year on either side of the grille adjacent to the headlamps.

Also new up front are the bumper, headlight mounting panel and wraparound parking lights that are mounted in the bumper to serve as side markers. When cornering lamps are ordered, they are integrated with the side markers.

Fifteen exterior colors are offered for 1970...11 of which are new...along with five color choices in vinyl tops and four in convertible tops.

The wheelbase of the Catalina is 122 inches, and 125 inches on the Executive and Bonneville and 118 inches on the Grand Prix.

The Wide Track on the Catalina, Executive and Bonneville is 64 inches front and rear. On the Grand Prix it's 62 inches in front and 60 in back.

Overall length of the Catalina is 217.9 Inches, the Executive 223.9, the Bonneville 224.6 and the Grand Prix 210.2.

Pontiac Motor Division's 1970 Tempest, LeMans, LeMans Sport and GTO models feature performance, comfort and safety.

With a line-up of 15 models in the Tempest, LeMans, LeMans Sport and GTO series, Pontiac will have a new six-cylinder engine as standard and offer as optional a 350 cubic-inch and two 400 cubic-inch V-8's. In addition, a new 455 cubic-inch power plant is optional on the GTO.

Every 1970 model is equipped with bias-ply, glass-belted tires.

All new Pontiacs have side guard door beams built in for added protection. This safeguard consists of a box-like steel beam positioned horizontally within each door plus additional door pillar reinforcements.

The concealed radio antenna, pioneered last year by Pontiac on the Grand Prix, will be used on all 1970 models. Fabricated in the windshield are two barely visible wires which are not subject to weathering, being bent or broken.

"Our 1970 models are designed to meet the full range of driving needs of even the most discriminating customer," said F. James McDonald, a General Motors vice president and Pontiac general manager.

NEW ENGINES

The standard intermediate engine in 1970 will be a 250 cubic-inch, in-line six-cylinder regular fuel engine rated at 155 horsepower with a compression ratio of 8.5:1.

Optional are a regular fuel 350 cubic-inch V-8 engine and the 400 cubic-inch V-8 available with two or four-barrel carburetion. The 400's will be offered with the Turbo Hydra-matic transmission only.

The standard engine for the GTO is a 350 horsepower, 400 cubic-inch V-8. A 455 cubic-inch engine rated at 360 horsepower is a new option.

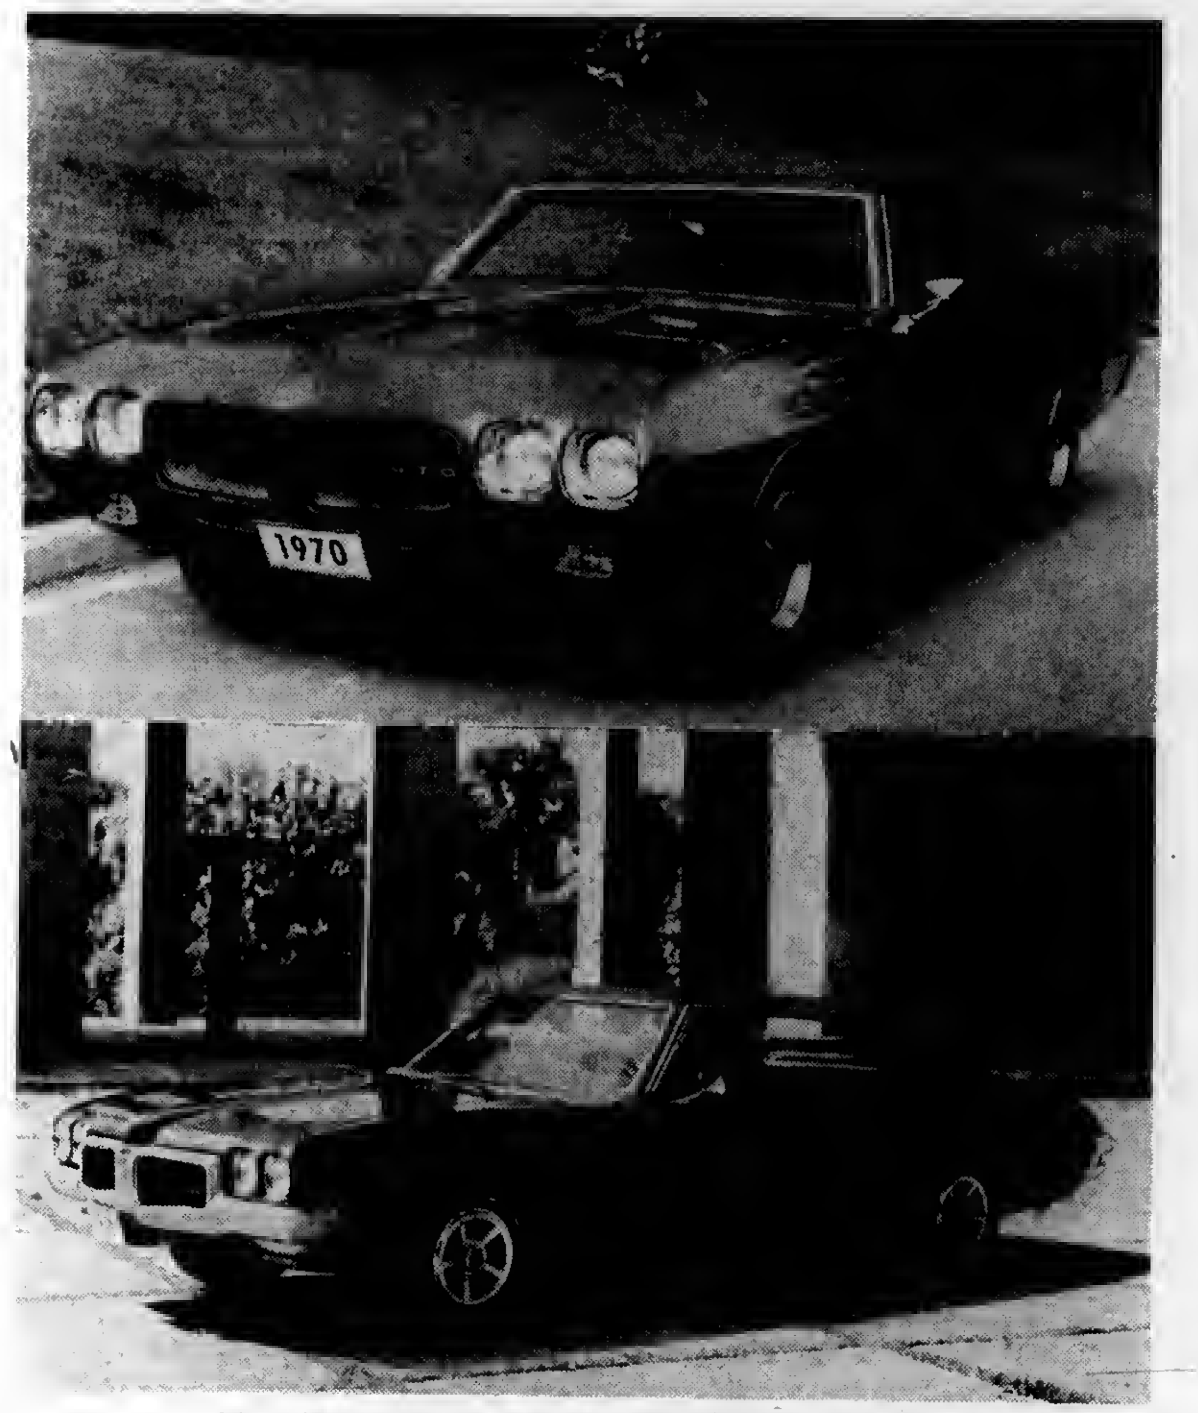
Pontiac's famed 366 horsepower Ram Air and 370 horsepower Ram Air IV performance packages are available on the GTO.

Transmissions include the standard three-speed manual, and as options an automatic transmission, Turbo Hydra-matic and a four-speed floor shift.

EXTERIOR STYLING

The Tempest, LeMans and GTO models have been completely restyled.

The front view reveals the familiar Pontiac split grille while the bumper, wraparound parking and side marker lamps and valance panels all have been restyled.



Both the 1970 Pontiac GTO (top) and LeMans combine sports car design and big car luxury. Both are equipped with many standard safety features including side guard door beams for added occupant protection. The GTO is offered in a convertible and two-door hardtop. The LeMans is available as a two-door coupe, two-door hardtop, four-door sedan, four-door hardtop and a station wagon. All 1970 Pontiacs go on sale September 18.

Front end styling of the big Pontiacs reflects the influence of the pace-setting Grand Prix (top) and its classic vertical center grille as shown on this 1970 Bonneville. The horn grilles between the center grille and headlamps not only serve as outlets for the sound of the horns, but also admit additional engine cooling air. The Bonneville is powered by a new 455 cubic-inch engine that also is offered as an option on the Grand Prix. All 1970 Pontiacs go on sale September 18.

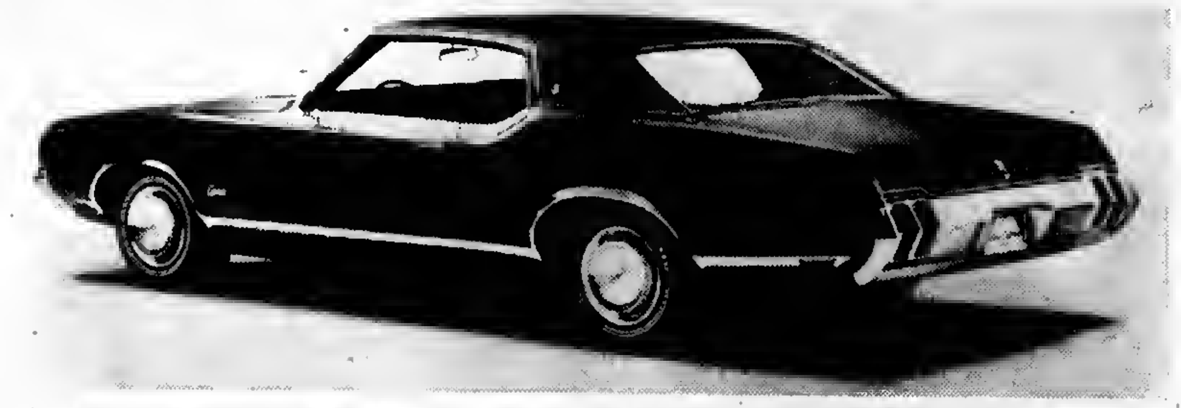
'Personalized' car tops Olds

Oldsmobile's front wheel drive Toronado, for 1970, reflects the most extensive change in appearance since the car was introduced in the fall of 1965. It is sleeker looking, with a distinctive new shape to the wheel openings, a new front end, including a new grille and exposed headlamps, and a more elegant than ever interior decor.



The newest Oldsmobile is the elegant 1970 Cutlass Supreme Holiday Coupe, a distinctive car designed to answer growing customer demand for sporty luxury in a personalized kind of automobile. It is identified by its own notchback roof line, its own body shape, its own external ornamentation, and its own ultra-luxurious interior.

Offered exclusively in a Holiday Coupe body style, the 1970 Delta 88 Royale represents the top of Oldsmobile's '88' line of cars. A vinyl-covered top, distinctive grille, front fender louvers and specific exterior ornamentation easily identify the Delta 88 Royale. Standard engine on this 1970 Oldsmobile is a 455-cu.-in. V-8. A high output engine option, designated W-33, is available on the Delta 88 Royale and on all other Oldsmobile '88' models for 1970.

A new and luxurious personalized car heads Oldsmobile's line of impressively-styled 1970 models, all of them featuring history-making engineering advancements aimed at added durability and further reduction in the need for service, it was announced today by John B. Beltz, the division's general manager and a vice president of General Motors.

"The newest Oldsmobile is the elegant Cutlass Supreme Hardtop Coupe," he reported. "It is a distinctive car designed to answer growing customer demand for sporty luxury in a personalized kind of automobile. It is identified by its own roof line, its own body shape, its own external ornamontation, and its own ultra-luxurious interior."

He said the new coupe and a companion convertible represent an important added element in Oldsmobile's 1970 intermediate model lineup, complementing the 4-4-2 and Cutlass 'S' series whose fastback coupes have been Oldsmobile's most popular.

"These cars, too," Beltz said, "have been restyled to emphasize their youthful image to an even higher degree.

"Meanwhile," he continued, "the successful look of elegance in our 88's and 98's has been further enhanced in 1970 to make them even more appealing, and the Toronado has undergone the most extensive change in appearance since its introduction in 1965.

"It is a sleeker looking automobile, with a distinctive new shape to the wheel openings, a new front end, including a new grille and exposed headlamps, and an interior to match the more elegant concept of decor which is added in 1970 to the Toronado's many other front drive virtues," he added.

He mentioned the car's excellent handling, its superior traction, and its flat floor.

He further noted that in 1970 the Vista Cruiser type of station wagon, with its panoramic roofline windows and forward-facing third seat, is exclusive to Oldsmobile.

In addition to the division's restyling program for the new model year, Oldsmobile's long-held reputation for engineering leadership will be re-emphasized with the introduction of several major and far-reaching engine advancements designed to curtail the need for service.

"Particularly important, and exclusive to Oldsmobile in 1970, is the incorporation of a positive valve rotating system on all Oldsmobile V-8 engines, which extends valve life beyond anything available on today's passenger car engines," Beltz said.

"Automobile engine valves, after many miles of use, are subject to distortion and wear," he explained. "The resultant poor valve seating causes loss of engine efficiency. However, with controlled rotation of intake and exhaust valves, as in Oldsmobile's 1970 V-8 engines, valve seating is tremendously improved. This prevents loss of compression and permits the engine to operate at top efficiency -- constantly -- for the life of the car.

Toronado marks 4th birthday

Oldsmobile's front drive Toronado marks its fourth birthday this fall and, like any four-year-old, many changes are evident. In fact, for 1970, the Toronado has under gone the most extensive change in appearance since its introduction in 1965.

"It's a sleeker looking automobile with a distinctive new shape to the wheel openings and all-new front end that includes a new grille and exposed headlamps," John B. Beltz, Oldsmobile's general manager said today.

"Having earned an exceptionally high degree of owner loyalty, the Toronado has been especially appealing to the car buyer who wants something different, something out of the ordinary," he added. "This styling individuality has been completely preserved in 1970.

"Another Toronado trademark — superb performance under all road conditions — is unchanged in 1970," he continued. "Thanks to its front drive design, the Toronado is universally recognized for its road-hugging ability, outstanding directional stability, freedom from effects of high winds on the open highway, and superior traction on snow, ice or rain covered surfaces."

A further important factor contributing to the Toronado's success has been the car's remarkably trouble-free operation, Beltz continued. "Aside from normal periodic maintenance checks, the Toronado has experienced no major mechanical problems in the four years — and countless millions of miles — it has spent on the nation's highways."

Comfort and convenience improvements have been made inside the 1970 Toronado. The instrument panel has been restyled and the electric clock has been relocated on the passenger's side to make room for a fourth air conditioning outlet to the right of the instrument cluster.

"New ideas" from Ford

Torino is completely new for 1970 with 13 models offering from hot performance to elegant luxury. For the first time, a four-door hardtop is offered in the Ford Division intermediate line. The four-door hardtop is available in the Torino and Torino Brougham (top) series. The Torino GT SportsRoof (bottom) is available with seven engines from the standard 302 V-8 to the red hot 429 Cobra Jet V-8.

Ford Division passenger cars for 1970 are highlighted by all-new Torino and Thunderbird lines, a new ultra-luxurious LTD Brougham series, a new mid-range engine, premium quality tires standard on most car lines and more comfort, convenience, safety and security features.

"The 1970 model year may become the first year in which the sales of intermediate-size cars catch, or surpass, sales in the standard-size market," said John Naughton, Ford Motor Company vice president and Ford Division general manager.

"This may be the 'year of the intermediates, and Torino is our most dramatically redesigned car. Torino is longer, lower and wider with aerodynamic styling, hot performance engines and options, and our first intermediate-size four-door hardtop models," he said.

"Thunderbird also has an all-new look with a bold front-end design with longer, lower hood, a forward-thrusting grille and exposed headlamps.

"More quiet-car luxury is offered in the standard-size Ford The entire Ford line presents a more formal appearance with new grilles, ornamentation and rear-end design.

"Mustang comes on stronger and sportier than ever with design changes, hotter engines, bright "Grabber" colors, and interiors with upbeat stripes and houndstooth checks.

"Maverick, introduced in April as the first car of the Seventies, will remain our 'simple machine' with very few changes. Mavericks produced after September 30 will have side marker lights which flash with the turn signals, and a three-way locking steering column.

"Falcon moves into the 1970 market with the proven features of fuel economy, roomy interior and durable performance," Mr. Naughton said.

NEW FEATURES

Several new security, comfort, convenience and performance features are included in Ford Division's 51 models for 1970.

Standard tires on Fords, Torinos, Mustangs and Thunderbirds will last longer, have greater resistance to puncture and provide better traction. Radial-ply tires will be installed on all 1970 Thunderbirds, and fiberglass belted bias-ply tires will be standard on all Fords, Torinos and Mustangs.

An all-new 351-cubic-inch-displacement V-8 engine, developed with the latest computerized technology and assembled on the auto industry's most advanced production line, will be offered on 1970 Mustangs and Torinos. The engine is compact, relatively lightweight and delivers excellent performance and economy.

All bucket seats offered on Ford Division cars are of high-back design. The higher seat backs incorporate integral head restraints and provide added comfort..

For the performance buffs, all optional four-speed manual transmissions feature the competition Hurst Shifter, known for fast, smooth shifting.

An automatic release for the two-door safety latch is available on Ford, Torino, Mustang and Thunderbird models. Both front seat-back latches are automatically released when either door is opened, thereby making it easier to get into and out of the back seat.

New steering wheels on Ford, Torino, Mustang and Thunderbird models are semi-oval in design for easier driver entry and exit and better visibility of the instrument cluster.

On all models except Falcon, odometers are tamper-resistant and non-reversing.

A three-way locking steering column on all models except Falcon is designed to deter car thefts by locking the ignition, the transmission linkage and the steering wheel with the ignition switch.

A new three-point Uni-Lock Safety Harness lap and shoulder belt system — available on all models except Mavericks, Falcons and convertibles — permits outboard front seat occupants to "buckle-up" faster. The separate buckle for the shoulder belt has been eliminated and the three remaining front seat buckles are only half the previous size. The result — a neater, more convenient, more comfortable system that is as safe as ever.

Externally adjustable headlamps on Ford, Torino, Mustang, Maverick and Thunderbird make it unnecessary to remove the headlamp rims to adjust the beams.

On the same models, standard front and rear side marker lamps — amber in front and red in the rear — flash with the turn signals to provide side visibility of the driver's intention to turn.

All cars manufactured for delivery in the state of California will be equipped with an evaporative emission control system.

TORINO

The 1970 Torino has all-new design inside and out. It is longer, lower and wider than its 1969 predecessor, the Fairlane, and offers the first four-door hardtop models in Ford Division's intermediate line.

Five series provide a choice of economy, luxury and performance. Thirteen models are available in Fairlane 500, Torino, Torino GT, Torino Brougham and Torino Cobra series.

All have new grilles, taillamps and ornamentation. Concealed headlamps are optional with Torino and Torino GT models and standard on Torino Brougham models. Windshield wipers are hidden when not in use.

Interiors feature new trim, new instrument panels with horizontal speedometer and Flow-Thru Ventilation systems for quieter, more comfortable windows-up driving. Lively "Blazer" patterns — red stripe or ginger stripe trims — are available on Torino, Torino GT and Torino Cobra models. Black Watch and Rob Roy Red plaid cloth and vinyl trims are available on Torino and Torino Squire station wagons.

Torino's top performance models are Torino GT, available in the sleek SportsRoof and convertible, and Torino Cobra, available in the SportsRoof. New, optional Sport Slats backlite louvers enhance the performance look of the SportsRoof models.

THUNDERBIRD

Thunderbird models feature dramatic new design highlighted by the longer, lower hood and grille with extended center section and exposted headlamps. Two-door models have a lower roofline and more rakish front and back windows.

Other major Thunderbird features for 1970 include the standard radial-ply tires, concealed windshield wipers and radio antenna, a new Special Brougham option groupfor the ultimate in sports-luxury appointments and a new in-plant simulated road test for the highest possible level of quality.

Thunderbird is offered in three distinctive models — a two-door hardtop, two-door Landau and four-door Landau.

Inside, Thunderbird has a new level of luxury from the standard all-vinyl pleated trim design to the rich Brougham vinyl with leather seating surfaces combination. New front door armrests house controls for power options. The "control console" regulates power windows, power seats, power door locks and the standard left-hand remote-controlled mirror.

Thunderbird's numerous standard equipment items also include a 360-horsepower, 429-c.i.d. four-barrel V-8, SelectShift Cruise-O-Matic transmission, power steering, power front disc brakes, AM radio, electric clock and many more.

FORD

Twenty-one models in the Ford line — 14 cars and seven station wagons — are offered in Custom, Custom 500, Galaxie 500, XL, LTD and the new LTD Brougham series.

New front- and rear-end design gives the Ford a more formal appearance. LTD, LTD Brougham and XL models share a dramatic new grille with a bold center section that projects slightly. Headlamps are concealed when not in use.

For 1970, Galaxie 500 as well as XL, LTD and LTD Brougham models feature the sound absorption package that has won LTD the reputation of being the quietest car on the road.

LTD Brougham brings, a new, higher-than-ever level of luxury to the Ford car with unique interior trim, exterior ornamentation and many other appearance and convenience items.

New exterior paint and vinyl roof colors are offered. Vinyl roofs and plaid cloth and vinyl interior trims also are available on station wagons.

Bonneville

This is the way it's going to be. Pontiac's 70's

Surprised that Pontiac's setting the style for the umpteenth straight year? Of course not.

But you may be a bit dazzled to find out that Pontiac finally outdid Pontiac.

Take Bonneville. From the strong, new bumper grille to the standard 455 under the hood, it's a rouser.

Inside: instant limousine. So luxurious some of the traditional big boys are already screaming.

One of the nicest things we could have done for Grand Prix's luxury was to leave it alone. We did. But we popped in a 455 V-8 for you to order. (It's an old Pontiac proverb that luxury should have power.)

Enter LeMans Sport. A brand-new series in the Pontiac stable. Wait'll competition sees it pull the new 400-cubes-under-the-hood trick. We'll show you that one if you check the right box on the order form.

By now, you've spotted our '70 GTO. But maybe you haven't heard it. A sound so tough we've thrown modesty to the wind and dubbed GTO "The Humbler."

This is Pontiac '70. And we figure this is the way driving's going to be. So why wait?

It's at your Pontiac dealer's now

Annexation vote set Nov. 4 in township

Charlevoix Twonship residents will go to the polls November 4 to decide whether they want the township to become part of Charlevoix city.

The voting date was announced this week by officials, who also noted that the County Board of Supervisors will hold a public hearing on the annexation move October 13 at 1:30 p.m. in the County Building.

Last month, City Council received a petition from township supervisors requesting that the city and township be brought together under one governmental unit.

Discussion between the two governing bodies had been held over the course of one year. The city brought its professional planning consultants, Williams and Works, into the meetings, and the planners recommended that the city and township merge.

In June, the township Board unanimously adopted the measure asking the city to annex the entire township.

Following the meeting of the city council August 18, Mayor William Fochtman stated that "It is the general feeling that annexation of Charlevoix Township by the city is inevitable...it's just a matter of time due to economic expansion in Charlevoix and the limited physical space to grow."

According to officials, county supervisors will hear arguments pro and con the move October 13. Following the November 4 election in the township, the supervisors will make a decision on the annexation proposal.

Charlevoix city voters, under annexation procedures, do not vote on the issue.

'Cycle accident claims life of Charlevoix father of 4

A motorcycle accident on the Boyne City Road last Saturday took the life of Richard G. Herzog, Carson Avenue, Charlevoix.

Herzog, 37, and the father of four, was an employee of the Medusa Portland Cement Company. He became the seventh Charlevoix County traffic fatality since June, and the second within a 48-hour period. The accident occurred shortly after 6 p.m., six miles east of the city.

According to the County Sheriff's Department, Frank Zednicek, 55, and David Cease were riding in the area with Herzog, who was testing his new motorcycle purchased less than a week before the accident.

He apparently lost control of the cycle in gravel and crashed into a utility pole, snapping it in half. He was thrown from the cycle on impact. He was dead on arrival at Charlevoix Hospital.

Zednicek was injured in the accident when his motorcycle hit telephone wires on the ground from the sheared pole. He was released from Charlevoix Hospital following treatment.

A native of Manitowoc, Wis., where he was born Nov. 3, 1931, he was married to the former Alice Sammon in November 1951, at Denver, Colo. They made their home in Manitowoc where he joined the Medusa Portland Cement Co. in 1952. He transferred to the company's Charlevoix plant when it was opened in 1967.

He was a member of the First Congregational church; secretary-treasurer of Local 480, United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers and the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a son, Paul and three daughters, Barbara, Susan and Lori, all at home; his father, George Herzog and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. George Herzog, Sr., both of Manitowoc.

A memorial service was held at Christ Episcopal church at 2 p.m. Tuesday with the Rev. Lawrence Tenhopen of the First Congregational church officiating.

The body has been taken to the Marquette University School of Medicine in Milwaukee.

Anyone wishing to honor the memory of Mr. Herzog may contribute to the First Congregational Church Expansion Fund.

Colonel James T. White, Jr., Detroit District Engineer, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, has announced that the Luedtke Engineering Company of Frankfort, Michigan, engaged in rehabilitation work on the Pine River Channel, under the supervision of the Army Corps of Engineers, will be on a 20-hour day of two ten hour shifts. With this schedule, it is anticipated that the work will be accomplished prior to the start of heavy use by boaters in 1970. Every effort is being made to keep noise to an absolute minimum during nighttime hours.

CHS Homecoming October 9, 10

The annual Homecoming activities are now being planned at Charlevoix High School for October 9 and 10.

Due to the fact that there are no clubs and class advisvors for the lower grades, the Student Council is taking charge of all the festivities. Stewart Coleman, Student Council president, will be chairman of the events.

On Thursday night there will be a pep rally with a parade, snake dance, bon fire, naming of the queen and the dubbing of the co-captains for the 1969 football season.

On Friday night there will be a parade to the football field followed

Bank's "grand opening" to feature auto show

First State Bank of Charlevoix, this community's first new banking facility in more than four decades, will celebrate the occasion with an open house all day Friday, September 26, to which the public is invited.

Ribbon cutting ceremonies are scheduled for 9:30 a.m. this Friday in which State Representative Robert Davis, Mayor William Fochtman, general contractor John Apfel, architect H. Jack Begrow, and bank officials will participate.

Senator Thomas Schweigert telephoned bank President Jerrald H. Redeker earlier this week with regrets that he would not be able to take part in the ceremonies due to a prior commitment.

Radio station WJML will broadcast live from the bank from 10:30 a.m. to noon, and again from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. All who attend the open house will have the opportunity of being photographed with their favorite WJML radio personality.

An attractive color photograph will be mailed at a later date to all participants, compliments of the bank.

To add to this festive occasion, all five of Charlevoix's new car dealers will display their 1970 models in the spacious bank parking lot. This is the first time that Charlevoixans will be able to compare the new models at one showing. It is hoped that this new car show sponsored by the bank will become an annual event.

Guides will be available all day, from 9:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. to answer questions and to conduct tours through the new bank. Refreshments will be served throughout the day in the 111 State Room, the name of First State's community room, which is available to all civic organizations at no charge. There will be gifts for all, children and adults.

In commenting on the new building at 111 State Street, President Redeker commented, "It was the desire of the Board to present to the people of Charlevoix a building which would complement its surroundings, convey a spirit of warmth and cordiality, and functionally serve the needs of a growing bank and an expanding community:

"We also wanted a facility which would be modern in design, which would reflect aggressiveness and a pattern for the future. To fulfill this almost impossible request, we were indeed pleased and fortunate to find as fine an architect as H. Jack Begrow, of Charlevoix, whom we feel has accomplished an outstanding feat in making our visions a reality."

Last year, in anticipation of a new building, the Board sought an entirely new image for the bank. It was this search that prompted a name change from The Charlevoix State Savings Bank to First State Bank of Charlevoix last November.

Artist Wayne Belding created the new diamond-shaped logo for the bank which has already become a familiar symbol to the people of Charlevoix and surrounding communities.

Courier report shows:

Transportation needs boost

There is only one form of long-distance, regularly scheduled public transportation in Charlevoix...the bus. Greyhound, the largest bus company in the world, says "Take the bus, and leave the driving to us." However, waiting for a bus might discourage many potential customers...at least according to Courier staffer Nancy William's report on Public Transportation in Charlevoix.

It's a shame that Charlevoix the Beautiful doesn't have a better looking bus depot. if you have traveled by Greyhound lately, the conveniences are not new to you. The coach industry has made numerous advances in service and comfort in the past few years.

Shipping by bus has become both fast and profitable. The truth of the matter is, that Charlevoix has a Greyhound- North Star bus depot that needs attention badly. It's a small building, tucked away on the side of the Norton Standard Service Station, 119 Antrim.

The size is not objectionable, but it's condition is. Somehow, it lacks something in the way of decor. On the average day (when you can find it open), it will be found in very shabby condition. Upon entering one wonders what this room is used for – storage or a bus station for passengers and freight.

A chair in the corner is piled high with booklets and papers, the ashtrays are over-flowing with wrappers and ashes, and every shelf around the room is stacked with more books and more papers.

Reading is 'Most exciting ...experience'

The Little Flower Guild of St. Mary's parish has purchased the newest development in reading programs, the Macmillan series, for students in first through fifth grades at the school. Says first grade teacher Mrs. Linda Wojan, "Our first graders are enthralled with all the new books that they will be reading before very long. Learning to read may very well be the most exciting learning experience for our children, and that is why St. Mary's School wants its pupils to have the very best in reading material."

NORCAP new pres.

Richard H. Headlee, president of Morbark Industries, Inc. of Winn, Michigan, was recently elected president of the Northern Michigan Community Action Program (NORCAP).

Headlee is a former president of the U.S. Jaycees (formerly United States Junior Chamber of Commerce), and was an advisor to Housing & Urban Development Secretary George Romney during his service as Governor of Michigan.

NORCAP is a non-profit, private corporation founded in 1965 to mobilize public and private resources in an attack on poverty in rural Northern Michigan. Eight separate community action agencies serve the 33 counties covered by NORCAP.

NORCAP is a central coordinating point for the eight agencies and for federal funds that can be obtained to finance such programs as employment training for the hard core unemployed, neighborhood youth corps, and on-the-job training.

More than $3,500,000 worth of federal manpower training programs are currently being operated by NORCAP.

One of the most important is the Concentrated Employment Program, begun a year ago in an effort to train 1,000 hard core unemployed who had not previously beem able to obtain or hold a job. After thorough testing and interviews, these hard core unemployed are given practical training in various trades and business skills and placed in jobs.

More than 800 people have been placed since the $1.7-million dollar program began, and another 200 are now in training and will be placed upon completion.

Headlee has been president of Morbark Industires since 1968. The company is a leading manufacturer of machinery for the wood products industry.

Rosebush, Michigan, is home to Headlee, his wife Mary, and their nine children.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER
CHAMBER MANAGER

Remember Chamber of Commerce Annual Color Cruise aboard MS Beaver Islander which takes place at 1:00 p.m., Sunday, October 12, departing from the city dock. Also be reminded passage tickets in exchange for your $3 donations per person are available at the Chamber of Commerce Office or our directors, Lyle Miles, Tom Acton, Gordon Neff, Dave Julleret, Ralph Hess, Bruce Bartlett, John Schroeder, Larry La Grow, and Tom Hanna. The boat has a two hundred passenger capacity and we have tickets accordingly; therefore, first come–first served. As indicated before, there will be free snack materials and beverages, and also entertainment.

As indicated before, our capable assistant, Rose Wikianski, has left. In place we now have Gerry Kuebler on a part time basis, however, due to the fact that the budget barrel bottom can almost be seen. Stop by the office any afternoon and get acquainted.

There has been a lot of pro and con, objection, and in favor to one phase at least of the Department of Natural Resources stepped up sports vacinity here in many areas of Michigan, especially having to do with Chinook and Coho salmon. Whether it is liked or not, all things go as planned. The salmon will soon be available in our area. Apparantly, the large schools are moving north and according to a special report received today (Friday, September 19), they are in the Frankfort area and a little farther north in the Little Bear dune area and Leeland area. Four of the Great Lakes Charter Service boats of the fleet based here have gone over to the Frankfort area and are doing especially well. When the need be, they will be back here in our harbor at their leased dock space downtown and raring to go.

It would be very much appreciated and convenient to certain visitors if any of the clubs, church organizations, and individuals having special meetings or events held to let this office know the dates, time, and place, etc. For example, today there are many church women down state and around the area here in town and quite a number came in here to learn and ask questions and we were at a loss for answers. Thank you.

Now to the other extreme, you sno-mobilers be advised that the two Annual International 500 Mile Sno-Mobile Classic, sanctioned by the Michigan International Sno-Mobile Association, will be held February 7, 1970, at Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan. It is indicated there will be a $12,000 purse. It appears some improvements have been made. Admission is $1 for its observers. Tickets and information can be had by writing International, 500 Bx. No. 500 or by telephoning 906-632-6540 Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, 49783.

I have a communication from Michigan Retailers Association at Lansing, calling to attention the Michigan "complaints with new truth in lending act." The new forms for Michigan Retailers to use for revolving charge account agreements and retail installment plans are now available at the association office. The association urges the retailers to order early. I have a copy of these agreements here at the office for you folks to look over if you wish.

I have noticed since the new elementary school is open that Meech Street has some added traffic which, of course, is to be expected. School buses, moms hustling their cars down the street with a youngster or two as though they should have been two or three minutes earlier, school teachers too, zipping right along on the short, narrow street, which at times is hampered by cars being parked on both sides. There has been observed, also, Minibikes tryouts, one of which was really whooping it up.

According to a special report from Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, Natural Resources Division, there will be held a special meeting sponsored by the Natural Resources Committee, October 1 at the Jack Dare Hotel at Lansing. It appears this program with this meeting had been carefully planned to provide businesses, industries, and our municipalities with up to date FACTS about air-pollution. This meeting will be known as the Air-Pollution Control Conference. Specialists from throughout Michigan will discuss air-pollution and practical effects of solving and controlling its problems. For the miniciapl officials, an afternoon program, running similar with industrial work-shops, will be aimed at answering your questions about air-pollution control in this community. Personally, I have some successfully answered and I am a firm believer it can be done here at Charlevoix; however, I believe in order to get it done, that politics have to be removed.

Now, back to the sno-mobilers, quite a number have contacted this office with questions such as, "Do you have any sno-mobile trails?"; "Where can we rent sno-mobiles?"; "Do you have a sno-mobile club?", etc. A very prominent citizen of Charlevoix came to the office today with an idea similar probably to some of your ideas, and I know very similar with one I had. That is the possibility to establish a trial or trails from approximately Bells Bay on down to Norwood. To some, this does not sound like very much, but it truly is a good sizable project. How about it???,

Community Health Week, Oct. 19-25

The more than 8,000 members of the Michigan State Medical Society and more than 3,500 members of the Michigan Association of the Professions will again team up with the 100 member organizations of the Michigan Health Council in co-sponsoring the 7th Community Health Week, October 19 through 25.

Among the numerous state-wide events and programs that will take place in Michigan during Community Health Week will be the dedication on Sunday, October 19, at The University of Michigan Medical Center of the new $9.5 million C.S. Mott Children's Hospital.

On Monday, October 20, Gov. Wm. Milliken will be luncheon speaker at the Michigan Union. Citizens and health leaders from throughout Michigan representing the 100 organizations of the Michigan Health Council will pay special tribute to University Hospital on its 100th Anniversary. The University Hospital was founded in October of 1869. Co-sponsors of the event will be the Michigan State Medical Society, Michigan Association of the Professions, the Michigan Foundation for Medical and Health Education and other members of the Council. Special guests will be members of the Michigan Health Council's Health Hall of Fame. Lionel F. Swan, M.D., of Detroit, president of the National Medical Foundation; Elizabeth L. Wheeler, Dr. P.H., of Mt. Pleasant, Professor of Health Education, Central Michigan University; and Wm. S. McNary, of Detroit, former President of Michigan Hospital Service, will be honored with special awards by Governor Milliken and Doctor Upjohn. All Michigan citizens and students interested in health careers are invited to attend.

Wednesday, October 22, at Battle Creek a special Health Careers Fair will be held by the Health Careers Council of Calhoun County. Over 20 organizations will sponsor programs and displays on health careers at the Tiger Room of St. Phillips High School. On Tuesday and Wednesday, October 21-22, the Michigan Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association will sponsor a state-wide conference for Michigan citizens at Michigan State University in East Lansing.

On Thursday the Michigan Health Council will honor another outstanding Michigan hospital as part of their Centennial Celebration. Doctor Upjohn will present a centennial award to Sister Gertrude, Administrator of Providence Hospital in Southfield. A Community Health Week Manpower Conference will be held at the Fisher Center, Providence Hospital, starting at 9:30 a.m. Others who will participate as speakers and chairmen are Robert Mason, M.D., Birmingham, President of Groups plan activities

BY PAT BEGROW

The Charlevoix Woman's Club was launched last year as the result of the merger of the Shakespeare Study Club and the Charles Dickens Study Club. These clubs had a limited membership because the meetings were held in the homes of members. Since the two clubs have combined to form the Charlevoix Woman's Club they will be holding meetings in public meeting rooms which are more spacious, so they most cordially invite any of the ladies of the community to join their group. Anyone who wishes to join should contact a member or simply come to a meeting and make her interest shown.

The Charlevoix Woman's Club has, as part of its organizational structure, a plan to sponsor a number of special interest groups. Club members who share a common interest in a particular subject will hold separate group meetings to study, discuss or work in their special fields. These groups may be made up of as few as five members, or as many as twenty-five, depending on the extent of interest or the practicality of establishing meeting times and places. They will meet at least once a month, usually in the members' homes.

It is hoped that every Woman's Club member will avail herself of the opportunity to participate in at least one of these groups each year. In so far as possible the groups will have different meeting times, so that a member can join more than one group if she wishes.

The following groups are planned for 1969-70. Temporary or permanent chairmen have been appointed for each of these groups, by Mrs. Charles Duerr, program chairman. Meeting times have also been established.

The Music Group, with Mrs. Robert Gill as chairman, will meet on the second Monday of each month at 1:30 p.m. This group is off to a "head start since they have already been meeting to practice for their appearance at the Garden Club district meeting last Friday (Sept. 19). The chorus, made up of Mrs. Lee Moerland, Mrs. Robert Tollas, Mrs. Reed McVay, Mrs. Wayne Beltel, Mrs. Wayne Woods, Mrs. Jerrald Redeker, Mrs. Clair Webster, Mrs. Charles Duerr, Mrs. Robert Martin, and Mrs. Eugene Bergmann, presented a program of show tunes, with Mrs. Robert Wexstaff as their accompanist and Mrs. Jack Begrow as commentator. They will be working on an "all new" musical program for the April meeting of the Woman's Club.

The Discussion Group, with Mrs. Charles Duerr as chairman, will meet on the second Monday of each month at 8 p.m. This group holds "round table" discussions, with all members participating. The chairman will assign a discussion topic and a discussion leader, at least one month in advance. Members may spend as much or as little time as they choose, in preparation. The purpose is not to arrive at definite conclusions, but rather to stimulate thinking and increase understanding of a particular subject.

The Charles Dickens Study Group, with Mrs. Arba Cameron as chairman, will meet on the third Monday of the month at 1:30 p.m. This group began with a nucleus of members who wanted to preserve the heritage and friendly associations they had shared as members of the Charles Dickens Study Club. They will plan their year's activities following the pattern established by the original club. One of the traditions they hope to continue is the sponsorship of a graduation tea, for senior girls of Charlevoix High School.

Two other interest groups, the Home Decorating Group and the Antiques Group, will begin the year with a joint meeting. Mrs. Dave Fowler will act as temporary chairman. Their first order of business will be to determine whether there is enough interest in each of these fields to warrant having two separate groups, or whether they prefer to combine. They will then choose a permanent chairman (or chairmen) for the year. They will sponsor a Woman's Club program in the spring, planned around the theme of "decorating with antiques."

The Book Review Group, with Mrs. Charles Bellinger as chairman, will meet on the fourth Monday of the month at 1:30 p.m. A member will be asked to review a book of her own choosing, at each monthly meeting. Other members will entertain the group in their homes or act as assistant hostesses. If there are women who would like to form a second Book Review group that would meet the evening, they should register their interest with Mrs. Bellinger or Mrs. Duerr.

The Arts and Crafts Group, with Mrs. Ray Wood as chairman, will meet at 9:30 a.m. on the third Monday of each month. Their first project will be to assemble Christmas gift and decorating ideas that can be made, or have been made, by individual members. Examples of these ideas will make up a display that the group will exhibit at the December Woman's Club meeting.

It is the aim of the Woman's Club to sponsor groups covering a wide range of subject fields, so that every club member can find at least one group that genuinely interests her. There is no arbitrary limit set on the number of groups that can be formed, or the number of women who may participate in any one group. It is hoped that these groups, meeting informally in private homes, will preserve the traditions of close friendship and active, individual participation, that were an important aspect of belonging to the former Shakespeare or Dickens Study Clubs.

A good sized crowd of parents and friends attended the first meeting of Ellsworth Community School P.T.A. Tuesday evening. Peter John Drenth, Pres., invited the audience to sing the 1st verse of American and Rev. Vander Werff of the Atwood Reformed Church to ask the blessing. The Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag was then given by the group.

Mrs. Eikens, journalism and English teacher interviewed Jim Jansen. Seve Chellis, Janice Wynsma and Joel Donaldson on the benefits and knowledge they received as they were privileged to attend Boys and Girls State the past summer.

Drenth, then asked Mr. Strong, our new superintendent, to introduce himself and the new and returning school teachers. Mr. Wagner volunteered to fill Mr. Cook's place on the equipment committee, others are Willard Vander Ark and Mrs. Bob Smalley. Various suggestions were made to the committee, needed by teachers and the school. Max Bolser and Bob Drenth were on hand to receive membership dues. Used newspapers and magazine are accepted by the Library as Readers Digests and Geographies. The executive committee wives served the lunch. The Harvest Sale in charge of the Ways and Means Committee will be held at the October 21 meeting. Ways and Means Committee this year are Doug Way, chairman, Rink De Vries, Ron Grulke, Chester Farrell, Gerald Danbert, Walter Harty, Jack McPherson, Gerald Evans and John Burns. Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Dusek

Miss Rosinki weds R. Dusek

Emmanual Episcopal Church of Peoskey was the scene of the wedding between Tari Lunn Rosinski of Charlevoix and Robert Allen Dusek of Petoskey.

Tari is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Rosinsky of Charlevoix and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dusek of Petoskey.

The double ring ceremony was officiated by Rev. Lee Lindenberger with Joseph Hanna playing the traditional organ music. Solist was Wilmer R. Moyer who sayg "The Lord's Prayer", "More," and "Because".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride approached the alter in a floor length gown of angle ski Peau d' Soie fashioned with a raised waist encircled with Venise lace interlaced with pink ribbon to form a pink bown. Bands of Venise lace accented with miniature daises trimmed the cuffs and train of her gown.

Her veil of imported silk illusion was secured by a jewelled crown. The bride carried a bouquet of white daises and pink roses.

Bridesmaids were Ellen Arvilla, Nancy Wojan and Kathleen Miles, who attended the bride as maid of honor. Junior bridesmaids were Debra Dusek and Kathy Kily, both of Petoskey.

The maid of honor wore a light pink velvet dress accented with a burgandy velvet bow. She wore a fingertip veil secured by a burgundy velvet bow.

The bridesmaids wore identical gowns and headdresses in burgundy velvet with pink velvet bows at the waist.

Dresses of pink dotted swiss were worn by the junior bridesmaids.

Best man was Allen Kroll, and groomsmen were Richard Kraus and James VanWormer. The guests were seated by James Dusek and George VanWormer..

Following was a reception held at the Holiday House in Petoskey.

The couple will reside in Petoskey where they both are sophomores at North Central Michigan College.

what's a funny place for a phone?

That depends a lot on your sense of humor. If splashing through the house to answer a telephone leaves you a little cold, then perhaps there is nothing funny about an extension telephone in the bathroom or dressing room.

Extension telephones save steps and let you do your telephoning from where you are.

Call your Michigan Bell Business Office or ask your telephone man. For as little as ninety-five cents a month (plus tax) you can have an extension telephone in any funny old place you'd like.

Pat's Reaction

What's all the fuss?

The TV producers have me baffled. What in the world are they trying to do? Get me to watch? Or to turn the darn thing off?

Two weeks ago I broke my neck to watch the last spring Smothers Brothers Show. You know, the one that had been cancelled by the network. Courageously little ABC agreed to carry it in spite of the bitter controversy that it had stirred in newspapers and magazines across the country.

'I must admit that after I had seen the show I was a little bit let down. What in the dickens was all of the fuss about? Sure there was a good hearty dig at Senator Pastore, but I've seen much-worse criticism of the President of the United States. Senator Pastore should have been glad that his committee was brought to the attention of the public. It must be terrible to work along unnoticed. This is probably the first time that Pastore has ever recieved such good publicity. At lease now his constituents know what he's doing in Washington. It doesn't matter whether the networks NBC or CBS approve or disapprove of his actions, when the fickle finger of fate tried to find him, it was funny.

Of course the Smothers Brothers also paid tribute to Martin Luther King. Perhaps this act also brought down the wrath of the netweok upon them. It seems to me that it's about time that someone on TV paid tribute to King on the anniversary of his death. The way that things seem to be going on TV as the years go by they'll probably tell us more about King's assasin than they do about King's dreams. Somehow, someone should speak out.

Personally I like the speak out shows. They're the most fun. Naturally everything said isn't popular That's exactly why it provokes comment. I particularly like to hear ZsaZsa's comments.

Sometimes I'm suspicious of the canned documentaries. Those are just like the newscasts for they come from the same big source and I feel as though I'm being brainwashed. I suspect that the networks just use the material left over from their news correspondents.

But when an individual speaks out on the Joe Pyne show or on the Dick Cavett talk show I feel as though he's giving me the true scoop. Those are his opinions and I'm free to judge for myself how much of it is truth. On the big documentaries I feel as though much of what I'm seeing is opinion disguised as truth.

At least when the networks show soap operas, family comedies or detective stories no one is pretending that it is the truth. The show is pure and simple entertainment. The networks want me to watch it, but if I don't like it I can turn it off.

In general I like TV. It provides some great entertainment that I would never have a change to see othersise Of course during the day it's not so great, but who has the courage to watch it anyway?

When the old movie Casablanca with Humphrey Bogart and Lauren Bacall was shown in the afternoon I was absolutely dying to watch it. The children were all in school. My husband was at the office. The house was about as clean as it ever is, but did I watch the show?

Heck no. I'm so brainwashed into thinking that you must be engaged in constructive projects during the day that I just couldn't sneak into the TV room and irresponsibly watch the movie.

But there's always hope. Perhaps the networks will show Casablanca again some afternoon when I'm sick with a terminal illness. Then I can throw inhibitions to the winds and watch it.

Mostly I'm grateful to TV because it's the best babysitter ever invented. If someone ever asks me who has done the most for our country. I'll answer Captain Kangaroo. Many's the time that the old captain has saved me from insanity. Many's the Saturday morning that the cartoons have saved me from rising so early.

So you see I don't think that TV is all bad. A few people at the top are just afraid of controversy and criticism, yet those are the very qualities that I appreciate the most.

Criticism and controversy are fun and I just love to hear a good argument. I want to hear people argue about national problems, state problems and local problems. I even want to hear them argue about lawn care and pet care. I like to know that people are thinking enough to argue. I short, Networks, give me a choice. Give me a chance to hear both sides of a question and to judge for myself.

If I don't like the show I can always turn it off, but please, please don't do it for me.

Eyeglass answers

Many people don't know what they're seeing through

One of every 2 Americans wear eyeglasses to correct his vision. By 1975, as people live longer and give greater value to good vision, 2 out of 3 are expected to be wearing glasses. A recent survey shows that there are about 15 million persons who need glasses but don't have them. And another 21 million should have new prescriptions for the glasses they are now wearing.

Despite the increasing prevalence of corrective lenses, few people fully understand what is meant by protective eyewear, or how ophthalmologists, optometrists, and opticians differ.

A child's first eye test may come during grade school when a nurse or volunteer asks him to indicate what he sees on a wall chart, a test primarily of distant vision. If he has difficulty, he may be referred to an eye specialist for further tests. Such a mass screening is limited, so parents and teachers should watch for other signs of poor vision: blinking more than normal, rubbing eyes frequently, squinting, trying to brush away a blur, excessive frowning, red or inflamed eyes. Children seldom complain of poor eyesight, because they don't realize how good it should be.

For the most thorough medical examination of a child or adult it is best to visit an ophthalmologist, a medical doctor with postgraduate training in eye diseases and surgery. He can detect not only structural eye problems that cause nearsightedness, farsightedness, or astigmatism, but also other medical disorders in the eye and elsewhere that affect vision. But ophthalmologists, sometimes called oculists, are in fairly short supply, so a family may want to seek alternatives.

Some family doctors have the training and equipment to examine eyes and give eyeglass prescriptions. There are also a few eye, ear, nose and throat specialists left who do this, although most of them have narrowed their work to just 1 or 2 fields.

Optometrists are not medical doctors. They do have 5 or 8 years of training after high school, hold doctor of optometry degrees, and often call themselves "doctor." They are licensed by states to examine eyes and prescribe glasses. Most will refer patients to an ophthalmologist or other medical doctor if they suspect the presence of a disease.

About 40 percent of the country's 8,500 ophthalmologists dispense as well as prescribe eyeglasses. The remainder refer patients to opticians, who usually buy standard lenses from a wholesale dealer, then perform a final grinding and polishing to make lenses conform to individual prescription and to frames selected by the customer. Most of the nation's 20,500 optometrists provide eyeglasses as part of their services, doing the owrk of the optician in their own offices or laboratories.

Unless the buyer specifies otherwise, the lenses of his new glasses probably will be unhardened crown glass, which can splinter into tiny, sharp fragments if hit with a hard object. Thousands of persons have lost their eyesight through injury from such glasses. Despite the danger, three-fourths of the corrective lenses sold today are unhardened glass. Even the armed forces issue unhardened lenses. Only Alaska prohibits their sale, although Connecticut will do so after Jan. 1, 1971.

Protective or safety lenses are either plastic or are hardened glass, which is heated to 1,330 degrees Fahrenheit and then cooled quickly in cold air or oil. Hardened glass, required in all new automobile windows, will withstand a greater impact before breaking and form small pieces with rounded edges when it does break.

Safety lenses may be slightly thicker than ordinary lenses. To reduce weight, plastic lenses instead of glass. Plastic weighs half as much and is at least twice as impact resistant as hardened glass. It scratches easily, however, and must be handled more carefully.

Protective lenses may cost from $2 to $4 more per pair than unhardened glass. They are well worth the cost, especially for active children.

Imported plastic frames or domestic frames manufactured more than 10 years ago may be made from cellulose nitrate, which can burn rapidly. There is no easy way to tell the difference between it and acetate, which has been used in this country for 10 years and now is common among imported frames. A specialist selling new frames should be able to tell you which ones are safe.

Contact lenses, which fit right on the eyes, are increasing by about 600,000 pairs a year. About 6 million Americans — 2-thirds of them women — now own contacts.

The costs of eye examinations and eyewear vary with type of lenses, frames, examiner, and seller. Single-focal lenses may cost from $12 to $15 a pair; frames another $12 to $16. An ophtalmologist's fee most frequently is between $15 and $20, making the total cost for glasses somewhere between $39 and $51. An optometrist's total fee for examination and glasses may be slightly lower, depending on the services he performs and his source for the glasses.

Contact lenses cost considerably more; they also require several trips to the seller's office for fitting and follow-up examinations.

Although this season has been a dry one for growing, it seems a certain cabbage in the yard of W. T. Strudwicks 404 W. Hurlbut, has managed to get enough moisture. It has grown to the size of a basketball and weighs 7¼ pounds. That will make enough cole slaw to last for a long time. Above, Nancy Williams of Courier staff holds the large vegetable.

Ex-Boyne City man State Bar President

A. DeVere Ruegsegger, Grosse Pointe, a Detroit attorney, long active in Michigan legal affairs, was elected President of the State Bar of Michigan, on Wednesday, September 24. He succeeds Gilbert H. Davis, Royal Oak, whose term of office expires with the close of the State Bar annual meeting, now under way at the Sheraton-Cadillac hotel, Detroit.

Unanimously elected by the Board of Commissioners, the ruling body of the State Bar, he is a senior member of the Detroit law firm of Dyer, Meek, Ruegsegger and Bullard, and has completed his term as first vice president of the State Bar.

Officers elected to serve with President Ruegsegger were Charles W. Joiner, Dean of Wayne State University Law School, who was advanced from second to first vice president; State Bar Secretary and Detroit attorney Frederick G. Buesser, Jr., Birmingham, who was elected second vice president; Commissioner Wallace D. Riley, Detroit, was named as the new secretary, and Elden W. Butzbaugh, Benton Harbor, who was re-elected treasurer.

Ruegsegger and his wife, Mary Jeanette. His father, as a young man, became a lawyer in Boyne City, by "reading the law" under the tutelage of an attorney for whom he worked during the day as a clerk. He later become probate judge. The new president's brother, E. Dudleigh Ruegsegger, a Boyne City resident, is also a member of the State Bar.

Ruegsegger received his elementary education at the public schools in Boyne City, later receiving his liberal arts education at Alma College. In 1928, he was graduated from the University of Michigan Law School with a J. D. degree.

Admitted to the bar during this same year, he became associated with the Detroit law firm of Angell, Turner, Dyer and Meek.

Community

the Michigan State Medical Society; Lionel F. Swan, M.D., Charles Vincent, M.D., and Milton Palmer, M.D., all of Detroit, representing the Detroit and National Medical Associations; and Herman Glass, Southfield, Assistant Administrator of Providence Hospital. Joseph N. Schaeffer, M.D., Director of the Rehabilitation Institute of Detroit, will talk on the need for "35,000 health professionals and technicians for the new Detroit Medical Center." Dr. Joshua Geller of Northwestern High School will discuss the Summer Educational Exploratory Program in Health Occupations conducted this year at Northwestern High School in cooperation with the Michigan Health Council. Mrs. Milton Palmer will report on the progress being made at Martin Luther King High School and other Detroit junior and senior high schools with the establishment of health careers clubs in cooperation with the members of the Detroit Medical Society and the Detroit schools. Mrs. Palmer serves as Medical Careers Club Coordinator. James Fryfogle, M.D. of Detroit, President of the Wayne County Medical Society, and other medical society officers will participate in the program. Special guests for the day will be 100 members of the Michigan Personnel and Guidance Association headed by their President, Terry Thomas of Pontiac. Information on the vast opportunities available for students in health careers will be provided to the directors of guidance and guidance counselors who will attend.

Governor William Milliken proclaimed the week of October 19-25 as Community Health Week throughout Michigan and complimented Doctor Upjohn, Doctor Mason and Dean Charles H. King, LL.B., of Detroit, the Presidents of MHC, MSMS and MAP, for the efforts made by their three organizations in providing such outstanding programs for Michigan citizens. Governor Milliken was especially pleased with the effort being made this year in promoting health careers for Michigan students.

Kraag Lieberman of Charlevoix catches the pass with a Petoskey defender ready to make the tackle. Rayders maintained their perfect record with the 19-6 win.

M-HS Conference

'Super-sub' subdues Petoskey with 3 TDs

Jerry Fochtman came off the bench for last Friday's Michigan - Huron Shores league game between Charlevoix and Petoskey and merely scored all three Red Rayder touchdowns to give the local team a 19-6 win over the Northmen.

Fochtman was in the lineup due to the knee injury which had Bruce Meggison on the sidelines for at least one game.

With Fochtman's outstanding performance, Rayder head coach Don Carey will be hard pressed not to find a starting berth for the hard-running senior.

It may be kind of early to tell who is going to win the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference championship, but there is one thing for sure, a loss at this stage of the game sure isn't going to help things any. That's what will be in the minds of both Charlevoix and Rogers City, when they meet face to face at Kipke Field Friday night.

Both teams are currently holding the fort at the top of the league with 2-0 records, and need the win badly. If last years score is any indication of things to be expected, (Rogers City won, 7-6) it should be a whale of a ball game. The Hurons are capitalizing on the runing of pint - sized Dan Kendziorski, and could spell trouble, especially if the two injured Rayders aren't ready for action. We're going to send the Hurons home on the short end of the stick. Score? Remember you read it here first, Charlevoix 20 Rogers 8.

Let's take a look at the bottom of the standings, where Boyne City, Gaylord, and Petoskey share this dishonorable distinction. Gaylord has a week off, so they won't slip. Petoskey is at Boyne City, and after calling the wrong score against Boyne last week, we feel kind of bad. The Ramblers have probably never dropped three straight as far as our books go back. There's a sign down-town on the main street stating, "You are in Boyne Country." Sure are, 16-7.

Alpena CC will take the big trip across the Mighty Mac, and end up in St. Ignace just in time to take on the Saints. Alpena surprised plenty in their 26-6 win over Boyne City, but it would be even a greater surprise if they could handle the Saints on their own ground. It was 38-0 last year, but Alpena CC probably will be a little tougher this season. The Saints continue to roll in conference play, 34-13.

Cheboygan came on strong after losing the opener two weeks ago, and tagged Gaylord last week, 19-6. The Chiefs will remain as one of the unbeaten teams in conference play after defeating TCSF Saturdy night, but are probably looking ahead to the October 3 meeting with Charlevoix. Cross your bridges when you come to them you Chiefs, your in for a scare at Traverse City. Cheboygan wins, but by only a point.

While the new two point conversion attempt is raising a bit of coaching calls all over the state, the conference has seen three attempts by kicking so far. Last week, TCSF went for the one point kick late in the game against Petoskey. This gave them a 7-0 lead, and should Petoskey have scored lale in the game, it would have brought back memories of the famous 10-10 tie between State and Notre Dame. What do you sideline coaches do in a situation like this? Bet your boots this happens in our league before long.

Jack Begrow sells Lake condominiums

A series of newly-construced condominiums at Lake Charlevoix, Wharfside in Charlevoix have been acquired by Timberlee Hills, Inc.

"It is in keeping with Timberlee Hills total growth program in helping develop northwestern Michigan to the best advantage for total resort and vacation programs for all," said Thomas Itin. "We want to make Michigan one of the nation's prime recreational centers and are making our contribution in resort development to make it happen."

Timberlee Hills has already developed a complete socio-recreational center near Traverse City which includes a ski area, and lodge, condominiums and homesites, marina, beach club and restaurant, riding stable, swimming pools, tennis courts and archery range.

Charlevoix's Wharfside condominiums were designed by Jack Bergrow, prominent Charlevoix architect.

Ellsworth loses 16-12

Denny Drenth of Ellsworth scored two touchdowns in a losing effort to St. Mary's, as Ellsworth dropped a 16-12 decision.

The opening game loss dropped the local team into a last place tie with Central Lake in the Ski-Valley League.

On the strength of the two TDs, Drenth holds the conference scoring lead, with second place going to Brian Larson of Bellaire, who has notched one TD and extra point for a total of 8 points.

Obituary

E.J. Hiller

Funeral services for Ernest J. Hiller, 91, who was honored as Outstanding Citizen of the Year in 1967 were held at the Winchester Funeral Home at 1:30 p.m. Saturday. The Rev. Lawrence Tenhopen officiated. Burial was in Brookside cemetery.

Born at Lake Odessa, Jan. 25, 1878, Mr. Hiller was graduated from the business school at Ferris Institute, now Ferris State College, before coming to Charlevoix in 1907 as a bookkeeper at the Charlevoix Lumber Co. which had been established in 1868. In 1923 he became manager of the business located on the north shore of Pine River at the highway bridge. Later he owned the business in which he maintained an interest until recent years when his son, E. James Hiller, assumed the responsibility.

He served as Second Ward alderman and as a member of the Board of Education deputy city clerk and the Chamber of Commerce. He was a director of the Charlevoix County State Bank for many years, a life member of the local chapter of the Knights of Pythias and the Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, F. & A.M. of which he served as treasurer for more than 50 years. He attended the First Congregational church.

He was married to the former Martha Kenyon who preceded him in death in 1912. In 1918 he married the former Christine Petersen who died in 1963. A son, Lee C., also preceded him in death during World War II.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Raymond (Annabelle) Champion of Evanston; two sons, Don C. of Milwaukee and E. James of Charlevoix; seven grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

LOCAL

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Loucks have returned to Gibsonburg, Ohio, after spending the weekend with relatives here.

Kirk Hardy returned to his home in Simi, Calif., Friday following a two months visit with his grandmothers, Mrs. Versal Seymour and Mrs. Richard Hull and Mr. Hull.

Library Notes

It's football season, and the Library has new books on the shelves for young sports enthusiasts.

"Double Play Rookie" is by Joe Archibald, the author of "Hold That Line" and "Block That Kick". It's a light, fast-paced book to be enjoyed before the baseball season is entirely over.

"Horace Higby and the Field Goal Formula" was written by William Heuman, another well-known sports writer. Even the girls will enjoy this one!

"Football and the Single Man" is a candid autobiography by Paul Hornung, one of the most colorful personalities in the world of sports. With the Green Bay Packers he was named pro football's most valuable player. The one crisis in his life came when, in 1963, he was suspended for one year for betting on football games. This book tells all about it.

"The Counterfeit Tackle" by Matt Christopher, is a light, small volumn with big print, especially written for the small fans in the small grades.

"Linebacker" by Tex Maule is another high-praised and popular football novel by the Senior Editor of Sports Illustrated Magazine. "The Linebacker" tells the story of a professional team that must overcome injury to a key player in order to achieve a winning season.

"Sports"–the American Scene is a thick book containing memorable moments from the pages of Sports Illustrated. Stories have been selected, written by the finest sports writers in the country. The stories concern such importatn personalities as Bab Didrikson, Jack Dempsey, Eddie Arcaro, Bob Cousy and Arnold Palmer.

"Football For Young Champions" was written by Robert J. Antonacci and Jene Barr for young readers. The print is large and there are many instructive illustrations and diagrams.

Ruppe Reports

Congressman Philip E. Ruppe (R-Mich.) today co-sponsored a resolution to publicly appeal to the North Vietnamese to abide by the Geneva Conventions in their treatment of American prisoners of war.

In a speech to the House of Representatives, the Congressman denounced the needless suffering caused by the North Vietnamese refusal to treat U.S. imprisoned men fairly. "Because the North Vietnamese will issue no 'captured' list," Ruppe stated, "we have witnessed the anguish of families who know not if their husbands, their sons, their fathers are living or dead. Because the North Vietnamese will not allow the free flow of mail, we share the sorrow of men totally cut-off from their far-away homes. Because the North Vietnamese will not permit neutral inspection of prison camps, we hear of malnutrition, of poor medical treatment, and of torture—from the all-too-few prisoners who have been returned."

The Northern Michigan Congressman stated that we must let all the wbrld know that these inhuman conditons exist. "In this resolution," he said, "...we appeal to the, North Vietnamese before all nations. We ask only that North Vietnam abide by the rules of the Geneva Convention, and that it take such steps as may be appropriate to obtain the prompt release of our men. We ask only for humanitarianism."

Congressman Ruppe concluded that the North Vietnamese must conform to the rules of the Geneva Conventions, to establish their good intentions st the Paris Peace Talks. "if the North Vietnamese expect the nations of the world to believe that they sincerely desire peace in Paris, then they will comply with our appeal."

SLAAM at CHS meet

State Student officers of the SLAAM (Student Library Assistants Association of Michigan) and their advisors met at Charlevoix High School Library on Saturday, September 13.

The Students represent members of many school libraries in Michigan. Richard Hosking, Waverly High School, Lansing, is faculty advisor of the executive board. Miss Johnson from the state library in Lansing attended the meeting. Highlights of the activities of the executive council included the planning of the 1970 spring conference which over 800 students have attended in the past.

Refreshments were served the group by Miss Sandra Gigg, Charlevoix High School junior who is State SLAAM Historian, and her advisor, Mrs. Joy Mudge, director of School libraries in Charlevoix,

Interlochen sets development goal

Mr. and Mrs. E.D. Hawley of Charlevoix were among the guests at the dinner here Tuesday night at which the Interlochen Center for the Arts launched its Golden Decade Development campaign in the northern section of lower Michigan.

Nation-wide the campaign goal is $25,000,000, of which the W. Clement and Jessie V. Stone Foundation of Chicago is contributing $1 for every $4 raised from other sources.

The dinner was attended by chairmen and workers in the area north of a line extending from Ludington east across the peninsula; also by administrators and teachers from Interlochen.

The campaign will be an extension of that begun in the Grand Traverse region in which $517,000 was pledged, $117,000 more than the amount set as a goal.

Letters to the editor

Hospital donation

(Ed. note: The following letter was directed to Julius J. Gilbert of Charlevoix in response to a recent Courier article about Charlevoix Hospital)

Dear Mr. Gilbert:

I have been reading in the Charlevoix Courier about the need for contributions to the Charlevoix Hospital to provide for new X-ray equipment, and so I am gald to send you my check enclosed today for a $200 gift.

You and I have not met personally up to now, but I am sure that will take place some of these days, and it happens that I have been for over twenty years a Trustee of Lockwood-MacDonald Hospital here, so I know something about the continuing need for donations to hospitals, and the task which is involved in raising important sums.

Good luck to you in the success of this present campaign.

Yours very truly,

Allan McCune

Our Fall season has arrived with cool sunny days and much colder eveings and nights. Some frosts have been mentioned and talked about around us, but as yet none in our community. The maples are beginning to turn a brillant red, and we have chickadees looking for the usual sunflower seeds and even a blue jay was calling at my door. So, it won't be long now before we will be all bundled up waiting for that first blizzard that is hovering around the corner. Makes me shiver to think of it, and we know time flies; so enjoy each beautiful fall day.

D. Bring is a medical patient in the Charlevoix Hospital. He has our very best wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Friend of Petoskey spent Sunday afternoon at the Ross Alexander home.

Ted Browe of Charlevoix has purchased the Jones property at the top of the ferry hill next to the Roy Meyers home.

Bruce Barnum left Thursday for Spokane Washington, after spending the past two weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barnum.

James Vanerwall of Ann Arbor spent this weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Vanderwall.

Mr. and Mrs. H. White of Lowell, Michigan, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Bennett last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Vanderwall were guests this Sunday at the home of their brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Vanderwall.

Ole and Edna Neilen are having a two weeks vacation from their work and are enjoying a trip around Lake Superior.

Mrs. Leo Burne of Montague made a surprise visit one day on an old school friend, Mrs. Mary Bennett both having attened high shchool in Manton. A most enjoyable time was had reminising and getting reacquainted. It is always a great pleasure seeing our old school friends.

Received a letter from Mrs. Harley Perry from Lansing saying that Mr. Perry is very ill in the Hospital. We extend him the very best wishes from their friends in Ironton. Their address is 2707 E. Saginaw Street, Lansing. 48912

Fishing is getting more interesting. Merarle Scott caught a five pound Coho right here in Ironton, and they are being caught several other places nearby. So it is time to get that fishing takle ready for some good fishing. We Hope.

First State Bank name reflects image

(Ed. note: With First State Bank celebrating the grand opening of its new building, the Courier asked Pat Begrow to research and write the story of the recent name-change of the bank.)

Many people wondered what was happening when the Charlevoix State Savings Bank changed its name to First State Bank of Charlevoix. Why the choice of names?

Why the change after all of these years?

The choice of names was not an easy one to make. Many banks feel that their image will be badly hurt by a change of names.

But this was not the thinking of the board of directors of the First State Bank of Charlevoix. These men felt that the name of their bank was a detriment, for it was so often and so easily confused with the Charlevoix County State Bank, although both banks have been located in Charlevoix for many years. They chose the name First State Bank of Charlevoix for their bank has been first in many ways.

..First of all Archie Livingston, who is the retired president of the bank, got together with his board of directors Ed Shanahan, Don Coulter, Bob Livingston, Dorothy Dixon and Ed Edwards and envisioned a new building. The anticipated the need to move off of the Bridge Street to a new location.

In 1966 the bank had another first when the board purchased a site in the new growth area of Charlevoix of State Street and Clinton.

In October 1967 a group of new directors joined the old to form the present eleven man board. These new men were Thomas A. Duke, chairman of the board, Joseph Brennan, William Skillman, Jerrald Redeker and Elden Henderson who was later succeeded by his brother Russell Henderson.

The First State Bank of Charlevoix continued to be first when it became the first bank in northern Michigan to support a community architect, Jack Begrow. In contrast all of the other northern Michigan banks have been designed by metropolitan architects who consider themselves to be specialized bank experts. This group of leaders felt that a northern Michigan architect was the one especially qualified to interpret their needs.

The First State Bank of Charlevoix was the first bank in Charlevoix County to initiate the popular drive-in window.

..Two years ago the First State Bank was the first bank in the entire State of Michigan to offer three and one-half dollars per hundred per year consumer financing. At this time such a move was an unheard of policy.

This was the first bank in northern Michigan to offer 5 percent ninety day time certificates in passbook form which is the highest interest that the government allows on any time deposit of less than $100,000.

The First State Bank of Charlevoix was the first in the area and is still the only bank in the area which offers an absolutely free checking account with no minimum balance.

Finally it is the first bank to offer to the community a room free of charge for community gathering. The 111 State Room was built for the public to enjoy and it is equipped with a completely modern residential kitchen. This room can be reached by a separate entrance from the parking lot. It is the first room built in the community by private enterprise for public use.

IN THE OPEN

The conservation outlook for Michigan is filled with promise, although there is one manifestation of backward thinking on the part of lawmakers that disturbs wildlife management biologists. There are still some people who believe in bounties, or if they don't believe in bounties they yield to local pressure and vote against the elimination of a lingering evil of the old bounty system, the coyote bounty.

The Michigan Audubon Society has appealed to the legislature for repeal of the county law. The Audubon president, Edward M. Brigham III of Kalamazoo, says:

"Bounties are ineffectual in controlling predator numbers. The record number of coyotes was taken in 1960 after 26 years of bounty payments. Michigan bounties have wasted $4,000,000 since 1935."

We have the recent testimony of a wildlife biologist on bounties given before a committee of the Minnesota State Senate. L. David Mech probably knows as much about the timber wolf as anyone. He has spent three years as a member of the research team on Ile Royale, studying wolves and moose, under the direction of Dr. Durward L. Allen of Purdue University.

Says Dave Mech, who, by the way, is one of the modest men I know: "It is now my job, along with Dr. L.D. Frenzel, to learn all I can about the wolves in northern Minnesota. I have just spent January and February beginning this work.

Cub Scouts registration

Cub Scout registration for all interested boys will be held at the Charlevoix Senior High cafeteria on Thursday, September 25, at 7:30 p.m.

All boys who wish to participate in this year's program must register.

To register each boy must be accompanied by a parent or guardian.

Federal Buying Scheme for Cities, States Dropped

The General Services Administration has dropped its controversial program to establish central Federal purchasing for state and local government agencies following protests from Sen. Joseph M. Montoya (D-N.M.) and the National Association of Manufacturers.

An official of the Budget Bureau says the GSA had misinterpreted legislation enacted last year. Final regulations to be published in the Federal Register will delete the GSA proposal.

Senator Montoya charged that the GSA purchasing program would bypass small businessmen and "put them out in the streets." He commented that "this would be the height of socialism."

In a letter to NAM President W. P. Gullander, Senator Montoya thanked the NAM for its support in opposing the GSA program. "I certainly appreciate the support you and your organization have given me in this endeavor, and I want you to know that without such support it would have been much more difficult, and a favorable decision could not have been reached as quickly," he wrote.

Mr. Gullander had voiced NAM's concern over the GSA move, noting that "the open interpretation of GSA is far afield, indeed, from the restricted concept of lending professional and technical people" to undermanned state and local governments.

Fall visitors flow to area

At least one-half million families are expected to take special weekend trips through Michigan between now and early November to see this state's autumnal show–when woodlands turn from summer green to blazing, multi-colored hues of red, yellow, brown, orange, scarlet and purple.

"This means that approximately 1.5 million persons will be on our highways for the sole purpose of viewing forest from late September when colors reach their peak in the Upper Peninsula through the first week of November when colors fade throughout southern Michigan," according to Jerry E. Fisher, Automobile Club of Michigan's touring manager.

He points out that weekend fall color tourists alone will contribute approximately $40 million of the record $1.35 billion expected to be spent on tourism in Michigan during 1969.

"The average color tour will last two days and will cover 300 miles, which means that a total of 150 million miles will be driven," adds Fisher.

Fall color tour dates for Michigan–which can vary as much as a week depending on weather–are as follows:

Upper Peninsula and northern tip of Lower Peninsula--September 26 to October 5.

Northern Third Lower Peninsula--October 3 to October 12.

Central Lower Peninsula--October 10 to October 26.

Southern Lower Peninsula--October 24 to November 2.

Warm, dry weather means that colors can remain in an area for two weeks. Cold, wet weather means that colors will be muted. Wind knocks leaves from trees causing a short season.

Persons wishing to see the earliest color should tour along Lake Superior in the Upper Peninsula. As the days progress, colors begin to show inland and move southward.

Motorists will find that the fall touring season is less expensive than summer since many motels now have reduced rates. However, reservations at many motels and resort areas are still essential since hunters and fishermen are putting more pressure on facilities than ever before.

Regardless of where one wishes to tour in the state, chambers of commerce have special detailed color tour maps which are available free.

YMCA---why not?

A group of local citizens has been hard at work developing the concept of a local branch of the YMCA.

Thus far, they have presented programs to the Lions and Kiwanis, in an effort to determine interest in such a program for Charlevoix.

What happens next is up to local residents. Charlevoix can obtain a "Y" at surprisingly small expense.

First thoughts indicate that there would be no necessity to erect a costly building. We are told that the use of existing facilities (schools, churches, etc) would allow the program to get off the ground with a minimum investment.

Should Charlevoixans back such a venture, it would mean our city would be the regional headquarters for the organization in Northern Michigan, with all the prestige and benefits that attend such a position.

The Courier would like to see the idea become a reality.

Our young people have little organized recreation, particularly during the months from September to July.

A YMCA in Charlevoix would go a long way toward correcting that situation.

Voters in dark on new jail

Charlevoix County will get a new jail, according to the County Board of Supervisors. It will cost taxpayers approximately $500,000 for the structure, plus an almost similar sum for interest on borrowed money, according to a banker-friend of ours.

Our friend added, "Another form of financing could save the county a considerable sum....why not ask the resident of the county what they want to do?"

The banker has a point. It is obvious that the county does need a new or remodeled jail. The present one is in very bad condition, and the state has threatened to close its doors forever if the structure is not replaced or given an adequate face-lifting.

Yet, we wonder if the possibilities of remodeling the present structure have been fully investigated by more than one building expert. Or, did the Supervisors only ask one firm for an opinion?

Were the supervisors made fully aware of the various forms of financing such a venture....and did they decide upon the method which was most economical?

These questions come to the fore in light of comments made to the Courier concerning the general lack of information for the voter to digest.

Perhaps our Supervisors could explain the county's position more fully at this time. Then....ask Charlevoix Countians which direction they would like to take.

This is progress

Proximity often dulls the power of observation. Thus the moon landing must have come as a shock to those who have harped on the shortcomings of a tired old "establishment" that seems incapable of change. They have been oblivious to the steady growth of a great country.

A few months ago, a large international airline reviewed the progress of its own growth during the past 30 years. It typifies the development of the nation. A release from the airline told about the inauguration of transatlantic passenger service with one of the famous flying Clippers. The plane, carrying 22 passengers, "sped across the ocean at 150 miles-per-hour for 29 hours and 20 minutes to Marseilles, France. Today, the release continues, "A Boeing 707 can fly halfway around the world in the time it took the Dixie Clipper to get to Marseilles." Transatlantic service was inaugurated in mid-year 1939. By the end of the year this airline had crossed the Atlantic 100 times. It now makes 376 transatlantic flights a week and has flown the Atlantic more that 187,000 times.

By anybody's book, this is progress. Millions of persons, thanks to the steady development of U.S. international airlines, are now able to travel economically and comfortably to the farthest corners of the earth. The impact of such travel on business and personal relationships between the people of the U.S. and other nations is beyond measure. In this one area, as in scores of others, we live too close to the event to comprehend the enormous changes that are a constant part of our lives - changes that will occur as long as we protect and preserve the principles of individual freedom under representative government.

We are in for a lot of economic discipline if we are hoping to break the inflationary spiral that is making it more and more difficult to make both ends meet with the pay check.

Dr. Larry Coolidge, University of Colorado professor of business administration came to Michigan State university last week to address a meeting of Chamber of Commerce executives. He told them that nothing can be done to cool the American economy until something is done to change the inflation psychology of the American people.

This inflation psychology, Dr. Coolidge describes as a prevailing belief of generations which have known nothing but inflation, that inflation will continue and that we should make financial decisions on that assumption.

He pointed out something we all should know - that because of this inflation psychology we borrow money at very high rates of interest and buy things we don't absolutely need, all because we think they are cheaper now than they will be later and we can pay back with cheaper money than we borrowed.

That is not the best thinking, by any means. We must look at this problem with more maturity and more sophistication and then be willing to accept restrictive measures in our living which are sorely needed and support those forces which endeavor to put these restrictive measures in force.

We must look at this thing more seriously and try to accept the financial disciplines that must come if we are going to halt this financial spiral and get the value of the American dollar back up where it belongs.

Education needs teamwork

Almost as many ideas are held on how to educate young people in preparation for their life work as there are schools for the teaching. Systems, too, come under review with a regularity akin to monotony, but the purpose, again, is to constantly improve and upgrade course offerings and contacts between instructor and student.

Evidence that lay persons as well as the professionals are involved in the thinking-planning-execution process was found the other day at the annual Manitowoc Area Chamber of Commerce welcome dinner for new teachers in the schools of the community. Dr. Robert V. Dahlstrom, a new member of the Board of Regents of University of Wisconsin-Madison, suggested some changes in the educational process.

He proposed, among others, that more emphasis be put on providing models for students—teachers in this case—while parents try harder to supply the proper environment during the time boys and girls grow from elementary level and into high school stage and to the university realm beyond. Thus the process of learning attitudes, habits and ways of judging are concomitant with assimilating the "book" or formal phases of education.

Too many students are being pushed into college, a contention Dr. Dahlstrom admitted might verge on heresy. But, he said, serious consideration should be given to vocational and technical education for those who are not equipped or who do not have a desire for academic subjects. To do this might make their education less painful and still give them a "sense of accomplishment and pride of achievement."

A similar approach was voiced this week by a Wisconsin assemblyman. Stanley York of Rover Falls proposed that pupils should be permitted to complete their secondary education in a vocation-technical school rather than in a high school. He saw in this plan a way to avoid duplications and permit teacher specialists to more effectively do their jobs.

Whatever the ideas in education, their implementation and successful completion depend on the teacher.

News names

(Ed. note: Bob Myers of the Lapeer County Press made the following comments in his last issue. We feel it expresses our position well)

A used car dealer called me today, angry because we refused to withhold his name when he was charged with drunk driving. He cancelled his advertising.

I tried to explain, but it was hopeless. He wanted to know why Nepessing St bigshots didn't get their name in the paper when they were arrested for drunk driving. I told him we have a $5,000 standing offer for anyone who can show we knowingly withheld the name of any drunk driver, or any adult charged with any major offense.

He was sore because he said he wasn't guilty. He was only sneezing. That could be, but it's up to the cops to decide whether to make an arrest and up to the courts to decide whether the arrest was right.

I can understand a man's anger when he feels he has been wrongly arrested. I can feel genuinely sorry for the women who come in here, asking that their husband's or their son's name be withheld "for the sake of the family."

Here at The Press we always try to explain politely our position. It is a sad thing. These people are entitled to be heard and entitled to our sympathy and explanation.

Unfortunately, our answer must always be the same. The minute we set ourselves up as judges, able to decide whether this drunk driver should get his name in the paper, is the minute we stop being a fair newspaper.

I hope our used car dealer will eventually agree that, while it's a rough policy, there can be no other.

Beallsville war dead

BY DON PONIATOWSKI

The graves are fresh in Beallsville, Ohio. Four overlook the high school and the fifth is a few miles away.

Buried in them are 5 boys. They were killed in Vietnam before their 21st birthdays.

Beallsville, population 450, wants no more of it. The war has taken a toll from the town that is 75 times the national average.

The story of Beallsville recently appeared in Ramparts, a national magazine. The article began with a news bulletin. It read:

"The Pentagon has rejected a plea to withdraw from Vietnam combat servicemen from a little Ohio town that had 5 native sons killed in action...

"Congressman Clarence Miller made the request in letters to Laird and President Nixon after residents of the town expressed fear their younger generations was being decimated."

The Pentagon, with all due respect, of course, didn't see it that way. Its attitude was fight-on, good old Beallsville High. Send us your halfbacks, your ends and your guards.

So Beallsville sent its quarterback, Jack Pittman. His mother said later:

"We never knew there was a Vietnam or anything until he had to go. And to think in 8 months we had him back and buried."

So Beawlsville sent its farm boys. And again with the same results. Dust to dust.

The town quit sending boys in April but not by choice. The mayor explained: "They won't be getting many more of our boys. They drafted the last one of draft age last month."

Beallsville was well represented on the front. But back home, the townsfolk didn't know whether to be proud or bitter.

"I was counting on Charles to work on the farm," said Ernest Schnegg. "He was a farmer. Charles was all I had. The government took him and didn't give anything in return."

Charles is fertilizing the cemetery. Next to him are Jack Pittman, Robert Lucas and either Richard Rucker or Duane Greenlee. They were schoolmates.

"He was very clean cut," said Kenneth Rucker. "He didn't smoke, he didn't chew, he didn't drink, and he didn't specially want to go to the service much. But he was a boy that wouldn't object. Whatever he had to do, he did it and did it willingly."

There were 24 boys in Beallsville High's June graduating class. The principal said most would serve if called upon.

And Beallsville doesn't stand a fighting chance of stopping it.

Now...Here's Jimmy

While pondering upon TV's three-cornered battle of the double-entendre and the free plug, I decided to use the Johnny Carson method to save my marriage.

My wife says I don't talk to the family enough. I always have my head stuck in the newspaper. Except after 11:30 p.m. when I ignore her in favor of the TV talk shows - either Carson or Joey Bishop or Merv Griffin (which one depends on who the guests are and how short their skirts are).

The old girl is right, I said to myself, there isn't much conversation around this place. The last time I talked to my daughter she turned out to be the little girl from next door who told me my daughter had been away at camp for three months. You're a bad father, I thought, and I determined to improve myself, ala TV.

I moved a desk into the living room and slid the couch at a right angle to it. I rejected the idea of having a second banana, such as Ed McMahon or Arthur Treacher. No one laughs louder at my jokes than I do, so who needs help?

At 11:30 I turned off the TV, sat behind the desk, and introduced myself to my wife. "Wake up the kids and send them in one at a time," I told her. "And when they are done, you can come in yourself. I will talk with each of you for 20 minutes. The family that talks together, stays together, and the wife doesn't write to Ann Landers so much."

Eleven-year-old Eddie was the first guest.

"It certainly is good to see you again," I told him. "Tell me about what you've been doing lately. How are things at school? Has your mother been treating you alright? What do you want to be when you grow up? What do you think of the war in Vietnam? Speak up, son, your father is interested in you."

"Well," said Eddie, "Jimmie Daniels and me got this used toy sale going in front of his house. We're selling everything we don't want to little kids who don't know the stuff is busted. We're open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day and we're also selling cotton candy and lemonade left over from last month's sale. I hope you'll tell all your friends to stop by and see us, and bring their money."

The next guest was Chrissie, 13. The first thing she did was get in a fight with Eddie over who got to sit on the end of the couch nearest the desk. She won and Eddie left, moving his lips but no sound could be heard.

"You're looking beautiful, Chrissie," I told her. "But I wish you would pull down your skirt and button your shirt and take the kitten out of your hair-do. Someone might come in."

"Dahling," she said, "call me Chris. It's more me, don't you think?"

"Ok, Chris," I said. "Now tell me, how is everything going in school? What do you like to study most? What college do you want to go to? Your daddy is interested."

"School is yech," she said, throwing one leg over the couch arm and onto my desk, "but it's where the boys are. Of course, I must find a boy who appreciates me for my mind and soul, not my beauty. Being beautiful is such a bore. What I really want is a boy who wants to do algebra with me."

"Thank you, Chris," I said. "Now I know you have to run, and on your way out, please tell your mother I'm sorry, but we're out of time. Tell her you just can't argue with that old clock on the wall. Tell her time sure flies when you're having fun. Tell her maybe she can come back tomorrow night."

"Why don't you tell her yourself?" Chris asked.

"Because I never talk to her," I said.

ON THE 'FLIP' SIDE

With the groundwork being laid for negotiations between the school district and local teachers, we were interested in an article in last week's Lapeer County Press.

Though it is only one area, considerably downstate from Charlevoix, their teacher contract figures might be of interest to our negotiators.

Starting wages for first year teachers with bachelor degrees in Imlay City rose to $7,250, an increase of $800 over the last contract.

In Lapeer, the figure stands at $7,100; Almont, $7,200; Dryden, $7,150; and North Branch, $7,100.

This year, Charlevoix School District first year teachers with bachelor degrees started at $6,804.

Turning to salaries of first year teachers with masters degrees, Imlay City will pay them a minimum of $7,850; Lapeer, $7,600; Almont, $7,700; Dryden, $7,500; and North Branch, $7,550.

A starting teacher in Charlevoix with a masters would collect $7,344 this term, according to school officials.

Admittedly, using the figures of this one downstate area is not particularly significant to Charlevoix. However, we feel it does indicate a trend. Our teachers union will undoubtedly strive for comparable salaries, especially in this high cost of living area.

The crew of the Sundew worked round the clock Sat. and Sunday, Sept. 23 and 24, 1967, in swelling 10 foot waves to rescue victims of a squall that came up on Lake Michigan Saturday. Many small craft were on the lake fishing for coho when the storm whipped to swamping heights.

Plans to publish a second weekly paper in Charlevoix were announced by Bob Clock, former Courier editor. It was to be published by Clock and his wife, and named the Charlevoix Beacon.

The school board put up a $1.5 million to $2 million building bond issue before the voters. The board put off asking voters to also approve a half-million dollar high school expansion program.

A spurt of home building began in East Jordan with Jim Shepard's Hillcrest subdivision. Shepard estimated 10 homes would be built by the fall of '68 and an anticipated five homes per year after that.

Dr. Howard Tanner, who conceived the coho planting program, announced that it would be relatively inexpensive and easy to plant salmon in and around Charlevoix, if the county could get involved it should do so without the state's assistance, but with that of the Conservation Department.

However, the Charlevoix team was in control from the opening whistle to the final play.

Kroger and Westinghouse sponsored a contest for the "Junior Cook of the Year", with awards totaling $100,000. Open to boys and girls 12 through 14, in the junior group and 15 through 19, in the senior group; the contest covered a 19-state area.

Plans were being formed for an even larger Michigan Dawn Patrol to Beaver Island this year. In it's third year, "Doc" Collins stated that last year's Dawn Patrol attracted 342 planes to St. James, Beaver Island.

Obituary
John Drenth

John Drenth, 84, senior partner in Ellsworth Hardware, died Monday at Meadowbrook Medical Facility, Bellaire, where he had been a patient for three months.

He was born in the Netherlands, March 4, 1885, and came to the United States in 1901 with his parents. He was a lifelong resident of Banks Township, Antrim County.

He was married to the former Margaret VanderArk on June 16, 1910, at Ellsworth. She preceded him in death in 1949.

He was a former justice of the peace, served on the Ellsworth School Board, Township trustee, and Board of Review.

A member of the Ellsworth Christian Reformed Church, he was a deacon and Sunday school teacher in the church.

Surviving are four sons, one daughter, two sisters, 21 grandchildren, and 15 great grandchildren.

Services will be held from the Ellsworth Christian Reformed Church at 2 p.m. tomorrow, with the Rev. Robert Greydamus officiating. Burial will be in the Ellsworth Cemetery. Friends may call this evening at the Ellsworth Funeral Home.

Transportation

The counter, presumably used for ticket purchases and other business, is clear and has bus schedules displayed under the glass table top. If you wish information, other than that supplied by schedules, one inquires at the gas station.

Bus is the only reasonably priced and convenient method of travel from Charlevoix to other parts of Michigan. There are no trains and plane travel is available only by charter. A North Star bus leaves Charlevoix daily at 10 a.m. and is the only one.

The service of Greyhound is not in question, but the service offered by the Charlevoix depot is to be questioned. There is not rule book stating what a depot must look like, but the quality and condition of the station should reflect the community and it's standards. The building needs a simple cleaning and tidying up, not a renovation and major overhaul.

It could be a small way of showing visitors Charlevoix's concern to make everything here beautiful to look at and its eagerness to serve those traveling through the city.

A bus depot should look like one, no matter what size the building or the city. To exhibit the station on Antrim as an example of Charlevoix and its people would not exactly be a compliment.

by the football game with Gaylord. There will be a brief halftime ceremony with the crowning of the queen and a performance by the band. The class floats will also be parade around the field with the winners named at that time.

The queen will be chosen from five girls will be slected out of all the girls in the senior class. Only the senior class will pick the court. Then grades nine through 12 will elect the queen.

A dance will follow the game in the study hall of the high school.

STATE BANK OF CHARLEVOIX

FIRST STATE BANK OF CHARLEVOIX

A look at the new building

The First State Bank of Charlevoix first announced plans for the new $200,000 bank building on May 13, 1968.

The new bank, located on the northwest corner of State and Clinton streets, was designed by Architect Jack Begrow.

The new bank has many significant features. One is the community room, located in the lower level of the new main office of the bank. This room will be available to all interested groups in the Charlevoix area.

The new bank, which is carpeted throughout, has private loan offices in addition to the familiar loan platforms, board room, bookkeeping, and drive-up window. A heated red sidewalk under the north canopy will continue to carry on the tradition of warmth and cordiality well known to customers of the First State Bank.

A raised hearth fireplace which will burn constantly, and a receptionist located right in the lobby of the new bank will add to the friendly atmosphere which has become a trademark of the First State Bank.

Reaches milestone

The First State Bank of Charlevoix recently reached a significant milestone in the bank's 64-year history. For the first time in history the bank passed the five million dollar mark.

When the announcement was made, Jerrald H. Redeker, then executive vice-president, stated that this achievement was believed impossible just 16 months ago, when the total footings of the bank were only $3.4 million.

To thank the community for their confidence and support, First State Bank gave away a beautiful AM-FM transistor radio to the lucky depositor representing the $5,000,000 person, Al Smith of Charlevoix.

First State 'firsts'

The First State Bank of Charlevoix takes credit for a number of "first", which prompted the change of name from The Charlevoix State Savings Bank on November 6, 1968.

The First State Bank was the first bank in the State of Michigan to offer $3.50 per hundred per year financing of consumer goods. Although this rate has been changed due to increased costs of money, First State still is a leader in the state with its $4.50 rate to customers of the bank.

Charlevoix County's first drive-up window was opened by Mayor William Fochtman in January, 1968. First State led northern Michigan banks in offering 5 percent 90-day time certificates in handy passbook form, and First State is one of the few banks in the entire state with no service charges on checking accounts, personal or business, regardless of number of checks written, or balances maintained.

Another first which some customers thoroughly enjoy is the longer banking hours. The drive-up window is open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday thru Thursday, and from 9 am.. to 8 p.m. on Friday.

Bank's name

The Charlevoix State Savings Bank became the First State Bank last November after The Michigan Banking Commission approved changing the 63-year-old bank's name.

The name change was sought by the bank, and approved by the commission, due to confusion caused by the similarity of its name to the Charlevoix County State Bank.

Majority control of the bank was purchased a year ago by a group of Detroit area bankers.

During 1968, the bank's assets increased from $3.4 million to $4.2 million. The amount of unearned interest (interest due on maturity of outstanding loans) increased from $13,000 to $114,000.

Chuck Themm and Jerry Redeker admire original oil by Grand Rapids artist Paul Collins. Oil is one of two purchased from Collins at Water Front art fair.

Bank begins art collection

When the Waterfront Art Fair opened in Charlevoix this summer two men were awaiting it eagerly, bank president Jerrald Redeker and architect H. Jack Begrow, for they were meeting to select some paintings for the new First State Bank of Charlevoix, and they wanted to select them from the many fine paintings exhibited at the local art fair.

The men went over to the fair early in the morning so they would have the best choice of painting for the new bank. Visitors to the bank can see for themselves the start of a very fine art collection.

Jerrald Redeker chose for his office an outstanding painting of a yellow caboose translated into oils by Paul Collins. The yellows in this painting pick up the golds and wood paneling in Redeker's office.

Paul Collins is an artist who is drawing greater attention each year. He is from Grand Rapids and his reputation is soaring.

Another Paul Collins painting which the bank purchased is one titled The Old Scow. This hangs in the public lobby and visitors may recognize the scene for it is of an abandoned fishing boat which still lies in a field in the Frankfort region.

Ron Farrell is an exhibitor from Bremen, Indiana, who has been showing at the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair for many years. The bank selected two of his watercolor paintings for they seem to depict scenes which are familiar to northern Michigan residents.

Actually his scene of boats in the harbor at Nantucket might have been cast in the Charlevoix harbor for the scene is so similar. This painting hangs in the lobby of the bank.

Another Ron Farrell painting is a winter scene of ice fishing shacks dotting a frozen lake. This painting could only have been done by someone who loved the forlorn winter scene as much as local people do. This watercolor hangs in the bookkeeping office.

Visitors to the bank are bound to notice the beautiful frames on the paintings. Redeker prevailed on artisan Bill Garten of Charlevoix to frame the paintings in shipwreck wood, which he had salvaged. Surely this type of framing is in keeping with a northern Michigan public building.

See Bank Page 6

Building goals met in modern bank

When bank president Jerrald Redeker, members of the banking board and architect Jack Begrow first got together to plan the new First State Bank of Charlevoix building they decided on a set of goals which they wanted to achieve in building the new bank building.

The building must be monumental. It must be bold. It must be transparent.

The building must be monumental, for a bank building should be the focal point of community business life.

The building must be bold, to reflect the bold financial policy of the bank's officers and directors.

The building must be transparent so that the vault can be seen from all sides for the sake of safety and of friendliness.

When the final design was drawn and the building completed these men were happy in the knowledge that their goals had been achieved and at an amazing cost of twenty-five percent less than the average national cost for new banks.

The front of the building was designed with an attractive courtyard complete with benches and plants so that it could serve as a public gathering place. At the rear is a drive-in banking window. To the side is an entrance for public use especially to the community room.

The exterior of the building is intense brown and brilliant white surrounded by a band of white marble chip stucco. It is a building that can be easily distinguished from others in the area.

Inside, the bank building is airy and bright. Natural light streams through the many windows which are polarized so that there is never any glare. The tellers can be clearly seen and the loan desk is placed right in the main lobby rather than hidden behind a wall.

Because at its former location on Bridge Street the First State Bank offered red carpet services and plans to do the same in its new location, the bank is carpeted with warm red carpet from the threshold to the tellers' desks. The whole lobby, the lower walls, and even the island check writing stand are carpeted in red.

Red gives a feeling of warmth, but never temperature, for this new building is fully air-conditioned for year around comfort.

In the main lobby is a fireplace where the officers hope that friends will gather during the winter months.

The interior finishes in the lobby are teak veneer and white oak. The massive beams are of laminated Georgian pine. These fine finishes give a feeling of elegance to the building as well as providing a northern Michigan timber look.

In President Redeker's office hangs this Hugh Riker sketch. Riker has been commissioned by the Bank to do two more to provide a panoramic view of Charlevoix's harbor.

FIRST STATE BANK OF CHARLEVOIX

In the 111 State Room, which is devoted to the community, Bob Miles a Charlevoix photographer has assembled a collection of old and new photographs of Charlevoix. Like the paintings on the main level this is just the start of a collection which the bank plans to increase every year.

These paintings definitely enhance the beautiful interiors of the First State Bank. This bank is the first large building in the area to be furnished with Steelcase furniture. Such touches as smoke glass tables trimmed with ember chrome rather than polished chrome add to the elegant simplicity of the entire bank building.

Bank

The wood finishes are even carried into the area of the vault. This vault is probably the most elegant in the north boasting a paneled wall and carpeted floor.

Jerrald Redeker, the bank president, was largely responsible for the floor plan of the new bank building and he planned the space for the large community room in the basement of the new building.

This community room has been designated the 111 State Room and it is free to the public for meetings and gatherings. The room can be reached by an outside door separate from the bank lobby so that it can be used after banking hours.

Room 111 can accommodate a group of 130 people, is well lighted and is furnished with tack boards and chalk boards for lectures and programs. The community has self contained facilities.

Adjoining the 111 State Room is a fully equipped residential kitchen so that groups meeting in the room can serve refreshments. This kitchen is furnished with a TV and is so large that it could accommodate a small meeting if the community room were being used by another group.

Now that it is completed the First State Bank Building of Charlevoix is proving to be a well-functioning and beautiful addition to the community just as its president and board of directors hoped that it would be.

These members of First State Bank's bookkeeping department utilize the latest equipment to do work swiftly, accurately.

The 1970 light-your-fire Buicks are here.

They're just for you. The cars you've been asking for. From Buick 1970.

This one is the GS 455. Sleek, sporty, exciting.

Its engine? 455 cubic-inches. 350 horses strong. With a four-barrel carburetor that breathes through real air-scoops.

Four on the floor? A finely tuned 3-speed automatic? Both are available. Power disc brakes. Positive traction differential. High performance rear axle ratios, too. And lots more.

Wide-tread fiberglass belted tires that are standard on all 1970 Buicks give improved traction during braking, cornering and acceleration; significant increases in tread life; and substantially superior resistance to road hazards. Side guard-beam construction for added protection. Body by Fisher.

There's luxury, too. Bucket seats, if you want them. Full carpeting.

New building shows warmth

First State Bank of Charlevoix will stage a "Move In" this Saturday, as their new building at 111 State Street becomes occupied.

The new building, tastefully designed and furnished, will provide the North with the most modern, up-to-date banking facility possible. Added customer services and courtesies will be available in the new building, making banking a pleasant, relaxing experience.

The Board of Directors and Officers of the Bank have invited all area residents to visit the new facility at their earliest convenience.

Greeting visitors in the lobby will be the First State receptionist. Breaking with tradition, she will greet customers not from behind a railing, but from an open desk near the entrance.

From this first noticeable "difference" to a red carpeted drinking fountain, First State Bank will reflect an atmosphere of warmth, cordiality and relaxed, but complete, service for its customers.

Completely air conditioned

When you enter the new bank building during the summer months you'll be "calm, cool and collected" with the automatically controlled air conditioning. Summer or winter, First State has installed equipment to keep visitors comfortable.

Deluxe carpeting

Carrying through the Bank's history of "red carpet" service, the interior of the new structure is completely carpeted in plush red.

This theme doesn't stop with the floor, either. The carpeting is found on dividers, check writing stand, swinging doors to various departments, the drinking fountain and even throughout the vault.

Customer parking

Parking problems experienced on Bridge Street were not overlooked by Bank officials. They have provided 20 parking spaces for customers at the side and rear of the State Street address.

Bank President Jerry Redeker stated that ample customer parking was a "must" when plans were being drawn. He also noted that plans have been made for future expansion of the parking area when it becomes necessary.

No waiting for checks

Personalized checks have become commonplace in the past decade, with name, address and account number imprinted on each check. Until recently, there was a delay to customers as the checks were sent to a printer for the work.

First State announced last week that the delay had ended. The Bank has installed a check printer, and personalized checks will be created for customers while they wait. . . .a matter of minutes for a job which used to take about two weeks.

Community room

The general public hasn't been forgotten by First State building planners. At the basement level, the Bank has provided a large Community Room, intended to allow organizations and groups to hold meetings, day or night. Named the "111 State Room," the meeting place will be offered free of charge.

In addition, complete and full-sized kitchen facilities have been included adjacent to the room, which can accommadate 125 persons at once.

Those interested in utilizing the room should contact bank officials.

Courtesy corner

For customers who desire the use of an adding machine or typewriter, the new building will house a Customer Courtesy Corner where these machines will be available.

This is thought to be a banking first in the area.

All new furniture

The new building has been furnished with a modern, comfortable decor. Steel Case furniture was chosen, and marks the first major Steel Case installation in Northern Michigan.

Certain to be one of the highlights of a visit to the bank is their large fireplace.

The gas burning fireplace will hold four "golden oak" logs. Many visitors may find themselves stopping at First State even when they do not have banking business to sit by the fire and relax.

Many other features

To list all the new features of First State Bank would be impossible in one story. Just as there are many new customer services in the new building, much of the tradition, and all the complete banking services of the past, will continue.

Some of these include:

Private offices for conferences.

The latest in protective equipment, including an alarm system connected with the local police department.

Drive-up banking window which allows customers to complete their transactions without leaving their car.

Overall design

Design of the new building has been carried out in the modern mode, representative of the modern, up-to-date approach to banking at First State.

The interior provides an easy, relaxed, cordial atmosphere between customer and banker.

Keeping tradition alive, a portion of the sidewalk surrounding the new building will be red, just as it was on Bridge Street.

And, for those who wish to continue banking at the Bridge Street address, a walk-up window will be maintained.

Charlevoix's old Library of 1909 has been remembered in the new building, too. The cornerstone from that structure has been placed at 111 State Street.

First State Bank's "Move In" opens a new banking era in the North. From the old library cornerstone to plush modern appointments in the new structure, First State has combined progress with tradition to provide the area continued achievement.

Wilson hit by shrapnel

Lt. Col. (Ret.) and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson of Charlevoix reported that their son, Staff Sergeant Steven B. Wilson has been taken off the critical list after being wounded in Viet Nam. His condition is now termed "hopeful".

Sgt. Wilson was reportedly hit September 23 with shrapnel from air support units while on a reconnaissance mission near the Demilitarized Zone. His unit was reportedly in close contact with the enemy.

Wilson was paralyzed from the waist down and also took injuries in the arms and legs. He is expected to be evacuated to another hospital in seven days.

He is a 1964 graduate of Charlevoix High School and attended North Central Michigan College until he enlisted in the army in 1965.

Taylor resigns

Jim Taylor, city superintendent for the past ten years, has resigned from that position, effective near the first of the year.

Taylor, who is 65, said he is resigning to retire downstate.

He came to Charlevoix in 1959, following 35 years in municipal work in Hillsdale, Michigan.

Color Cruise October 12

The Third Annual Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Color Cruise will be held Sunday, October 12. The party will leave from the Beaver Ilsnader Boat dock aboard the Beaver Islander at 1:00 p.m. There will be free snacks, beverages and entertainment on the boat.

Passage tickets at the cost of $3 can be purchased at the Chamber of Commerce office or from one of its directors--Lyle Miles, Tom Action, Gordon Neff, Dave Julleret, Ralph Hess, Bruce Bartlett, John Schroeder, Larry LaGrow or Tom Hanna.

"This is a needed fund raiser which gives you an opportunity to help the Chamber in a small way and at the same time enjoy yourself," said chamber manager Wally Loder.

Youngsters from Charlevoix Elementary School have a new pet.....Chester the Iguana.

'Chester' thriving under hands of elementary school pupils

BY BERNICE WEXSTAFF

Among the students enrolled in the new elementary school in Charlevoix, Michigan, CHESTER, is undoubtedly the strangest of all foreign exchange students, and perhaps the most popular.

Born in South America, Chester lived in a tropical jungle until he was flown to Miami, Florida, to become the pet of young Shannon Ratigan who brought him to northern Michigan.

Chester, the Iguana was only eight inches long when he first saw the States. He arrived in a narrow box with holes punched in it to supply him with oxygen. Theerc was also a tropical hibiscus flower, not for ornamentation, but for food.

So with food at hand and fresh air to breathe, Chester was on his way to bigger adventures than his tiny mind could have conceived.

In the pet shop in Miami, Chester (then still unamed) caught the attention of Michigander Shannon Ratigan who at nine years of age was prone to sudden whims: Shannon had to have the little lizard for his own. The gray-green body and bright beady eyes fascinated the lad and by autumn the iguana had made the journey northward in a hamster cage where he was forthwith ensconced in the Ratigan home at 223 Park Avenue. Here he took up his life in a small glass display case beside a picture window overlooking the wild stormy scenery that is Lake Michigan in winter.

To date, humans have not been able to fathom the workings of a lizard's mind but if Chester is a sad saurian in his unaccustomed environment, he doesn't show it---Chester began clinging to and climbing the body of his young owner as though Shannon was indeed a tree in the Amazon forest. He still perches precariously on the lad's shoulder even though he is now more than three feet long---only a little less than Shannon's present height.

Chester's food is of course, furnished by his young master. No need for him to forage for subsistence when Master Shannon cares for him with an affection most youngsters reserve for pet dogs and cats. So instead of ending up on the dining table of some South or Central American family where iguanas are considered a delicacy equal to chicken, Chester lives high on the hog off his owner's heaping plate of salad and other tidbits.

Senator Tom Schweigert and Representative Bob Davis talk with school superintendents at meeting yesterday.

State legislators confer with northern school reps

Superintendents from schools in the 106th Congressional District met in Charlevoix yesterday with State Rep. Bob David and Senator Tom Schweigert.

Rep. Davis said he requested the meeting "to discuss the education reform program that the Education Reform Commission will recommend to the Legislature.

"Senator Schweigert and myself wanted to discuss the program and receive the suggestions and reactions from these school officials before the legislature debates the reform package.

"We gave these school officials a general briefing on what we think the probabilities of the program will be, although the specifics, even at this point, are not absolutely definite," Rep. Davis added.

Attending the meeting were representatives of schools in Charlevoix, Emmet, Antrim, Kalkaska, Otsego, Mackinac, Chippewa and surrounding counties.

Rex Milligan of Charlevoix public schools and Charles Robinson of the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District attended.

CHS class problems

Glenn B. Snider reported to the Charlevoix School Board that enrollment for this year was 600 students in the new elementary school, but that he expected more on the official count day.

He also commented on the progress being made at the new elementary school. He reported that there are still a few problems to be solved, but they are being taken care of as soon as possible.

Raymond O. Carr, principal of the middle school, reported on the enrollment and on a few problems that had risen on opening day but had been solved without too much difficulty.

Among the problems at the high school were those of co-ordinating extracurricular activities now that there are no class sponsors for any class except the juniors and seniors. This was one of the many cutbacks made by the school board when the millage failed to pass.

Mrs. Don Brown inquired about assistance from the P.T.A. in the matter and Smith said it was possible but that it would have to be done on a regular basis.

Charlevoix Hospital administrator Rollie Dudik holds plaque awarded hospital recently for 50 years of community service. Award was given by Michigan Hospital Association.

Medusa talks merger with Virginia company

Statements were released Monday by Medusa Portland Cement Company of Cleveland, Ohio, and General Stone & Materials Corporation of Roanoke, Virginia, indicating that discussions are being held between the two companies as to a possible merger of General Stone into Medusa.

Medusa manufactures gray and white portland cements, specialty cements, and aggregates. General Stone produces decorative marble and quartz aggregates, manufactures a terrazzo divider strip and related items, and imports marble. In addition, General operates sales and warehousing subsidiaries distributing these and other items to the building construction industry east of the Rocky Mountains.

Under the terms of the proposed arrangement, General Stone's stockholders will receive initially one share of Medusa common stock for each five shares of General Stone stock. Contingent on General's earnings for the fiscal years ending in 1970, 1971, and 1972, its stockholders can receive additional consideration ranging from zero to 25 percent of te initial consideration. The Medusa proposal as to contingent shares is limited by a provision stating that contingent shares will be issued only to the extent that the total market value of all Medusa shares issued does not exceed $4,510,000 in terms of the average market price of Medusa stock for the month of July, 1972. Medusa, traded on the New York Stock Exchange, closed at $29 on September 25, and General Stone, traded over the counter, was quoted at 5 - 5¾. Based on General's 408,489 shares outstanding and current Medusa market price, the initial consideration has a value of approximately $2,369,000 or approximately $5.80 per General Stone share. The contingent consideration, if earned, could add up to approximately $592,000 or approximately $1.45 per General Stone share based on the current price of Medusa stock. Medusa earned $2.25 per common share in 1968, against General's $.32 per share for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1969, and $.76 for fiscal 1968.

The proposed arrangement is contingent on final agreement as to terms between managements of the two companies, a federal income tax ruling, and the approval by Medusa's Board and General's stockholders.

Waterspout on Lake Michigan...photographed two weeks ago, this shot was taken from a distance of approximately one mile, with telephoto lens. Barely visible at waterline is spout; above it, cloud formation reaches down to touch spray. Spouts can cause damage, but reports of damage are rare in Northern Michigan.

Joggers!! Top this?

Jogging is just catching on in Charlevoix County, but it is kid stuff for the Tarahumara Indians in Mexico.

From childhood, the Tarahumaras, both male and female, are conditioned to run continuously for 100 miles. At a speed of six or seven miles an hour. At an altitude of 8,000 feet.

"These marathon demonstrations of really phenomenal endurance," says Dale Groom, M.D., "are convincing evidence that most of us, brought up in our comfortable and sedentary civilizations, actually develop and use only a fraction of our potential cardiac reserve." Dr. Groom teaches at the University of Oklahoma Medical Center.

There is another extraordinary fact about the Tarahumaras. Not one of the Indians could remember an instance when a runner ever dropped out of the race because of chest pains or shortness of breath.

Most sedentary Americans cannot run around the block without gasping for breath. Many people, in fact, feel shortness of breath.

Most sedentary Americans cannot run around the block without gasping for breath. Many people, in fact, feel shortness of breath with no exertion at all. For them, labored breathing--even if it lasts only a few minutes at a time--may mean trouble.

Shortness of breath can be a symptom of such respiratory diseases as asthma, emphysema, bronchitis, and pneumonia. It can mean heart disease with lung congestion. And smoking complicates--and sometimes causes--these problems.

For more information about shortness of breath, respiratory diseases, and smoking, contact the Michigan Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, 403 Seymour Ave., Lansing, 48914.

For hints about jogging, check with the Tarahumaras.

Writer gets first-hand look at forest fire

(Ed. note: The following story was written by Bill Mullendore, editor of the State's DNR magazine, Topics. He wrote the story after gaining on-the-spot fire-fighting experience while on vacation last month.)

BY BILL MULLENDORE

When I phoned the Pellston Field Office from my cottage at Douglas Lake that hot August 21 afternoon, I was only checking on a pair of sunglasses I had left in Fire Officer Carl Stahl's pickup during a fishing trip the evening before. Fire Officer Kurt Nathan answered:

"No, Carl's not here. He's on a fire west of town. Could be a bad one. I've gotta get out there right away with the tractor and plow. G'bye."

"Want to see what a forest fire looks like?" I asked my wife, and we got in the car. A menacing cloud of dark grey smoke off to the southwest gave all the directions we needed. Ten minutes later we were at the scene, just off a twisting sand trail. Through a choking haze we could see fountains of flame swallowing up small jackpines. The throb of Kurt's big "cat" sounded above the crackle of the blaze. Low overhead, a Department plane from Gaylord (piloted by Jim Knoll, I later learned) buzzed in tight circles.

Three other men, a boy and a collie dog stood in the road. We joined them, wondering what we could do to help. A Department fire truck charged through the smoke curtain. Carl jumped out, grabbed some shovels off the truck, and handed them to the other three men and myself.

"We need help back there, bad!" he explained. "The fire's about to jump the line. Get in there and try to keep it back." He gave my wife some more shovels and told her: "If any more men come along, give 'em a shovel and send 'em in." He and the truck disappeared back into the smoke.

We four ran along a fresh furrow dug by Kurt's plow into a tangle of pines which clutched at our clothes and hides. Amid the heat and smoke we could see patches of flame licking along the ground and up the trees. We began shoveling sand, snuffing out one hot spot and moving on to the next.

Out of nowhere came a voice: "You're doing great. Everything looks under control except the northwest corner." It was Knoll, radioing from his bird's eye vantage point. The radio receiver was in Carl's truck, hidden someplace in the smoke. Then I saw Carl wielding a hose, knocking the fire down out of the trees to keep it from "crowning," that most dreaded of all forest fire possibilities.

Suddenly there were no more flames, and we were back out on the road, having covered the semi-circle of the plowed line. Kurt was there, in the cab of the cat, sweat-soaked and soot-blackened, his face cut and scratched by the whipping pine branches.

"Rough in there," he commented. "Those jackpines are really thick." He called out to Carl, "I'm going to plow another furrow, just to be sure," and clattered off into the trees again.

Carl was busy on the radio, messaging Department crews and equipment on their way from Indian River and Cheboygan that their help wouldn't be needed, asking the Pellston Fire Department to replenish his nearly exhausted water supply and, finally, thanking Knoll for his aerial assistance.

"Boy, those planes really help," he enthused. "They can see the whole picture and tell us what needs to be done."

Carl, too, was sweaty and dirty but obviously pleased to have things under control so quickly and with only a small loss (later measured at two acres).

A radio call came from Kurt: "I need help back here quick! The cat's on fire!" Carl dashed away in the truck, the rest of us sprinting after him. We arrived to find Kurt standing beside his tractor.

"Bunch of pine needles got into the engine and caught fire from a spark," he explained. "I really threw sand there for a few minutes." He had scooped up the sand with his hands to smother the blaze burning dangerously close to the fuel lines.

Kurt finished his furrow, and we gathered again on the road. The water canteen went around and Kurt lit up a cigaret. "Just can't stand breathing this clear air, I guess," he joked.

Both men remarked on the almost total lack of wind that day, and I recalled there had been a good breeze blowing the two previous days. (It blew the next two days, too.)

"We were lucky," Carl said. "With a wind, that fire could have gotten away and given us a real rough time in those jackpines. It's pretty dry in there. We haven't had any rain for nearly a month."

The Pellston pumper rolled up, and Carl began transferring water to his tank. He and Kurt would be there for two hours yet, putting out smoldering embers and guarding against another outbreak. The rest of us turned in our shovels, were thanked and told we could go home.

Carl took the names and addresses of the other three men so they could receive the 75 cents an hour the state pays for civilian help on a forest fire. "Sorry, I can't give it to you, Bill," he said to me. "Department employees do this for free."

Then and there, for the first time, I understood the real meaning of the saying, "Every Department employee is a fireman when a fire breaks out."

I drove home with new respect for Carl Stahl and Kurt Nathan, and for all the Department's Fire Officers. I had known both men as friends for several years. Now I knew them as courageous, competent professionals in the dirty and dangerous business of fighting forest fires.

After a few hours fighting the flames, you feel like you could use a helping hand from Smokey.

'Chester' goes to school

Chester is probably a 142nd cousin of some huge dinosaur that onece roamed the earth. Like the dinosaur he moves slowly and he is timid and easily caught by hunters.

Although many iguanas are caught for exotic pets as well as gourmet delicacy, they are not particularly beautiful to behold. With a comb-like crest of scales down the middle of the back, a large flap of skin hanging from the throat and beady eyes that blink and stare without expression they in no way resemble a cuddly koala bear, a cocker spaniel or a Persian kitten.

But in spite of ugliness, Chester will be an education to the pupils of the Charlevoix elementary school. Chester will do more for the school than the school will do for him even though the pupils will take care of his daily physical needs.

Joyne (Mrs. Max) Hosmer, the school librarian and her husband are constructing a tall cage containing a sturdy tree for Chester's gymnastics. The cage will have wheels so that it may be easily moved from grade room to grade room where Chester will reside from week to week. During each week's tenure the children will furnish food, water and affection for Chester not only loves to eat, he also dearly loves to be stroked along his scaly back and flabby throat.

Scientists say there are over 2,500 species of the suborder Sauris. They range from the tiny six-inch clameleon to the stocky marine iguanas of the Galapagos Islands, the deadly gila monsters of the American southwest, to the forest iguanas of tropical and sub-tropical climates. The latter may attain a length of six feet. Chester could grow as big if he continues to thrive in captivity and the aggection of the Charlevoix elementary school pupils. However, Chester's diet of lettuce, celery, clover and bananas and grapes should be supplemented by a few nourishing insects from time to time.

Most lizards are loners... However, the marine iguanas of the Galapagos are gregarious and acres of iguanas have been sighted sunning themselves on the surf-side rocks of the island--apparently the last refuge of decimated prehistoric life now extant.

But, Chester is a loner and to date has seemed to be totally content in his association with humans who have kept him comfortable. A common iguana needs a temperature of 70 degrees or better for health. In colder temperatures iguanas become sluggish and dull...Below 35 degrees they soon die.

Hopefully, the automatic heating system at the school will not fail Chester who might well become the "star" pupil and attraction for many many years as he spreads himself nonchalantly on a stout branch of his own maple tree and unblinkingly accepts the attention of his young human contemporaries although they are unable to teach the over-indulged Chester to spell a simple C-A-T!

But should Chester fail to make it, other Chesters may be had from Florida pet shops for about $3.50 plus postage. A "Chester" is a bargain in many ways. Iguanas have teeth but unlike puppies they do not bite humans. In spite of their strong claws which they use for climbing they are not rough in play as is a kitten so they leave no raw scrathces on a child's tender skin.

Chester has learned to eat the whites of hard boiled eggs in lieu of his native insects and a mashed potato is also much to his liking. He was easily housebroken; a shallow pan in his cage did the trick and Chester trained himself.

There's little doubt but that this lizard is a very lucky iguana. He will never swing by his tail from some market hook in his native tropics. He will live out his life in a deluxe cage, a pet and a star pupil of Charlevoix Eelmentary School.

Earl Kalliosaarl, Petty Officer First Class will be at the Charlevoix selective service office from 9:30 to 10:30 every second and fourth Monday of the month.

Obituaries

W.C. Hull

Funeral services for William Charles Hull, 83, former resident who died Sunday at Hurley Hospital, in Flint, will be from the Winchester, Funeral Home today at 1 p.m. Rev. Elmer Faust will officiate and interment will be in Brookside Cemetery.

He was born in Charlevoix and went to Flint in 1918. He was employed by Buick Motors until retirement.

Survivors include his wife, Marie; a son, Clyde, of Fenton; one daughter, Mrs. Daisy Sigatus, of Petoskey; three brother, Joseph, of Charlevoix, Fred, of Norwood, Ruben, of Flint; a sister, Mrs. Liza Neal, of Petoskey; one granddaughter and four great grandchildren.

P.V. Silfven

Funeral services for Paul V. Silfven, 51, retired Ford Motor Co. engineer, were held at the Winchester Funeral Home at 1 p.m. Monday with the Rev. Duane Imig officiating. Burial was in Brookside cemetery.

Mr. Silfven, who had been in ill health for three years, died Thursday at the Charlevoix hospital a few hours after he had been admitted.

Born at Old Colony, Mich., March 2, 1918, he was married to the former Mildred Wiinamaki at Painesville, Ohio, in 1947. They made their home in the Detroit area where he was employed by the Ford Motor Co. until forced to retire in 1966 because of ill health. He attended Bethany Lutheran church here and was a member of the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club.

Surviving are his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Patrick (Patricia) Ryder of Flint and a son, Paul A., a student at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

Girl Scout sign-up

On Thursday, October 2, mothers who want their daughters to participate in the Girl Scout or Brownie program should register them at the City Hall between 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. or between 7 p.m. and 9 p.m.

Even those girls who were members of a troop last year or those girls who have filled out Brownie or Girl Scout applications for this year should be registered by their mothers.

This year there is going to be a Brownie troop in Bay Shore for girls from that area.

MOBILE HOME GAS FURNACE

Whisper Quiet — Easy to install

SIEGLER LEADERSHIP LINE

The Siegler Mobile Home gas furnace, available in two sizes, is designed to replace any mobile home furnace, oil or gas. The new "Zip Tube" burners are unusually quiet eliminating the noise of an oil gun or gas power burner. Installation is quick and easy. A universal sub base easily adapts to any floor opening. The furnace slides into position on a built-in roller bar and forms a positive seal with the sub base. Many quality Siegler features are built in: A rear mounted blower for noise reduction; solid-state pilot ignition; heavy gauge welded steel heat exchangers; total air filtering, and many more. The smartly styled cabinet is finished in Tahiti Tan baked enamel. For any mobile home furnace replacement, choose Siegler.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER
CHAMBER MANAGER

I don't intend to let you folks forget Chamber of Commerce Color Cruise, scheduled for 1 p.m., Sunday, October 12, from the Beaver Island Boat Company city dock downtown aboard MS Beaver Islander. This good time serves two purposes, one of which is a fund raiser for this Chamber of Commerce. A few weeks ago, I indicated in so many words that the Beaver Island Boat Company was cooperating very much and at that time I probably should have been more explicit, as it was called to my attention today and I most certainly regret that it was necessary. Accordingly, in an effort to help this C of C, the Beaver Island Boat Company is donating their boat service free of charge with hopes we will have a capacity crowd, donations from whom will bring about some of the dollars we are needing for the balance of this year. This staff, of course, is hoping for a good turnout so that it might attract again next year the splendid cooperation of the Beaver Island Boat Company. In reviewing last weeks article, another thing I had better make clear is that when persons make a $3 donation, it entitles them to a passage ticket for the boat. These tickets are collected at the gang plank and assist considerably in checking the number of passengers going aboard the boat, since there is a capacity of 200 persons as I understand. We have had 198 tickets printed. Therefore, first come, first served. Will see you aboard the Beaver Islander Sunday, October 12.

For you boaters, I read in Marine News issue September 19 that "Michigan water craft rules still unchanged." Be governed accordingly. I also read in the same issue of Marine News that Michigan opens automated fish hatchery. Isn't that something! The most efficient and fool-proof hatchery ever built in Michigan, the Platte River Anadromous Fish Hatchery, near Honor, officially became state property as of September 16, so say reports of the Department of Natural Resources. The Omega Construction Company of Grandville, Michigan, built the highly automated installment at a cost of $1,560,000. It also stated for the first year the hatchery will through sort of a shakedown, and that it will be operated below full capacity until next fall. Maybe the fall of 1970 or any time during 1971, this would be a good place to explore.

Since school has started this fall, I have heard a bit of pro and con having to do with "school bus law." Accordingly, it seems to me more people should actually become more familfar with the law itself instead of operating their vehicles more or less on a hearsay or "I thought" basis. I recently went over to our sheriff's office on this matter and was enlightened considerable. At that time I received a supply of an informative and good-looking booklet brochures, entitled "Charlevoix County Sheriff's Safety Guide." It, of course, has more to do, than with the school bus law alone. I am trying to find out from the actual law itself as certainly there must be two sides, one dealing with the operator of the vehicles other than the school bus. I should like to know what the law indicates having to do with the school bus driver, as it seems to me that it needs a guide rule also.

One thing of probably many that irks many people is that invariably the bus operators, for some reason or other, at just the instant they are to stop their bus, put on their red flashers. Need I say more? You may call at this office if you are interested in picking up one of these sheriff's booklets or call at the Sheriff's office.

A lot of people choose to blame our parking conditions mostly against our visitors and, or vacationers, etc. Now, businesses need people, and one of our functions is to attract them in and, therefore, there is a period of a few weeks there are a lot of people here coming and going and parking is a problem. Even after Labor Day there are times when parking is a problem also. Lately, I have remarks first handed that merchants themselves and employees are parking more conveniently for themselves and the shopper has the problem. Howz about that?

It might interest you to know that Michigan's Tourist Council at Lansing in their publication "Tourist Trends in Michigan" indicate that summer business through the middle of August, summer tourist business in the lower peninsula showed increases from 10 to 15 percent and in the upper peninsula from 15 to 18 percent, over the compliable 1968 period. Despite the seemingly healthy report, many operators still indicate a marked percentage in vacancies at motels and resorts and empty tables in restaurants. Tourist council chairman, Ralph Fuller says the key to remedying the situation is through greatly intensified promotion and remedying it at the state, regional, and local levels.

In a regular publication release from Chamber of Commerce of the United States at Washington, it was interesting to read an article by J. L. Jones president of the said Chamber of Commerce. This was headed "Slogans on placards won't solve our problems." It went on to say the trouble with placards is that the words have to be so big in order to be readable from a distance that you could not present an argument. All you can use are action words. "End Slaughter in Vietnam," "Save Our Schools," "Down With Cossacks," "The Poor Have Rights," "Keep Pigs off the Campus." These are hard to argue with because they are designed to be unarguable. They seek to clothe a point of view about a complicated problem in the shining armor of a truism. They call forth not brain power, but lung power, etc., etc. Stop by the office, if you wish, the article is on file.

One of the number in a news release also from the mentioned chamber above is one headed "Women are Wage-Earners for One-Fifth Households." Since mother is the bread winner, a recent survey showed that the bread is sliced thinner.

Library notes

There are some new highly-important and thought-provoking books on the Library shelves. They are being mentioned in this column so that, during the months ahead, both interested patrons and students may take advantage of them.

"The Writings of William James" is a very much needed collection of James' writings. Since the turn of the century, William James has been regarded as America's most original philosopher. This volume of his essays is the first comprehensive edition of his writings to be published in any language. Also included are autobiographical writings so that the reader has, in this book, the core of the lifework of William James.

Since its first publication in 1945, Bertrand Russell's "History of Western Philosophy" has been universally acclaimed as the outstanding one-volume work on the subject. In 76 chapters, he traces philosophy from the rise of Greek civilization to the emergence of logical analysis in the 20th century. There is an excellent and detailed index.

"Natural Meditation" was written by Philipp Dessauer who since 1945, has engaged as a spiritual director in Munich and has written much material on the borderline between theology and psychology. The author feels that contemporary man is curious about meditation, but he points out that man must first know what it is to meditate. In this small volume he explains in simple terms the meaning of meditation and why it is necessary for a fully human life.

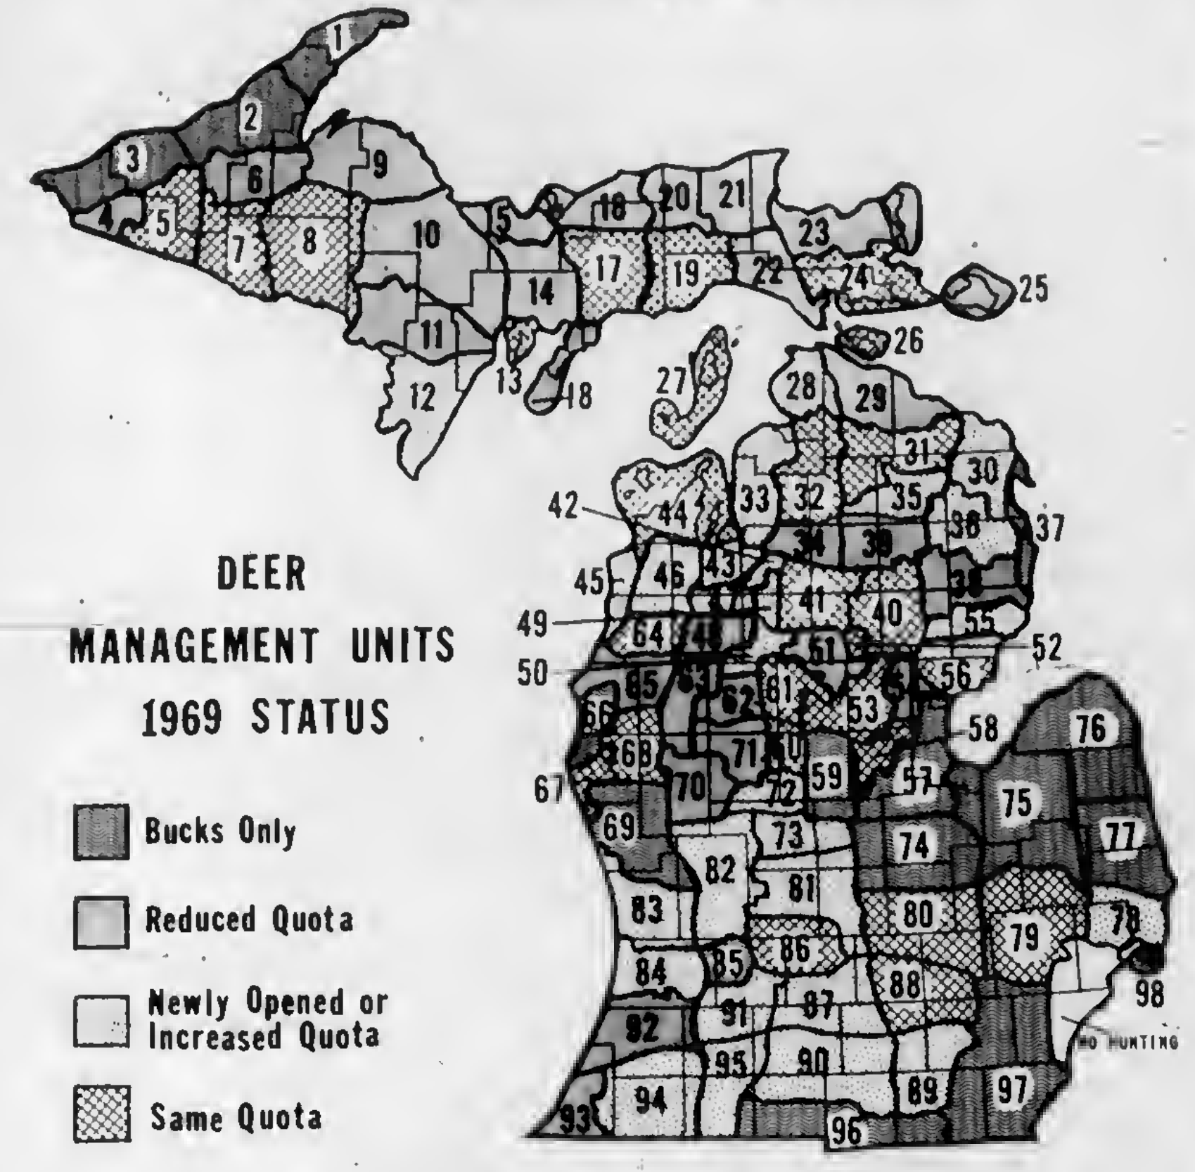
New Deer Management Units



DEER MANAGEMENT UNITS 1969 STATUS
Bucks Only
Reduced Quota
Newly Opened or Increased Quota
Same Quota
NO HUNTING

These 98 permanent deer management units were established this year by the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to further refine its programs keyed to Michigan's deer herd and range. For hunters, the new system should be more convenient because unit numbers and boundaries will remain essentially the same from year to year. The plan, too, will promote more flexibility in deer regulations because these rules can be better tailored to local situations by working with more, but smaller management units. The stabilized units will allow DNR game men to make better year-to-year comparisons of the kill and hunter success in each area and provide more accurate guidelines to work from in shaping deer hunting regulations. Each of the new unit's ownership of land, cover types, land-use patterns, and climatic zone were carefully weighed to form close-knit and clearly-defined management tracts which, as such, will also lend themselves to effective wildlife habitat improvement work. Of the 98 units, 83 will be open to antlerless deer hunting this fall under a permit system scaled for a harvest of about 45,600 animals. The projected antlerless deer kill for this season is slightly less than last year's. As shown here, units 1-3, 37, 57, 59, 66, 69, 74-77, and 96-98 will be limited to bucks only hunting during the 1969 firearm deer season. After buying their 1969 deer licenses, hunters have through September 30 to mail applications for nearly 200,000 antlerless deer permits to the DNR's Lansing office. Those seeking permits for the Beaver Islands Wildlife Research Area, listed as Area 27, are urged not to make mail applications. Instead, they will find an unlimited number of permits available on a "come-and-get-them" basis at the DNR's Beaver Island field office at St. James right before and during the November 15-30 season. --Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

Cooperation builds bank

(Ed. note: First State Bank of Charlevoix held its Grand Opening last Friday at the new 111 State Street building. The story below concerns construction of the building.)

BY PAT BEGROW

Many men of the Charlevoix Community cooperated to build the new First State Bank.

The contractor was John Apfel of Bellaire who assigned a local man Clyde Polaski of East Jordan to supervise the project. Even an untrained eye can see that Apfel Construction did an admirable job.

On this building Ralph Hess of the Hess Furniture Company employed an innovation in carpet installation when his men skillfully laid carpet up the walls of the teller booths and around the sides of the island check writing desk. Hess also used carpet at the floor bases that line the bookkeeping rooms and offices. To see this finished project along is worth a visit to the bank.

Don Bogart, who owns Bogart Electric, employed the skill of his brother Carl and his son Edmund to help him install the conduit lines for the alarm system and the telephone lines, and to install over 100 light fixtures in the building.

There are 76 recessed lights in the new bank which is a high for the whole region.

In front of the building is a quartz lighting fixture which throws a powerful umbrella of light over the front of the building. At the north side of the building where the parking lot is located are two powerful quartz lights which will melt the snow off the entry walks during the winter months.

This building is wired so that eventually TV cameras can be set up to microfilm every person entering the bank.

The First State Bank Building was air-conditioned by Northern Plumbing and Heating owned by Don Ballard of Petoskey. The air-conditioning equipment has been placed on the roof of the building to minimize the noise. There the fans can blow the heat up and off of the building. In total there is enough electrical power pouring into the bank to run a small factory.

Pat's Reaction

Annual visit

My parents' yearly two day excursion from Cleveland or Florida to Charlevoix always brings me good luck. Besides their visit other nice things always happen on that day, unexpected things or else things that I have been waiting to have happen for months.

One summer day when they came I bounced out of bed first thing in the morning with a whole list of fix-up, clean-up projects which I planned to finish before they arrived late in the afternoon.

But who arrived instead? Completely unexpectedly a very dear friend Johnny who is now in the navy. I was so glad to see him and the children were so glad to see him that we just dropped everything serious and did fun things for the whole day.

Another day when my parents came to visit it was December 23, and our whole household was caught up in the Christmas spirit. We had fixed up and decorated from outside to inside. When I left the house to pick up my parents at the plane I even left the dining room looking festive with the table set for dinner with crystal goblets, a Christmas ornament centerpiece and tall red candles.

I should have known that I'd done wrong, for when I arrived home with my parents the carpet men had arrived and dropped the carpets which we had ordered in October in the front hall. Nothing that I could say could dissuade my husband from slipping the lovely new carpet under the dining room table. The quiet elegant atmosphere that I had planned was shattered with tingling crystal and breaking ornaments.

I'm sure that the nicest thing that ever happened to me on visiting day occurred 12 years ago. I was living in Birmingham, Michigan, then and rushing around from morning 'till night taking care of two small children. My folks could visit me more often then and one day Mother left Cleveland at seven o'clock in the morning by train to visit me. At 7:05 I felt labor pains and by the time that she arrived at noon I was in the hospital awaiting the birth of our first son, Christopher. That little early bird had arrived three weeks prematurely and really knocked our plans for a loop. At least he had the good grace to wait at the hospital for a few days after I got home so that Mother and I could have our visit then.

Today I can hardly wait for my folks will be arriving late this afternoon. They've had open house to grandchildren this past summer so now it's their turn to have fun. My dad loves cheesecake so yesterday afternoon I got out graham cracker, cream cheese and sour cream and was just starting to prepare a complicated yummy cheesecake when guess what happened?

Two smiling male faces appeared at my kitchen door. Bruce and Louis knew that I'd be happy to see them for they had come to lay my new kitchen carpet that I'd been waiting for all month. For that afternoon they were just going to tear up the old linoleum, but they promised cheerfully to be back first thing in the morning to unplug all of my appliances and sand the whole floor. They'd be finished with the whole job in two or three days.

Of course I could have been courageous and said, "Go away, come again another day," but I didn't. After all, Dad will be back next year, and I'll make him a cheesecake then.

Woman's City Club plans fashion show

The Woman's City Club will hold its first meeting of the year on Monday, October 6, at the Weathervane Inn. This meeting will be a dinner meeting and will feature a fashion show with clothes from Polly Kay, the Carriage Wheel, Lieberman's and The Shop of the Gulls.

Mrs. W.R. Wood will be the commentator and music will be furnished by The Blazers. Models for the show will be Mrs. William Paddock, Mrs. James Williams, Mrs. Bruce Morgan and Mrs. Donald Berlage.

The cost of the dinner will be $3.75 and reservations must be made by October 2. No cancellations will be permitted after Saturday noon. A telephone committee will contact each member, but if for some reason any member or anyone considering membership in the club would like to join, please contact Mrs. Robert Barnum at 547-4145, or Mrs. Robert Martin at 547-6746.

At the meeting the constitutional amendment which was proposed at the last meeting in the spring will be voted upon. This amendment calls for only one type of membership the fee for which is $5. Since the membership is now open there will be no particular attendance requirements and the amount of participation in club activities is a matter of personal choice. Of course life memberships, requiring no dues will continue to be granted.

If members are paying by check for the dinner and the dues they are asked to make out two separate checks. Should the amendment fail dues collected before the meeting will be adjusted.

The ladies of The Little Flower Guild of St. Mary's Church are sponsoring a potluck supper and pantry shower for the Sisters of St. Dominic who teach at the school. They are inviting all of the ladies of the parish to attend the dinner which will be held in the school hall at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, October 2.

Miss Bruce bride of Russell Wisner

United Methodist church was the scene for the wedding of Janice Bruce and Russell D. Wisner.

Parents of the couple are Dewy Bruce Sr. and the late Mrs. Bruce and Mr. and Mrs. Russell D Wisner of Sault Ste. Marie.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Elmer Faust in the presence of more than 150 guests.

The bride, escorted to the alter by her fahter, wore a silk A-line gown, with a lace bodice.

Connie Funk served the bride as maid of honor and Joanne Powell as bridesmaid.

A niece of the bride, Angela Armstrong, served as flower girl and Timothy Bruce, the bride's brother, served as ring bearer.

Doyle Warner served as best man with Kelvin Wisner as groomsman. Ronald Sitzema and John Powell seated the guests.

A reception followed at Harmony Hall.

Farmers Home Admin. aids 5.2 million

Rural credit services of the Farmers Home Administration helped 5.2 million citizens during fiscal year 1969, James V. Smith, Administrator of the U.S. Department of Agriculture agency announced today.

Among those benefiting were members of 450,000 farm and other rural families who received loans or were using credit advanced in earlier years and members of 700,000 families included in associations using the agency's credit.

Funds totaling more than $1.4 billion were advanced by the Farmers loaned, $894.8 million, was provided by private lenders on an insured basis. The remainder was provided primarily from collections on loans made previously.

Repayment of principal and interest totaled $779.8 million, the largest volume in the 35-year history of the agency and its predecessor organizations. Loans outstanding on June 30 totaled $5.5 billion.

Administrator Smith noted that Farmers Home Administration credit, available only to those unable to obtain credit elsewhere, "is a vital factor in USDA's efforts to strengthen the economy of rural America and stem the tide of outmigration."

He provided these details of the agency's activity:

Some 13,702 families borrowed more than $277,120,000 to buy or enlarge farms and make major improvements on their property.

Soil and water loans totaling $5,021,000 were made to 989 individual farm families to develop, conserve and make better use of their soil and water resources.

A total of 51,020 families received loans of $276,099,000 to enable them to make operating adjustments of their farms and finance annual operating costs.

Another 20,686 family farmers were aided by $114,716,000 in emergency loans to restore their farming to normal in the wake of such disasters as flood, hurricane or drought.

Some 13,280 low-income rural families benefited from $12,938,000 in economic opportunity loans advanced to 4,878 individuals and 193 cooperatives.

Some 62 individual farm operators took advantage of a new recreation loan program and used $1,904,000 in financing to convert all or portions of their farms to recreation uses.

More than 57,600 families benefited from $512,090,000 in rural housing financing. These included $17,335,000 to construct or improve rental housing for senior citizens and low-income rural residents, and $8,534,000 in loans and grants to provide adequate housing for farm laborers and their families.

A total of $164,647,000 in loans and $24,983,000 in grants was committed to the construction or improvement of 989 rural water or sewer systems, which will benefit more than 1,200,000 people.

Also, 328 rural public bodies received $4,035,000 in grants to prepare comprehensive area plans for water and sewer systems.

Another 193,000 people will benefit from outdoor recreation facilities constructed or improved on a community-wide basis with $18,345,000 in loan funds. Watershed project loans totaled $3,700,000, and $16,300,000 was committed to grazing projects, soil and water conservation, irrigation, drainage, rural renewal and resource conservation and development.

The 3,000 counties of rural America are served by about 1,700 Farmers Home Administration offices.

Sheppard car burns

Glen Sheppard, former editor of the Charlevoix Courier, lost his 1967 Pontiac Sedan in a blaze Sunday morning. Sheppard reported to the fireman that he and his brother, David, were on their way to Lake Marion for a fishing trip when smoke was seen coming from under the hood of the car.

When he got out to check, it burst into flames. A passer-by called the fire department while he and his brother removed two .22 caliber rifles, a large amount of fishing gear, $1,500 worth of camera equipment and personnel belongings from the car.

The car was completely on fire when the fire department arrived and were unable to save it.

No one was injured.

A lot of cars cost more.
But few if any are really that much more car.
Which explains why more and more of the smart money is coming to Caprice.
Look what you get:
A big substantial 18-foot-long prestige car with a new 350-cubic-inch V8 engine, power disc brakes, Astro Ventilation, wheel covers, deep twist carpeting, posh appointments.
A remarkably roomy car, with a ride so smooth and silent you'll feel like Mr. Big himself.
Tell you what, though.
If you absolutely insist on a more expensive car, we won't stand in your way.
Go ahead and order air conditioning. Order stereo. Order tinted glass, power windows, 6-way power seat, our new Headlight Delay system.
Your Chevrolet dealer will happily help.

Superintendent's Progress Report

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT

Charlevoix Public School is approved by the State of Michigan for collection of tuition, accredited by the University of Michigan and is a member of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

The Charlevoix Schools are in the process of moving from over-crowded conditions into excellent facilities. The new elementary building is now in full operation and the remodeling of the middle grade school on Mason and Grant will be completed by January.

The voting of one mill for three years will permit our school to purchase the much-needed instructional materials for our boys and girls. We are now in the process of purchasing science equipment, library books, audio and visual aids equipment and other learning materials. Charlevoix is one of the few schools in Michigan providing ear-marked funds for this purpose. You, the voters of Charlevoix School District, are to be commended!

In 1968-69 our schools moved rapidly toward the material-centered concept of education, toward a school where children of all ages, abilities and interests, have materials and equipment to help them develop to their fullest capacity. Teachers of our system had special in-service training throughout the past school year to further their insight and knowledge of the concept of the materials-centered school and will continue their in-service training.

The Board of Education is planning a dedication of the new elementary building the latter part of October, and an open house in January for the middle grade building to give everyone an opportunity to see our new facilities. However, citizens of the Charlevoix School District are welcome to their schools anytime.

Respectfully,
Rex Milligan, Superintendent of Schools

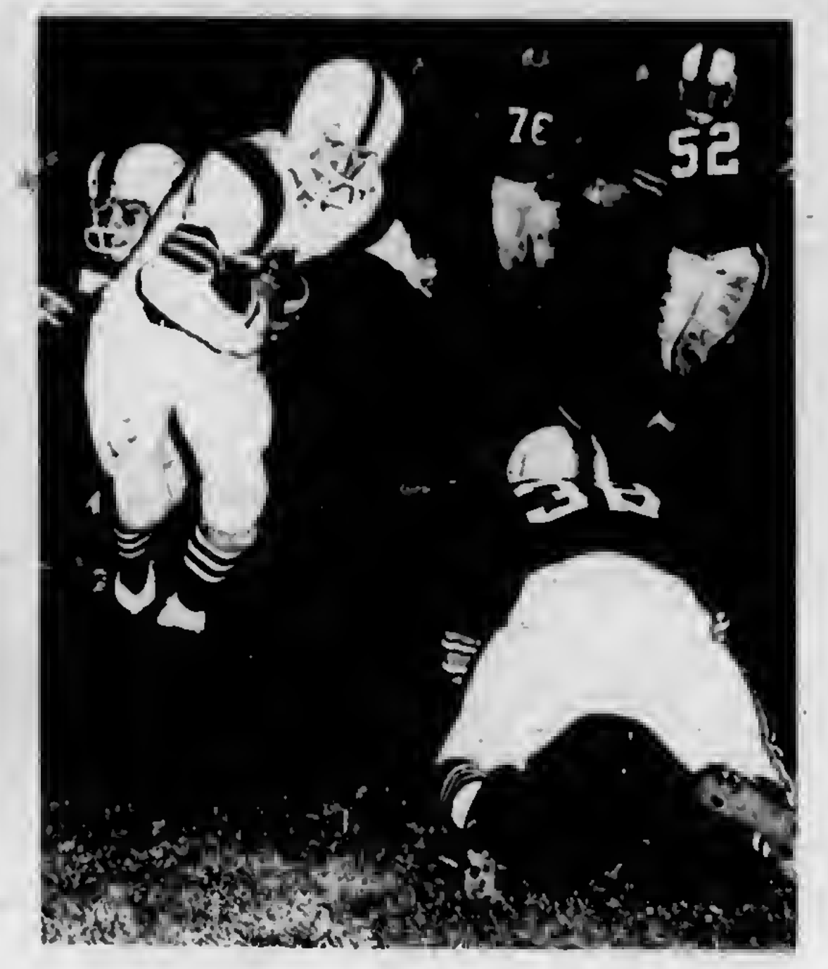
Rayders keep winning, dump Rogers City 24-12



Action shots of Rayder-Rogers City game by Fred Davison.

The game that was supposed to be the tops in the league last week, proved little of that, as the powerful Red Rayders rolled to a 24-12 win over Rogers City. Both teams went into the game undefeated, and most persons felt that the game would be close.

The Rayders opened the first period with George McClellan scoring from the one yard line. In the second period, Charlevoix scored again, with Stewart Coleman capping a sustained drive, by scoring from two yards out.

Rogers City prevented a rout, as they added a last second touchdown in the first half, as Randy Fairbanks scored at the buzzer. In the third period, Terry Pletsch's touchdown tied the score at 12-12, but in the final quarter, touchdowns by Coleman and McClellen made the difference.

The Rayders could once again find this weeks opponent strong. Cheboygan has been nursing several key injuries, and dropped a 12-0 contest last week to TCSF. From the looks of the league this year, there are no stepping stones on the way to the crown that are imbeded sturdy into the brook. At any given time a stone may slip, and a defeat would come. Yet the Rayders are taking them one at a time.

There are only two undefeated teams left in the conference, and after Friday night, it will remain that way. Charlevoix hands Cheboygan their second league defeat, 22-6.

John Brown finally hit the scoreboard, getting two touchdowns in St. Ignace's 34-8 romp over Alpena CC. The sturdy halfback, the leading scorer in the league last season, has been their leading ground gainer, but the scoring has been more balanced this year for the Saints, and they continue to win against league foes. This week they travel to Petoskey to face the Northmen, and once again expect to win big. Petoskey defeated Boyne City in a mild surprise last week, but just don't have the strength to match wits against the Saints. So Ignace wins by at least three touchdowns.

The Ramblers still seeking their first win, will tangle with Rogers City up at the Hurons home field. After racking off eight straight wins last season, it looks like a awful disasterous season for the Ramblers, and it looks like they have little chance of winning Friday. Both teams were expected to finish in the bottom half of the standings, and the Hurons were hurt over that prediction. In order to save face they must win games, and they are favored here, 22-13.

Alpena CC makes the long, 450 mile round trip to face the ferocious Manistee Catholic team. Last year it was so lop-sided, we won't mention the score. Both teams are improved, but the Manistee CC team boasts of almost the same team as last year, and they finished 8-1 then. Manistee is favored by at least five touchdowns, let's say, 38-6.

In the final league game of the week, TCSF for the first time in history, plays a football game on the Gaylord field. Gaylord has yet to get their offense in action, scoring only single touchdowns in their first two games. After a two week layoff, and preparing for the TCSF game by scouting several times, the Blue Devils will seek their first win of the year.

St. Francis finished in the cellar last year with a 1-7 mark, and dropped its opened to Gaylord, 27-12. The game this time should be much closer, but St. Francis avenges last seasons loss, 28-14.

Grape boycott

How has the grape boycott on the West Coast affected the American housewife? By keeping grapes out of the grocery store it has deprived her of an opportunity to make her own choice when she goes shopping. It has also permitted a secondary boycott to sneak in the back door as a labor weapon.

Secondary boycotts are outlawed under the National Labor Relations Act, but the union which is attempting to organize the California grape pickers is pushing the boycott because farm workers are not covered by the act.

The overall danger is that if secondary boycotts can be used to force compulsory unionism among grape pickers, then this same weapon eventually could involve any farm product that reaches the American table.

Richard Ralphs, board chairman of the National Association of Food Chains, said, "Recently the number of products or companies that many of us as third parties has reached almost epidemic proportions. And far too often the request that we participate has been accompanied by threats of violence and coercion of one form or another if we do not....

"We think the real question is not 'Who is right and who is wrong?' It is instead, 'Is it in the public interest to force the supermarket industry to sit in judgment on economic disputes of this kind?'

"We have come to the conclusion that it is not in the public interest that we become judge and jury in the 'product boycott-of-the-month club!"

The American housewife, as well as the farmer will undoubtedly agree.

Community Chest

Charlevoix's Community Chest drive has been underway for several weeks. One week ago, the residential portion of the campaign began.

Industry and business is very generous with their contributions. However, the final results of the drive...those which spell success or failure...depend on the individual contributor.

In this issue of the Courier there is a list of volunteers who are knocking on doors in quest of donations. The results they report to drive chairman Chuck England will tell the story.

Our Community Chest helps many agencies throughout the county. One check, one time, is all it takes. When you are asked to help by one of your neighbors, who is volunteering her time to call on you, GIVE.

Bureaucrats

The State Dept of Licensing and Regulations, with its weird handling of a downstate case, has done nothing to subtract from the generally accepted idea that government bureaucracies are frustrating animals to do business with.

It started over a year ago when at least four couples charged that a builder had bungled considerably when he built their homes. A state investigator inspected the homes and said he agreed, and the builder would have to defend himself at a state hearing. The investigator said a lot of other things which turned on the spigot marked "weird" at both the Detroit and Washington offices of the licensing department.

For instance, the investigator said a realtor then associated with the builder had broken a law. The licensing dept's top brass said we shouldn't have printed that charge. But, when asked point blank, they refused to answer, yes or no, whether a law had been broken—or even bent.

Then we asked when the hearing would be. The brass wouldn't say; they wouldn't even confirm that there actually would be a hearing. They clearly gave the impression that since one of the complaining homeowners had got his money back, and the builder had agreed to repair the others at no cost, and he apparently wouldn't be starting any new projects, -well, the whole thing might as well be slowly forgotten.

But now, almost a year later, the hearing had been set for Sept. 25. No explanation was offered for the long delay which was obviously unfair to the builder and to the public. Justice delayed is too often no justice at all. We don't know, but that year in limbo could have cost the builder business he didn't deserve to lose. Or it could have allowed the building of an inferior home.

The weirdest bit of all was revealed last week. Charles Harmon, director of the licensing dept., said the Sept. 25 hearing would concern possible violations involving his new building license. The old license, issued under his corporate name, expired last spring. But he got a new license, under his name only, last June.

Harmon wouldn't give any details as to whether the builder or anyone else might have done anything illegal. On the face of it, there seems to be no reason why he shouldn't have a license until the state officially takes it away from him through a fair hearing. A man is innocent until proven guilty.

Viewpoint!

Craft unions

BY JOHN REDDY

The Civil Rights movement appears to have focused on the degree to which black men can enter the traditionally exclusive craft unions. It is, indeed, a complex problem.

But I don't think it is a problem without a remedy.

In review, tradesmen use expensive equipment and costly supplies. Their skill impacts on the consumer to the degree that machinery can be cared for the materials used without unnecessary waste.

Time, too, is a major factor in building costs, accounting for a large part of expense. So, knowing what to do and how to do it right the first time is worth something to the contractor as well as the comsumer.

That these contentions are turn can be verified by asking any contractor—or new home buyer.

So the problem of the union leaders, manifest so clearly in recent weeks in Pittsburgh and Chicago, is to justify their leadership responsibility to the rank and file while attemptnng to resolve their responsibilities to society and the industry.

It is a fact that trade union district council officials have attempted to recruit Negroes with the help of black community leaders. But young people notice the lack of distinction between "capable" and "incapable" have greater opportunities in the job market than are presented by ridiculously low beginning apprentice wages.

Anyone capable of meeting existing craft examinations probably can qualify for some form of advanced education and direct their talents into the professional fields where the concept of prejudice is less noticable and therefore less discouraging.

During peak construction years, non-skilled Southern white were pulled into the trades for the price of a union card and by passing some simple oral questions.

There are many "skilled" tradesmen doing non-skilled work. More of these people could be black men if the rank and file were willing. But safeguards should be built in to assure that black men with ability to develop skills are not trapped in a second class category.

Holidays

With the last long weekend of 1969 just passed, unless of course, you're the type that will make Thanksgiving and Christmas into long, long weekends because they both fall on Thursday this year, you should be getting ready for 1970 and the new holiday law.

We now have eight official federal holidays: New Year's Day, Washington's Birthday, Memorial or Decoration Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Veterans' Day, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas.

As I understand the new law, Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day, Independence Day and Veterans' Day will all be celebrated on Mondays.

Since Labor Day is already celebrated on a Monday only New Year's, Christmas and Thanksgiving may in the future fall on other than a long weekend.

The new law sounds like a good idea because it allows people to really take advantage of the holidays, but it was opposed by the traditionalists who objected to changing significant dates and by men with large families and small station wagons who had tasted holiday traffic on I-75.

If the traditionalists had done their homework there would actually be few objectors.

As you look back in history only one of the eight holidays is actually celebrated on the proper day.

We celebrate Washington's Birthday on Feb. 22, but he was actually born Feb. 11, 1732.

Memorial Day or Decoration Day was inaugurated in 1868 to honor the graves of the Civil War dead. But the date is so important that it is now celebrated on May 30 in the North and depending on where you are in the South, on April 26, May 10 or June 3.

Even our July 4 is questionable for Independence day. The Continental Congress approved the resolution that "these united colonies are and of right ought to be free and independent states" on July 2, 1776 and the document called the Declaration of Independence was first publicly read aloud on July 8 in Philadelphia.

Veterans' Day is celebrated on the occasion of the Armistice after the first World War. But, we have had bigger and better wars since then so this date isn't sacred.

If it Fitz

From stardom to the tube

On one TV weekend I listened to Arnold Palmer announce golf, Mickey Mantle announce baseball, and some ex-fullback announce football.

That's a good deal. When a guy gets so old and battered he can't do his thing anymore, he watches some other guys do it and describes them on TV and radio. He is an automatic expert and automatically draws the wages of a top announcer. It doesn't matter if he can't talk. The important thing isn't if he slurs or stutters, but did he play the game?

Newspaper men should have it so good.

My typing fingers are getting stiff and I can no longer touch-type numbers without peeking at the keys. My left little finger was the first to go. More and more I aim it for the z key only to stub off the a key, thus producing only half a z. I could probably go on a few more years, but it is tough on a man's pride to produce half z's when, all his career, he was noted for typing clean copy, never leaving a tail off a g or the top off an l.

I'd like to quit while I'm on top, while the readers are still reading. I hate to fade slowly. It would be humiliating to have my family hear the readers grumble such things as "old Fitz can't reach his p's and q's anymore." But if I step down now, before I have 2 bad years back to back, it would be worse than humiliating for the kids — it would be undernourishing.

A splendid solution would be a well-paid TV job announcing weekly newspaper editing. It might be called Wide Wide World of Weeping Weakly, sponsored by an involved industry, such as Royal Typewriter or Seagram's Distillery. The camera and I would follow the editor-of-the-week as he performs his daily tasks. My play-by-play description would go something like this:

"Good afternoon, ladies and gentlemen, welcome to the Wide Wide World of Weeping Weakly, brought to you today from the office of Sam Inkstain, editor of the Lum Bugle. I must whisper like this because I'm only a few feet from Sam and I don't want to wake him up.

"Oh-oh, here comes a customer through the door. As you can see, she is a rather big woman. She is putting several sheets of paper on Editor Sam's desk. From here, it looks like a wedding story. Yes, it is. I don't know if you could hear that or not, but the woman told Sam to publish the entire story, and not to change a word.

"Now the woman has left and Sam has begun to edit. Notice the firm, slashing stroke of his black pencil as he knocks out whole paragraphs at once. There goes the description of the bride's gown. Out goes the name of the organist. Will you look at that folks? Without a second's hesitation, he has crossed out what the bride's mother wore to the reception. And—omigosh — there goes the name of the aunt who baked the wedding cake.

"Folks, as you know, I was in the editing business for years so I can appreciate the bravery of what Sam has just done. He has not played it safe. He has gone all out to make room for the important news, in this week's paper. He doesn't care if that big woman is married to one of his biggest advertisers. Sam appears to be going for the Pulitzer today and he just might make it, barring injuries."

That's just a small sample, but you can see what a thrilling program it would be.. Just thinking about it makes my little finger ache — probably as bad as Arnold Palmer's hip.

ON THE 'FLIP' SIDE

Last week, Flip Side presented several salary figures for teachers in a downstate area. The response has been strong. Residents and teachers have asked for more. So, we have been able to come up with additional salary schedules, this week from Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills, West Bloomfield and Troy.

In addition to starting salaries, we are also printing the "steps" of the salary schedules through the twelfth year of teaching.

Charlevoix residents will find that state trends will be most important when local negotiators meet with the Charlevoix Education Association this year to agree on a pact for the 1970-71 teacher contract.

Obviously, to recruit good teachers, and retain in our system those who have demonstrated ability in the classroom, we must pay comparable salaries.

Out of the past

2 years ago

City housing was at its peak with Charlevoix, adding 49 homes to the immediate area. In January, 1966, 37 new permits were issued for construction of homes.

More electricity had to be purchased from Consumers Power to accommodate the increase of nearly a half-million Kilowatt-hours.

East Jordan school board approved a $123,000 budget for the 1967-68 school year.

Clifton (Kip) F. Sundberg was appointed to the City Council with the unanimous endorsement by the group.

Hunting and fishing successes were worth the effort two years ago. Dave Juilleret caught a 15-pound Steelhead in Lake Charlevoix, while Harry Adams met with success in nailing a 93 pound doe on Beaver Island with a bow and arrow.

5 years ago

Charlevoix Township was fighting annexation of Medusa property to the city, consequently losing taxable property. The purpose of the annexation was actually to give the city jurisdiction over Medusa's possible smoke pollution.

Road signs were erected on primary roads in the rural district. It was reported that some people didn't know what the name of the road they lived on.

Results of the Charlevoix slogan contest made it hard to determine a winner. Numerous slogans were entered and many were good in describing Charlevoix. The slogan "Charlevoix the Beautiful" remained most popular.

Charlevoix Democrats predicted getting half of the county's votes for Lyndon Johnson. The statement was based on two points: 1., Johnson's popularity and distrust for Goldwater; 2., The large number of local residents openly admitting their support for the democratic party.

10 years ago

Consumers Power Co. anticipated future development in the area, stating that they thought "Michigan is the most attractive area in the U.S. and the most dynamic...it has potentialities for progress and prosperity far exceeding those of almost any region you can name."

A Spend-A-Dollar and get a Buck promotion program had its final touch added Friday, Oct. 2, at a 7:30 breakfast at Mont's restaurant. The purpose of the program was to increase business in the downtown stores of Charlevoix.

The 1959 Community Chest Drive opened Monday, Oct. 5, to raise $9,823.06 for 12 different agencies.

Booster Bowl Sat. attracts 12 bands

Twelve High School Bands from across Northern Michigan will converge on Petoskey October 4 to take part in the Band Marching Clinic to be conducted by Central Michigan University Band Director Norman Dietz. The Clinic is being held in conjunction with the first annual Northland Booster Bowl football game to be played the same day.

Les Davies of Hanna's Music, the sponsor of the clinic, has said that bands will arrive from Harbor Springs, Central Lake, Johannesburg, Gaylord, Rogers City, Inland Lakes, Mackinaw City, Charlevoix, Boyne City, East Jordan Grayling and Petoskey. In all, more than 700 student musicians will be here. The marching clinic will be held at the new Senior High School practice field.

The Petoskey Boosters Club has announced that tickets for the football game between the freshman squads of Northern Michigan and Central Michigan Universities have gone on sale at Northern Michigan High Schools. Students are advised that advance tickets will cost only $1, while all tickets at the gate the day of the game will be $2. The Central Michigan Marching Band will perform before the game and at halftime. Adult tickets are avialable at Petoskey business places and will also be available at the gate at Curtis Field.

The Boosters Club is raising funds for improvements to Petoskey Athletic facilities. The Band Clinic is being offered as a service to area high school bands.

Mr. and Mrs. William Haggard and daughter, Diane, spent the weekend at their home here and with his step-father, G.A. Shadko. They are living in East Lansing where Mrs. Haggard is completing work on her degree and Mr. Haggard is attending night classes at Michigan State University.

Among freshmen enrollees at Michigan State were Nancy Carr, Kathy Klooster and Dana Dinwiddie who were taken to sourthern Michigan by their respective parents.

Tourist assn.meets

The Tourist Affairs committee of the Michigan House of Representatives and other leaders of the legislature will hold hearings at Boyne Highlands at Harbor Springs at 10 a.m. Saturday, October 4, when resort operators and others interested in legislation effecting the tourist industry will have an opportunity to present testimony, ask questions, and confer with committee members.

The hearings are under sponsorship of the Petoskey Regional Chamber of Commerce and West Michigan Tourist Association.

Wesley B. Tebeau, secretary-manager of the tourist association, and Merle C. Lutz, manager of the Petoskey chamber, have co-operated in arranging the conference with the legislators.

Area tourist industry receives first-hand look from legislator

Special to the Courier

Legislation to promote year around tourism in Northern Michigan was discussed Saturday at Boyne Highlands by tourist promoters, businessmen and state legislators.

Prior to the meeting, several of the legislators stopped in Charlevoix to join the Great Lakes charter group for a fishing trip.

State Rep. Leonard Walton last Friday left his Detroit-area district to get a first-hand look at tourism in the North.

He like what he saw. "Tourism is good for business and good for government," the representative told the Courier.

Concerning the Boyne meeting, Walton said the gathering was to determine "what is needed for the tourist industry. We want to talk to businessmen in the area before the house acts on legislation which would stimulate Northern Michigan tourism. Right now, of course, there is much interest in the sport fishing coho boom in Lake Michigan and, in the Charlevoix area, expansion of public parks and camping grounds.

"We are also very interested in discussing possible legislation which will develop the skiing and snow mobiling industry," Rep. Walton added.

Captain Jim Bishop works on Great Lakes Charter Boat, while State Representative Leonard Walton and wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Komas, Walton's aid, prepare for trip in search of coho last Friday.

Mystery of Golopagos will be topic of FOL

"Considering the small size of these islands, we feel the more astonished at the number of their aboriginal beings and at their confined range. Seeing every height crowned with its crater, and the boundaries of most of the lava-streams still distinct, we are led to believe that within a period, geologically recent, the unbroken ocean was here spread out. Hence, both in space and time, we seem to be brought somewhat near to the great fact – that mystery of mysteries–the first appearances of new beings on earth."

Charles Darwin

A slide talk of the Golopagos Islands will be the highlight of the annual meeting of the Friends of the Library on Wednesday, October 15 at 8 p.m. at the main library on Clinton Street.

"There will be a short business meeting," says the Rev. Hewitt Johnston, chairman, "followed by an entertaining and informal slide-talk given by Mrs. William Eisendrath describing her recent trip to the Colopagos Islands." These volcanic islands, off the coast of Equador in South America, are the scene of Darwin's early discovery of the theory of evolution.

Everyone is welcome to attend this informal slide-talk, after which refreshments will be served.

The speaker, Erna Eisendrath, recently retired as associate professor of botany at Washington University in St. Louis, Mo. She's the Historian for the Missouri Botanical Garden, and a well-known summer visitor in Charlevoix for many years. Mr. and Mrs. Eisendrath plan to spend half their time on their farm on the south arm of Lake Charlevoix from now on. The rest of their time will be spent traveling both here and abroad.

"The object of the Friends of the Library," says the Rev. Johnston, "is to provide the plus services for our library–items that are not in our budget, but are so necessary to make the program meaningful to the community.

"For instance, we're proud to announce that this year through the activity of the friends we have received numerous valuable books, including, co-incidentally, two large and very beautiful volumes about the Golopagos with many full-page colored photographs entitled, 'The Flow of Wildness' published by the Sierra Club. (These volumes were given by Dr. and Mrs. Harry Broder in memory of Kathe Silberman).

"And just this month we received two unusual gifts. One is a complete set of Encyclopedia Brittanica from Mr. and Mrs. Charles Benton of Evanston, Ill., who are Charlevoix guests of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Edelman."

Librarian Dorothy Olmstead says, "Oh, yes, we had a copy of the Brittanica on our shelves dated 1939–but the 1969 edition really fills in some vital gaps from Alaska to Vietnam. We'll use the old set for checking out–there's still a lot of good information there prior to 1939.

Color Cruise this Sunday

Chamber of Commerce manager Wally Loder issued a statement today, reminding residents that the annual Color Cruise is slated for Sunday, October 12, at 1 p.m.

"We would like to see the Beaver Islander filled to capacity," Loder said. "Tickets are still available at the Chamber office or from any C of C director."

Loder also expressed the Chamber's appreciation to the Beaver Island Boat Company for donating the use of its boat.

Four plead 'guilty' to court charges

Three local men pleaded guilty to charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor in District Court last week. They were: Edward L. Holm, Julius L. Toth and Oscar B. Ward.

Michael Joseph Moore, 21, of Charlevoix, pleaded guilty to accosting and soliciting an immoral act. He had previously been charged with a more serious offense, but reportedly those charges were dropped.

Sentencing of the four will be October 27.

Don Anders takes over as Kiwanis President

Donald J. Anders, 102 Auld Street, Charlevoix, was installed as the new president of the local Kiwanis Club at ceremonies last night.

Anders, who has been an active Kiwanian for several years, succeeds Lorwin S. Corwin as president of the service organization. Anders, who represents Strout Realty in Charlevoix, was installed to the post at the organization's meeting at Staffords' Inn in Petoskey.

Also installed at last night's meeting were Albert Smith, South Bridge Street, Charlevoix, president-elect; Vane H. Smith, Carson Avenue, vice president; and Ralph S. Hamilton, 104 West Hurlbut Street, secretary-treasurer.

Named to the board of directors were Fred Paync, Edward A. Vogler, Fred Willis, Kit Carson, Charles England, Gerald Staublin and Raymond Carr.

In accepting the presidency, Anders pledged his administration to a "continuation of the community service projects which this club has sponsored in the past in the area."

Charles Sauer, past governor of the Michigan District of Kiwanis, was installing officer. He also installed officers of the Petoskey and Harbor Springs clubs at the joint meeting.

Taylor plans retirement 'close to family, friends'

James Taylor, Charlevoix City Superintendent, announced last week, plans to retire in January 1970. He has been Charlevoix's superintendent for 10 years.

Taylor worked at "much the same kind of job" in Hillsdale, Michigan, as he does not in Charlevoix. Getting his start in municipal services in Hillsdale, Taylor worked his way up through the ranks in his 35 years of service for them. He then moved to Charlevoix in 1959, where he has been living since.

Taylor and his wife plan to live near Hillsdale, close to both family and friends.

Enjoying the outdoors, he has purchased a farm in need of some repair, and has hopes of farming it. Another interest of his is electricity and tinkering with small repair jobs connected with it.

Concerning the goals of the next superintendent, Taylor feels that several things should be done. One is to build a new sewage treatment plant and to extend the sewer line into the southeast section of the city. Both projects need immediate attention, according to Taylor, and should be started as soon as possible.

Jim Taylor looks forward to relaxation and a bit of farming when he retires in January 1970.

Autumn scene

Mrs. Young work shown

BY BERNICE WEXSTAFF

The Fall attraction at the Charlevoix Public Library is the delightful autumnal painting of the road to Big Rock Point by Irene (Mrs. Earl) Young.

The scene is a riot of subdued orange which through the magic of Mrs. Young's artistry seems about to burst into flame at the first sunbeam. White birches and green pines lend an enchanting contrast that is reflected in the wet blacktop pavement.

Earl Young, with his extraordinary talent for embellishing beauty with more beauty has framed his wife's painting with lichen covered aged wood that complements the aret work to perfection.

Mrs. Young's talent extends far beyond the transfer of local scenes to canvas. .. She is equally famous for her pictorial maps and her portraits of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln which hang in the court room of the Charlevoix County Court House. These portraits were done on assignment of county officials and were dedicated with the formal dedication of the new county building on August 30, 1959.

Mrs. Young's maps are fast becoming collector's items. Three in number, Charlevoix-Emmet area, Mackinac Island and Grand Traverse area, they are unique and much prized by those fortunate enough to possess them.

Mrs. Young received her training at the Art Institute in Chicago after which she became art supervisor in the Long Island, New York schools. She paints not only on canvas, but china as well, and through the years has continued to evidence a remarkable talent of which Charlevoix is justly proud.

MRS. ROBERT S. ODMARK

Couple residing in Arlington. Virginia

Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Odmark are residing at Arlington, Va., following their recent marriage at Garden City and wedding trip through Canada and the East Coast.

The couple was married at the First United Methodist Church in a double ring ceremony in the presence of 250 guests. The Rev. John Howell officiated at the service before an altar graced with arrangements of white gladioli and mums and lighted tapers. Ruth Peerbolte, at the organ, played a program of traditional music and accompanied a French Horn quartet in the music of Bach and Wagner in the processional. Louis Davis was the soloist. All are students at the University of Michigan School of music.

The bride is the former Donna Jo Kasten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Kasten of Garden City. Odmark is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Odmark.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of white silk organza and peau d'Ange lace fashioned with a basque bodice and pearl-trimmed jewel neckline. Lace madellions trimmed the domed skirt that ended in a lace trimmed chapel train. A band of re-embroidered lace secured her veil. She carried a traditional bridal bouquet.

Marcia Boehme of Garden City, as maid of honor, and Kathy Nixon of Emporia, Kans., Diane Miles of Caro, and Marcia Fruin of Bellevue, as bridesmaids, wore identical gowns of Citrine yellow styled with empire waists and A-line skirts with a back bow that fell in a panel. They carried baskets of daisies and mums that matched the citrine daisies in their hair.

Renee Snyder of Raymond, Ill., as flower girl, wore a floor length gown of white eyelet and carried a miniature basket of flowers. David Diebold of Ypsilanti was ring-bearer.

Richard A. Odmark of Charlevoix assisted his brother as best man. Ushers were Jerry Brownstein of New York City, Walter Zeschin of West Point, N.Y., and Larry Edwards of Charlevoix.

Moore book published

Robert H. Moore of Charlevoix has recently completed a book, "Counselor of Charlaton." The book says the author is a fictional expose on the confused, wicked and sometimes genuine people found everywhere.

Born August 13, 1906, in Hector, New York, Moore had a varied background in the field of education and the ministry. After graduation from high school, he attended Cook Academy "prep" in Montour Falls, New York, Meeker's Business College of New York for one year, National University in Washington D.C. for two years and DeLancey Divinity School for one year. After one year in the college department at DeLancey, he entered the Seminary Department. After three years he graduated and did post-graduate work in religous psychology.

Woman's Club

Pass amendment

Spearheaded by president Mrs. Robert Martin, members of the Charlevoix Woman's Club voted overwhelmingly to amend the constitution at their dinner meeting on Monday, at the Weathervane Inn.

The changes will mean that club membership will be either active, life or honorary omitting entirely the popular associate membership of former years. Associate membership had become a refuge for many women who wanted to enjoy the benefits of club membership without any of the responsibilities.

The change in membership requirements also promoted a change in dues. From now on all active members of the club will pay a standard five-dollar membership fee which will be payable at the first meeting of the year. Life and honorary members will pay no membership dues.

The Monday night meeting brought out 100 women of the Charlevoix community who were either members or guests of members of the Charlevoix Woman's Club.

This dinner is an annual event and opens the club activities for the year. Mrs. Robert Barnum and Mrs. W.R. Wood were co-chairmen of the program which followed the meeting.

Local man 'critical'

State police of the Petoskey post reported that James Earl Ollmann 40, R2 Charlevoix, was critically injured in an automobile accident early Saturday morning. The mishap occurred on the Boyne City Road east of the Horton Bay Road.

Ollmann was travelling south on the road and failed to negotiate a curve causing the car to go over an embankment. The car, a 1960 Chevrolet, was completely demolished.

Ollmann was pinned under the car for approximately one hour. He suffered multiple body injuries and was taken by ambuance to Little Traverse Hospital.

Hospital Guild

The pediatrics room at Charlevoix Hospital has received a beautiful color television. The set was given by the J.J. Reis Pediatrics fund for the comfort and enjoyment of the children.

The garage sale held last week was a success. All the volunteers who worked so hard in the rain deserve a note of thanks. The proceeds will be added to the service savings account to aid the hospital as needed. Many thanks to the phoning committee for their work.

Anyone wishing to volunteer for specific hours in the new in-service program please contact Mrs. Donald Couse at 547-2883.

The hospital guild will hold its next monthly meeting on Monday, Oct. 13, at 8 p.m. All old and new members are invited.

Life of homesteaders primitive by comparison

BY BERNICE WEXSTAFF

Let electric-power fail, even temporarily, and the average household is thrown into panic; the prized game meats, fruits and vegetables in the freezer and refrigerator, the air conditioner in summer, the furnace in winter without power for cooling or heating! All in jeopardy!

We moderns are a privileged lot and it's high time we realized it... In the memories of many still living in the 80-90 year age group are childhood days lived in an environment more primitive than today's vacation camp grounds.

Look around the countryside off the main traveled highways. Ramshackle farm houses are still in evidence with blind windows and sagging roof that attest to the first step upward from a homesteader's log shack which housed our forefathers little more than a century and a quarter ago.

Note that most remnants of old dwellings are close by a swift running creek or lake and for good reason... The homesteaders were too busy cleaning land and planting crops to dig wells so of necessity they settled where a water supply for the family, and later acquired livestock, was readily available. Many lakes and streams were named for early settlers. Nowland Lake, a scant five miles from Lake Michigan shores, reached by way of Wickersham road off M66, was named for two intrepid brothers from York State via Flat Rock, Michigan, Michael and Thomas Nowland.

The Thomas Nowland family had a rough time of it that first year... The oldest child was 16-year-old Lydia Ann and although she tried valiantly, she wasn't much help to Papa Thomas in his efforts to quickly build a log shelter for the long winter ahead. But once erected, the children slept in the small loft and among Lydia Nowland Ward's memoirs is a notation that told of the frightening sounds of roving bears trying to break into the cabin in the dead of night.

The years of the mid 1800's were not always good growing years and often summer appeared to end abruptly in snow fall. When that happened the homesteaders were in real trouble as often they had to dig potatoes and carrots out of the snow-covered ground the whole winter long to keep alive until spring. Game, such as rabbits and birds, were a staple in the homesteader's daily bill of fare and far from the luxury of today's gourmet cooking.

But the Nowlands, like many other pioneers, survived the rigors of weather and meager supplies that sustain. Nowland descendants are scattered far and wide from coast to coast, but there is still a sizeable number left in Charlevoix County.

Members of Charlevoix's pioneer summer resort, the Charlevoix Summer Home Association, were financially able to afford a well for drinking water as early as 1878, but many early settlers were not so fortunate.

Mrs. Ruth Belding of the Belding Real Estate Office recalls that as a child her family's drinking water was hauled by the barrelfull from Lake Michigan and dumped into the family's barrel beside the house with no thought of possible contamination. Nobody worried about germs... Few had ever heard of them.

Thomas Russel Nowland and wife, Experience Hale Nowland, were already established homesteaders 100 years ago when Charlevoix County was born in April 1869. This early photograph, taken with their daughter Mathilda, is not dated but was probably taken about 1867...Mathilda was later married to one Captain Newton Balch and they became of progenitors of the Balch family of Charlevoix.

Ironton

By Mrs. Ross Alexander
547-9878

This first week in October is getting colorful beyond description. The brilliantly colored leaves are so because they have used the green chlorophyll and are turning to reds and yellows and will soon fall to the earth to be made into food to feed new leaves another year, and they too will become beautiful as we see and enjoy and marvel at them now. Thus admiring them it makes one sad as natures beauty fades into the gray and cold month of November and we wonder why.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilson are spending several weeks visiting friends in Ireland.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gilbert have returned home from spending two weeks in Detroit.

Albert Carlson has returned to his home in Battle Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Keating have returned from their home in Detroit and will spend two weeks in their summer cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Lynklip and family have returned to their winter home in Detroit.

The District Youth Fellowship will be held at the Gaylord Church Sunday, October 12. All members of our local Pilgrim Fellowship are invited to attend. For details and transportation information contact Mrs. Jean Vogler.

Jack Phillips of Flint is a guest of Elliot Bird in the Bird summer cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Orvis and Mr. and Mrs. William Orvis of Flint are spending this weekend with their mother Mrs. Lydia Orvis.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jentzen have returned home from Jackson after visiting their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Jentzen, and the new grandchild. Our congratulations.

Our local postoffice was closed and discontinued last Tuesday and everyone has been busy getting mailboxes out for rural delivery. We will miss our Post Office as it was the morning get-together place for community residents to greet one another and chat while waiting for the mail. Ironton has had post office since 1880, and we oldsters will be the ones that will remember and really miss it. But what can one do when Uncle Sam takes over?

Co-op program offers training

The Cooperative program at Charlevoix High School is designed for the students enrolled in high school who receive part-time vocational instruction and on-the-job training through part-time employment.

It provides the student the basic training that fits their basic interests, need and abilities.

The following are the standards which are drawn up for the cooperative program.

All trainees must be a junior or a senior in high school, although some exceptions are made when necessary.

All trainees are legally employed in the occupation they have selected.

All the trainees must be in work for at least 15 hours a week throughout the entire program.

All trainees must be paid on a legal fair basis with fellow employees that have the same or comparable experience in the field that they are working in. The minimum wage must be paid whenever it is applicable.

The program in Charlevoix is under the direction of Robert Cook. He states that, "the program gives the student an opportunity to gain experience having on-the-job training and allows them to earn money for further education at the same time."

Two years ago, 50 percent of the co-op students went on to college or to special vocational schools. A majority of the time these students were ahead of the others in their field because of the previous training they had had.

Each student gets two credits in the co-op program. One of the credits is for the work that they do and the other is for the courses they are required to take.

The co-op program is divided into three fields, the office training, retailing, and industrial and technological fields. There are 20 students in these three fields. The program had to be limited this year because of the millage, whereas last year there were 54 students in the program.

Due to the fact that there is no District Educational Teacher, the students must take self-study courses in the fields which they have chosen.

The co-op program benefits the entire community. It assists in the life adjustment of youth and the community and creates a partnership between the schools and the business industry. It also encourages youth to continue to live and work in their home community upon graduation.

City Band rehearsals

Charlevoix City Band will begin rehearsals next Monday, from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. in the high school Band Room.

Director Clarence A. Odmark said that any adult who plays a band instrument is invited to join the group.

"There are no try-outs," Odmark noted. "We are particularly interested in learning about new residents who play an instrument."

Women's world

Club groups meet

Two interest groups of the Charlevoix Woman's Club will meet this week. Any club member is welcome to belong to one or more of these groups according to her individual interests.

The Music Group Will meet on October 13, at 1:30 p.m., at the home of Mrs. Wayne Beitel. The group will be planning new choral numbers to add to their repertoire.

The Discussion Group will meet on October 13, at 8 in the evening at the home of Mrs. Charles Duerr. The discussion topic will be: Should the United States constitution be amended to lower the voting age to eighteen?

The Hospital Guild will meet at eight o'clock in the evening on October 13, to discuss plans for the coming year. Newcomers to the Charlevoix Community are invited to come and join this group.

Any women who would like to have news of coming events in their groups publicized, please call the Charlevoix Courier or call Mrs. Jack Begrow 547-9768.

Mrs. Max Hosmer is area ticket chairman

Mrs. Max Hosmer of Charlevoix has been appointed as area ticket chairman for the annual dinner-dance sponsored by the Petoskey Area Mental Health Clinic. The benefit event will be held this year on November 1 at Boyne Mountain Lodge.

Proceeds from the dance, the clinic's one fund raising project of the year, will be used to further expand facilities for the treatment of the emotionally disturbed and mentally ill.

The Petoskey clinic, established in 1951 as a child guidance clinic only, now offers counseling and treatment for both children and adults in Charlevoix, Emmet, Cheboygan, Otsego and Presque Isle counties. A marriage counseling service also is available.

Reservations for the November 1 event must be made by calling Boyne Mountain Lodge before October 25. A cocktail hour beginning at 7 p.m. will precede dinner, and dancing will follow to the music of the Snowflake Trio.

Clinic moved to October 20

County officials announced this week that the pre-school immunization clinic scheduled for October 13 has been postponed until October 20.

The clinic will be held in the County Building, from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Local student at Tulane U.

NEW ORLEANS — Michael Arbuckle of Charlevoix is one of 10 members in the first class of the new graduate program in health services and hospital administration of the Tulane University School of Public Health and Tropical Medicine.

Arbuckle, son of Mrs. Marian Arbuckle, 201 W. Hurlbut, received a bachelor of arts degree from Michigan State University in 1969. He majored in health facilities management.

Members of the program were selected from applicants throughout the United States.

Jerrald Redeker, president of First State Bank, presents Thomas Duke, chairman of the Board of Directors of the bank, with gavel. Presentation was made at last week's Board meeting.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER

HELP-WE NEED IT! We need to get in much more of membership fees and or dues or contributions at least from those according to our registors that contributed last year and of course, we would appreciate hearing from others as well. Please let us hear from you soon.

A while back it was talked about putting up some well-designed letters on the front of this new harbor-side building indicating, "Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce." This was followed by contacts from a very interested and well-known citizen, who seems to have words for forcing the issue and I can fully agree with him. This gentleman is willing to start a little fund needed to pay for the lettering. The idea is to have these aluminum cast old English letters which our good friend, Jon Van Haver turns out. In addition to try to design something to get funds in here for operation, I am soon going to design a little program and approach some of these civic minded citizens for a donation for this monumental-type of lettering to be done. If there are any of you readers interested, please take a few minutes and stop by the office.

Our Board of Directors meet the first Tuesday of each month and accordingly, October's meeting was October 7, however, not in time to publish. The highlights will be put in next week's issue.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States at Washington, D.C. put out a little publication recently entitled, "Are You Using Your Woman Power?" This has been called to the Board's attention several times and many of you will recall that more than once in this column I have indicated we have a variety of talent here in Charlevoix if only we could get it put to use. A good example and an outstanding one is the group of women who have so successfully developed and put on annually the Water Front Art Fair. In the near future, some of this hidden talent is going to be called upon.

Arch Booth, executive vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States indicated in so many words in a recent public statement; no city is perfect, and most of them need much more help than they are able to get in dealing with their problems. Traffic jams, slums, unemployment, delinquency, crime, etc., those are all people problems. He indicated people caused them and only people can solve them--people who care, etc. I feel this thinking could be applied to the problems of this or any other Chamber of Commerce. It takes people who care. It is a community effort, the city needs a Chamber and the Chamber needs you, that is every idea, whether it's your or the Board of Directors', any activity, an issues, events, etc.--all take support--physical and dollars regardless.

Having to do with aviation, I wish to call to your attention that the State of Michigan ranks high on the list among "Firsts", and not far off or many of the first either. Michigan was on of the first states to set up a state aeronautics department and to adopt an aeronautics code to encourage and develop aeronautics and to promote aviation safety. Michigan has continued to play a leading role in the development of aviation, including airports, air and navigation facilities, air-space use, and air traffic control procedures. It has 11,330 pilots and 5335 air-craft owners registered with the state. It has 150 licensed airports (21 of which are certificated air-line stops, in addition to serving general aviation), there are two licensed C-Plane bases plus one licensed heliport and 123 emergency fields. There are many more interesting facts having to do with general aviation in our state. It is quite an interesting story. If interested, stop by the office and will will fill you in with more.

Grandvue

New faces at Grandvue recently include Idah Pierce, Charles Friend, Otis Barlow, all of Boyne City; Maggie Rogers, John Pringle, Winfield Nichols, all of East Jordan; Charlotte Williams of Ironton; and Mary Orlowski, and Esther Johnson of Charlevoix. Albert Crawford was discharged to his home in Boyne City on Sept. 16.

Mrs. Rose Bonner is a patient at Charlevoix Hospital; her daughter Mary came for her parents and took her Dad to Grand Rapids for a few days.

On September 9, Dr. Savory and Dr. Martin attended the Utilization Meeting at the Facility. The regular monthly meeting of the Charlevoix County Board of Social Welfare met on the 11, with all members present.

Sept. 11 was also the meeting day for the Grandvue Auxiliary, which was well attended. The members spent the afternoon marking linen and mending. The next meeting will be held October 9, and each member is asked to bring a guest and prospective member to this meeting. Come on, girls -- ask your next door neighbor!

A birthday party was held for September birthday patients on Sept. 18, with the United Missionary Church in charge. Presiding over the festivities were Mrs. Ila Hitchcock, Mrs. Inez Slate, Mrs. Lyla Bennett, Mrs. Vera Gee, Mrs. Berniee Trojanek, Mrs. Margaret LaValley, Mrs. Karlin Bundy, Mrs. Leona Spence, and Mrs. Ruth Moore.

On September 18, Mrs. Betty Robertson, Mrs. Kay Peck, and Mrs. Erma Kraemer attended a meeting in Traverse City.

Area ministers gathered at the Facility on September 23 for a ministerial meeting. Pastors attending this meeting were Rev. Duane Ferris, R.J. McBratnie, Wm. T. Smith, and Jack Thomasson of Boyne City; Rev. George Majors and Elmer Faust of Charlevoix; Rev. Stanley Hayes and Marcus Krake of East Jordan, and Rev. Seward Walton of Horton Bay. Visitors from the Community Action Program were Mrs. Coral Murray of Cheboygan and Miss Janet Dunnette of Boyne City. Rev. Walton was elected the new President of the Ministerial Association.

Patients with October birthdays are as follows: Annetta Peck, Oct. 8, Eva Mayville, Oct. 10, and Lewis Bocks, Oct. 15,

YOUR BEST INSURANCE AGAINST PROPERTY DAMAGE AND PERSONAL INJURY IS CAUTION, EVERY DAY

You can never be too careful when it comes to preventing fire! That's why good safety habits at home, at work, at play are the rule, never the exception. At home, check often to guard against accumulation of flammable debris, faulty wiring, other fire hazards. At work, obey fire department regulations to the letter. At play, make sure campfires are out, dead out. Caution now may save lives later.

BUDGET HEARING

The Board of Education of the Charlevoix Public Schools will hold its annual budget hearing on Monday, October 13, 1969, at 8:00 P.M. in the Charlevoix High School.

Concert season opens with young baritone

Membership cards for the Northern Michigan Community Concert Association went into the mails last week. The Association asks that if there are any errors, or you do not receive the membership card or cards you purchased at campaign time in May, please get in touch with Mrs. Allan McCune, Petoskey, for corrections.

Admission to all concerts is by membership card only, and all concerts are to be presented in the Petoskey Junior High School Auditorium at 8:30 p.m.

The first concert to be presented, will be on Tuesday, November 4, when Ronald Rogers, versatile and talented young American Baritone will be in Petoskey. This young man has had a mercurial rise to prominence in the musical world, and is fast becoming a most popular booking, with several sold-out tours to his credit.

The second presentation in this season is on Monday, January 12, 1970, when David Bar-Illan, the famous Israeli Pianist will give a concert. He has appeared also with 17 major orchestras in the United States, and many leading European orchestras. He is an artist who lives to share his love of music with others.

On Tuesday, February 10, 1970, The Canadian Opera Company will come to Petoskey for the second time. This performance is of The Barber of Seville. It is to be presented in English, and accompanied with a 16-piece orchestra. The company carries its own ingenious sets and beautiful costumes. The opera is a delightful comic one, and all members can look forward to a rare treat.

The last concert of this season is on Tuesday, April 14, 1970, when the Lee Evans Trio will present an evening of light and 'pop' music. Evans uses new and different versions of the popular standards by Cole Porter, George Gershwin and Irving Berlin. The trio presents recognizable melodies with a compelling rhythmic beat, all treated in a new way.

CHS debate team preps for meets

This year Charlevoix High School is still maintaining its Debate Team. The members are Jeanne Smith, Julie Supernaw, Pam Fairbanks, Debbie McDowell, Cindy Alspaugh, Tim Anders, Cathi Baldwin, Chris Carey, Linda Gill, Dave Hess, Marcia Mason, Kris Osterberg, Geri Santek, Lynn Fiedorek and Liz Wimmer.

The team is preparing for the up-coming season by attending workshops at Central Michigan University and Michigan State University.

The team's first meet has not been announced but is expected to be some time in November. This year Charlevoix is the host school and some of the meets will be held at Charlevoix High School.

The team belongs to the Top Of The Mitt League. Other schools in the league are Elk Rapids, Petoskey, Leelandau, Onaway, East Jordon, Traverse City St. Francis and possibly Mackinaw City and Cheboygan.

NOTICE

A public hearing on the Charlevoix County budget for the year of 1970 will be held by the Board of Supervisors in the court room of the County Building in Charlevoix on Thursday, October 16, 1969 at 1:30 p.m. A copy of the budget will be available at the office of the County Clerk.

Crash program asked on state drug abuse

Leroy Augenstein this week called for "An urgent assessment of the educational programs being provided by our schools on drug abuse, because if the results are anything comparable to my own private survey, we need a crash program at the state level." Speaking to the combined PTA groups of Farmington, he stressed that he has become increasingly alarmed as the number of arrests for violation of the drug laws have about quadrupled in Michigan in only four years.

"The greatest tragedy, though, is that the number of juvenile arrests has increased about 20 times in those four short years – from 68 arrests in 1966 to just under 1,000 already this year," Augenstein said.

The member of the State Board of Education said that the thing which alarms him the most "is that an increasing number of youngsters in our elementary and high schools are being picked up for addiction. In 1967 one child only ten years old was found to be addicted, five who were just 11 and 12, 35 who were 13 or 14, and almost 700 more of high school age. I don't want to give the wrong impression that all our youngsters are using drugs – fortunately most aren't! Nevertheless, it is time for drastic action when an average of more than 1 student per school district is addicted in Michigan.

"When I received these statistics, I immediately asked 10 school officials how they are fulfilling the law that to receive state aid each school must provide adequate education on drug abuse, alcoholism and the hazards of smoking. One has a pretty good program in the 11th grade, another treats drug abuse in junior high school, and the other eight indicated that because of lack of funds and good teaching materials, they couldn't do much more than show a film either in gym class or during the noon hour to meet the requirements. None did anything formally in the elementary grades. This is particularly tragic since so many youngsters are already addicted at the ages of 10 to 12 and thus face a real hell for the next 20, 30 or 40 years of their lives."

Augenstein emphasized that he will proceed in four ways. "First, I will insist at the next State Board of Education meeting that our staff get an immediate assessment of what is being taught in a large number of representative school districts throughout the state. Unless my survey is unusually biased, a crash program is needed on a state-wide basis. Second, in accordance with the new law we must provide guidelines in this area including copies of model curricula to all school districts. Third, we must compile a bibliography of written and film material which is available for use in the schools and on television. Finally, if adequate books and films are not available, then I will seek the necessary funds to have appropriate teaching materials developed."

Augenstein concluded by pointing out that the schools cannot do the job alone. "As I have already indicated, parents must assume a crucial role in forming children's attitudes.

Homesteaders

Mrs. Belding recalls that even though the team of horses were driven into the off-shores waters of the Big Lake and water dipped a scant ten feet from the horses' dripping bodies none of her family or any other family in the logging settlement of Cross Village suffered any apparent ill effects. In fact today's hunters who sometimes have been driven by thirst to drink from a Cedar Swamp spring have been known to break out in hiaves and actually suffer more discomfort than yesterday's barrel-water drinkers.

Basic diet milk was nonexistant in the earliest pioneer days. Powdered and evaporated milks had not been invented and the little patches of land the settlers were able to wrest from the forests were needed to grow vegetables and fruits for the family larder.

However, the day arrived when cleared lands could be spared for pasture and milk cows appeared on the woodland scene. The cows were transported from Southern Michigan via schooner which anchored at channel-bank in Lake Michigan before docks and piers were built. Here the cows were pushed overboard by deck hands to sink or swim. They swam and their new owners picked them out of the surf by rope lasso and led them down Indian pathways to a new life on the homestead.

As the pioneers struggled for more conveniences in their living, wells got dug and these wells furnished not only pure drinking water, but refrigeration throughout the hot summer days... It was standard practice to lower a bucket loaded with milk and butter and other perishables on hand down to the cool depths of the water level. Butter-in-the-well may sound to modern ears somewhat incongruous but it was a way of life in pioneer days.

The squatters and homesteaders continued to improve the land that for centuries had known only the football of Indian mocassins. But, after ceding their lands to the government of the Palefaces the Indian withdrew more and more from the newcomers... True they adopted many of the Whiteman's ways but they made no effort to become a part of his society with the exception of a very few and they for the most part were not pureblooded Redmen.

There are relics of the pioneer period, still prized possessions of their descendants... True, many serve a completely different purpose in the modern counterpart of the pioneer home as a bedroom washbowl becomes an outsize deluxe buffet salad bowl... But the old iron kettles, pots and griddles even ancient sewing machines now occupy decorative spots that inspire admiration and much, much conversation.

CHS cheerleaders a spirited group

BY CHRIS CAREY

"Cheerleading is important to me because it's great to know that I'm helping to build spirit and enthusiasm for the school and the team." That is what cheerleading means to Sherry Austin, a cheerleader at Charlevoix High School.

Sherry, a 16 year old junior, was born in Illinois and moved to Charlevoix from Indiana in December of 1968. Sherry plans to attend college and perhaps becoming a professional scuba diver. Sherry is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Austin.

Annette Hansen, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hansen, is another cheerleader at C.H.S. She has lived in Charlevoix all of her life. She, too, is a junior. One of Annette's favorite activities is, of course, cheerleading. When asked about it, she replied, "Of all the things I have done in my life, I like cheerleading the most. It is so much fun to be at all the games backing the Rayders and it is especially enjoyable to see them win."

After graduation Annette plans to attend college and enter the field of nursing.

Kay Fiedorek, a native of Kalamazoo, has lived in Charlevoix for the past ten years. In the summer Kay enjoys swimming, but school takes up most of her time in the winter.

When asked about being a cheerleader, Kay answered, "Cheering takes a lot of time, but it's worth it. It gives you a chance to meet new students from other schools and find out their interests. It also means finding out more about student spirit and interests in our own school." Kay's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Stan Fiedorek.

Born in Wyandotte, Michigan, Kris Osterberg is another active cheerleader from Charlevoix High. Snow skiing and cheerleading are among her favorite activities.

To Kris the position of cheerleader is a honor. "It's a real thrill to be out on the field cheering and backing our Rayders to a victory."

After graduation Kris plans on attending college and majoring in English or history. Kris is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Osterberg.

Teri Wood, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barry Wood, was born in Detroit but moved to Charlevoix soon after.

As the rest of the cheerleaders, cheering means a great deal to Teri. "Being a cheerleader is like being an ambassador to another country. Cheerleaders pass on the congratulations from the school and the wishes of good luck. It is nice to be able to welcome a school here from everybody."

School lunch week

Since 1946 when the National School Lunch Act was enacted, millions of school-age children across the country have been getting nutritious lunches each day. That number includes many in the Charlevoix School District.

In recognition of the vital role that the program plays in feeding the Nation's school children, Congress passed a joint resolution in 1962 designating the seven-day period beginning with the second Sunday in October each year as National School Lunch Week. This year National School Lunch Week in Charlevoix is October 12-18. The 1969 theme is "School Lunch Means Good Nutrition."

Special ceremonies and activities are planned to celebrate the twenty-third year of the program. Last year the lunch program helped offer noon meals to about 19.9 million children in nearly 76,000 schools in all parts of the country. Almost 3.4 billion meals were served through the program, and about 15 percent of these were offered free or at a greatly reduced price to children whose parents could not afford the regular low price.

Through federal-state-local cooperation, the National School Lunch Program has become the largest single food service industry in the nation--more than a billion-dollar-a-year operation.

The National School Lunch Program, combined with the the other child feeding programs, offers a concerted approach to improve the nutrition of children. Although the school lunch program will be featured during the week's events, emphasis also will be placed on other child nutrition programs as the School Breakfast Program, the Special Food Service Program for pre-school youngsters, and the Special Milk Program, all of which are administered by the Food and Nutrition Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Coho fever becomes 'blues' on L. Huron

While salmon fever continues to be the most popular disease for Lake Michigan fishermen, the "Coho Blues" are being sung along the shores of Lake Huron.

There is continued optimism that a salmon run in Lake Huron like the one that has jammed many parts of Lake Michigan with eager anglers is near. But it is becoming increasingly clear that coho will not be taken in large quantities on the east side of the state this year.

There are three basic reasons for a smaller than expected coho run in Lake Huron this fall, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

Extensive netting of salmon this spring by commercial fishermen from Canada.

The worst lamprey attack of Lake Huron fish in over 20 years.

Smaller plantings of salmon in Lake Huron than in Lake Michigan.

Most important is the effect of commercial fishing. Canadian fishermen netted 35,000 to 40,000 coho, approximately 70,000 pounds, from mid-April to mid-May. This reduced the population of adult salmon in the lake by nearly 50 percent.

Although it is illegal for fishermen in Michigan as well as other states bordering the Great Lakes to net salmon commercially, it is legal in Canadian waters.

"There are 50 percent fewer salmon in Lake Huron than we could have expected if Canadian fishermen hadn't taken their toll," states Dave Borgeson, trout-salmon specialist for the Department of Natural Resources. "Although we planted 500,000 coho in the spring of 1968, past history shows no more than 20 percent of these fish survive their first year.

"We are normally delighted with a 20-percent return of planted fish," he explained. "The majority don't survive because they are most vulnerable to death by natural causes soon after they are placed in the rivers and streams."

Since the salmon were netted this spring, only the 20 percent expected to survive the 1968 planting were in the lake. With approximately 35,000 to 40,000 salmon netted, this left about 50,000 to 60,000 fish for sport fishing.

As Norm Baldwin, executive secretary of the Great Lakes Fishery Commission, quipped, "Canadian waters were a bad place for salmon to be this spring." Despite these heavy salmon losses, Baldwin believes Canadian fishermen were not making a deliberate attempt to net coho.

"Many fishermen using trap nets for whitefish and pickerel also netted salmon," he said. "In fact, I don't believe these fishermen really wanted the salmon."

The provincial government in Ontario has asked commercial fishermen not to fish for coho. "We want them (commercial fishermen) to fish for usual fish in a usual manner," said J. D. Roseborough, supervisor of the fishery section, fish and wildlife branch, Ontario Department of Lands and Forests. "But what are they to do when the salmon come into their nets?"

Roseborough said some commercial fishermen are disturbed because other fish can be sold at higher prices in the spring. "Salmon only bring in about 60 cents a pound while whitefish and pickerel bring as much as 80 cents."

Until it can be shown their fishermen are severely cutting into the Lake Huron salmon population, the provincial government will not consider legal steps against commercial netting of salmon.

"This is an experiment (salmon plantings) and more information is required before stopping one industry to help another," said Roseborough. "Why stop one industry that a lot of people are dependent on to let a new species survive?"

Roseborough, who said he was not impressed with the fact Canadian fishermen took 70,000 pounds of coho, indicated the Ontario government would listen to any reasonable solution American fish experts had. He said only Pennsylvania presently has asked Canada to limit salmon netting and this was in Lake Erie.

Baldwin said future discussions on the problem are planned with Roseborough and other Canadian officials.

Department of Natural Resources officials claim 90 percent of the salmon coming into Thunder Bay at Alpena and the Tawas River have lamprey scars on them. Roseborough said there were four to five lamprey marks on coho that were in the east end of Lake Ontario last July and August.

The lamprey problem this year was compared by Jerry Manz, of the Department of Natural Resources, to the one that helped destroy the lake trout population in the 40s. "There is an abundance of lamprey in Lake Huron," he explained. "They don't have enough to eat, and they have been chasing salmon into the rivers."

The mortality rate has been high. How high won't be known until after salmon pass through the weirs at the Tawas River and on the Ocqueoc River and a count can be taken, in late November or early December.

"What makes the problem especially bad for coho is that lamprey like larger fish and also like cool water as does the coho," Manz stated. "This is the reason only mature salmon have been attacked."

Unlike the commercial netting situation, lamprey control in Lake Huron is near. In 1970, only the Au Sable River will be a major producer of lamprey since it is the only river not treated chemically this year. All other areas leading to Lake Huron have been chemically treated. The results will show up in 1970.

The Au Sable will be treated in 1970 with lamprey control expected in 1971. The river wasn't treated this year because of the cost. These chemical treatments were started in the early 1960s on Lake Michigan tributaries. Lake Michigan is now 90 percent free of the lamprey problem.

Because of the losses from commercial fishermen and lamprey attacks, there have been fewer salmon plantings in Lake Huron than in Lake Michigan.

Until salmon losses are limited, Borgeson believes the state can't afford to plant more than the 500,000 salmon that have been placed in Lake Huron tributaries the past two years. Because of this, he estimates the salmon population in Lake Michigan is 10 times as high as Lake Huron.

No wonder the fishing has been better on the west side of the state!

President Nixon notes Natl. Newspaper Week

BY F. FISKE MARTIN

COURIER EDITOR

We are in the middle of National Newspaper Week, an annual event which allows us to boast a little about our profession.

No matter what business our readers are engaged in, the great majority of the labor and long hours is taken for granted by those outside that business. And, perhaps it is just as well; for were it known, most of us would be considered insane to extend the effort necessary to produce our goods.

Yet, the people who make their living in the newspaper business, for the most part wouldn't leave the field for any price.

Our profession is one of long hours, low pay (we make less than school teachers with the same number of years experience), and multiple headaches.

We can never please all of our readers all the time. In fact, it is difficult to please all of them even on occasion.

Yet, such is our way of life. And for better or worse, we continue on our journalistic way...not always right, but always with the honest attempt to report objectively, truthfully.

President Richard Nixon has issued the following statement in observance of National Newspaper Week:

"National Newspaper Week, October 5-11, provides a welcome occasion for all of our citizens to think about our newspapers and the traditions in which they work. I am pleased to have this opportunity to add my own words of greeting.

"A free and unmanaged press is one of the great products of our system of government and one of its most important guarantors. Much of the world does not know this freedom, nor has it always been present in America. In 1690, one of the first American newspapers, 'Publick Occurences Both Forreign and Domestick,' was suppressed after one issue. Only fourteen years later did another newspaper appear in the colonies."

"Over the years bold and brilliant men and women won for the American press the freedom it enjoys today, both to report and to interpret the events of our time. Now, with the whole field of communications revolutionized beyond man's farthest dreams, it is incumbent upon all of us – journalists and readers alike – to see that this freedom is maintained and used in a way that is both creative and responsible. Today's newspapers are heirs to a great tradition–one which must be honored and extended."

'70 plates to have 3 letters, 3 numbers

Michigan's 1970 automobile license plates will, for the first time, bear three letters and three numerals, Secretary of State James M. Hare announced.

Along with the change in plate design, Hare said, the expiration date for 1969 passenger car and motorcycle tags has been extended to March 31, instead of the end of each February. Commercial and trailer plates will expire on the last day of February each year, as in the past.

The shift in expiration dates was to help reduce the congestion and long lines of plate purchasers as deadlines approach. An additional month in which to buy passenger tags after commercial and trailer plate purchases have tapered off should alleviate the problem of crowding, Hare pointed out.

Commercial and trailer tags will go on sale October 1, and the first new passenger car plates will be available November 15.

The new plates will have a gold background with white letters and numerals representing the colors of Oakland University, Hare said.

"The change to a system of three letters and three numerals, from the former system of two letters and four numerals," Hare explained, "is another step in our program to prepare for the future. The steadily increasing number of automobile registrations in Michigan demands a more flexible method of accommodating them. The new combination will permit the issuance of millions more plates without having to increase the number of characters on the tags. We could, by using every conceivable combination of letters and numerals, issue more than 20-million plates without fear of duplicaion."

The Michigan Department of State expects to issue more than five-million sets of plates for 1970, the largest number in any single year. At least four-million of these sets will go to passenger car owners.

Michigan first began using combinations of letters and numerals on its license plates in 1933.

The new system is much more efficient than the old, Hare said, "because the new method reduces accounting and inventory costs. The three-letter, three-numeral approach is easily adapted into the State Department's gigantic computer system.

"In addition to providing more license number possibilities, the new format provides 10 times more of the low numbered plates that are so popular with motorists. At the moment, 1,000 plates will be issued to each of the three-letter series," Hare said.

New coho boat now on market

Put on your sou'wester, grab a jug of hot coffee, and load up the boat – let's go Coho!

Coho. A magic word. And a new one. Until five years ago it was the name of an exotic salmon found in the Pacific. Now it's the name of Michigan's fastest-growing sport. The name of an epidemic that's raging through the Great Lakes area. The name of a fisherman's dream.

As with many sports, fishing can be dangerous. In the frenzied excitement of Coho fever, many Charlevoix fishermen are ill-prepared to cope with the elements. Many small boats are launched in pursuit of the Coho; some are lost in the sudden lake storms that cause huge waves.

With safety in mind, the Seasafe Dory Corporation of Birmingham, set to work on a new type of boat. Called the "Seasafe Dory," the boat is patterned after the dory of the Grand Banks fishing fleet and is designed for fishing in open waters where sudden squalls and heavy seas are encountered.

Vacuum formed in two individual seamless hulls, completely foamed-in-place, the boat is said to be virtually untippable and absolutely unsinkable. These floatation qualities throughout the boat include all parts of the hull up to and including the rub rail made of vinyl covered ethyfoam. It meets all the requirements urged by safety experts that are claimed to be two years ahead of the industry.

Made of tough material, this new boat has high-impact resistance. With normal use it won't crack, splinter, chip, bend or shear. Under extreme stress and strain, the boat has high tensile, flexural strength. Tests have proven that this is one of the few boats on the market today that can claim to be wear and puncture resistant!

Trim epoxy coated marine mahogany with fittings in bright brass or bronze make this truly a character boat manufactured with a nautical flair. Color is an integral part of the hulls, which means it never has to be repainted. The inner hull is white, the outer hull is yellow. The sculptured fish figurehead, attached to the bow, calls to mind the boat's New England heritage.

The boat made its national debut on September 18 at the Marine Trades Exhibit & Conference in Chicago.

Rayders, Cheboygan tie, 14-14

Unpredictable, that's what you might call this years action in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference. Let's take a look at last week's scores. Boyne City over Rogers City, 12-0, WOW; St. Ignace noses out Petoskey, 32-30, GEE; Cheboygan and Charleviox battle to a 14-14 tie, OH, NO. How about these for headlines. Unbelievable, unpredictible, but never-the-less true. The rock-em, sock-em, football is here once again.

Cheboygan was figured to be a strong football squad, but were they strong enough to beat Charlevoix, was the big question before game time last week. The Rayders started out like a ball-of-fire, jumping to a 14-0 lead. Touchdowns by Kraag Lieberman on a 14-yard pass from Stewart Coleman, and Coleman's 13-yard run, and his extra point pass to Bruce Meggison, seemed to all but sew up the ballgame.

None the less, the Chiefs came right back with touchdowns by Jerry Peterson, and a three way play with Greg Johnson ending with a touchdown. Peterson caught a Johnson pass to tie the game at 14-14. Neither team scored in the second half.

The tie certainly hurt the Rayders' chances for an outright championship, but they still have to prepare to face winless Gaylord at Kipke Field Friday night.

Gaylord has yet to show any offensive spunk, scoring only single touchdowns in their first three games. Gaylord has looked good on defense, holding their three opponents to even terms on the clipboard, but games are only won on the scoreboard.

Gaylord is bound to break loose one of these weeks, but chances aren't bright against the Rayders Friday. Look for the Blue Devils to pose a threat, but in the end, the Rayders will be on top, shall we say by two touchdowns.

The St. Ignace we know of in the past may not be the same team today, but they keep on winning just the same. John Brown finally regained the scoring leadership in conference play he held so firmly to last year, and once he gets going, watch out.

After their narrow two point victory over Petoskey last week, they are going to be raving mad when they face Rogers City on their home soil.

All we can say is that they seem invincible at home, and that home streak continues to build. St. Ignace wins, 38-18.

Petoskey goes to Alpena CC where this game could go either way. It seems like the Thunderbolts have some sort of spell over the Northmen. Last year these two teams did not meet, but two years ago they defeated Petoskey, costing them a league championship. Alpena has two things in their favor, depth, and playing on home turf. Give Catholic Central a slim edge.

The Ramblers will play host to Cheboygan this weekend, and after dropping their first three straight games, coach Paul Pfahler pulled some tricks, and easily defeated a supposidly strong Rogers City team, 12-0, last week. Cheboygan just can't seem to put together the magic marker, and win ball games. The strong Cheboygan team has been nursing injuries all season, and lost two key men to disciplinary reasons.

Cheboygan is favored to win this game, and probably will by a couple of touchdowns, but the Ramblers could still make a game out of it.

The final game of the week finds Traverse City St. Francis returning to Manistee CC. Last year, Manistee CC handed St. Francis a 47-0 defeat. St. Francis this year has a fine squad, and with Stan Kozlowski and Mike Comstock working well together, could become a league power. But, Manistee CC is out of their league, and will prevail, 36-13.

This week's action will mark the halfway spot in conference play. There has been many surprises so far this season, and by the looks of it, their will probably be many more before they hang up the football spikes on November 8. The top three teams in the conference at this date (St. Ignace, Charlevoix, and TCSF) must play one another before the title will be decided. Giving anyone the edge, you would probably have to go with St. Ignace. Three of their last four games will be played at home, including a November 7 encounter with the Red Rayders.

Sports Boosters elect Ken Wojan

Kenneth Wojan was elected president of the Charlevoix Sports Boosters' Club at the annual meeting of the group held Wednesday evening at the 111 State room of the First State Bank.

He succeeds Thomas LaBlance who headed the group during its first year.

Other officers who will serve during the year are: first vice president, Ralph Doan; second vice president, James Williams; secretary, Mrs. Perry Smith and treasurer, Mrs. Melvin Plum. LaBlance, James Alger and Thomas Acton were named to the board of directors.

The club has taken over the concessions booth at Kipke field and plan to assume sponsorship of the Pep and Varsity clubs. These responsibilities, were assumed when the cutback in millage did not allow funds for club sponsors.

Maroon blazers bearing the Rayder insignia have been ordered for use of members of the Rayder varsity basketball squad. This is one of the club's projects. Another was underwriting the cost of taking Rayder football team and coaches to the Booster Bowl game at Petoskey Saturday evening.

Memberships at the cost of $2 per year are available to everyone. Wojan, in assuming his post as president, emphasized the purpose of the club as "doing" for the Rayder athletic teams. "We know they have many needs and it is our aim to meet as many of them as we can", he said.

The second Wednesday of every month was established as the regular meeting date. Wednesday's meeting will replace the October meeting. The November meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m., Nov. 12, at the 111 State room of the bank building.

The Truth Generally Lies Under the Surface

The true facts about anything are seldom pure and never simple. Facts often are deeply hidden, like the seven-eighths of an iceberg which always lie under water.

When your newspaper reporter says to the mayor, or the school superintendent, or the chief of police, "May I ask you a question or two?" he is really "diving" for facts. He hopes to bring to the light of day other related names, figures, or relationships which will tell his readers a fuller story.

Good newspapers, good newspapermen constantly dive, dig, and probe beneath the appearances of things to their deeper, often hidden meanings and connections.

There are all kinds of newspapers and all kinds of newspapermen. Nobody ever claimed they were all perfect. But one thing is certain: No other agency, institution, or group of people of any kind is engaged in digging out and publishing important facts about our public life.

That's the job of a free and unlicensed press. This newspaper would like you to remember that during National Newspaper Week, October 5-11.

Consumers ups rates

The Michigan Public Service Commission has authorized Consumers Power Company to increase its rates for electric service by $16,514,000 annually, and its rates for natural gas by $21,308,000 annually.

The Commission's rate order was announced in Lansing. The Company now must file amended rate schedules designed to reflect the revenues authorized. Submission of a proposed new rate structure is expected to be made in a matter of days.

The Company, in its rate proceedings, had asked for approval of increased rates providing additional revenue totaling $29,453,000 for electricity and $28,386,000 for natural gas.

Commenting on the rate order, A.H. Aymond, Chairman of the Board of Consumers Power Company, said. "We believe that the company should have been allowed the full amount of the requested increases and are disappointed that the Commission did not agree that this was appropriate. However, the increases authorized will be helpful in offsetting in part our increased costs."

The order culminated a lengthy and complex rate case which began April 19, 1968, with the company's application for permission to raise its gas rates. On July 15, 1968, the company asked the Commission for permission to raise its electric rates, as well. The two rate proceedings were consolidated for purpose of hearings, which were held over a period of eight months from November, 1968, through June, 1969.

The company pointed out, in its testimony, that its electric rates had not been increased since June 5, 1959, and that its gas rates had not been increased since May 11, 1961. Over the intervening years, electric rates were cut three times, and gas rates were reduced twice.

The company contended that, because of inflationary increases in every phase of the business, its return on investment had dwindled to the point where earnings were no longer sufficient to permit the expansion needed to meet future demands for energy. The company cited, among other things, increased taxes, increases in wages and salaries, excessively high costs of borrowed money, higher costs of natural gas purchased from pipeline suppliers, higher costs of coal for generating electricity, and enormously increased costs of construction.

As a result of such increased costs earnings per share dropped from $2.87 in 1967 to $2.60 in 1968 and to $2.54 for the twelve months ended June 30, 1969.

Consumers Power Company serves more than 1,031,000 electric customers in 60 of the 68 counties of Michigan's Lower Peninsula, and serves more than 800,000 gas customers in 40 counties.

Pat's Reaction

Times change

I think that as you get older your brain cells deteriorate for there must be some plausible explanation for why I have so much trouble helping my children with their homework when not many years ago I took the same courses myself.

It's not that I'm not interested in helping them. I'm just not able.

Five years ago when we moved to this area the modern math program had already been started in Charlevoix so my little transfers had to sort of pick up the pieces and try to catch up with the rest of the class.

Well I knew that it wouldn't be easy for them or for me and I was determined to help in the best way that I could so when St. Mary's School offered a free night school course for parents I signed up immediately.

We had quite a class those winter nights of both mothers and fathers who must have felt just as out of it as I did. We all sat there trying our best to forget all of the old ordinary math that we had been foolishly using for years. The teacher gave us all quickie type modern math books geared for adults.

And that was the whole trouble. Those books were geared for math students, not the creaking parents of math students. The course was too darn hard. I was over my head the entire semester struggling between base 4 and base 5. The truth of the matter is that I would have been much better off with a third grade math book and a private tutor. For what I finally ended up doing was reading the third grade math book very slowly, page by page and line by line. Of course by the time that I finally managed to finish the third grade book I really couldn't help my little twosome for they were way past me delving into math problems that I'd never be able to solve the modern math way.

Of course I could jolly myself along about schoolwork by saying that math never was one of my best subjects, but then what about Latin?

When my ninth grader decided to take Latin this year I was really enthusiastic. After all I had liked Latin and whizzed right through it. This was a subject in which I could confidently help her along. I had been a good Latin student and Latin was a dead language that couldn't change.

But what happened?

Those young Latin teachers that we have today threw out the old books that I used and substituted new ones that don't even talk about the same things. Can you imagine, in the Charlevoix Latin books the stories to translate are about the modern highway network in this country. When I was a student we translated things about the Roman farmer. I really don't think that the words thay they're using now were in our books. At least I don't remember them.

One thing for sure, just as soon as I get near a university bookstore I'm going to pick up a Latin dictionary so that I can brush up during the day when my daughter takes her Latin textbook to school. Boy, will I ever surprise her with some quick answers.

My fifth grader is trying to learn the capital cities of the United States. Ninety-six percent of what they're teaching about the states and the state capitals is the same old thing, but what about the other four percent? Lee and I were getting along pretty well quizzing each other last Sunday when he asked me two ringers, Alaska and Hawaii. Now I'd missed a few before that so I really don't think that it was fair of Lee to throw in two states that weren't state when I was a student. I told him that I didn't think that he was fair and then he laughed out loud when I missed the capital of Pennsylvania.

Did you know that it's not Philadelphia?

Well the truth is that my children seem to depend on me for homework help less and less as they grow older. Oh now and then they let me ask them a spelling list, but in general they seem to consult more with their friends.

But that's okay, for I can still help my first grader. She's working on "yellow" and "five" this week. I guess that's about my speed.

Tax reform...1969 edition

We are all interested in sound, constructive tax reform. It should be based on a careful analysis of the nation's needs and the most equitable way to attain them.

The recently passed House bill, "Tax Reform Act of 1969," adopted after only two days of consideration of the 368-page document, contains serious distortions which should be rectified before the Senate approves it.

One of the most serious drawbacks is the bill's long-term negative implications for capital formation. We should be thinking of the kind of tax system that will be appropriate to the economic conditions that will prevail for the long term after the boom is over. The tax system should not penalize job creating, domestic capital formation.

Serious consideration should be given to possible economic and other effects, and indeed, to whether or not capital gains should even be considered part of regular income taxation.

The proposed change of rules governing the taxation of deferred compensation is a striking example of complicating the tax even though no abuse has been shown and where there is only a slight revenue effect.

These are but a few examples of areas where it is hoped the Senate Finance Committee will give serious consideration, before releasing the bill for a vote on the floor.

Taxes will be with us for a long time--so why rush legislation through--when a little more time will result in a better tax code for all concerned?

Halloween and UNICEF

October 31 is Halloween and in Charlevoix as well as throughout the United States young people will be calling on their neighbors in behalf of UNICEF.

A treat for all the children in the world who do not have enough to eat? A treat for all those who need medical care and cannot get it? This certainly seems to be a large order . . . too large, perhaps, for us here in Charlevoix to give it our realistic consideration. Three out of four children, a staggering total of 900 million boys and girls, live in areas where a glass of milk is a luxury and where a minor disease can lead to death for lack of care. What can we do about it?

Of course, it is at present impossible to reach all the sick and hungry youngsters who need aid; nevertheless hundreds of thousands and even millions of them can benefit from our concern . . . and this is just what will happen when our children join about three million other UNICEF Trick or Treaters throughout the United States on Halloween.

A UNICEF Halloween is made up of spooks, witches, and goblins; it retains all the fun of ringing doorbells, parties, applebobbing and the collection of treats. The big difference is that UNICEF spooks and witches are really angels in disguise.

The coins they collect become life-saving penicillin, protective vaccine and health-giving milk and vitamins for children who are ill or malnourished.

Last year UNICEF performed the gigantic task of assisting 120 developing countries in their fight against the dread diseases which affect millions of children, in their struggle to provide adequate nutrition for their growing youngsters, and in their efforts to replace superstition and ignorance with sound maternal and child health practices.

Extra benefits will be reaped right here at home. A day which was often a problem in many communities becomes a night of enthusiastic participation in the vital work of the United Nations Children's Fund. Adult supervision will ensure safe and responsible activities; everyone will gain by uniting in this expression of American concern.

City-Township Annexation

Residents of Charlevoix Township will cast ballots in less than one month to decide whether or not they want to become residents of Charlevoix City.

Prior to the vote, the County Board of Supervisors will hear both sides of the annexation issue when they convene for a hearing next Monday.

So far, the grapevine tells us that township residents generally favor annexation to their sprawling area by the city.

It is inevitable that a merger of the two governmental units become a reality, whether it be now or five years hence. The city has just about run out of land for natural growth; and township residents want utilities and the like which city dwellers take for granted.

We hope the November 4 election is favorable to annexation. All effects considered, it would appear that joining the city and township would be a progressive, healthy move.

Viewpoint!

Cause, effect of accidents

BY HANK HOGAN

Last year 55,000 Americans were killed on our highways. This figure is almost twice the number of Americans killed in Vietnam since the war began.

We don't really get very excited about this figure unless a person close to us becomes part of the statistics.

Traffic records reveal that nine out of every 10 car accidents are caused by simple traffic violations on plainly marked roads and highways.

In at least 50 percent of all fatal car accidents the driver involved had consumed enough alcohol for it to register in his blood stream.

A large state university in a recent survey found that if the worst 20 percent of bad drivers could be permanently barred from the highways and byways, 80 percent of all accident would be avoided.

In the last report of the Michigan State Police I saw, defective motor vehicles accounted for less than 2 percent of the accidents in the state.

What then is the conclusion of all these statistics?

It is simply that the major cause of traffic accidents is bad driver attitudes and habits, and killing on the highway will not be minimized to any substantial degree until something is done about it.

Statistics will show that if you wear a seat belt you have a much better chance of not being killed if you are involved in an accident, but seat belts won't stop accidents. The same is true of all the safety equipment, such as head rests, inflatable balloons and so forth.

To make a substantial dent on traffic fatalities you have to get to the driver.

You've got to take the bad driver off the road and teach all the other drivers defensive driving, that is, how to be continually aware of what the other driver is doing.

Condemning the automobile industry for mechanical defects and lack of safety devices is just a red herring dragged across the trail of the real culprit.

But it is a lot easier and safer for politicians to get publicity attacking large corporations than attacking the attitudes and habits of their own constituents.

Until we are prepared to support tougher licensing laws, including psychiatric tests for drivers with a bad driving history of either traffic violations or accidents, since both are a tipoff that some day this type of driver will be involved in a fatal accident, we should expect this needless killing to continue.

A lot of us resist this because it might someday affect us, but isn't it better to inconvenience some drivers to save the killing of so many people.

Homemade

By BOB MYERS

I'm no bug for the "homemade", feeling that a lot of food is better prepared in the factory than the home. There are some notable exceptions, though, and and among them are pie, stew, bread and ice cream.

The ice cream must be turned in an ice cream freezer — not in a freezing tray of a regrigerator.

Here's my favorite recipe, one that's come down 3 generations.

1 quart of heavy cream
1 quart of milk
4 cups of sugar
Juice of 8 lemons

Mix together in a bowl and pour into a 4-quart freezer. It only fills your container 2 3 full but your freezer will be full by the time it's made.

Don't ask me why you can't use 2 quarts of coffee instead of 1 quart of heavy cream and 1 quart of milk. Maybe they didn't have coffee cream 60 years ago.

It's a simple recipe and simply made. It tastes like nothing you ever had before. Our family always called it lemon sherbet, although nowadays we think of a sherbet as being watery. This is much richer than most ice cream.

There's also a maple mousse recipe in our family, made with maple syrup. It's so complicated no one has ever successfully written it down so that anyone but the writer could understand it. But do try the lemon sherbet.

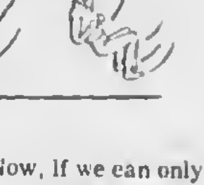
ON THE 'FLIP' SIDE



I think

I'll become a panhandler.

After last week's "60 Minutes" on CBS, it is obvious I'm in the wrong business. After working seven days a week, often including hours long into the night, the life of a panhandler in New York City looked mighty inviting.

Harry Reasoner watched their motis operandi and talked to three of them, including one college grad with a degree in psychology.

Believe it or not, they average $8 an hour, begging money on Fun City's crowded streets. The hours are good, normally from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. And, they take home between 150 and $200....untaxable, pure-profit dollars.

Now, if we can only figure out a way to avoid being mugged in Fun City....

Reports from the new elementary school indicate that the all work is almost complete. Still a small amount of cabinet installation to complete; plus a few other odd jobs.

If it Fitz — Getting fired takes class

BY JIM FITZGERALD

When Henry Ford fired his top foreman, Semon Knudsen, he kicked off an incredible amount of newspaper and TV publicity. All of which gave us hired hands and our wives plenty to worry about.

The society writers and photographers even went to the Knudsen home to find out how Mrs. Knudsen was taking the dumping of her husband.

"If you get fired," my wife told me, "I won't have a thing to wear for the interviews. The drapes need cleaning, too."

One reporter asked Knudsen if he still owned Ford cars. "Yes," he answered, "we have 2 Cougars, an LTD station wagon, a regular Ford and a couple of Mark III's, I think."

But he wasn't sure. That's embarrassing.

"The next time you're in the garage, make a list of our cars," I told my wife.

"We don't have a garage," she said. "And we're using our carport for a porch."

"It might be better if I rent the township hall for the press conference where I explain that I didn't know why I was fired," I said.

VERILY, THE Knudsen affair has made it obvious that a man must be prepared in case of sudden canning. It's not something you can do easily, such as getting a job. It takes planning to be fired properly.

For instance, I need a nickname. Knudsen was working on a 5-year contract worth about $3 million plus stock options. But the reporters took the snobby gleam off all that dough by calling him "Bunkie." Golly, that's right down to earth. Fact is, the only other Bunkie I know is an airedale.

Ford will pay Knudsen $700,000 for doing nothing the next 3½ years and shucks, the general public would probably have a tough time feeling sorry for him if he weren't Just Plain Bunkie.

Another thing a fired guy needs is "a man." Bunkie admitted he'd had many job offers since Ford got a better idea. He was leaving on a vacation trip himself but Knudsen said he "had a man investigating the offers." That's the same sort of class I showed in 1946 when I paid a friend to stand in line to get my unemployment check.

Most important, a working slob should practice smiling under adverse conditions, perhaps while someone is pounding his foot with a sledge hammer. All the reporters agreed that Bunkie showed his teeth and made little jokes but "fooled nobody." The keen-eyed writers described him as "staggered" and "near shock." The Detroit News even accused Knudsen of shrinking and "his suit was too large for him."

Where does a man go to get sanforized?

It is a screwy world where the firing of a multi-millionaire can keep news and society reporters typing and gushing for days. When Joe Schmoe gets fired, and his kids get hungry, the only way he can get in the newspaper is to get shot while robbing a grocery store.

And that's no bunkie.

Out of the past

2 years ago

Charlevoix records indicate that the years 1966-1967 were the products of the biggest building boom in the Northwest part of Michigan since the pioneer days.

Record budget noted by WMTA

A record budget of $240,000 for the fiscal year that started September 1 has been approved by the Executive Committee of the West Michigan Tourist Association, according to Secretary-Manager Wesley B. Tebeau.

The new budget exceeds by $23,000 that for the 1968-69 fiscal year, Tebeau pointed out, and "presents a challenge to the business community of west Michigan in its drive for a greater share of the tourist market in the next 12 months."

In analyzing expenditures projected for the current fiscal year, Tebeau points out that WMTA has allocated $111,500 for publication, media advertising, travel shows and other promotions.

"A total of 45 percent of the funds that will be available to us this year will be used for promotion, while only 27.5 percent will go for administration expenses," he said. "This is a high figure for promotional efforts and a below average allocation for administration." the remainder of the budget will be used for research, reports and related programs designed to increase the number of vacation visitors in the territory, Tebeau said.

Funds will be available, Tebeau stated, for quarterly editions of the association's Carefree Days books. This publication is the oldest annual of any tourist promotion agency in America, he said, and now will be issued every three months.

Largest of the four books in this fiscal year will be the summer edition, which is scheduled for distribution April 1, 1970. The winter Carefree Days will be in distribution by October 10, followed by the Carefree Days Dining guide January 1.

In late June, the Outdoor Carefree Days will be released, completing the cycle of four editions of the popular west Michigan travel guide in this fiscal year, Tebeau added.

All of these publications are mailed to our-of-the city residents who request it for vacation planning in response to the extensive newspaper advertising program in midwest metropolitan dailies. It also is distributed free to local residents who ask for it at Hospitality House, the association's office at 136 Fulton Street East.

The record budget of $217,000 for the last completed year was achieved, Tebeau stated.

Gaylord Blue Devil, in "dummy" form of course, gets a free ride into bon fire at Pep Rally held last Thursday as part of Homecoming activities. Rayders moved Gaylord around football field following night, taking 18-0 win for first shut-out of the season.

Homecoming Queen is Jackie Warner

Homecoming 1969 could hardly have been better at Charlevoix High School. From the beginning Thursday night to the closing dance Friday night, the events went off without a hitch.

Reigning over the two days of activities was senior Jacquelyn Warner, named Homecoming Queen Thursday night.

Homecoming festivities began with a Snake Dance from the middle school to the high school football field. Several hundred school students weaved their way through the city, led by C.A. Odmark and the CHS band.

At the high school, the traditional bon fire sent flames skyward, followed by cheers, band selections, a brief talk by Dave Fowler and Vane Smith, and the crowning of Misss Warner as queen.

Others in her court were Liz Wimmer, Tricia Young, Lynn Fiedorek and Jeanne Smith.

Friday's football game against Gaylord was the highlight of the weekend, preceeded by the annual parade of floats through the city.

Winning first place was the seventh grade, with its "pushimpullyou" float, followed by the eighth and eleventh grades in a second place tie. The freshman class was fourth, while the sophomores and seniors were fifth and sixth.

Judges for the float contest were Roy Bennett, Mrs. Perry Smith and Thomas LaBlance.

At halftime Friday, the crowning was re-enacted, with last year's queen, Ruth Peebles, now a student at MSU, crowning Miss Warner.

Escorting the queen and her court were Robert Crane, Lyle Gennett, Mike Wood, Dave Hess, Jim Warner and Tim Anders.

Board reviews budget; hears new grading plan

Charlevoix's School Board reviewed the 1969-70 budget for the benefit of interested school district residents Monday night, and an analysis shows little variance with the austerity program introduced last summer.

Built around a sum of $978,923, with a contingency fund of $29,125 added, the budget totals $1,008,048.

From this amount of expected revenue, school district taxpayers will account for 73.46 percent, the state for 26.08 percent, and federal sources for 4.6 percent.

Superintendent Rex Milligan stated that the budget is very much similar to expectations last summer. Realistic figures, such as total enrollment, have replaced "guestimates", but those estimates appear to have been close to actual figures. For instance, enrollment was projected at 1,500 students, and actual figures show 1,535 are enrolled.

Expenditures for the school year break down into 71.19 percent for instruction and 11.26 percent for operation of the schools and plant expense.

Lesser expenditures (in percentages) show: Transportation, 6.14; administration, 3.97, contingency fund, 2.49, capital outlay, 1.79; fixed charges, 1.09; maintenance, 1.04; health, .48; and community services, .01.

Broken down into salaries by school, the total to be paid at the elementary level is $234,611; middle grades, $203,513; and high school, $238,459.

According to school officials, the contingency fund is new to the district, and will provide monies for any unallocated expenses, including major mechanical breakdowns or other emergencies.

In other business, the Board heard a committee report on the new grading system in first through fourth grades. Beginning this year, grades will be issued in the form of teacher comments rather than letter grade (A, B, etc.) Reports will be issued four times per year and parent-teacher conferences will be scheduled twice during the term.

Board member Charles England and Miss Fran Martin were appointed to a committee to study plans for the senior class educational trip.

The Board approved a move to send all three school principals to a Negotiation Workshop Thursday in Petoskey.

Assignment was approved for three assistant basketball coaches as allocated in the budget.

A decision to not sell roller skates owned by the district was made, and a committee of Donald Brown, Board member Dale Boss, and principal Raymond Carr was appointed to try to establish a skating program.

November 9 was selected as the date of the dedication of the new elementary school. Miss Martin was named chairman of the program.

Following completion of remodeling of the middle school, the Superintendent's office will be moved from the high school to a portable classroom.

Dr. James I. Mudgett sits in his office in medical building. Dr. Mudgett will open offices Monday.

Dr. James I. Mudgett to open practice Mon.

A Muskegon native, by way of Santa Barbara, California, is Charlevoix's newest doctor.

James I. Mudgett, M.D., will begin his practice next Monday. In addition to private practice, Dr. Mudgett has been appointed to the active staff at Charlevoix, bringing the total to nine physicians and two dentists.

The new doctor terms his "a family practice, including pediatrics, obstetrics, minor surgery and general medicine."

His office is located in the Charlevoix Hospital Medical Building. He becomes the third physician to locate his offices in the building.

Dr. Mudgett was born in Muskegon and attended local schools, graduating from Muskegon Senior High School in 1958.

He persued his pre-med training at Olivet College, Olivet, Michigan, graduating Magna Cum Laude in 1961.

Remaining in the state, he was graduated from the University of Michigan Medical School in 1965.

From 1965 to 1966, he interned at Midland Hospital.

Following his internship, he served in the U.S. Air Force as a flight surgeon until 1968. One year of that time was spent in Vietnam, at Phan Rang Air Base.

After being discharged from the Air Force, he received post graduate training, general practice residency, at Santa Barbara General and Cottage Hospitals, Santa Barbara, California.

Dr. Mudgett plans to open his offices October 20. He will serve residents by appointment. His office telephone number is 547-2972.

Charlevoix's newest doctor is married and his wife Karen, live on Dixon Avenue.

Supervisors adjourn over technicality

Charlevoix County's Board of Supervisors began several days of meetings Monday in the County Building.

The first day's agenda included a public hearing on a proposal for Charlevoix city to annex Charlevoix Township.

The hearing was adjourned on a technicality, however, when it was determined that publication of the hearing notice in the Courier was published only two times, in the issues of October 1 and 8, when state law mandates three publications immediately prior to such a hearing.

City attorney John Michael said yesterday that city council made the decision "to proceed posthaste with proper publication and work on a new time schedule."

According to Michael, the new schedule would fix move the annexation issue back approximately two months.

City officials and a core of township board members and residents have been discussing the annexation move for over one year.

In September, the groups decided to make the move. The hearing was the first step, following a petition submitted to Council to annex the township.

When the hearing is rescheduled, arguments will be heard, followed by an election in the township.

Should the election be favorable, the Board of Supervisors will again meet to make a final determination on the annexation proceeding.

Annual report

County cancer crusade tops goal with $5,936

The board of the Charlevoix County Unit of the American Cancer Society, has released its annual report for the 1969 fiscal year.

Final crusade figures released were well in excess of the $3920 goal set by the Michigan Division Office. The Unit "Bettered their Best" with total contributions of $5,936.79. The area Crusade Chairman, Mrs. Harvey Varnum, Boyne City; Mrs. W. G. Boswell, East Jordan, and Mrs. Edward Vogler, Charlevoix, join Mrs. LeRoy Sorenson, Unit President in expressing their appreciation to all the volunteers who made possible the very successful crusade.

Dr. Harry Custer, Charlevoix, is now serving on the Board as Medical Chairman. Other board members are, Mrs. Leroy Sorenson, president; Mrs. Maurice Dixon, treasurer; Mrs. Larry Martin, educational chairman; Mrs. Harry Tompkins, dressings chairman and area crusade chairman.

The Scholarship Committee has named as the recipients of this years scholarships: Miss Vicki Ulvund, East Jordan (2nd year); were well in excess of the $3,920 Miss Nicholynn Kenney, East Jordan (1st year); Mrs. Patrick Martin, Charlevoix (1st year); and Mrs. William Breakey, East Jordan (2nd year). The $150 yearly scholarships are awarded to nursing students working toward their R.N. degree. All of the above mentioned students are pursuing their studies at North Central College in Petoskey.

CROP shipments go to Biafra

The recent crash and destruction of a Joint Church Aid U.S.A. operated C97-G plane near Uli, Biafra, with the loss of four Americans and one Englishman, was not due to war activity, according to word received here today from Jan. S.F. van Hoogstraten, director of the Africa program of Church World Service.

During the month of September, Joint Church Aid flights approximated 400 and tonnage of relief supplies delivered totaled a monthly record of 5,138. JCA International in which JCAUSA takes an active role, is a consortium of religious-affiliated agencies seeking to alleviate starvation in Biafra.

County included in project

Secretary of Agriculture, Clifford M. Hardin, has authorized U.S. Department of Agriculture assistance to the sponsors of the Northwest Michigan Resource Conservation and Development Project. Arthur Cratty, State Conservationist, U.S. Soil Conservation Service said today the USDA agencies are now authorized to carry out the Department's commitments for the 4,081,280 acre resource development project.

Russell Gingrich, chairman of the Project Steering Committee said the goal of the project is to help people in the 13-county area increase economic opportunities and improve living conditions through the development of the area's resources.

During the planning stages, the RC&D Steering Committee reviewed and approved over 400 action measure proposals.

Counties included in the Project Area are Antrim, Benzie, Charlevoix, Emmet, Grand Traverse, Kalkaska, Lake, Leelanau, Manistee, Mason, Missaukee, Osceola and Wexford. The area involves approximately 200,000 people in Michigan's Northwest Lower Peninsula. Sponsors of the project are the Soil Conservation Districts and the County Boards of Supervisors in each of the 13 counties.

Streak continues with 18-0 win

One of the top three teams in conference play will be eliminated after the smoke clears next week. After a hectic, high scoring affair last week, things will probably get back to normal once again. St. Ignace goes to Cheboygan for a Friday game, while our Rayders will have to wait until Saturday night to play at Traverse City St. Francis.

Last week we saw some high scoring affairs. Alpena CC edged out Petoskey, 34-32, Boyne City ran over Cheboygan, 32-12, St. Ignace clobbered Rogers City, 38-6, and Charlevoix defeated Gaylord, 18-0.

While the Rayders will be in a real key game at TCSF, the Gladiators will be keeping an eye on their 3-1-0 mark in league play. St. Francis was expected to be in the cellar in pre-season polls, and surprised everyone with their fine play. Going fine with Stan Kozlowski and Mike Comstock, the Glads have posted impressive victories over Gaylord, Petoskey, Cheboygan, while losing a 14-12 contest to Rogers City. Their defense is tops in the league, and could create some problems in the Rayder camp this week.

The Rayders passing attack could throw St. Francis' defense into a turmoil, and demolish their final hopes for a league title. Charlevoix wins the battle, by six points.

The Ramblers shocked everyone by dumping Cheboygan by such a big margin, and are considered "ramblers" once again. Coach Pfahler has the team fired up, and once that happens, they are going to be hard to stop. Mike Dufon stepped into the scoring spotlight last week by scoring three touchdowns, and put him in the scoring race, at the number four spot in league play.

The Ramblers will go to Gaylord for their annual clash between these two squads. The Ramblers in the past have always had close games with Gaylord, and in the past four games have been split down the middle. It's Gaylord's turn to win this one according to the trend in the past four years, but unlikely they will. The Ramblers even their record at 3-3, as they spoil Gaylord's Homecoming, winning their third straight game this season, 20-6.

St. Ignace jumps across the Mighty Mac to tangle in Cheboygan with a questionable Chief squad. The Chiefs have had more than their share of key injuries this season, and have been a big disappointment to all.

The Chiefs showed very little spunk against Boyne City, and don't stand much a chance against the title bound Saints. The St. Ignace quarterback, Jeff Savard threw three touchdown passes against Rogers City last week, and backfield star, John Brown, scored twice. The Saints are as well-balanced as they come, and continue to lead the league in offense, winning 34-12.

The final game of the week will indeed be a big one for the two schools on Lake Huron. The Alpena Catholic Thunderbolts will be playing at Rogers City in a game that could go either way. Alpena's coach Jim Surles had his team fired up for their big win over Petoskey, and will hand the Hurons their fourth defeat of the season, 22-20.

Petoskey will take a much needed rest into this weekend. After scoring 62 points in their last two games, and dropping them both, what more can you say for them, that WOW. One thing going for them, is their leading scorer, Scott Chickering. Chickering last weeks efforts gave him the No. 1 scoring spot in conference play.

Bank hosts meeting

Charlevoix County State Bank will host the regular meeting of the Northern Michigan chapter of the Bank Administration tonight at the Argonne Supper Club.

According to Fred Payne of the local bank, and also a director of the Institute, over 100 bankers from Michigan will attend the meeting.

Topic of the meeting will be "Truth in Lending", led by Payne.

Red Rayders prepare for St. Francis, Saturday

The Red Rayders, refreshed from their 18-0 conquest over Gaylord last week, prepare plans for tangling with a strong Traverse City St. Francis team Saturday night in Traverse City. The Rayders won last years contest, 28-7, and are hoping for a repeat performance Saturday.

Gaylord proved to be real pesty in the opening minutes of the first quarter, stopping Charlevoix's initial drive with ease, but the tune changed quickly. Gaylord couldn't get their feet in the door, and the second series they had the ball, fumbled into the hands of Joe Jones.

The Rayders took off slowly. With Bruce Meggison and George McClellen alternating carries, the Rayders chopped off yard after yard, and with only 13 seconds remaining in the first period, scored when Stewart Coleman broke over from the one foot line.

The Rayders increased their margin to 12 points by half-time. After stopping Gaylord's major threat of the game inside the C-21, the Rayders again made the slow progress in picking up their second touchdown with only a minute to play in the half. By using the pass, and the pitchout, Coleman directed his team to the 15 yard line. From there, he threw to Kraag Lieberman in the end zone for the touchdown.

Gaylord had the ball very little in the second half. The Rayders combined a smooth ground game with pin point passing of Coleman, and picked up the final touchdown early in the final period.

The Rayders pushed Gaylord back to the 10 yard line, where Gary Peters was forced to punt out to the 33. The Rayders took over threre, and drove to the 14. It took the Rayders four plays to get the first down, and two plays later for McClellen to score from the three.

Gaylord threatened late in the game when they recovered a fumbled on their own punt inside the C-20. But an alert defensive move by Potter saved the shutout on a pass interception.

1970 Torino GT

The Maverick-maker strikes... again and again and again.

1970 Maverick
1970 Ford LTD

FORD

Ford. Take a quiet break. Move into the quieter world of the sleek new Ford with a computer-designed S-frame and a unique new suspension system. The ride is so smooth and vibration-free that you have to test-drive it to believe it.

Torino. All new clear through. Torino is the most completely changed car of the year. Longer. Wider. Smoother. And sparked by six great V-8's up to the big 429 4V Cobra Jet Ram-Air V-8.

Maverick. Still $1995*. The Simple Machine. The car that held the price line is the best-selling car of the seventies. Maverick already has more than 150,000 happy owners. Join them . . . see how simple life can be.

*Ford's suggested retail price for the car. White sidewall tires are not included; they are $32.00 extra. Since dealer preparation charges (if any), transportation charges and state and local taxes vary, they are not included, nor is extra equipment that is specially required by state laws.

Clubs in action

The Arts and Crafts Group of the Charlevoix Woman's Club will meet October 20, at 9:30 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Ray Wood, 302 Michigan Avenue. Mrs. Wood who is chairman will discuss plans for the December meeting of the Woman's Club, which the Arts and Crafts group will sponsor.

The Charles Dickens Study Group will meet October 20, at 1:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. A.H. Cameron, 105 Petoskey Avenue. This group aims to preserve the heritage and fellowship of the smaller study clubs that were merged to form the Charlevoix Woman's Club. They will welcome former members of either the Shakespeare of Dickens Study Clubs, as well as interested new members.

The Ladies Auxiliary to the V.F.W. holds its regular business meetings on the first Thursday of every month and its social meetings on the third Thursday of each month.

Officers of the V.F.W. Auxiliary are president, Mrs. Frank Novotny; secretary, Mrs. Leland Warner and treasurer, Mrs. Jim Whitley.

The group has recently completed 19 hospital gowns and six bibs for the retarded patients at Gaylord State Hospital. The hospital sends material and patterns to groups or organizations for sewing.

October is membership month for the Auxiliary. Special plans include a sandwich-salad buffet to be held October 16, at 7 p.m. All members paying dues on or before October 16, will be eligible for a $5 cash drawing. Games will follow. Guests are welcome.

The Auxiliary will continue to send packages to local servicemen stationed overseas. Members are asked to contribute canned snacks, instant mixes, etc. Charlevoix area residents may submit names and addresses by calling 547-9598 or 547-4260.

If any mothers of Girl Scouts have Brownie, Junior or Cadette uniforms that they would like to donate, sell or trade please call or deliver them to Mrs. Barbara Timms 547-2918. Please put your and the size of the outfit in the pocket of the uniform, with a note expressing your wish to donate or price expected from the uniform.

Junior level leaders are needed to direct girls from nine to eleven years old. The effort is minimal and the rewards are great in the Girl Scout program.

Vane Smith served as master of ceremonies at Thursday night's Pep Rally.

Pat's Reaction

BY PAT BEGROW

Do you know what? Christina Ford and I have something in common. No, it's not that we're both on the Ten Best Dressed List. And it isn't that we both use Biz in our laundry. The thing that makes us have something in common is that we both have correspondence bags that look like grab bags.

I was really cheered up when I read that one of the Ford daughters described her stepmother Christina as having a bag full of correspondence that she had to rummage through every time that she wanted something.

We both must have the same mental block for I have clippings, letters and papers stashed away in piles all over the house. When I desperately need something it causes a great upheaval and everyone in the family has to join in the search.

I'm a compulsive clipper, but a dreadful filer. Because I'm a writer I'm a voracious reader who's always looking for ideas. When I find something interesting I tear it out and keep it for future reference. The places that I keep it are; on the breadbox, in my purse, or with the Christmas wrappings in the dining room, but never never never in my files.

This may seem strange in view of the fact that I used to be a secretary, but the truth of the matter is that I even hated to file then. Actually uncoordinated as I am I struggled through a year of shorthand just so I wouldn't end up as a file clerk. That would have been a disaster, for I'm sure that most of the time I would have been a file clerk who was on welfare for filing the M's with the N's.

As it is in my scramblings to find the article that I clipped last week, or the letter that arrived yesterday I'm constantly running across things that I haven't seen for years. That's kind of nice you know, for the nice things are the only ones that I can't bear to throw away.

When I come across papers, cards or letters they bring back all kinds of pleasant memories. It makes me happy again to read all the names on a birthday card that I received when I turned magical twenty-one. I can just picture the rollicking Pretzel Bell Restaurant.

I like to read newspaper clippings of past achievements of members of my family, swimming races, architectural awards, talent shows.

I get a kick out of looking up a recipe and finding my mother's picture in the cookbook. If that picture were hanging on the wall I'd never notice it. Hidden in the book it comes as a nice surprise.

I still keep a telegram that reads, "Gamma Foo and Theta Zoo say hello." Oh those carefree school days.

Now I could put all of these things in a file or in a big box labeled "Happy Thoughts," but I'd never be able to find the box, nor would I ever take the time to do so.

As it is I find these things at unexpected moments tucked away in drawers and books. When I do they temporarily take my mind off of the hectic search that I'm on trying to find the letter that arrived last week or the bill that should have been paid yesterday.

Maybe that's the way that Christina Ford feels too. Perhaps beneath her long blond hair and my short brown hair, we're really sisters under the skin. At least I'd like to think so.

Mrs. Malison and son Robbie, 3.

Old home renovated

BY BERNICE WEXSTAFF

Once upon a time the Charlevoix citizenry could walk the length of Bridge street and recognize by name everyone encountered in the stroll.

But times have changed—particularly within the past decade, and now, with the advent of big industry, Charlevoix has become a city of strangers.

The new citizens have contributed much to the local scene: New homes have sprung up on the perimeter and all around the town. Some of the newcomers have bought up existing housing and rejuvenated the older homes until they now present a distinctly modern appearance, more attractive and functional than the originals.

Such a home is the dwelling at 406 Antrim street... Antrim street, although a main access to Charlevoix Hospital, was close to becoming a slum district when a general rehabilitation got under way, thanks to the work of individual old home purchasers.

Rogert and Frieda Malison of 406 Antrim street have worked a miracle with the old Art Barnes property. Their contribution to the "valley" in the center of town has helped to transform a liability into a civic asset.

Robert Malison is a plant attendant at Medusa Company. He worked for the company in its former location at Manitowoc, Wisconsin, and came to Charlevoix in July 1967 with his wife, Frieda, two sons, Robbie (Robert John) aged 3 and Gary, age 15 months.

The Malisons also have two daughters, Constance Funk, now 18 and a student at Concordia Lutheran College in Ann Arbor and Cindy, 15, a student in Charlevoix High School.

Housing was scarce in 1967 and the Malisons purchased the old Barnes place which had been built soon after the turn of the century, because it was immediately available.

The Malisons have improved the exterior with a long-lasting aluminum siding and attractive wrought iron railings. They have paneled the living rooms and foyer in wood, build closets (Pioneers had few clothes and little need for closets), remodeled kitchen and bathrooms and added a utility room and a playroom.

Today the old Barnes place ia an extremely livable modern 10-room home that compares favorable with any new home in town. There is no doubt but the rejuvenation has added greatly to property values in the entire block.

The Malisons have not only contributed much to the beauty and orderliness of Charlevoix's west side, but as devout members of Bethany Lutheran Church they have also contributed much to the moral sum-total of the community.

Charlevoix needs, and hopefully will get, a continuing flow of new citizens such as the Malisons who will rebuild or replace the old before pioneer dreams are completely overwhelmed by neglect and decay.

Peace group hears mother

The International League for Peace and Freedom met at the home of Mrs. Gerald Drake, Thursday, October 9.

Speaker for the meeting was Mrs. Robert Allen who had just returned from Hawaii where her son is awaiting court marshal for leaving his naval unit to take sanctuary in a church as a protest against our military actions in Vietnam. His address is Richard Allen, B560907 General Detail, Marine Base U.S. Naval Base, FPO San Francisco 96610. He may receive letters. He is able to write to only one friend and his parents, can receive no newspapers or newspaper clippings and his mail is censored. She found that he was kept in solitary confinement and not allowed to read or exercise during the day but was treated humanly.

There are 37 young men who took sanctuary in the church in Honolulu at the "Church of the Crossroads," a non-denominational church. It was reported that there are many churches and citizens of Honolulu involved in this dissent..the boys have been surrounded and helped by many prominent citizens including lawyers, doctors and a large segment of the population of Honolulu. As far back as February the churches had instigated this protest and offered their buildings as a sanctuary for protesting G. I.s. She felt the newspapers were fair in their coverage. Mrs. Allen found that with the large number of troops stationed in Hawaii and many soldiers taking rest and recreation leaves there, the atmosphere is very attuned to the war and the war is more a subject of discussion than it is here.

Ten of the men were not apprehended as they came back to the mainland and have been giving speeches in the United States. One tried to give a speech at the United Nations and was arrested. Two made their way to an Episcopal Priests meeting at Notre Dame where they were able to speak before fleeing to Canada.

Mrs. Allen emphasized that there was no indication that the boys were influenced by any radical or subversive groups. The sincerity of the boys was impressive because most of them were in no personal danger. Many had been in Vietnam and were on their way home to be discharged and chose to go to prison as a protest instead.

Plans are under way to cooperate with the college student Vietnam mobilization called for October 15. Local arrangements will be publized later. Members were present from Cross Village, Charlevoix, Conway and Petoskey.

Letters to the editor

Luedke speaks

Dear Editor:

Many of the ills in our country today are being capitalized upon by groups with ulterior or miss-directed motives. There are organizations that are openly and admittedly bent upon the violent overthrow of our government. There are others whose sole aim is to reap profits from the illegal sale of drugs and weapons.

Recently an alert citizen spotted what appeared to him to be an unusual and suspicious act. He observed a high speed motor boat apparently recover a package dropped from a foreign flag vessel transiting the Straits of Mackinac. Through his action in reporting the incident authorities were able to apprehend the motor boat although, unfortunately, not soon enough to prevent disposal of the package.

This incident certainly points up the vulnerability of our shorelines to illegal entry of such items as drugs, weapons and tax evasion items.

Smuggling has always been a serious concern for our country due to our desire to maintain a favorable attitude toward freedom of movement of all peoples. This very freedom works against us by permitting our enemies to operate with only slight fear of detection.

It is imperative that all citizens, whether they are connected with law enforcement agencies or simply private individuals, recognize a possible act of smuggling when they observe it and report the complete circumstances immediaately to the nearest Coast Guard, State Police, County Sheriff or other law enforcement agency.

By putting on the pressure of our alertness, the potential smuggler will be forced to use secretive and surreptitious methods which are at once more costly to him and more vulnerable to surveillance by official agencies.

Sincerely,

D.D. LUEDKE

Grapes

Dear Sir:

I was rather skeptical when I read your article on boycotts being "used to force compulsory unionism among grape pickers."

The rate of infant mortality, maternal mortality and infectious diseases among the migrant workers is 125 per cent above the national average. The farm worker is excluded from unemployment insurance and collective bargaining laws. The minimum wage requirement for farm workers is 45 cents less than for others. They seldom qualify for coverage under social security. Inadequate funds make enforcing state laws requiring adequate housing impossible. Grape growers refuse to spend the extra money for pesticides which would be safer for the workers.

Cancer

A special scholarship of $25 was awarded Mrs. Deborah Jenkins to assist her in the continuance of her practical nursing studies.

Personal financial assistance was given 16 area patients this fiscal year, for transportation, ambulance fees, drugs and dressings.

American Cancer Society Educational films were viewed by approximately 850 area residents in schools, Kiwanis and Rotary clubs. These films can be approximately 850 area residents in schools, Kiwanis and Rotary clubs. These films can be obtained for showing to schools, service clubs and other organizations by contacting local area chairmen or the Unit Educational Chairman, Mrs. Larry Martin.

Literature racks and ACS Public Information booklets were distributed to all the doctors and dentists in the area and to Charlevoix Hospital by Dr. Custer. It is hoped that the literature will be scanned by the waiting patient, thus alerting more and more people not only to the seven warning signals of cancer but also to the importance of an annual "check-up."

Mrs. Maurice Dixon, treasurer, stresses that those wishing to contribute to the ACS Memorial Fund may do so by contacting her at the First State Bank in Charlevoix or a local area chairman. Special memorial cards are sent to the family of the deceased in the donors name.

Again this year, service stations throughout the county will have aerial flags. These flags are bright red in color and are made of durable light weight nylon. They attach easily to the car aerial and are visable from a great distance thus protecting you at intersections where the snow has piled up. The one dollar donation requested for the flag goes into your County crusade fund to "Fight Cancer."

Library notes

Cooler weather means more time to spend in the kitchen, and the Library has new cookbooks on the shelves with fresh, appetizing ideas and budget-stretching recipes.

"The Big Chocolate Cookbook" by Gertrude Parke contains an appealing array of desserts, pies, cookies, torten, puddings, gelatin desserts, candy, beverages, breads and even an unusual chapter with several recipes for using chocolate with poultry in the Latin American manner.

"The Hot Dog Cookbook" by William Kaufman is a unique collection of over 150 hearty recipes highlighting the hot dog's versatility. There is, for example, Hot Dog & pumpkin casserole; Hot dog a la king and hot dog supper loaf. The author, father of two children, has written 23 books including "I love Peanut Butter" and the Coffee Cookbook."

"The Pleasures of Japanese Cooking" is a delightful book containing the secrets of just how to prepare and serve--at home-- the delicious Japanese food everyone enjoys in restaurants. All the necessary hints for making appetizers, main dishes, cooking vegetables and festiveal foods are here. There are special instructions for making the traditional Chrysanthemum turnips, plum blossom egg and tangerine baskets. Written by Heilachi Tanaka, Head Chef of the Japanese Cuisine, Japan Air Lines and Betty Nicholas, national award-winning Food Editor of the Mercury-News, San Jose, California, the book is more than a collection of recipes. It offers a keener appreciation of the charm of Japan and its customs.

"The Goodhousekeeping Cookbook" was a gift to the Library. It is one of essential, hard-to-beat, all-around cookbooks that contains literally everything the bride or experienced housewife needs to know. There are numerous colored illustrations offering new ideas for table arrangements and ways to serve food attractively.

"Gifts From your Kitchen" is a timely book with Christmas approaching. The book contains a wealth of recipes for every gift-giving occasion. There are Mincemeat fudge squares, Sugared chestnuts, Swedish Apricot Loaf and over 43 cake specialties, from Date Bait to Diamond Angel Food for a 60th Anniversary.

Benefit set at Grandvue

Plans for a benefit games party to be held at the Grandvue Medical Care Facility on Wednesday, November 5, were made at the regular meeting of the Auxillary of the facility held recently.

The event will be held at the Facility from 1 to 4 p.m. on that date. Members are asked to bring cookies or candy to be offered for sale at that time. The party itself is open to the public. Those attending are asked to make a $1 donation for an afternoon of games.

A wide variety of entertainment will be offered. Funds raised by the project will be used for the patients' Christmas.

At the business session it was also decided by the 30 members present to purchase several much-needed pieces of equipment for use at the Facility.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER
CHAMBER MANAGER

I have observed the outside and by the number of contacts here at the office, we have had quite a number of extra persons around this town interested in homes to buy or rent, color viewers and sports-fishermen. Having to do with the sports-fishermen, I made special observation for my own satisfaction and found them to be some particularly nice people also.

It appeared they were very orderly and showed good sportsmanship. We entertained at our home, one friend from Cleveland who came here for a visit and to fish. He was out four days and did not catch a coho or a steelhead or anything else in fact. But he was a good sport about it all. As always before, he was impressed by some new angle or other and left saying it will be his pleasure to come back and see us. He even brought his boat this time to fish in a variety of locations. His pattern was like many others, I am sure–some caught 'em and some didn't.

I understand that the opinion of some of the authorities around the area is that they feel the initial salmon fishery was satisfactory and about the only tickets issued were to those, not to fishermen, but to other boaters, bulldozing around the fishing boats and otherwise. In other words, probably "careless operation." The fishermen I talked to were greatly pleased with what Lake Charlevoix and the surrounding area had to offer.

Along with the new fishery, goes inspiratuon and more effort displayed by certain communities to modernize and step up facilities.

I wish to call to your attention an item taken from "Marine News", issue of October 3: Second Annual Sno-Mobile Show, artillery armory, October 35-November 2; Greater Michigan Boat Show, artillery armory, January 24-February 1; Regional Boat, Sports, and Vacation Show–Cobo Hall–January 31-February 8; and the Third Annual Travel Trailer Show, artillery armory, February 14-February 22.

Your Chamber of Commerce is trying more to get involved in different projects, and for the time being, is greatly concerned in parking. This is quite an issue and it has been for some time. Our parking committee consists of Larry LaGrow and Ralph Hess, Jr., both directors of this Chamber.

Last Tuesday evening, October 7, was the regular meeting here at the Chamber of the Chamber's Board of Directors, Lyle Miles, was presiding. At roll call Misters Miles, Acton, and Juilleret, Bartlett, Schroeder, and LaGrow were present. Slightly late were Tom Hanna and Gordon Neff. Ralph Hess was absent. Of course, copies of the minutes were distributed to all the directors present and after there was time enough to read them or to study them over, and there being no discussion, Mr. Schroeder motioned to approve the minutes as is, which was seconded by Mr. Acton. All voted "yes", and the minutes were approved. Secretary-Manager reported that receipts for September, 1969, totaled $1,308.49. $500 of this amount represented voting right membership fees, and $85 represented various contributions at $5 to $30 each, and $311.02 represented our share, that is 50 percent of the net profit brought about by working with the Mount McSauba group, maintaining the refreshment stand at the Belvedere Club during the Michigan Amateur Golfer's Association Tournament last June. Our cash disbursements for September, 1969 totaled $1,736.61. Of this amount, $24.85 was used for miscellaneous office expense; $244.03 represented two more bills for the Water Front Art Fair; $555.63 represented sales tax paid to the State earlier collected at the Art Fair; $14.14 was used for the telephone bill; $12.89 was paid to the State, representing sales tax collected at the Hobby Craft Show; $65.63 was paid to the State for sales tax collected earlier at the Venetian Festival; $100 was paid against the debt for last year's Charlevoix brochures; $57.93 was paid to the State for sales tax collected at the refreshment stand at the Golf Tournament, to mention but a few to give you some idea.

The secretary called the attention to the fact that at meeting time, our check book balance was $600, and my friends, this is dangerous.

The secretary called attention to the fact that the rising costs in everything we are involved with and recommended a special meeting set up by the Board of Directors to re-evaluate our entire membership registration, and establish fees accordingly, and added that this has been done once or twice by other Chambers which has occurred since the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce changed its rates about five years ago.

He also called to attention a need for a nominating committee in an effort to get three new directors, voting for whom has to be done by the voting right membership before the December Annual Dinner Meeting. There must be established a slate of five and the selection of three. It is hoped this may be accomplished shortly.

President Miles called for a report from two committees active at this time, Color Cruise Committee, Mr. Acton, Mr. Neff, and Mr. Loder. All three reported very satisfactory though donations of $3 per person, especially locally, were extremely slow.

It's with this background that we should consider the work of the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee led by Cesar Chavez. In every selection held so far the workers have voted to be represented by the UFWOC. Striking has proven useless, as the growers have imported workers from Mexico. The boycott appears to be the only way to get the growers to recognize the rights of the pickers.

Personally, I'm supporting the boycott because I couldn't live on $3500 a year. It's a small contribution to not eat one thing so that someone else can have a better life.

Thank you.

Very truly,

Service set at Nazarene

On Monday, October 20, at 7:30 at the Charlevoix Church of the Nazarene, there will be a special missionary service. Rev. Harold Stanfield will show slides, as he presents the work of the Church of the Nazarene in Bolivia, South America.

Rev. Stancleld has had a colorful life. He was born in Colorado; received his degree in religion in California at Azusa Pacific College; pastored two churches in California; served 15 years as missionary and superintendent of Nazarene Missions in Nicaragua. Then, for ten years he was superintendent in Bolivia.

This service will be as interesting to visitors as to members of the local church.

All services of the congregation are held in their new church, which is located on the corner of US31 and Waller Road, just North of Charlevoix.

The pastor, Rev. Thomas Rash, is available to help anyone with a spiritual need.

Sophs take tests

All members of the sophomore class of Charlevoix School will take the three-hour National Educational Deveopment Tests (NEDT) on Tuesday, October 28, according to Vane H. Smith, principal.

"The NEDT battery," Smith said, "is a series of test in English, social studies, mathematics, natural sciences, and word usage designed to measure each student's ability to apply basic learning skills rather than his ability to memorize facts.

"We will use the test to help students, parents, and teachers identify individual strnegths and weakensses in each student's educational development and in making a realistic appraisal of his educational and vocational goals."

Published by Science Research Associates, Inc., the NEDT battery was constructed under the Direction of SRA's Test and Evaluation Division. It has been administered to more than five million students throughout the country since it was introduced in 1959.

what's a funny place for a phone?

That depends on your sense of humor. If interrupting your washing or ironing to rush upstairs to answer the telephone leaves you breathless, then an extension telephone makes good sense.

An extension telephone saves steps and lets you do your telephoning from where you are. You can select from many smart styles and decorative colors.

Call your Michigan Bell Business Office or ask your telephone man. For as little as ninety-five cents a month (plus tax) you can have an extension telephone in any funny old place you'd like.

IN THE OPEN

BY LEE SMITS

Once upon a time two high school kids tore themselves away from their studies and trundled a canoe on a pair of wheels three or four miles to where a marshy creek joined a sizeable river. Their outfit included two single-barrelled shotguns, two boxes each containing 25 black-powder shells, costing 45 cents a box, a tent and groceries.

They camped on a rise of ground overlooking a marsh, prepared to open the duck season next morning. In that far-off era it is probable that the most abundant waterfowl species in southern Michigan was the wood duck. Wood duck prefer flooded timber and there were stands of oak in sloughs and back-waters that produced an abundance of wood duck. Driving on country roads in early fall you would see flocks on the sky line moving from one patch of woods to another.

The young hunters dined on fried eggs and coffee, strong, black coffee and too much of it. They were wide awake in the dark of the morning and hurried to rig a make-shift blind, with half a dozen mail-order mallard decoys out in front. The kids lurked in this ambush until the sun was high, firing not a shell. Then they paddled upstream into a jungle of down timber, mud flats and brushy islands, an area swarming with wood duck. In no time the boys had expended their ammunition, averaging about one duck for every 10 shots.

Their bundled tent was in the bow of the canoe and one the bundle they spread their ducks, hoping to impress any hunters they might encounter. They encountered few, if any. Here was a duck utopia a few miles from town, yet in the days before automobiles became prevalent, gun pressure was negligible.

Years later one of the hunters came upon wood duck in the heart of downtown Manhattan. There was a pool about the size of a bath tub in front of a brick mansion and in the pool, six wood duck. A man came out with a pan of feed and explained that the little flock had been reared beside the pool.

Federal and state conservationists have tried to rescue the wood duck from extinction by drafting special regulations protecting the species. Perhaps these precautions will succeed, although the wood duck's chief enemy is not the hunter but expanding civilization, drainage, until wood duck habitat, including big hollow trees, is gravely diminished.

A nesting wood duck requires a hollow tree, with an entrance not quite big enough for a prowling raccoon. There used to be considerable discussion as to how young wood duck got from a lofty nest to the water below. Did their mother carry them, one by one, in her bill? It seems likely that the downy infants are merely heaved out of the nest and that they survive the perilous fall because they are so light and fluffy.

Back to the kids in the canoe. At sundown, as they prepared to haul their outfit back to town, they discovered that their ducks were hopelessly spoiled by the sun. They day's bag had to be left behind. What they did carry with them was what outdoor people learn to cherish above all else; memories of marsh and water, stars, wind, wild wings and good companionship

It is good to think that Michigan still has wood duck. In spite of smokeless powder, chilled shot, fast transportation by land and water, we can hope that this most beautiful of waterfowl will linger on.

Marv Best wins award

Marvin Best, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard W. Best of Ellsworth, recently attended the Society Corporation's National Convention at The Pioneer Inn, on the shore of Lake Winnebago at Oshkosh, Wisconsin. The convention convened on Thursday, October 2, and ran through Saturday, October 4.

Marvin, who is a sophomore at Michigan State University, majoring in business, joined the Society Corporation sales force May 1. He qualified for the convention by being Society's No. 10 college salesman for the 1969 Summer Campaign. At the award's banquet on Friday night, he was presented a trophy by John F. Stafford, executive director of sales of the Society Corporation, for his outstanding sales performance.

The Society Corporation is a college-oriented company involved in the sale of hope-chest items to the single, working girl market.

Operating loans help farmers

Many young farmers in Antrim, Charlevoix and Otsego Counties are using Operating loan credit from the Farmers Home Administration to develop their farms, according to Ernest C. Schuette, County Supervisor for the Agency.

"During the coming months we are going to place special emphasis on using this type of credit," Schuette said, "to encourage and make it possible for young farmers to develop their farm resources to the fullest," he said.

About 50 percent of the operating loans in Antrim, Charlevoix, and Otsego Counties during fiscal year 1969 went to young farmers, Schuette said.

Farmers Home Administration operating loans may be made to young farmers who qualify to buy livestock and equipment, refinance debts, or supervisor helps farmers work out a farm and home plan to make the best use of resources available and to increase their income.

"This type of credit," Schuette said, "helps curb the migration of young farmers to the cities."

WSU Student Builds Own '70 Model Auto

DETROIT—A Wayne State University student has joined Detroit automakers by coming out with his own 1970 model auto. But it's not for sale.

The prototype automobile—the Ginetta G-12—is a sleek red hand-crafted road racing special GT built by Richard A. Petit, 35, as his master's degree project.

One more will be built for a cousin, David P. Conley, 27, who helped Petit in actual construction. And that's it. Both are Ford Motor Co. employes, which would create a conflict of interest if they go into production.

It's not likely they would sell too many anyway: They figure the car is worth about $56,000.

Petit and Conley, both of Allen Park, took 1,200 pounds of special clay, several hundred board feet of lumber, fiberglass and other materials, $8,000 in cash and about 9,600 man hours of work and turned them into a work of art. Literally. The car won a blue ribbon in the industrial design section of a Wayne State art exhibit.

The men value their time at $10 an hour. "We each spent an average of at least 30 hours a week for 20 months in actual construction of the car," says Petit. That's $48,000 worth of time and sweat, in addition to the cash outlay.

Petit, who works in Ford's design center, had the idea, bought a Ginetta chassis, designed the car and engineered the basic concepts. Then Conley stepped in, chipped in about $1,000 and his experience as a clay modeler as the two began construction.

With a drawing on each wall of the garage at the rear of his home, Petit and Conley in August 1967 began tediously shaping the vehicle.

The neophyte car-makers used polyester resins and fiberglass to make 50 mold sections from the clay model for the finished product, 10 for the exterior to ensure the absence of die lock which would make the molds unremovable from the model.

Inside the 89¾-inch wheelbase, just behind the driver, is a 4-cylinder in-line double overhead cam Lotus Ford engine with 1,600 cc (1.6 liters) displacement, producing about 100 basic horsepower per liter. Petit estimates the car's capability at 0 to 60 mph in 6.5 seconds, with a top end of 150 mph.

The engine has special modifications for operational efficiency and is hooked up to a transmission with five forward gears. Central engine placement gives almost ideal 60-40 weight distribution, with a little more on the rear wheels.

Ruppe Reports

"What have you personally done to help those of us who must subsist on Social Security payments?"

I feel that present Social Security payments are inadequate to meet the needs of our Senior Citizens in this time of inflation. The Nixon Administration has stated that a 10 percent raise in benefits is in order. Certainly an across-the-board raise—in my opinion, substantially above 10 percent—is needed. I do not think, however, that a general raise alone will alleviate the problems of our citizens that are receiving the minimum Social Security payments. I have, consequently, introduced legislation that would raise the minimum primary Social Security benefits from $55 to $100 per month.

I have, secondly, introduced a measure that would tie raises in Social Security benefits to rises in the cost of living. With such a provision, no Senior Citizen receiving benefits would ever again be victimized by inflation. I am pleased that President Nixon has given his endorsement to this bill.

Ways and Means Committee Chairman Wilbur Mills has finally scheduled hearings on Social Security legislation. I am hopeful that action may be taken shortly.

"I would like to know how you vote on major issues. Would it be possible for you to provide a synopsis of major bills and your vote in the Ruppe column?"

I think that your suggestion is an excellent one. Next week, I will begin to provide a legislative round-up of important legislation as a supplement to the Ruppe Report.

Seaman Heise visits France

Seaman Clarence P. Heise Jr., USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence P. Heise Sr. of 310 Mason St., Charlevoix, is serving aboard the aircraft carrier USS Yorktown, which recently visited Brest, France, upon completion of NATO Excercise "Peace Keeper".

"Peace Keeper" was one of a series of regularly scheduled NATO training exercises involving more than 40 ships and about 200 land and carrier based aircraft, and was designated to test the readiness and effectiveness of the NATO striking fleet.

In Brest, crewmen had the opportunity to enjoy the specialties of the area, including seafoods and shopping on the Rue de Siam.

Halloween magic

Witches on broomsticks fly through the sky. Ghosts and gobblins slip through the streets. Grinning jack o'lanterns light the way. It's Halloween and there is magic in the air.

Small magicians in Charlevoix County have their special chemistry for this night. The elements they use are the pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters instered by generous adults into the familiar orange and black cartons as the costumed small fry "Trick or Treat for UNICEF".

Where does the magic happen? The first transformation takes place within the hearts of these American children. Instead of a night of mischief and destruction, the children have a worthwhile purpose on Halloween. Their aim is no longer how many ash cans can be overturned; not how many windows can be soaped or broken; not how many goodies they can collect for themselves; instead, their aim is how many coins they can gather to help less fortunate children around the world.

The most incredible transformation takes place at the United Nations Children's Fund where the coins are turned into real tools to help the millions of needy children in the developing countries.

+$.10 can provide 50 glasses of milk.

+$.25 can buy a basic education kit for a primary school child.

+ $1 is transformed into a stethoscope for a mother and child health center in Brazil.

+$5 is converted into a professional reference book for a health worker in Thailand.

On October 31, proclaimed National UNICEF Day by the President of the United States in 1967, Americans across the country have the opportunity to set this magic into action. These ghosts and goblins can become the magicians bringing health and hope to the sick and needy children around the world through UNICEF. Won't you help when your local Trick or Treaters come to your door? Every coin you can spare will make Halloween a magic time for children everywhere.

Just fidget

The next time you are uncomfortable in a theater, stadium or auditorium seat—fidget.

That's the advice of seating experts at American Seating Company, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Researchers have found that holding the body virtually motionless tenses and strains the body muscles, restricts circulation, and promotes discomfort and fatigue.

Fidgeting and squirming relaxes those muscles and distributes the strain of supporting the body over a wider area, allowing blood to circulate again through constricted vessels. Even only slight shifts of arm, leg or torso can restore comfort almost immediately.

Why are they dying?

It is surely a step in the right direction when President Nixon reduced draft calls and trims the number of our troops in Vietnam.

A youth who thereby stays home next month, instead of heading for Vietnam via Ft. Knox, can feel lucky. If the young man is already deferred because he is in college, he is even more fortunate. He is not only escaping the draft for awhile, maybe forever, he is probably escaping the Vietnam war, also. There is no question that Nixon has begun the final but slow withdrawal and the shooting may well be over before the graduation of many boys now in college.

So bully for the young men who won't have to risk their lives in a senseless, unjust war. But in the meantime, other U.S. soldiers are dying, a few hundred a week. Dying in a war their President has already conceded can't be won. A war from which the U.S. has already begun to retreat.

How would you like your boy to be the last to be drafted? the last to go to Vietnam? the last to die there?

Why does he have to die? Because he didn't have enough money and brainpower to swing college? Because the chance of his birthday put him in October's draft call, instead of November's?

Or simply because it takes a long time for a bunch of stuffed shirts to figure out how to save face at the Paris peace talks?

There are only a few things more unjust than our draft laws. One of these is certainly a national policy which asks boys to die for a cause their leaders have already given up.

Teachers should do more than wrangle

Teachers can't be all bad, but if you read the papers, it may seem that way. The only time you read about them is when they are striking for higher wages.

It's been going that way for 3 or 4 years - ever since teachers learned they had muscle and decided to use it. For that, we can hardly blame them. It's the public and the lawmakers who are to blame. Teachers' salaries should be set statewide, just as state civil service salaries are set. When teachers play one school district against another, they are simply taking advantage of an outdated system the lawmakers should change.

The teachers do set themselves up for criticism in their organizations. The teacher groups should do more than wrangle with the legislature and call strikes. They should be a force for good in the community.

In some counties, teachers are doing just that. A story last week told how the Michigan Education Association chapters in some counties have taken school to the jails. Prisoners are encouraged to study. Volunteer teachers visit the jails to help them. A sheriff in Tuscola County says many of the prisoners like it and study hard. One judge praises the teachers and says the program has real value.

In the past, teachers never quite became a part of the community. The community wouldn't let them. A teacher couldn't smoke or drink and was generally regarded as something that should vanish behind the bookcase when school let out.

Those days are gone. We should be glad of it. The teachers have become economic, political and social equals and the public must deal with them on that basis. On the other side, the teachers must accept their responsibility to the community. Now that they have earned, fought for and won their place in the community, it's time to think about doing something for it.

Viewpoint!

Protesters are choosy

Last weekend a tank truck carrying liquid anhydrous ammonia, a dangerous chemical used in fertilizers, crashed into a building in Munday, Tex. The liquid poured out of the ruptured tanks, turned to vapor, and forced the immediate evacuation of the town's 2,000 residents.

This is the sort of accident protesters presumably had in mind when they attacked the army for shipping poisonous phosgene gas across the country by rail. The protests grew into such a storm, aimed at the railroads as well as the army, that the army postponed a second shipment out of Denver.

Yet we've heard almost nothing about the danger of shipping gases and chemicals by truck, and there's been scarcely a word of protest over the accident in Munday.

Why the difference? It can hardly be any more comfortable to be done in by gas from a truck than by gas from a train. Anhydrous ammonia, in sufficient doses, can be just as unpleasant as phosgene. The obvious explanation is that it is fashionable nowadays to attack things being done by the army. (Chicago Tribune)

How to live with tax

Reuben G. Soderstrom, president of the Illinois state AFL-CIO, has a brilliant scheme for making income taxes painless. He would like employers to raise the pay of every Illinois union member enough to cover the new state income tax of 2½ per cent.

"We will do our best to live with the governor's tax," he said, "by making it a retrievable, negotiable item when our labor contracts expire."

In a recent letter to THE TRIBUNE, a Chicago teacher likewise used the income tax to justify higher pay for teachers. We wonder if Mr. Soderstrom and this teacher have stopped to figure out what would happen if everybody managed to "retrieve" his income tax in this manner.

The employers, thus saddled with the 2½ per cent tax on their employes' wages as well as the 4 per cent tax on their own profits, would have no choice but to "retrieve" at least part of their increased outlay by raising prices. This, in turn, would give another push to price inflation, and workers would insist on another cost-of-living increase to make up for higher prices.

The state, faced with higher prices for goods and new demands from its own employes, would then have to seek higher taxes–and so on ad infinitum.

How do Mr. Soderstrom and the tax-allergic teacher intend to escape this vicious circle? Or do they think that only the favored few are entitled to have their taxes paid for them, and that everybody else should foot the bill in the traditional manner by tightening his belt or moonlighting? (Chicago Tribune)

Confidence in teachers

Amid the hurly-burly of the American Federation of Teachers' convention in New Orleans, the United States commissioner of education beamed a few uncomforting remarks directly at the professional pride of his audience.

No record is available regarding the number of delegates present at the session, nor is there any possible index to gauge the degree to which the shafts sank home, but what Dr. James E. Allen Jr. had to say deserves a measure of meditation by teachers and administrators alike.

His basic charge was that there is a gradual sapping of public confidence in the performance of teachers. This paradox exists in a society where school performance far surpasses anything in the past.

Dr. Allen said this "skepticism toward educators and their work is deepening," especially among the black and the poor. He might well have included middle-class America, where the same dubiety is as deeply entrenched, if less publicly voiced.

Middle-class American parents want their children to have a better education than they did on the well founded conviction that this will provide an upward economic thrust. Traditionally, such parents have respected clergy and teachers in that order, but the attitude toward the latter is changing.

"We still have a public school system that is failing to educate large portions of our clientele," charged Dr. Allen, claiming that many students are unprepared "to participate constructively in our society and are unsuited for the rigorous demand of life in this technological society."

If it Fitz

Evil lurks in classrooms

My mother used to send me off to school with warnings to be careful crossing streets and to study hard or I'd grow up to be a street cleaner.

As my kids returned to school recently, I warned them to beware of sex education, boys with long hair, and girls in short skirts.

A parent can't be too careful these days.

Every sensible person knows sex is dirty, except between husband and wife if not too often. Certainly our school kids shouldn't be learning where they came from. They're liable to grow hair on their palms, or something.

Besides, my son watches TV so he already knows why shapely girls in bikinis climb all over a guy. It's because the guy drives a new Dodge.

Some kids try to give us adults a hard time on this long-hair and short-skirt business. They say Jesus Christ and George Washington had long hair. And mini-skirts are where it's at, the same as Mother's phony chest, and what's so deadly about skin above the knees anyway?

One nervy young man even had the guts to claim it's unconstitutional for a school to deny him an education unless he gets a haircut. "As long as I pass inspection at home," he said, "no stuffy teacher has the right to tell me how to dress or wear my hair. As long as I'm clean, I'm not hurting anyone."

That's not how it works, of course. A teacher in a nearby school explained the long-hair danger this way: "Shaggy hair is a distraction to all students. The youngsters can't learn with long-haired boys in the classroom, and I can't teach."

"You mean you all keep looking at the long hair, the same as you'd keep looking at a little lamb if it followed Mary to school?" I asked.

"Exactly," said this teacher who is bald and cross-eyed and has a nervous tic which causes him to pull on both his ears every 2 minutes. "We simply can't have any distractions."

Any sensible adult would certainly go along with that. Except I do know one teacher who said a strange thing. He said:

"Teachers are not barbers or policemen or fashion experts. We are in the classroom to teach, and the kids are there to learn. The amount of hair in a classroom has absolutely no relationship to how much can be learned in that classroom. Remember how Albert Einstein wore his hair? I'm fed up with all this nonsense. If the adults would quit making such an unholy fuss about how the kids look, there'd be no problem and, dammit, you newspaper reporters might have time to notice that most kids look a lot more decent than their elders. Did you ever go in a supermarket and eye the fat old dames in curlers and bursting slacks? Or the pot-bellied, skinny-legged old men in crew cuts and shorts?"

Charlevoix Hospital was recently cited by Michigan Hospital Association of completion of 50 years of continuous service to the community.

Out of the past

2 years ago

The Antrim and Charlevoix County boards of supervisors were asked to refuse to levy the twelve mill school tax voted on August 7, on the grounds the election was illegal. The county boards must approve levying of all property taxes.

The chambers of commerce in the cities of Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan unified in a fight to get the state to plant the coho salmon in Lake Charlevoix.

Charlevoix Red Rayders played their Homecoming game on Friday the 13th. The Homecoming court consisted of Kris Lieberman, Geri Oliver, Janet Pease, Mari Tervahauta and Lauri Wilson.

Mayor William Fochtman dismissed reports that Charlevoix must redraw its ward boundry lines. The mayor stated that they have received no official word from the state to this effect.

A 25-member board of supervisors held daily sessions from October 12-16 to settle the county budget and set salaries for county officials.

Bill Kusina purchased the Uhrick Auto Sales. Kusina moved here from Detroit where he had been in the car business since 1951.

The city council approved plans for a $30,000 administrations building at the Municipal Airport. The state took care of 50 percent of the total costs.

Henry Hogan, a summer resident of the Chicago Club, purchased the building on the corner of Park Ave., and Bridge St. He plans on rebuilding it into a number of summer shops.

Donald Brown was elected president of the newly formed Junior Chamber of Commerce. The group has since disbanded.

The Charlevoix Community Chest started their 1959 campaign. Mrs. James Coleman was secretary for the drive.

Dr. Gilbert Saltonstall was installed as the president of the Michigan Medical Association. He is now practicing medicine in this community.

Dixon St. stays 1 way

Charlevoix City Council Monday night decided to keep Dixon Street one way, at least until next fall.

The move came after residents of the street presented Council with petitions several weeks ago asking that the street be opened to two-way traffic.

In the past, the street has been made one way from the middle of June through Labor Day to accommodate the large volume of traffic to Depot Beach.

This year the street has remained one way, and apparently will do so at least until next September.

Council also moved to purchase a new police cruiser from Parsel Garage in Charlevoix.

New gospel broadcast

The weekly broadcast of "I Sing of Thee will begin Saturday, October 18, 9 a.m., on WLDR, Traverse City FM Station. The program of sacred music will be heard each Saturday, thanks to the sponsorship of three Ellsworth business places: Ellsworth Hardware, Bob's Sunoco and Snow-Sport, and Standard Oil Agent Doug Way, who serves also in the Bellaire and Central areas.

The broadcast features three men who spent a successful weekend in Northern Michigan this summer, singing at Traverse City, Ellsworth and Charlevoix. Vocalists are Ernie Hansen and Gary Bomgaars, both of the Muskegon area, and they are accompanied by Doug Tjapkes, who currently operates a radio station in Grand Haven. Special Instrumentalist on the weekly radio broadcast is Harold DeCou, internationally known gospel organist.

This marks the fourth station in Michigan on which the program is now heard weekly. Besides that, their broadcast has spread to Seoul, Korea, where it is heard each week over a 50,000 watt radio station that even beam into Russia!

Arrangements are now being completed to begin the Broadcast in Puerto Rico. The men have also produced three long-play recordings.

School lunch is 'big business'

BY CHRIS CAREY

This week is National School Hot Lunch Week. Charlevoix High School is part of the national program.

All of the meals at the school are planned by Mrs. Marie Blissett. She has worked with the hot-lunch program for 25 years. She started in 1944, before Charlevoix became associated with the national program.

When asked about some of the big changes that have taken place in the program, she said that there has been many. When she first started with the school system all of the food was cooked on two stoves, a three-burner electric stove and a three-burner gas stove.

The cooks had to clean all of their own vegetables which were bought to the school by farmers in return for luncm tickets for their children attending school.

Getting the students to work in the cafeteria was not the problem that it is today.

Ten or so years ago the student received ten cents a day and a free lunch. Today they are paid $1.25 an hour. But Mrs. Blissett says, "It's the times that have changed and not the children."

Up until 1959, when the new high school was built, all of the dishes were washed by hand. But now they are all washed automatically in dishwashers.

The cost of lunches has also risen drastically. In 1944 the cost of one lunch was 15 cents and the cost of a weekly lunch ticket was 75 cents. Now a daily ticket is 40 cents and a weekly ticket is $1.75.

Each meal served at the school is completely balanced to fill the daily requirements for a child. In the past the food has been prepared at the high school and transported to the Elementary School, St. Mary's and the school at Ironton. However, on October 13, the elementary school kitchen will begin to prepare meals. As a result the cooks will be able to prepare a larger variety of food, no longer limited by transportation problems.

The other ladces who work at the high school cafeteria are Mrs. Rose Hilton, Mrs. Val Wright and Elizabeth Meadows. Mrs. Meadows will, as of next week, be working at the new school with Mrs. Jarvis.

In many cases the meal a child receives at school is the only balanced meal he receives all day. Yes, the school lunch program plays an important roll in the school and will probably continue to do so in the years to come.

Bureau anniversary

Thomas Wieland of Charlevoix R. 1, County President of Farm Bureau, welcomed the 60 membera who attended their 50th Annual meeting held recently at the East Jordan School Gym.

A report was given by the four young high school students who attended the State Farm Bureau sponsored Citizenship Seminar held at the College in Mt. Pleasant in July. They were Dan Berg, and Sharon Lewis, Charlevoix, and Virginia Saunders and Adrian Greenman of East Jordan.

Bertha Parsons, membership chairman, reminded the group that it is membership time again and Charlevoix County, was the fourth County in Michigan to make goal last year.

The three delegates elected to the 50th State Annual meeting to be held at MSU campus on November 10, 11 and 12 were Mrs. Everett Otlinger, Howard Brumm, and Mrs. William Parson, all of Charlevoix R 1.

Accordion music by three East Jordan young people was enjoyed by all, and refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Medusa on spot

Township to enforce air pollution laws

Oscar Stroud, Supervisor, told the Courier that the Charlevoix Township Board has embarked on a program of strict enforcement of its Air Quality Code.

Don Berlage has been retained as Special Township Attorney to assist in enforcement matters.

Stroud called attention to numerous complaints by residents about the Medusa Portland Cement Company's Charlevoix plant causing heavy deposits of cement dust on windows, cars, and in homes and noted the fact that the County Board of Supervisors recently passed a resolution urging strict enforcement of the Township ordinance.

A citizens' petition containing 320 names had been submitted to the Township Board supporting the Board in its attempts to keep Charlevoix County air free from pollution.

Stroud pointed out that the most serious problem was the regular failure of the air-cleaning precipitator system in the stack to perform at 99.7 percent cleaning efficiency as previously claimed by Medusa.

Because of deficiencies in the precipitator system requiring regular shut down of part of the system, at least 15 percent of the dust generated would escape into the air during the time of shut down. Bernard Bloomfield, Director of the Air Pollution Section, Michigan Department of Health, estimated that a 15 percent dust emission level would cause the escape into the air of 3,500 to 4,700 pounds of cement dust per day.

This situation has caused Dean Mikulski, Health Officer, to issue a directive calling for Medusa to institute an acceptable corrective program or else be faced with the prospective of an order prohibiting cement kiln operation during any time the precipitator system is not working at its rated efficiency level of 99.7 percent, or at a permissible level established by the Township Code.

It is not known at this time what effect an order to prohibit kiln operation would have on Medusa's over-all cement production.

The text of the Health Officer's letter to Henry J. Krebs, Medusa plant manager, stated:

"In view of the substantial changes made in your plant operation the previous year, it is requested, under the authority of the Air Quality Control Code for Charlevoix Township, Section 2.02 (e), that a re-registration be made.

"The information to be furnished is described in Section 2.02 (a) (5) of the Code and should cover all phases of plant operation wherein air contaminants are emitted. Particular reference should be made to the quantity of air contaminants emitted during such time that air-cleaning equipment in the kiln is not operating at its design efficiency of 99.7 percent, such as when a section or sections of the electrostatic precipitators are shut down for cleaning.

"Of particular concern is the problem of precipitator buildup requiring repeated shutdowns of various sections of the precipitator system the past several months. Obviously, during these periods of time the allowable emission level under the Code is greatly exceeded. It would be reasonable to believe that this is far more than an ordinary routine maintenance matter but is a problem resulting from inadequate or defective design, installation or maintenance of the precipitator system.

Representative Bob Davis explains proposed educational reform package to a sparce crowd of interested persons Saturday night at new elementary school.

Education reform

Davis: 'lower property tax'

State Representative Bob Davis spoke in Charlevoix Saturday night at the first meeting of the local Parent-Teacher Organization in the new elementary school.

He spoke to a small crowd on the Governor's education package.

Prior to the meeting, Rep. Davis told the Courier that he "hopes to vote in favor of the measure" when it comes to a vote.

"Right now there are portions of the measure that I don't like. I'm offering amendments to lower the proposed statewide 16 mill property tax, for one," said Rep. Davis. He indicated that a 12 mill levy would be more favorable to his legislative district. "Of course, for every mill we lower, we lose $40 million. I propose to make it up through the state income tax."

A question and answer session followed the meeting.

Finances main topic of Supervisors meet

The Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors met last week. Chairman of the board, John Kujawski, stated that the October meeting was very important because much of the year's business is transacted at this time.

Director of the Charlevoix County Department of Social Sciences, Richard Tillen, presented the board with a financial report. Revealed in the report was that the department had an income of $485,276.09 from January 1 through September 30.

Major sources of income were $74,000 as a country appropriated; $611.49; state payments, collections of $388.35, general assistance refund, $728.96, emergency assistance refund from the state and $316,786.16, Grandvue Medical Care Center. This came to a total of $317,903.47. With this total and the balance on hand January 1, gave the department total receipts of $485,276.09.

Social Service disbursements came to a total of $19,041.62. This sum includes administration costs of $5,640.15, general assistance to needy families $11,080.00 and $2,383.47, hospitalization. The social service fund is five percent of the overall cost with the remainder borne by the state.

Centennial year game next Friday

Charlevoix High School will recognize football's 100th year with special activities during halftime of the Rayder-Boyne City game, October 31.

According to Vane H. Smith, high school principal, and Leonard Staley, athletic director, next week has been proclaimed "Football Centennial Week" in Charlevoix by Mayor William Fochtman.

Plans call for centennial presentations to CHS co-captains, coaches, and a special band performance to commemorate the first game played in New Brunswick, New Jersey, between Princeton and Rutgers in 1869.

Charlevoix has a rich football heritage, with several former CHS players making their marks nationally.

Among them is Bob Carey, who appeared on his way to the top with the Chicago Bears in the National Football League before an injury cut his career short. Chuck Fairbanks, head coach at Oklahoma, has his Sooners in the national rankings annually. Dick VanRapphorst is putting his "educated toe" to good use in the pros.

There are many others who have gone from Charlevoix High School to major football schools with great success. Some of them will return to Charlevoix for the activities next Friday night.

Football's centennial year will be remembered by Rayder players. All players will receive citations for participating in the sport during its 100th year.

To date, the season has been an outstanding one for Coach Chuck Carcy and his team. Suffering only a tie, their record is unblemished. The Rayders will be gunning for victory number six when they take the field against Boyne City in the centennial game.

Some long-time fans are comparing the present club with other CHS teams of the past. Charlevoix's best teams, according to reports, were in 1946, 47, and 48 when the teams logged a long undefeated streak.

Broken line darkens city

Get out the candles and keep them handy. For the second time in two days a power failure hit portions of Charlevoix. Power was out from 11:50 p.m. Monday, until 1:35 a.m., Tuesday.

Zap! Out went the lights at 5:10 p.m. Sunday, not to return for an hour and 45 minutes.

Countless football fans in Charlevoix and Petoskey considered the power failure a personal attack as they had just "settled in" for the second half of the Green Bay Packer-Los Angeles Ram game on television.

For almost all, no lights meant groping in dark cupboards for candles.

According to Consumers Power Company, the blackout was caused by a broken line leading to Lexalite Corporation in Charlevoix.

EDA names Charlevoix for grants

Congressman Phil Ruppe told the Courier this week that Charlevoix County has been designated as a redevelopment district by the Economic Development Administration (EDA).

According to Rep. Ruppe, the designation will make the county eligible for future loans and grants considered by EDA.

County officials expressed satisfaction that Charlevoix was named by EDA.

It is not known at this time when the first grant would be made to the county.

Prize catch was recorded by the above four last week at pier along Pine River channel. Over 20 lake trout were hauled in along with one salmon. Fishing were, from left, Fred Looze, John Walker of Chicago, Jim Annis and Mrs. Walker. According to reports yesterday, fishing remains good.

Mayor William Fochtman signs proclamation making October 31 day of recognition for 100 years of football. Looking on is Vane H. Smith, CHS principal.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER
CHAMBER MANAGER

It might interest you to know that our 1969 Color Cruise, aboard MS Beaver Islander, Sunday afternoon, October 12, was a huge success. This cruise brought, it is believed, more pleasure to more people and more needed dollars to the Chamber than the two previous cruises put together. We had just about 100 percent donations of everything necessary. The cash donations totaled $492, and accordingly, potential passengers would total 166; however, actually aboard, there were about 162 persons. We are looking for a boat capacity next year of 200. Thanks a million to you all!

(Taken from Consumer' Protection News Letter, received from Frank J. Kelly, Attorney General's office today). Home Improvements Violations: it has been called to my (Attorney General's office) attention that some home improvement firms again have been advertising free siding for a select number of families in a given area, as well as offering gifts valued at over $2.50 for free estimates. These are violations of Act 332 (the Home Improvement Act) and are currently being investigated. Please refer any violations of this sort immediately to the Consumer Protection Division at the Attorney General's office at Lansing.

This does not imply that all legitimate firms are not complying with the law.

Amusing to me was a bulletin circular received from the Research Institute for Recommendations, New York City. It was indicated "The Way Executives Cut Taxes." The contents of the publication appear to have about 21 items along the line the title suggests. What won't some people do to make a "buck."

I have a news release from Small Business Administration, Division of branch office in Detroit, dated October 8, from which I gather there must be reasonable money there, as they show a total of $3,672,100 in the third quarter of 1969 issued in amounts from $1500 up to $300,000.

From what I can gather, there is money in Charlevoix and some of it sort of idle, so to speak. This office, however, truly is in need, as indicated recently, in order to carry on. Time permitting, we are endeavoring to collect 1969 membership fees from members who last paid in 1968. I am at odds here at the office to have enough time for a steady individual contact; however, if things continue, I will probably have to keep the door locked and make regular calls until completed, instead of spot checking when time permits. This time of the year has always been a problem. I do not mean to imply that none are coming in, they are, but quite slowly–much too slowly! Recently, when talking to some out of town persons who are Chamber minded, one indicated that "sure as heck your fair city needs a Chamber, it can't afford to be without one, but it is probably too small to support it, or just may be deliberate reluctant to support it." Of course, I retaliated with words to the effect that he was pretty much out of line!

Got a beef? talk to Larry

ROYAL OAK -- Larry Diedrick is a trouble-shooter for the Department of State Highways, a man to call when you've got a beef.

Since July, Diedrick has fielded all manner of questions and complaints from residents of the southeast Oakland County area where the big interchange to link the Interstate 75 and 696 freeways is under construction.

His workload will increase steadily as construction proceeds along I-696 through southern Macomb and Oakland counties. The freeway will extend from I-94 in Roseville west to I-96 in Novi.

Diedrick is the third full-time complaint manager appointed by the Highway Department in recent years in an effort to improve relations with residents along urban construction routes.

Fred Marger's success in East Detroit, St. Clair Shores and Roseville when I-94 was being built earned national attention among roadbuilders.

Wilbur "Bill" Bagley has been equally adept at smoothing the way for construction of the I-496 and US-127 freeways through Lansing.

"Having men like these on the job is good for everybody-- the contractor, the Highway Department and the people who must put up with a certain amount of inconvenience of irritation while construction is going on," said William A. Sawyer, the Highway Department's engineer of construction.

"We've found that our complaint managers are able to take care of maybe 90 percent of the questions and complaints themselves," Sawyer said. "The savings in time for contractors, and the delays that have been avoided, are considerable."

Like his predecessors, Diedrick met with local officials to explain his assignment. He also sent letters to businessmen and homeowners along the route, giving details of the freeway project and asking them to call him with their complaints.

Most frequently, complaints concern dust, noise or drainage.

"I find that people are often satisfied just to find out exactly what is going on and why," he said. "They're glad to know that someone is available for information and to try to take care of legitimate complaints."

Says Bagley: "It helps if you have an even disposition and like working with people."

To enforce building law

The Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulation has launched a campaign to improve enforcement of the 1965 Residential Builder'a Act.

The department has fielded a team of investigators who will tour the state and distribute the new Law Enforcement Register to public officials.

The department will explain the provisions of the law, which determine whether local residential builders, maintenance and alteration contractors and home improvement salesmen doing business in the areas are licensed as required by state law.

The Law Enforcement Register is an up-to-date listing of more than 16,000 licensed contractors.

According to the state act, it is illegal for a public official to issue a building permit without requiring evidence of licensure.

Erwin Laylin and John Yonts, president and vice president of the Michigan Independent Contractors Association were in Lansing to meet with Charles E. Harmon, Director of the Department of Licensing and Regulation.

According to Laylin and Yonts, Harmon stated that the Licensing Department would follow up any information submitted to them from anyone in the state regarding contractors in violation of the State Licensing Law and stressed that if local prosecutors failed to enforce the regulations the state Licensing Department would take immediate effective action.

Library Notes

New Fall reading on the Library shelves include "The Search for Amelia Earhart" by Fred Goerner which contains the full story of a fantastic 30-year-old mystery. What actually happened to Amelia Earhart? Was she lost at sea? Was she captured by the Japanese or was she a spy? The book has a "detective-story" quality in its account of the author's exhaustive pursuit of the truth. Fred Goerner interviewed scores of people who had bits of information and slowly the evidence mounted to a clear and astounding story. The answers are here, and it's wonderfully good reading.

"Jennie the Life of Lady Randolph Churchill" was written by Ralph G. Martin. In addition to being the mother of Winston Churchill, she was also one of the most colorful and well-known women of the Victorian era and early 20th Century. The influence she wielded was unprecedented in her time and of immeasurable significance to ours. In the first of a planned two-volume biography, Ralph G. Martin draws upon many sources, including letters and opinions never before made public, to present an intimate and revealing portrait of an extraordinary woman and her times. It as fascinating as Jennie herself was.

"North Toward Home" is an autobiography in mid-passage. Born and raised in Mississippi, the 32-year-old author went to the University of Texas, then to Oxford and finally to one of the most demanding educational institutions of all, New York City where, in 1967, he became Editor-in-Chief of America's oldest magazine–Harper's – the 8th and youngest editor of Harper's in 117 years. This is more than a one-man story. It is the story of a generation that grew to maturity in two of the most provocative decades of United States history–the 1940's and 1950'a. There are memorable portraits of county baseball players, high school English teachers, college fraternity men, reforming journalists, Lyndon Johnson, New York editors and eminent American writers–all part of a narrative rich in humor, sorrow and understanding.

The dinner will be preceded by a reception beginning at 6 p.m., and followed by the slide presentation, "Wayne State Since the Centennial."

Women's World

Groups will meet

The following interest groups of the Charlevoix Woman's Club will meet this week:

The Home Decorating Group and the Antiques Group will have a joint meeting Monday, October 27 at 9:30 a.m. at the home of Mrs. David Fowler, 409 E. Dixon. Any club member who is interested in either of these fields is invited to attend. Any member who would like to join but is unable to attend this first meeting, should call Mrs. Fowler or Mrs. Charles Duerr so they can determine whether there are enough women interested to form two separate groups.

The Book Review Group will meet Mon., Oct. 27 at 1:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Charles Bellinger, 405 Prospect. Mrs. Bellinger will review "Queen Christina" by Georgina Masson. Club members who would like to attend a Book Review group that meets in the evening may call either Mrs. Bellinger or Mrs. Charles Duerr. An evening group will be formed if there are five or more women interested.

Participation in those interest groups is limited to members of the Charlevoix Woman's Club. However, membership in the Woman's Club is open to any woman residing in this area. If you are interested, call the Membership Chairman, Mrs. Robert Barnum, 547-4145, or indicate your interest to any club member. You will be invited to attend the next regular club meeting, following which, someone from the membership committee will call on you to answer any questions you may have about club membership and invite you to join if you so desire.

There will be a Garden Club Workshop on Monday, October 27, at 9:30 a.m. at the home of Mrs. David Fowler of 409 E. Dixon Avenue.

Two interest Groups of the Charlevoix Woman's Club met last week on Monday, Oct. 13. In the afternoon, the Music Group met with Mrs. Wayne Beitel to rehearse Christmas numbers. Plans were made to order new music, so the group can begin practicing for a spring concert of folk music. Their next meeting will be at 1:30, Nov. 10 at the home of Mrs. Robert Tollas.

The Discussion Group met in the evening of October 13, with Mrs. Charles Duerr.

Boy Scouts annual meet

The Scenic Trails Council, Boy Scouts of America, announces the 1969 annual meeting which is to be held on Tuesday night, November 4, at the Park Place Motor Inn. Tickets for the dinner and the entire evening are $3 per person and are obtainable from the Council Service Center at Traverse City.

The 1968 Annual Meeting was one of the most colorful events to take place in Traverse City. This year's meeting, again under the general chairmanship of Dr. Kenneth W. Tinker, promises to be on the same high level.

Dr. Tinker has delegated various committee responsibilities to Richard P. Purvis, in charge of physical arrangements; J. Ray Valade, decorations; E.J. "Dino" Ziebell, printed program; Ohmer J. Curtiss, publicity; Jerry W. McCarthy, reception; Morrell Cole, Silver Beaver awards; James H. Brian, Sr., Eagle Scout recognition; Gerald "Buck" Williams, program; Dr. M. Duane Sommerness, promotion; and Gerald A. Faloon, nominating committee.

The speaker for the evening is Rev. Eugene G. Slep, minister of the Immanuel Presbyterian Church in Grand Rapids, Michigan.

All friend of Scouters and Scouts of the Scenic Trails Council are urged to make early plans and preparations to attend this Annual Meeting November 4th. All 18 counties of the Scenic Trails Council will be represented. All of the excitement of the mystery which surrounds presentation of the Silver Beaver Awards and other highlights of the evening will prevail.

Obituary

M.E. Woods

Funeral services for Maurice E. Woods, 85, retired electrical contractor and father of Wayne Woods, wre held at the Winchester Funeral Home at 10 a.m. Saturday with the officiating. Burial was in Bangor, Michigan.

Mr. Woods died Thursday at Little Traverse Hospital where he had been a patient for two weeks. He had been in failing health for some time.

Born in Louisville, Ky. Feb. 25, 1884, Mr. Woods was married to the former Verna Mauk at Kalamazoo on Nov. 11, 1914. She preceded him in death in 1933. He was an electrical contractor and lived in Kalamazoo until coming here in 1962 to make his home with Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Woods. He was a member of the First Congregational church.

Besides his son, Wayne, he is survived by a second son Stanley of Traverse City; five grandchildren; one great-grand-daughter and a sister, Mrs. Margaret Jones of Otsego.

Retailers course set

An opportunity for all Northern Michigan retailers to attend a retail sales refresher course will be made possible by the presentation of a clinic to be held in Petoskey. This program is sponsored by the Michigan Retailers Association as a community service with the cooperation of the Retail Board of the Petoskey Regional Chamber of Commerce, Petoskey High School Vocational Department, and North Central Michigan College.

The clinic will be held on three separate Thursday evenings, starting at 5:45 p.m. at the Petoskey High School on November 6, 13, and 20. The purpose of this course is to fulfill the recognized need for continued training in sales proficiency both at the managerial and sales clerks level and to raise this proficiency level in the area. The course is also basic for those choosing to enter the retail selling field. A dinner will be served prior to each meeting and a registration fee of $7.50 for the three meetings will be charged.

Health Dept. plans measles immunization

"The tragedy of dead or damaged babies is just too enormous to let it happen when we know how to prevent it.

"We now have a vaccine designed to prevent rubella (three day or German measles)," said Dr. Edward W. Green, president of the Michigan Heart Association, whose medical specialty—pediatric cardiology--has brought him in contact with hundreds of infant and child victims of rubella. He is director of cardiology, Children's Hospital of Michigan. The association is a Michigan United Fund Member.

"The Michigan Department of Public Health and local health departments' plan to immunize young children in the schools is easy and effective, and it should save many women from exposure—one out of every five is susceptible—which can lead to a birth of tragedy rather than of a child," he added.

"Rubella is an astonishing phenomena. It is harmless—people sometimes don't know they have had it—to everybody including mothers, but a woman who has rubella during the first month of her pregnancy has at least a 50 percent chance of bearing a dead or damaged baby. If she gets rubella in her second month, the danger drops to about 35 percent; the third month, 15 percent, and in the fourth month it is negligible," he explained.

"Of babies with damaged hearts of circulations who come to hospitals, about five percent are rubella caused, but this can rise to 10 percent during one of the epidemics."

Rubella can cause any of the large spectrum of serious heart defects, but these are rare. The majority of heart defects come in two classes:

1., Dudtus arteriosus, a failure of the process of natural closure at birth of an arterial shunt that passes the blood of a fetus around the heart. This defect, which may be serious or fatal, is now easily and safely corrected by surgery.

2., A narrowing in one or several places of a baby's arteries, most often in arteries going to the lungs, but also in any of the arteries of the body. If the narrowed place is short, it can be corrected surgically, but if a long part of the artery is narrowed, it can present serious problems.

These two defects, however, are often accompanied by other troubles, including blockage in the heart valve controlling the flow of blood to the lungs and / or holes in the walls separating the two sides of the heart.

Many of these must have surgical treatment. Results vary, depending on location, size, etc. Other rubella defects; blindness, brain damage, deafness, etc., sometimes occur in conjunction with heart disease.

Local garden club elects new officers

Members of the local Garden Club met with the first meeting of the new year at the home of Marjory Dinwiddie. The new Club Officers are; President, Nancy Wood; first vice president, Edith Stenman; second vice president, Nancy Fowler; secretary, Jeanette Cameron; and treasurer, Mildred Ochs.

A most interesting lesson was given by Elsie Bennett on "Flowers of our Fifty States".

All members of the club wish to thank the businessmen, for their cooperation in placing Planters and flower boxes and also those who made flower beds to add to the beauty of our hometown this past summer. We are grateful to each and everyone.

We are proud of our Garden Club and enjoy working together on all city projects and we feel flowers add a great deal to the summer activities.

The next meeting will be with Margaret Wilson November 11, at 1:30 and the topic will be "The Month for Cleaning up the Garden, Cutting back Plants, Bulb Care and Winter Mulch" by Carolyn Rader.

Mi. communities linked to statewide system

Communities in northern Michigan which are electric customers of Consumers Power Company receive their power through an intricate system of transmission lines connected to power plants at several locations.

At any given moment electric power may be coming to Mackinaw City, for example, from Big Rock Point nuclear plant, near Charlevoix. Then again, it may be coming from the Dan E. Karn plant, near Bay City. Or from the Justin R. Whiting plant, near Erie.

This distribution of power over hundreds of miles of transmission line is possible because of an integrated network of high-voltage lines which connect all of the coal-fired or nuclear-fueled plants with each other. Then there is a network within a network which connects the older hydroelectric plants on various rivers with the main system. Hydroelectric plants, which years ago were the backbone of the company's electric system, today are used almost exclusively for peaking power on the Consumers Power system.

A new system of gas or oil fired generating peaking plants, including the latest one at Mackinaw City being dedicated this week, will provide eight percent of the company's total generating capacity wyen completed. The hydroplants will furnish about three percent.

Northern Michigan's portion of the transmission system provides electric power at 138,000 and 46,000 volts. Now being added to the statewide network is a system providing power at 345,000 volts which forms a figure eight to connect not only the state plants but also with electric companies in Indiana and Ohio.

Construction is under way on approximately 700 miles of tower lines costing nearly $100 million. Four thousand steel towers, carrying 345,000 volts of electricity, will link three major generating plants now under construction and connect them with the remainder of the integrated network.

The south loop of the figure eight, 165 miles of tower line, has already been built from Palisades nuclear plant, 35 miles west of Kalamazoo, to The Detroit Edison Company's Wayne substation, west of Detroit. It makes connections with The Indiana & Michigan Electric Company system on the western end of the system below Palisades nuclear plant.

Yet to be connected are the Midland nuclear plant, on which construction is barely started, and the Ludington pumped storage hydroelectric plant, where earthmoving equipment is preparing a huge dike to store water.

Lose 10 Lbs. In 10 Days On New Grapefruit Diet

This is the revolutionary new grapefruit diet that everyone is suddenly talking about. Literally thousands upon thousands of copies have been passed from hand to hand in factories, plants and offices throughout the U.S and Canada. Word of its success has spread like wildfire, because this is the one diet that really seems to work for most overweight people. A well known Toronto columnist recently praised it to the skies. He reported losing 20 pounds quickly and easily long after he despaired of ever getting down to his wartime weight of 165 pounds. All this without cutting out the occasional beer or rye. If it is followed exactly the average overweight person should lose 10 pounds in 10 days. There will be no weight loss in the first four days. But you will suddenly drop 5 pounds on the 5th day. There after you will lose one pound a day until the 10th day. Then you will lose 1½ pounds every two days until you get down to your proper weight. Best of all there should be no hunger pangs. Now revised and enlarged, this new diet plan lets you stuff yourself with foods that were formerly 'forbidden'. Such as big steaks trimmed with fat, Southern fried chicken, rich gravies, mayonnaise, lobsters swimming in butter, bacon, fats, sausages and scrambled eggs. You can eat until you are full, until you can't possibly eat any more. And still you should lose 10 pounds in the first 10 days, plus 1½ pounds every two days thereafter until your weight is down to normal. The secret behind this new "Quick weight loss" is not generally known. Fat, it has been theorized, does not form fat. Perhaps fat fights fat. And the grapefruit juice in this new diet might act as a catalyst (the "trigger") to start the fat burning process. You stuffsyourself on the permitted foods listed in the diet plan, and still lose unsightly fat and excess body fluids. When the fat and bloat are gone you will cease to lose weight, and your weight will remain controlled. A copy of this new and startling successful diet plan can be obtained by sending $3 to The

THE NAPCO CO.
Box 1388
Grand Island, Nebr.

Unconditional money back guarantee. IF after trying the diet plan you have not lost 7 pounds in the first 7 days, another 6 pounds in the next 7 days, and 1½ pounds every two days thereafter, simply return the diet plan and your $3 will be refunded promptly and without argument. Tear out this message as a reminder. Decide now to regain the trim attractive figure of your youth, while still enjoying hearty breakfast, lunches and dinners. Order now before others snap up the limited supply.

Ruppe Reports

"I understand that in 1968 alone, crime increased by 17 percent. What steps are being taken in our Capitol to turn back this tide?"

To help cut the alarming crime rate, which has quadrupled in the past 25 years, the Nixon Administration has proposed more than 20 crime bills to Congress. I am in strong support of these measures, which are vitally necessary to the protection of our homes and families.

The Presidnet has asked for $25 million dollars to help apprehend large-scale narcotics peddlers, and to train state and local narcotics enforcement officers. Such an appropriation is essential, if we are to prevent further drug use, which is even now spreading to our high schools and junior highs.

Professional criminals, who control illegal gambling, the numbers racket, and much of the drug trade, have begun to infiltrate legitimate business. Another Presidential proposal will provide adequate funds to initiate a large-scale attack on organized crime. This measure would, among other things, make it illegal to invest gains from organized crime. This measure would, among other things, make it illegal to invest gains from organized crime in legitimate businesses. It will, further, provide more adequate protection for witnesses in organized crime investigations.

Finally, among the major proposed crime legislation, is a massive $296 million program of aid to strengthen state and local law enforcement agencies. Our local lawmen, who daily risk their lives in the name of community protection, deserve the very best in new crime control programs and techniques. I am particularly happy to support this legislation of special benefit to our local lawmen.

According to recent questionnaire results, the Eleventh Congressional District voters are strongly in favor of grants for law enforcement.

The drug game

A look at LSD: is it dangerous?

Editor's Note: In this fast-paced, quick-changing world with information exploding all around, we hear much about narcotics and drug abuse. But what are the facts as science knows them today?

Everyone has a right and a personal "need-to-know."

In this series of five articles based on scientific information from the Courier in cooperation with the National Institute of Mental Health, up-to-date facts are presented about LSD, marihuana, narcotics, pep pills, sleeping pills, and other abused, dangerous drugs.

The series gives you the fundamentals you need-to-know about drug abuse today.

The first parts of the series will deal with drugs in general. Later, we will explore drug abuse in the County.).

No drug has caused more controversy, with the possible exception of marihuana, than the strange compound known as LSD.

Is LSD dangerous?

Definitely yes, says the National Institute of Mental Health, federal agency focus of a new nationwide attack on the abuse of dangerous drugs and narcotics.

Hospital and other medical studies show that LSD can cause panic, paranoia, and accidental death.

Reactions to taking LSD range from worry, panic, and depression to severe mental derangement.

Days, weeks, even months after a dose of LSD has been taken, the things the user thought that he saw and felt may recur in his mind and make him fear he is going insane.

The physical effects LSD can produce are far from pretty.

Eye pupils dilate, hands and feet shake and tremble uncontrollably, palms turn cold and sweaty, the body shivers and turns chilly, goose pimples pop out, breathing is irregular. There is loss of appetite and nausea; and the pulse and heart rate rise, as does blood pressure.

LSD is short for lysergic acid diethylamide. A man-made chemical first produced in 1938, it was accidentally discovered in 1943 to produce bizarre effects on the mind when a Swiss chemist swallowed some LSD while working in his laboratory. He had strange sensations and felt as if he were flying.

Despite this soaring start, LSD was little explored in following years as far as definitive pharmacological studies in man were concerned. The weird compound lay around, studied by some drug researchers but ignored by most. Then the wave of far-out experience seekers washed up a few years ago.

LSD became the darling of the daring. It was claimed to give you great feelings and increase many capacities, like sex and creativity.

None of this has proved out. In fact, the reverse may be true. But many fables and fallacies like these have spread about LSD. The following facts come from research, not from fantasy and rumor.

Studies have shown that LSD is more likely to decrease sex interests than to increase them. Paintings, writings, and other works by LSD-users fail to show greater talent; rather, the works are poorer when done "under the influence."

Worse, LSD is dangerous. It can cause panic (fear of losing one's mind), paranoia (suspicion that "they're after me!"), mental derangement, and accidental death.

It has been called the most powerful drug in the world. No wonder: 25 micrograms is an amount almost invisible to the naked eye. Yet this amount will produce an effect in most people.

Classed as a hallucinogen and psychedelic -- with mean mind-affecting or mind-altering -- LSD is a member of a group of drugs which include other compounds like marihuana, peyote, mescaline, psilocybin, DMT and STP.

Except for government-approved use for research, LSD is illegal in the United States.

Because LSD is dangerous when not used for careful research under close medical supervision, it is closely regulated by Federal and State laws. These provide stiff penalties for illegal production, sale, other disposition, and, in some cases, for possession or use.

Because more knowledge is needed about this powerful compound, broad scale research is underway to learn fully about its chemistry, animal and human effects, and whether it can have any medical or other real values.

This is another part of the national attack on abuse of narcotics and dangerous drugs of all kinds. On the educational side, newspapers, magazines, radio, and television are enlisting in the fight in a new campaign to provide everyone with accurate information.

For a free folder of facts about LSD write: NIMH, Box 1080, Washington, DC. 20013.

Nextweek, "Up and Down Drugs".

Ever wonder why your kid doesn't take you seriously when you lecture him about drugs?

Pat's Reaction

Lights out!

The name Slumber Party is a misnomer if I ever heard one. One thing that you don't do at a slumber party is a slumber. That's out.

Actually the invitation to a slumber party should more honestly read:

Come to an Unslumber Party
Friday Night
10 P.M. to 8 A.M.
Bring records, food, magazines
Blanket optional

I really think that such an invitation would more honestly describe to parents what's about to happen. Poor things, some of them actually think that the children sleep.

Actually no one needs to tell me about slumber parties for I'm a veteran hostess of four or five so I consider myself to be an old pro.

For instance I picked up some slumber party candidates one Friday night after a football game.

Just as soon as one of them got in the car she said, "Boy, I can hardly wait to get into my pajamas."

Now this statement is misleading for she never meant get into my pajamas and go to sleep. She simply meant get into my pajamas and run around. An unwary parent might have thought that he was in for a good night's sleep, but not me. I knew better.

On the night of a slumber party I don't even plan to get much sleep, a few winks, that's all. In that way I don't feel frustrated when it's two o'clock in the morning and teenage girls are still chasing around the house with hot pizzas and cold pop.

Now when three o'clock rolls around I do feel that the rest of the family should get a little shut eye, so when screams rise above the general din I assert my parental authority and demand quiet.

Do you know what? They give it to me. I think that some are actually relieved that they finally have an excuse to go to sleep, while the rest if they choose can tell quiet ghost stories.

One thing for sure. It seems to me that this is an easy way to let these girls have a night of fun. Surely this isn't much to give to teenage American youth.

And when they leave they're like Arabs and quietly pick up their blankets and steal away. They leave the house so clean that you'd never know they'd been there, except perhaps when you yawn a little more than usual during the day.

Coming Events: Harvest Sale at the Ellsworth Community School October 21 at 8 p.m. Sponsored by the P.T.A. Ways and Means Committee. Please bring donations.

Mrs. Grace Kalkhoven of Grand Rapids left this rainy Monday after visiting her sisters Kate Bronkema and Mrs. Solie Goeman for a few days.

Donald Sterk of Flint spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Claude White. Also visiting the Whites are her brother-in-law and wife Mr. and Mrs. Joe Boulet of Austin, Minn. The Boulets spent their winter in McAllen, Texas and visited Michigan in the fall to enjoy our beautiful scenery.

Mr. and Mrs. Rex Archer of Lansing spent the weekend with the Kenneth and John Peebles families.

The Grand Rapids School of Music group sang at the Eastport Baptist Church Sunday. Two of the group were guests of Mrs. Dessie Farrell.

Spending the weekend with his cousin Mr. and Mrs. A.M. Klooster were Mr. and Mrs. Alex Klooster of Byron Center, Mich.

Answers 'grapes'

Dear Sir,

I would like to answer Janis Peckham's article in last weeks paper entitled "Grapes."

The grape boycott is not a campaign to raise wages, show concern for migrant workers, or get more protective legislation for farm workers. What it is solely is a drive to force grape pickers to join a union to which they don't want to belong.

It is not even a strike. Cesar Chaven, who is a professional organizer for the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee "UFWOC", has spent 3 years and $10 million dollars of the AFL-CIO money and has managed to sign up fewer than 2 percent of California's farm workers.

For those who worry about migrant workers, as we do, it should be pointed out that, according to the Governor's Advisory Committee (California), 88 percent of the farm workers live in the county in which they work and 73 percent have been residents for more than 5 years.

California farm workers, including grape pickers, are the highest paid in the nation according to the United States Dept. of Agriculture. The some 8000 grape pickers averaged more than $2 per hour last year, and the experienced ones more than $2.50. Minimum pay is $1.50 an hour, plus 25 cents per 36 lb. "lug". Experienced pickers can handle 10 lugs an hour. Beginners can do about 3.

The tragedy of the entire, Delanco situation and the ensuing grape boycott is that well meaning people are accepting without question the propaganda put out by trained organizers. I would like to urge people to get the facts, to listen to all sides of an issue before deciding whether or not to support any one side. In this instance, I would like to urge people to study and compare what is being said about the Delano controversy by the organizers, the growers, and the BONA-FIDE farm workers.

Lets eat more grapes.

Sincerely,
Richard Wieland

Seals given to Milliken

Members of the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons through its women's auxiliary, kicked off its annual state-wide drive for scholarship and research funds this week.

Dr. Maynard J. Amelon, Southfield, osteopathic physicians' chairman, and Mrs. Byron C. Pflaum, North Muskegon, state chairman, presented the first group of Osteopathic Seals to Governor William Milliken at an informal ceremony this week.

The funds derived from their sale throughout the state, under the direction of the auxiliary, assisted 35 Michigan students in their osteopathic education during 1968.

Governor Milliken, in accepting the first group of seals said, "I am very pleased to accept these seals in a very worthy cause. Michigan and the nation badly needs physicians and the goal of this program to help ease the shortage is a most admirable one."

Ruppe Reports

"The Gun Control Act of 1968 was passed by Congress to help Federal, State and local law enforcement officials in their fight against crime and violence," Orville J. Turner, IRS Alcohol, Tobacco & Firearms Chief Special Investigator for Michigan and Northern Ohio, said today, adding, that it was in no way intended to hinder the activities of hunters and sportsmen.

As an example, Turner said hunters and sportsmen can purchase ammunition in any state, and likewise can carry their own firearms across a state line as long as they are not convicted felons, or under indictment for a felony; fugitives from justice; unlawful users of drugs; or mental incompetents.

Further, Turner said hunters, sportsmen, competitive shooters, or anyone legally using a gun in a state other than his home state can acquire another firearm if his rifle or shotgun is lost, stolen, or become inoperative.

He said the law requires only that the buyer in these circumstances make out an affidavit for the dealer's records, and provide the dealer with the title of the chief law enforcement officer in the locality where he lives.

Charlevoix quaterback Stew Coleman, who has passed for five TDs this season, takes this one in himself for six points.

Rayders ramble over TCSF, 26-13

The Charlevoix Red Rayders defeated the Traverse City Gladiators Saturday night to remain the only undefeated team in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference.

The game was scoreless until the second quarter when Carl Novak took a pass from Charlevoix quarterback Stew Coleman and went into the endzone to make the score 6-0 Charlevoix. The extra point attempt was missed.

The score remained the same until the fourth quarter when the Gladiators got on the board with a long ground drive and a pass to Tim Kelly from Stan Kozlowski. The conversion was made and S.T. Francis took the lead, 6-7.

The Glads, however, didn't have it for long. Kraag Lieberman took the kick-off 82 yards to score, Dan Berg made the extra proint on a pass from Coleman. With 9:38 left to play, the Rayders took the ball down to the Glads 38 where George McCellan went the distance to make the score 20-7. Then quarterback Coleman took the ball from the 13 to make the score 26-7.

Traverse City made the last score with a 13 yard pass to Mike Kramer.

This week the Rayders have no game scheduled but will take on a rough Boyne City team the 31st. A win over Boyne would give the Rayders at least a share of the title. On November 7 they will take on St. Ignace at St. Ignace.

Faithful Charlevoix fans made trip to Traverse City...they returned home happy, with 26-13 win.

Ski & Shore is named

Ski & Shore Properties, Inc. of Bellaire was recently named to handle real estate sales at TimberLee Hills four seasons resort complex near Traverse City. It was announced by Arie deBruyn, TimberLee president, that Ski & Shore, under the direction of Richard E. Georgl, will maintain a sales office at the TimberLee Hills lodge.

Tyler gets Combat 'V'

Chief Engineman Robert F. Tyler, a former member of the crew of the U.S.C.G. Cutter Sundew, has received the Navy Achievement Medal with Combat "V" for professional achievement while serving in Coast Guard Division Twelve which was engaged in armed conflict against North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

According to the commendation read by Lt. Leo Black, Chinco-teague Group Commander, U.S.C.G., during a formal ceremony at Cristfield Md., Chief Tyler distinguished himself by his efforts to maintain the patrol boats of Coast Guard Division Twelve in a high state of material readiness. Serving with the engineering repair source, his efforts enabled vessels to achieve maximum underway time.

Tyler, 42, was stationed aboard the Sundew for three years prior to serving in Vietnam for a year. Since his return in February he has been stationed aboard the Point Highland Coast Guard Cutter. He and his wife, Barbara, live in Cristfield, Md.

Bruce Meggison is brought down by Glad tacklers in Saturday night's action.

Rayders on top with 2 to play

Another good game is brewing in Boyne City this weekend. The high rising Ramblers have fashioned together three wins in a row after a disastrous start, and now play the Traverse City St. Francis Gladiators. Coach Paul Pfahler has been rocked by injuries to his backfield, and won at Gaylord last week with two reserve backs. Steve Delaney and Dennis Amesbury ran like veterans last week, replacing Mike Dufon and Mike Laurie.

A win for Boyne will lift them into third place in the conference standings, which is quite unusual, after their 0-3 start. This one will be a thriller, with the Ramblers winning, 22-20.

Rogers City travels to Petoskey the same night for a game that could go either way. Both teams have dropped their last three games, and are itching for a victory. The Northmen are low in numbers, but high in spirit, and behind the running of Scott Chickering will pull this one out of the fire to win, 32-20.

The final game of the week finds Cheboygan going to Alpena CC. The Chiefs pulled the upset of the year last week in beating St. Ignace, and did so with three regulars out of the lineup. They have been bothered all year by injuries, and as yet, been unable to suit up their first string complete for any given game. It has been up and down for the Chiefs, and now its their turn to fall. Alpena CC wins this one by a whisker, 22-20.

The Red Rayders find themselves among the elite, as they dominate the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference this week, all alone in first place. It was quite an accomplishment, for in reaching there, they had to continue winning, and the St. Ignace Saints had to lose. That they did. While Cheboygan was toting the biggest surprise of the season in defeating St. Ignace, 32-30, Charlevoix had to wait until Saturday to drop TCSF. The Rayders did exactly that, in almost certainly eliminating the Gladiators, 26-13.

This weekend the Rayders will be idle, but their coaches will probably be busy scouting at Boyne City or St. Ignace, their two final foes of the season. Two wins are a must for the Rayders for the conference title.

While the weekend will be a free day affair for the Rayders, the other schools will continue to play. St. Ignace will be raring for action as they tangle with the winless Blue Devils of Gaylord. And especially so, after losing their conference lead with their loss from Cheboygan. John Brown regained his leadership in the scoring race, and will be looking for another good game against Gaylord. It was about this same time last year that Brown ran wild against the Blue Devils, scoring five touchdowns, and ran three extra points for a total of 33, as St. Ignace won, 39-7.

LEASE

MADE AND EXECUTED this 9th day of September 1969, by and between the Building Authority of the County of Charlevoix, a public corporation organized and existing under the authority of Act 31, Public Acts of Michigan, 1948, First Extra Session, as amended, hereinafter referred to as the AUTHORITY, and the County of Charlevoix, a Michigan County corporation organized and existing under the Constitution and laws of the State of Michigan, hereinafter referred to as the COUNTY:

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, The AUTHORITY has been incorporated under and in pursuance of the provisions of Act 31, Public Acts of Michigan, 1948, First Extra Session, as amended, for the purpose of acquiring, furnishing, equipping, owning, improving, enlarging, operating and or maintaining a building or buildings, automobile parking lots or structures, recreational facilities and the necessary site or sites therefor for the use of the COUNTY; and

WHEREAS, the COUNTY desires to acquire the use of a county jail building (which facilities and the site therefor are herein called "project") and the AUTHORITY is willing to acquire, construct, and develop said project and lease the same to the COUNTY; and

WHEREAS, if this agreement were not executed between these parties, the COUNTY would be compelled to acquire other county jail building facilities from other sources in the foreseeable future to provide the necessary aforesaid facilities for the citizens of the COUNTY in order to protect the public safety and promote the general welfare of the citizens of the COUNTY which facilities would cost the COUNTY more in annual rental than the annual rental required to be paid hereunder, and

WHEREAS, the site for said project are parcels of land, unencumbered fee simple title to which will be acquired by the AUTHORITY, said parcel situated and being in the City and County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, and described in the attached Exhibit A, and upon such site the AUTHORITY will construct and develop the Project; and

WHEREAS, the total cost of the Project is estimated to be in the sum of Five Hundred Thousand ($500,000.00) dollars, which will include the engineers' fees, legal and financing fees, the sites therefor and contingencies; and

WHEREAS, the entire cost of said Project is to be provided by authorizing the issuance of revenue bonds by the AUTHORITY pursuant to the provisions of Act 94, of the Public Acts of Michigan, 1933 as amended; and

WHEREAS, as a prerequisite to the authorization and issuance of said bonds, it is necessary for the parties hereto to enter into a final lease contract whereby the AUTHORITY will lease to the COUNTY and the COUNTY will hire from the AUTHORITY the said Project for a period extending beyond the last maturity date of the said bonds, but not to exceed a period of forty (40) years.

IT IS THEREFORE AGREED BY AND BETWEEN THE PARTIES HERETO, for and in consideration of the agreement and covenants of each other and moneys to be paid one to the other, as follows:

1. The AUTHORITY will, on or before December 1, 1969, enter into final contracts for the acquisition of said project as described in the preamble hereto, following the preparation of detailed plans and working drawings and securing of contract bids therefor; said project to be completed for the use of the COUNTY on or before June 1, 1971, in accordance with the plans and specifications therefor to be prepared as aforesaid, provided that no final construction contracts shall be entered into by the AUTHORITY until revenue bonds to defray the cost thereof have been sold. The Site for the project is now owned by the COUNTY and the COUNTY hereby covenants that it will at the time of or prior to delivery of the bonds hereinafter described convey to the AUTHORITY BY WARRANTY DEED THE TITLE TO SAID SITES IN FEE SIMPLE FREE and clear of all material liens and encumbrances.

2. In consideration of the rentals and other terms and conditions herein specified, the AUTHORITY does hereby let and lease to the COUNTY and the COUNTY does hereby lease from the AUTHORITY the project TO HAVE AND TO HOLD for a term commencing on or before the first day of December, 1969, and ending on a day forty (40) years from the date hereof, or such lesser period as may be authorized by the provisions of this contract.

3. The annual rentals to be paid by the COUNTY and which the COUNTY hereby covenants and agrees to pay shall be Forty-two Thousand ($42,000.00) Dollars payable on the first day of June, 1970, and on the first day of June each year thereafter (which annual rental is hereinafter called "fixed annual rental").

The COUNTY further covenants and agrees to pay as a first annual rental the sum of five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00) payable on the first day of December, 1969 (which sum is hereinafter called "first annual rental").

The fixed annual rentals and first annual rental herein required are in an amount sufficient to meet as they mature, the principal and interest payments on the revenue bonds of the AUTHORITY in the total authorized principal sum of Five Hundred Thousand ($500,000.00) Dollars, and to provide for a debt service reserve therefor.

In the event an increase in the fixed annual rentals herein provided becomes necessary in order to provide adequate funds for the AUTHORITY to meet its debt service requirements on the bonds issued and outstanding, and the necessary reserve requirements, the COUNTY agrees to pay the increased annual rental.

The COUNTY, in its sole discretion, in any annual period, may pay in advance any proportion of its fixed annual rental in excess of the annual requirement, in which event the AUTHORITY shall credit the COUNTY with advance payment of the next succeeding annual requirements to the extent of such excess payments.

4. The COUNTY, at its own expense during the term of the within lease, shall operate, maintain and keep in repair the project, and the expense in connection herewith shall be borne and paid by the COUNTY, in addition to all other rentals herein required. Operation and maintenance shall be deemed to include, but not to the exclusion of any other items not herein specified, lighting, heating, snow and debris removal, painting and such other repair and maintenance items as are necessary to provide for efficient operation of the project and to keep the same in good repair and working order, securing proper insurance coverage, providing necessary attendants, and paying the paying agent fees and charges on the bonds of the AUTHORITY hereinafter mentioned.

5. The COUNTY will include in its budget for the fiscal year commencing January 1, 1970 and shall include in its budget for each fiscal year thereafter, an amount sufficient to pay the total obligations under this contract, including the fixed annual rentals and the operations and maintenance costs of the project as herein specified for the next ensuing fiscal year. The fixed annual rentals and obligations for operation and maintenance costs specified in this contract shall be deemed to be an operating expense of the COUNTY, on or before October 1st of each and every fiscal year the COUNTY shall prepare a statement of the moneys to be included in the next ensuing fiscal budget for the fixed annual rentals and operation and maintenance costs of the Project. The AUTHORITY shall have the right and privilege to communicate directly with the Board of Supervisors of the COUNTY regarding any disputed items in said budget, and in any event the budget shall be reasonably adequate to cover the obligations of the COUNTY herein contained in this Lease. In no event shall the amounts to be included by the COUNTY in its annual budget for the maintenance, operating and rental expenses in connection with this Lease be less than the amount required to reasonably maintain and project, and to pay promptly and fully all obligations maturing under this Lease, as will as the debt service in connection with any revenue bonds issued, or to be issued, by the AUTHORITY in connection with the acquisition, construction, development and leasing of the project, and in no event shall the COUNTY'S obligation in any such annual budget be less than the amount required by law.

6. The COUNTY may install in the project such equipment or fixtures as it may desire, but shall not make any permanent alterations to the project without the written consent of the AUTHORITY.

7. The COUNTY covenants and agrees that it will not permit the use of the leased premises in any manner that will substantially increases the rate of insurance thereon, or for any purpose which will result in a violation of local, state or federal laws, rules or regulations, now or hereafter in force and applicable thereto, and shall keep the AUTHORITY harmless and indemnified at all times against any loss, cost, damage or expense by any accident, loss, casualty or damage resulting to any person or property through any use, misuse, or nonuse of said premises, or by reason of any act or thing done or not done on, in, or about said leased premises or in relation thereto. The COUNTY further covenants and agrees that it will promptly and at its own expense, make and pay for any and all changes and alterations in or about the leased premises, which during the terms of this lease, may be required to be made any time by reason of local, state or federal laws, and to save the AUTHORITY harmless and free from all cost or damage in respect thereto.

8. To carry out the acquisition and improvement of the project and the financing thereof in accordance with the provisions of Act 31, Public Acts of Michigan, 1948, First Extra Session, as amended, the following actiona shall be taken by the AUTHORITY:

(a) The AUTHORITY will, immediately upon the execution of this lease, enact the necessary ordinance to authorize the issuance of revenue bonds in the aggregate principal sum of Five Hundred Thousand ($500,000.00) Dollars, pursuant to the authorization contained in Act 31, Public Acts of Michigan, 1948 (First Extra Session), as amended, being the amount estimated to be sufficient to pay the cost of the acquisition, construction and development of said project, together with engineers' fees, legal and financing expenses and contingencies. The AUTHORITY will offer for sale, and take such other necessary legal procedure as may be necessary to sell said bonds as soon as final construction bids have been received, said bids to held for final acceptance pending sale of said bonds

(b) The AUTHORITY will, immediately upon the sale of the bonds herein provided for, but prior to the delivery thereof, enter into and execute contracts for the acquisition, construction, and developing of said project in accordance with the plans and specifications therefor prepared and approved by the AUTHORITY and the COUNTY, and no changes in said plans and specifications shall be made by the AUTHORITY without the consent of the COUNTY, said contracts to specify a completion date of not later than June 1, 1971. The AUTHORITY shall not execute any contract in connection with the acquisition, construction and development of said project until the same has been approved by the Board of Supervisors of the COUNTY.

(c) The AUTHORITY will require and secure from any contractor undertaking the construction of said project necessary and proper bonds to guarantee the performance of said contract in such amount and in such form as may be approved by the County Attorney of the COUNTY, and such labor and material bonds as are required by law.

(d) The AUTHORITY will, immediately upon receipt of the proceeds of the sale of the revenue bonds, comply with all requirements provided for in the ordinance relative to the disposition and use of such proceeds.

(e) In the event for any reason there are not sufficient funds to complete the acquisition, construction and development of the project, and additional funds become necessary therefor, it is agreed by the parties hereto that either of the following methods of providing said additional funds shall be used:

(1) The COUNTY may pay the necessary funds as additional advance rentals, and obtain credit or repayment therefor of future rentals due under the terms of this contract after all outstanding revenue bonds of the AUTHORITY are paid.

(2) Increase the amount of the first annual rental or the fixed annual rentals to be paid by the COUNTY in an amount fully sufficient to amortize any additional revenue bonds issued by the AUTHORITY.

9. The AUTHORITY shall deliver possession of the space leased by this contract to the COUNTY not later than June 1, 1971. In the event the acquisition, construction, and development of the project for reasons unforeseen, is not completed by that date, the obligation of the COUNTY for the payment of the fixed annual rentals shall in any event remain in full force and effect in order to provide for the payment of interest and principal on the revenue bonds issued by the AUTHORITY.

10. There shall be no abatement of the fixed annual rentals required to be made by the COUNTY for any cause including but not limited to casualty that results in the project being not tenantable, if, in the judgment of the AUTHORITY the funds received from any insurance policies, or otherwise, shall be insufficient to make the project usable or tenantable, then, in that case, the AUTHORITY shall hold and / or invest the funds paid to it by reason of such loss for the benefit of the holders of outstanding revenue bonds of the AUTHORITY, and when upon receipt of sufficient rentals from the COUNTY which, together with the proceeds of the insurance, will be sufficient to pay the principal and interest upon all outstanding revenue bonds of the AUTHORITY, said moneys shall be deposited by the AUTHORITY in trust for the benefit of the bondholdera and used to pay the principal and interest on said bonds as they mature or as said bonds become callable. Such funds so held may be invested in bonds, notes, bills and certificates of the United States of America.

11. The COUNTY shall provide liability insurance in an adequate amount protecting the AUTHORITY and the COUNTY against loss on account of damage or injury to persons or property, imposed by reason of the ownership of the project, or resulting from any act of omission or commission on the part of the AUTHORITY, or the COUNTY, their agents, officers and employees, in connection with the operation, maintenance or repair of said project or the furnishing of any service to the COUNTY. The AUTHORITY shall require a sufficient fidelity bond from any person handling the funds of the AUTHORITY.

12. The leasehold rights, duties and obligations of the COUNTY, as specified in this contract, shall not be assigoed nor sublet in whole or in part during the terms of this contract or while any of the revenue bonds of the AUTHORITY issued for the purpose of defraying the cost of the project are outstanding and unpaid, provided, however, that the COUNTY shall be authorized to sublet the project or any part thereof but only to the extent and in the manner that the COUNTY could sublet if it were the owner of the project and in no event shall any subletting relieve the COUNTY of its obligation to pay the rental hereunder or perform any of its other obligations hereunder.

13. The AUTHORITY, its agents, servants, or employees, shall have the right at all times of entering upon the leased premises for the purpose of inspecting said property and determining whether all of the terms, agreements, covenants and conditions herein contained are being complied with.

14. The COUNTY covenants and agrees that it will continue to pay to the AUTHORITY, in accordance with the terms of this contract, the first annual rental and fixed annual rentals herein specified and the operation and maintenance costs of the project herein established without abatement for any cause or reason whatsoever, until the principal and interest of all revenue bonds issued by the AUTHORITY to finance the cost of acquisition, construction, and development of the project are paid in full.

15. The COUNTY covenants and agrees that if, before all revenue bonds issued by the AUTHORITY to defray the cost of the project have been retired, default shall at any time be made by the COUNTY in payments of the fixed annual rentals or operation and maintenance costs as herein required, the AUTHORITY shall have the right to use all the remedies provided by law to correct said default, including those specifically set forth in Act 94, Public Acts of Michigan, 1933, as amended.

In addition to the other remedies provided by law, the parties hereto recognize the rights and remedies which exist in bondholders by virtue of the provision of Act 94, Public Acts of Michigan, 1933, as amended, and Ordinance to be enacted by the AUTHORITY providing for the issuance of revenue bonds under the provisions of said Act, as provided for and authorized by the provisions of said Act, as provided for and authorized by the provisions of Act 31, Public Acts of Michigan, 1948, First Extra Session, as amended.

16. The AUTHORITY and the COUNTY each recognize that the holders from time to time of the revenue bonds of the AUTHORITY issued pursuant to law to defray the cost of the project will have contractual rights in this Lease, and it is, therefore, covenanted and agreed by each of them as long as any of said revenue bonds shall remain outstanding and unpaid, the provisions of this lease shall not be subject to any alteration or revision which would in any manner unfavorably affect either the security of the bonds or the prompt payment of principal or interest thereon. The AUTHORITY and the COUNTY further covenant and agree that they will each comply with their respective duties and obligations under the terms of this Lease promptly or the times and in the manner herein set forth, and will not suffer to be done any act which would in any way impair the said bonds, the security therefor, or the prompt payment of principal or interest thereon.

17. Any notice necessary or proper to be given to any of the parties hereto may be served in the following manner:

(a) If to the AUTHORITY, by delivering the same to any member of the Commission thereof.

(b) If to the COUNTY, by delivering the same to the County Clerk or his deputy.

18. This Lease shall remain in full force and effect for a period of forty (40) years from the date hereof, or until such lesser time as the revenue bonds issued by the AUTHORITY to defray the cost of the project are paid in full. At such time within the forty (40) year term as all of said revenue bonds and the interest thereon are paid, this contract may be altered or changed by consent of the parties hereto, or the same may be terminated by consent and title to the project conveyed to the COUNTY in manner contemplated by Act 31, Public Acts of Michigan, 1948 (First Extra Session), as amended.

19. The AUTHORITY covenants that the COUNTY, upon compliance with the terms of this Lease, shall and may peacefully and quietly have and hold and enjoy the leased premises for the terms herein provided.

20. This contract shall insure to the benefit of and be binding upon the respective parties hereto, their successors and assigns.

21. If for any reason the revenue bonds hereinbefore mentioned cannot be lawfully aold, or in the further event the parties hereto shall not agree upon the specifications of the project and as a result of said disagreement none of the revenue bonds are issued by the AUTHORITY, this agreement shall be of no force and effect: Provided, however, that in no event shall this agreement become null and void if the said revenue bonds mentioned above are sold and issued by the AUTHORITY.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the Building Authority of the County of Charlevoix, by its Commission, and the County of Charlevoix, Michigan, by its Board of Supervisors, have each caused its name to be signed to this instrument by its duly authorized officera and its seal to be affixed hereto the day and year first above written.

Public responsibility

More than three and one-half million Americans will reach voting age this year. They face a heavy responsibility.

The future of the nation depends on citizens who are willing to study carefully and weigh the economic, educational and social issues -- and vote for candidates who stand for sound government at every level--national, state and local.

We are talking particularly to the new voters--and the generations to follow--because they will have to cope with the colossal expenditures for programs implemented before they could have their say at the polls.

We are talking to the new voters also in the hope that they will believe that progress depends on individual incentive--not federal paternalism.

Where this nation will head in the '70s should be the prime concern of the young people of this generation. To a large degree, it's their responsibility. The time to start is now. A major public decision will come this November with your initial vote. It could be a determining factor in the establishing of a more responsible electorate.

Spring is time for school elections

LeRoy Augenstien calls for members of the State Board of Education, university governing boards, and local school boards to be elected on a spring ballot. School millage votes would be taken at the same time, putting all school issues on the ballot at the same time across the state.

That would put us pretty much back to where we were before we got the new State constitution, and it's a good thing. The new constitutuion loused up as much government as it helped. One of its worst provisions was the dropping of the old spring elections. We would go Augenstien one better and return the election of township officials to the spring ballot.

In the present system, the fate of state school officials, and often the local officials, depends upon what happens to the presidential or governor candidates at the top of the ticket. For 3 straight elections we have elected either all Democrats or all Republicans depending on whether Johnson, Romney or Humphrey swept in.

By having all school elections at the same time, we would focus statewide attention on education problems.

Law officers need help

Do you like to go camping? Then wake up. One of the nation's vital resources is in danger-our recreation areas.

Mr. Joseph W. Bennett, in his recently published and revealing book, "Vandals Wild," has stated that by the year 2000" . . . we'll have 16 to 20 million destructive vandals desecrating our parks and waterways. . ." Presently 95 percent of the population is allowing 5 percent of the population to desecrate and ruin things that are meaningful to us. Widespread destruction done out of pure cussedness is common. In one Oregon county, officials became so outraged over vandalism in a park that they closed it. The park was reopened after one resident volunteered information leading to the arrest and prosecution of the vandals involved.

It is up to the private citizen to help do something about this deliberate, lawless and costly destruction.

Viewpoint!

Canada - Michigan

By BOB MYERS

Ontario and Michigan are separated by only a half-mile of river. Their peoples look at pretty much the same TV and magaines. The newspapers look alike, unless you notice the spelling of a few words like checque and colour.

Yet there are strange differences. Some of their laws and customs seem more progressive and sensible. Others are 19th centrury.

Homosexuality is not illegal "among consenting adults." But drinking a beer on your lawn or at the beach is. Alcohol is permitted only in your home (or hotel room) or in licensed bars and restaurants. Restaurants can't serve liquor, except with food.

On the Windsor-Montreal freeway, you can drive 85 without fear of arrest. But throughout Ontario, you'll get a ticket if you don't come to a dead stop at every stop sign.

Punishment for crimes, large and small, is generally tougher than in Michigan. But after a period of time, without a second offense, a felony can be wiped from your record. You will no longer be barred from government jobs, military service and passports or have other problems faced by a Michigan man with a record.

Some large cities like Windsor have no sewage treatment. But boats must have holding tanks and cannot flush toilets into the river, although it's alright to empty your holding tank into a Windsor sewer which will in turn dump into the river.

There is no capital gains tax, a grat boon to the big investor. But the little guy is hit with a 12 percent provincial sales tax and a 4 percent federal sales tax. Coupled with the import duty, it means a car or an appliance costs a Canadian about 35 percent more.

Cigarets costs 60 cents in Ontario because of import duties to protect the inefficient Canadian tobacco grower. All Canadian farmers get more tarriff and price support protecting than the Michigan farmer. Yet the farmer there must bow to the scientist in matters of safety. The sale and use of DDT is barred in Ontario because of the proven danger to fish and wildlife and the possible danger to humans.

The average Angelo Saxon Ontario man can't understand the widespread U.S. attitude toward Negroes. But the Ontarioan is much more apt to be upset if his son marries a Catholic. And he thinks the French in Quebec are lazy, quarrelsome, spendthrift and stupid.

The Ontario man thinks we're out of our mind to be in Vietnam. He tells us that other powers have called it quits. Russia got out of Cuba, England left Egypt and the Suez. France gave up in both Vietnam and Algeria. He wonders why we don't just call it a mistake and get out.

And on that score, I can't find the other side of the coin. We can match our Canadian friends contradiction for contradiction until they bring up Vietnam.

Con racket

Door-to-door swindling may not be something new, but there always seems to be a fresh angle to add interest to the con-man's game.

The latest is an approach whereby the thief will pose as a representative of the local electric power company in order to "inspect the wiring" or "adjust the electric meter" in a person's home. Invariably, the crook finds something that needs repairs, and demands payment for the repairs on the spot. The amount is usually small, $15 to $20, and the thief accepts it gratefully and leaves, never to be seen again.

The particularly vicious aspect of this latest con racket is that its practitioners prey almost exclusively on elderly persons and the poor. The thieves apparently count on these people to offer less resistance.

Officials of electric power companies across the country warn never to allow any one who is unfamiliar in your home without first being convinced of his identity through company identification and his electric company vehicle. These officials emphasize that no electric company representative will ask for cash payments on the spot. Anyone who does is likely to be a fraud. You can always verify the identity of an electric company representative by phoning the company immediately. (Davison Index.)

Turn off

Senator Edward Kennedy's attorneys claimed that "a gathering crescendo of publicity" was endangering his constitutional rights and therefore the inquest into the death of Mary Jo Kopechne should be postponed. The implication was that the press and not Sen. Kennedy was responsible for the predicament in which he has found himself. It was the Senator and not the press who failed for 10 hours to report to police the death of the girl passenger in his car. The Senator who has thrived in the limelight of publicity for 10 years would now like it off because it doesn't suit his purposes. - Editor & Publisher Magazine.

Great to be a hick

A fellow columnist, the Rev. Lester Kinsolving of San Francisco, stopped in my office long enough to remind me how great it is to be a hick.

Kinsolving had phoned a few hours earlier from Alma (Mich) to say he was due to make a speech in Flint at 11 a.m. that day, but could squeeze in a short conference with me in Lapeer at 10:15. Our business was concluded quickly and he then asked to borrow my phone.

His first call went to Metro Airport in Detroit. Kinsolving explained that he was to board an airliner there at 12:45 p.m. He would fly into Metro in a small plane but was worried about making connections. He wasn't sure how quickly his Flint speech would go, or how swiftly he could be sped to the Flint airport. So would the airline cut a few corners by having someone meet him at the Metro boarding gate with his ticket, thus eliminating the time-consuming procedures at the ticket desk?

"No," said the airline clerk, "such things just aren't done."

"Let me talk to your supervisor," said Kinsolving, suddenly not sounding so much like your friendly neighborhood pastor.

The supervisor got the full treatment. Kinsolving explained he was flying to Washington D.C., to the WHITE HOUSE, and his column appears in 220 newspapers from column appears in 220 newspapers from coast to coast. Faced with the pain of mortal sin, the supervisor agreed to the minister's request.

Kinsolving's next call was to a Washington hotel. He reserved a room for his luggage. No kidding. He told the room clerk he had to speed directly from the airport to a speaking engagement but he would have a cabbie drop his baggage at the hotel. He hoped to be able to rejoin his suitcases sometime later in the evening.

I kept hoping Kinsolving would phone President Nixon with instructions to leave the back door unlatched but he didn't have time. He was already hopelessly late for his Flint engagement and he swooped out the door before I had a chance to tell him I was impressed.

Which I was. I am always awed by these movers and shakers who jet about the world, breakfast in New York, lunch in Los Angeles, and friendly relationships with 253 stewardesses.

I go home for lunch every day.

It's not that my wife's cooking is so great. Any clown, even men, can make a peanut butter sandwich. And it's not that my family is so great to be with. I'll match our domestic chaos (2 cats in the toilet, for instance) against your anyday, Buster.

I just like to go home for lunch. I like working 4 minutes from my house. I quiver at the thought of working in a huge city. The last time I got an offer from a big newspaper, I got lost on my way to the job interview.

I don't really know why I'm such a small towner. The reason might be something esthetic, such as a love of hitching posts. More likely, it's something practical, such as indigestion.

At any rate, to each his own. I'll never write for as many newspapers as Kinsolving. No airport will hold planes for me, and when I visit the White House, it'll be on a guided tour.

But at lunch the other day my hippie-haired daughter told me she liked my new tie. And my wife, as always, collected a kiss before and after.

For this kind of corny kicks, you don't have to phone ahead for reservations.

ON THE 'FLIP' SIDE

Well, the coho have to take a back seat this week to the New York Mets.

After Metsomania dies down, though, it should be noted that fisherman in Charlevoix have been reeling in the salmon. We are told the fish are putting up a good fight. Also, lake trout are reappearing in more shallow water....such as off the channel pier.

Congratulations to all those who helped the county cancer society drive go far over its goal.

There have been no reports of major flooding from the steady rains last week, but we did notice several residents in their backyards checking the condition of their boats....not taking any chances were these modern-day Noah's. Is it true that all this rain means less snow this winter?

One Charlevoix resident stopped into the Courier office last week and let it be known she is ready to start a one-woman campaign for more and better street and traffic signs in Charlevoix.

Her first target, she says, is the curve at Petoskey and Michigan avenues. "Right into a tree if you don't know the road," she added. "There should be a reflective arrow there instead of just a painted sign."

She may have a valid point.

Out of the past

The Charlevoix School Board adopted a $718,234 budget. Salaries will take up approximately 79.84 percent of the total budget or equal to $573,440.

The Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors approved preliminary steps toward the construction of a new county jail that will cost taxpayers $500,000.

Voters will have to approve the issue before the jail can be constructed.

Adopted by the Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors was a record budget of $412,942, for the year of 1968.

Salaries for the Sheriff and his deputies were raised $500.

The Charlevoix School Board received an estimate of two million dollars on the construction of a new K-4 school, renovating and expanding the old elementary school and expanding the high school.

The Charlevoix Red Rayders posted their 4th win with a victory over Harbor Springs by the score of 31-0. As of yet, the Rayders have suffered no loses.

The Charlevoix Community Chest drive had still not reached its goal according to chairman Don Meggison. It is $781 short of its $12,000 goal.

It was emphasized that many charity and youth groups depend on the chest to stay in operation.

Officials from Charlevoix flew to Wampum, Pennsylvania, to see a Medusa Cement Plant in operation there. It was revealed to them that smoke would not be a problem if a system was maintained.

There was still a lot of controversy at the Charlevoix School Board meeting pertaining to the city library. The library is under the supervision of the School board.

Democratic candidate for Congress, Ray Clevenger, called for the construction of a shoreline drive into Charlevoix. The proposed road would be constructed between Charlevoix and Eastport, a distance of 18 miles.

Preliminary plans were tentatively approved for the construction of a new high school. Estimated costs and plans for financing were announced at a later date.

The Charlevoix City Council accepted a bid of $22,916.50 from Lake Construction Co. for improvements and repairs on the waterfront.

The Michigan State Waterways Commission granted $14,139.73 to the city of Charlevoix for work on the waterfront. This is 50 percent of the total cost of the project.

Hooper named to new Aid post

Bernard A. Thompson, Executive Director, Michigan Children's Aid Society, in Traverse City announced last week the appointment of Robert Hooper of Charlevoix to a full time staff position in Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Emmet and Antrim Counties.

Hooper's assignment will provide more professional service to these counties than the Society has been able to supply from the Traverse City office. Hooper is a graduate of Albion College and holds a Masters Degree in social work from University of Michigan. He has been employed by the State Department of Social Welfare in these counties and has many years of child welfare experience.

He will concentrate on adoption studies as well as handle the regular services in foster care of children, counseling of unwed mothers and other services provided by the Society. He will maintain a schedule of office hours for Emmet and Antrim one day each week.

The agency is now looking for office space in Cheboygan and Charlevoix so that the clients will not have to travel so far for service.

Hooper is married and has two sons, 14 and 17 years of age. He is active in Boy Scout work and a member of the Charlevoix Branch of Michigan Association for the Aid to Retarded Children.

Michigan Children's Aid Society is a Community Chest and Michigan United Fund supported agency and it has served Northwestern Michigan from its Traverse City office since 1937.

"Accordingly, in connection with the precipitator buildup problem, under Section 13.01 (b) and (c) of the Code you are requested to

"with all practical speed initiate and complete appropriate reasonable action to correct the conditions causing such emissions to exceed the air quality limits of this code, and to reduce the frequency of occurrence of such conditions'" and "to submit in writing a full report of such occurrence, including a statement of all known causes and the nature of the actions to be taken pursuant to the requirements of this Subsection" and "to outline a (acceptable) corrective program."

"This matter is considered so important that in the event an acceptable corrective program is not proposed and implemented, serious consideration shall be given to the issuance of a directive to your corporation along the following lines:

"Because of the Medusa Portland Cement Company's precipitator system failure, requiring repeated shutdowns of 25 percent of said precipitator capacity, thereby causing approximately 3,500 to 4,700 pounds of cement dust to be emitted per day into the atmosphere during such time that said 25 percent of precipitator sections were shut down for cleaning, it is hereby ordered that Medusa Portland Cement Company not operate its kiln during such times as all or any portion of its precipitator dust-collecting system is not operating in compliance with Section 14.03 (d) (1) referring to particulate emission."

"It is requested that the information required under Sections 2.02 and 13.01 be furnished within 14 days of the receipt of this letter."

Tourist $ up in North

Research of vacation travel in west Michigan during the past summer discloses the region gained approximately $50 million dollars spent by visitors to raise our total tourist revenue to $600 million, according to President Wesley B. Tebeau of the West Michigan Tourist Association.

One of the prime indicators of the research was a gain of 8 percent over 1968 by restaurants in west Michigan from May 1 through August.

Trailer travelers and tent campers showed an even greater increase, up at least 10 percent in most of the private camps and in municipal and state facilities, while resorts and motels reported 2 and 4 percent more vacation visitors.

"These figures are significant," President Tebeau asserted, "because they prove the programs of advertising and publicity by this regional association, the local chambers of commerce and the Michigan Tourist Council actually attracted more visitors to the territory.

"The new $600 million figure has had an impact upon the economy of all sectors of the 31 counties of west Michigan, with a prospect the gain in patronage will continue through the fall and winter seasons." The study done by Directional Marketing Company of Grand Rapids had an objective, President Tebeau stated, of determining the trends on a month-to-month basis, starting May 1, and the aims of the research were accomplished.

Medusa answers pollution charges by Charlevoix Twp.

Medusa Portland Cement Company of Charlevoix yesterday issued its answer to claims by Charlevoix Township that the company was polluting the air.

Henry J. Krebs, plant manager who will retire this month, issued the following statement to Dean Mikulski, health officer of the Township:

"Changes have been made in the Charlevoix Plant during the past year. These changes are now showing improvements in the reduction of air contaminants emitted; for example: after installing the new cooler last winter, the clinker dusting problem due to double handling was reduced with the new clinker cooler. We have been experiencing normal operation of the kiln with production close to the rated capacity of the kiln system.

"As you know, we have had some problems with the handling of waste dust from the kiln system. The change has been made from dry handling to wet handling of the dust. This is costly and additional money will have to be spent next year to improve the facilities. The plans for this system were outlined to you in our meeting on June 19, 1969. Unfortunately, there have been delays and problems, however, we can report to you now that the wet system ahs been in operation for several weeks and is working better than the dry system.

"The maintenance of the electrostatic precipitator during this past year has been difficult, costly and time-consuming. When one section of the precipitator is down for repairs, the efficiency of the over-all kiln dust collection system changes from 99.7 percent to about 98 percent. We believe the emission from the stack, under these conditions, is well within the code. During the time one of the four sections are out of service, it is also necessary for us to change the operating procedures for the kiln system to allow us to make these maintenance repairs.

"Western Precipitation, manufacturer of the electrostatic precipitator, has been and is making a study to determine why their unit require the excessive maintenance and frequent downtime we have experienced this past year. Their latest recommendations include larger vibrating units to clean the accumulated dust from the collecting curtain and discharge electrodes and replace the flexible cables with steel rods for the support of the electrode weight holder.

"Within the next month, Western Precipitation should complete their study. We in turn would order and install the modification kit and replacement parts. A report on these improvements will be sent to you. We believe this action on our part will reduce the frequency of maintenance for each section and the out-of-service on one of the four sections. We are doing our utmost of comply with Section 13.01 B and C of the code and are using the best of our talents and the experience and know-how of Western Precipitation to expedite the solution."

Hospital accreditation awarded for 3 years

Rollie Dudik, administrator of Charlevoix Hospital, announced today that the hospital has been accredited for a three-year period.

"This accreditation is a published protection against hit or miss standards in hospitals," Dudik said. "It is evidence that medical and hospital people are on guard, assuring that the hospital is well run, well organized, well equipped and well staffed. All of these things are important to the people of the community.

"Chances are that when you think of the word hospital, you first think of a building. A compact arrangement of rooms, wards, operating rooms, and laboratories. But a hospital actually is people — the physicians, the nurses and the other personnel and staff that serve you — and the governing board, the administrators who oversee hospital affairs. Many of these people you may never see, but nevertheless they are working behind the scenes to provide the best possible care. The hospital is primarily a place in which people care for the sick.

"Though the scope of the services a hospital offers varies, an accredited hospital must conform to Commission standards in every area in which it functions. In other words, everything the hospital does, it must do well," Dudik concluded.

Board buys equipment, looks at summer taxes

Snow removal at Charlevoix's three schools should be completed more swiftly and economically this winter, following the School Board's decision to purchase a new snow blower.

The committee headed by Board member Burr Blanchard made the recommendation to buy a Snow Master rotary snow thrower for $850 from Sam's Tractor Sales, Conway.

Blanchard said the price was below retail, and the machine is just what the system needs to clear driveways, parking lots and other areas.

The machine will be mounted at the rear of the school-owned tractor which is driven by 43HP. A drive of 35HP is needed to run the snow thrower properly, Blanchard said.

According to the Board, snow removal would begin at 4 a.m. when necessary, and would be completed by 8 a.m.

The Board also moved to contact the city to determine if summer taxes could be collected. According to Superintendent Rex Milligan, "It is possible that the collection of summer taxes would eliminate the need for borrowing funds to operate our schools from July to January."

At present, local tax revenue is not received until later, and the district has been forced to borrow from local banks to operate schools and meet payrolls.

According to the Board, it is possible that banks will not have the money available for these loans with the present money situation.

The Board gave Milligan permission to borrow up to $40,000 if needed to meet payroll next month.

In other business, the Board discussed Governor William Milliken's education reform package, urging that all residents become familiar with the Bill, and offer their comments and suggestions to the Board.

Substitute teacher pay in the district was raised from $21.60 per day to $24 for each day taught in Charlevoix schools.

A committee of Dale Boss, Milligan, Raymond O. Carr and six teachers was appointed to investigate the possible purchase of closed circuit television system from Julius Gilbert of the Lodge.

Gilbert has offered the system to the district for $2,600.

Part-time help will be given to the district bookkeeper, who is "buried in work."

John Bishop, auditor for Cramer, Beattie and Baird, studied the work load and recommended that one person be added to the staff or that the district contract certain functions, such as payroll, to an outside firm like a local bank.

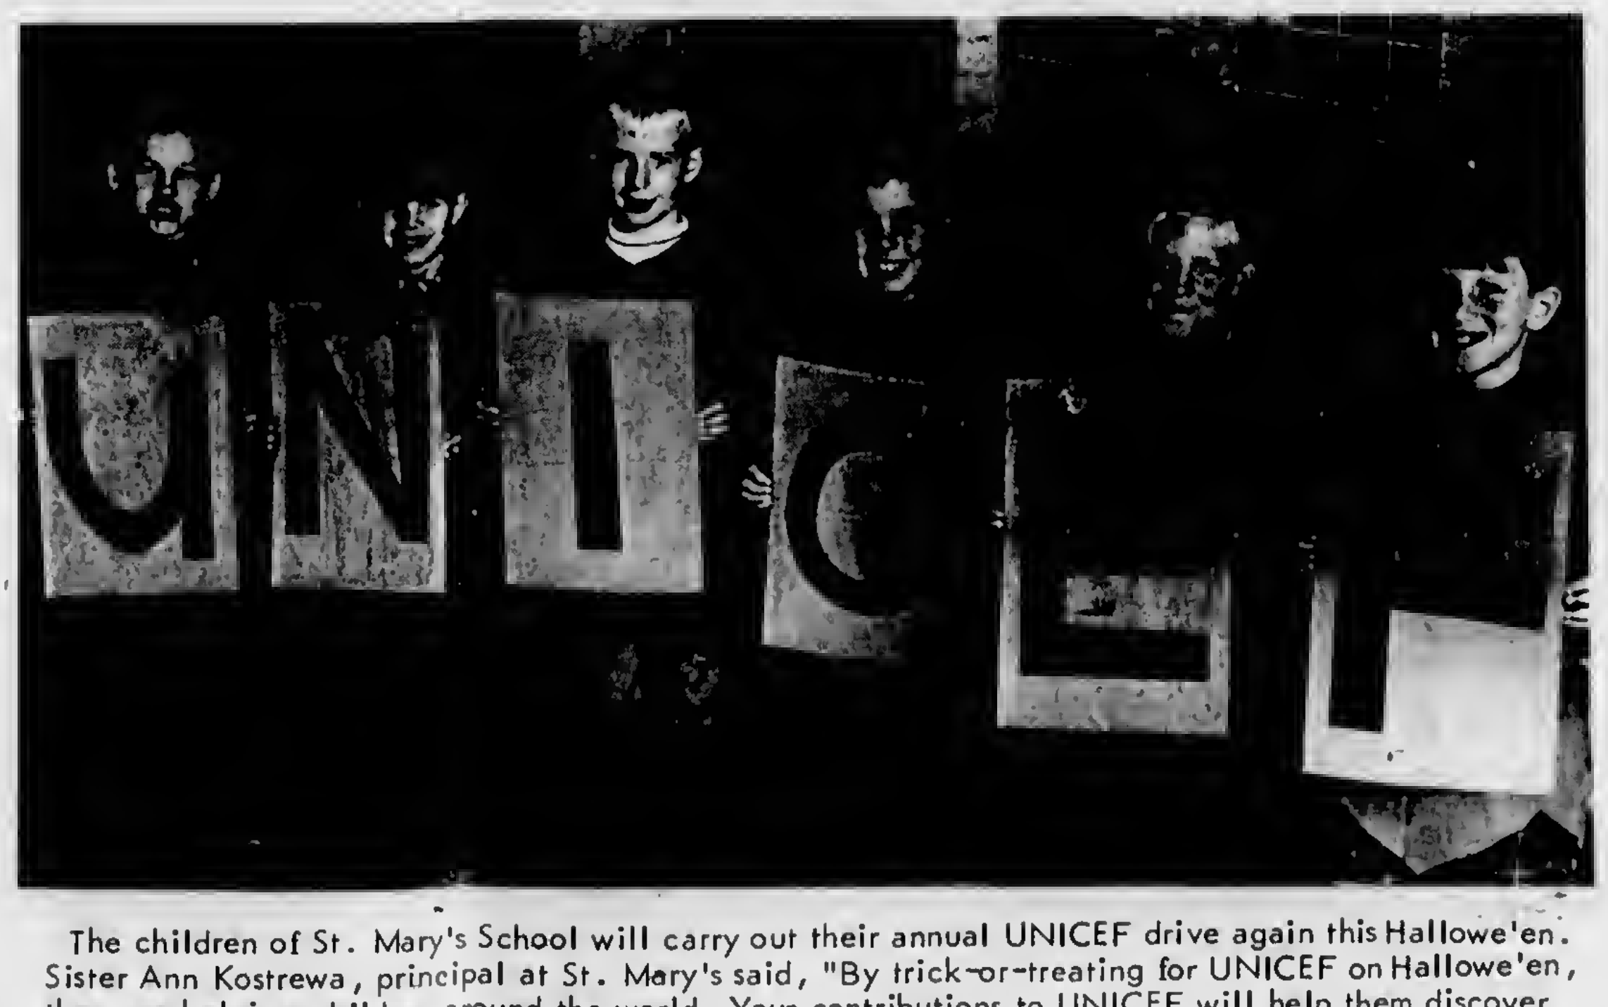
Report cards due home this Thurs.

Last Friday was the end of the first marking period for students in grades 5-12. Report cards will be sent home with each student on Thursday, October 30. The color of the first marking period will be WHITE.

The cards are basically the same as last year with the exception of a new area titled "Comments." The comments column will give parents a better understanding as to why the student received the mark or citizenship grade given.

Cards for students in grades 5 and 6 will be given to parents at parent-teacher conferences on October 30 and November 3.

Parents with questions concerning the card are to call Vane Smith, high school principal (grades 9-12) at 547-6491, or Raymond Carr, Middle school principal (grades 5 - 8) at 547-9621.



The children of St. Mary's School will carry out their annual UNICEF drive again this Hallowe'en. Sister Ann Kostrewa, principal at St. Mary's said, "By trick-or-treating for UNICEF on Hallowe'en, they are helping children around the world. Your contributions to UNICEF will help them discover the sense of achievement that comes from helping others. Please be generous." The children, accompanied by an adult, will come around to your home between 5:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. on October 31. Last year the children collected $75.

Hallowe'en reminder

City officials and local police issued a reminder today to those who will be driving Hallowe'en night.

Extreme caution is urged, as many youngsters who normally are not walking on city streets after dark will be "trick or treating".

It is particularly important to watch for youngsters in costume. Costumes often include masks which inhibit vision.

Police also noted that they will not tolerate malicious mischief. Trick or treaters who break laws will be punished.

The Kiwanis-sponsored show will again be held. First through fourth graders will see the movie tomorrow, while fifth and sixth grade students will be hosted Friday morning.

Chest reaches 83% of goal

The Charlevoix Community Chest has reached 83 percent of its goal of $17,914.

The Special Gifts Division, which consists of donations from summer residents, has received a total of $4,954.09, exceeding its goal of $4,740 by $214.09.

John Lachman, Chairman of the Industrial Division which has a goal of $5,125, has announced that $5,451.64 has been contributed by local industries and their employees with further solicitations expected.

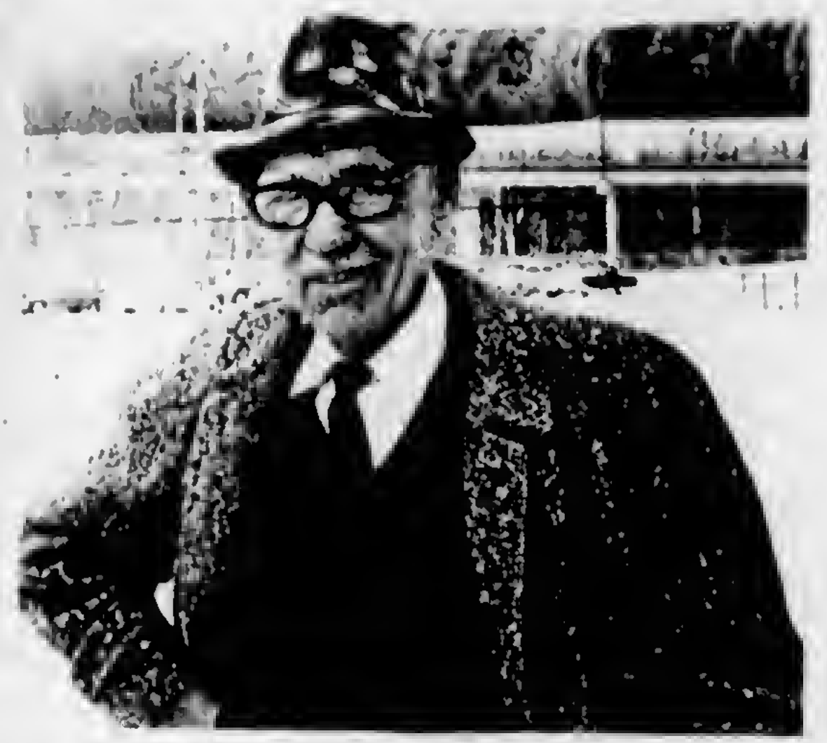
The other divisions expect to complete their solicitations this week. It is the hope of all involved in the Charlevoix Community Chest that the goal will be reached so that each agency may receive the amount allotted to it.

GSA reps to confer on property

City Council Monday night received a letter from the federal General Services Administration which indicated that the government would send a representative to Charlevoix to discuss the disposition of the old Coast Guard Station property which lies behind and beside the fish hatchery on Pine River channel.

The city fathers also reviewed an opinion from district court which brought a $50 judgement for dock rental against Glenn Shepard.

City officials stated that they received the $50 yesterday morning.



Hank Krebs

Krebs to end Medusa career

(Special to the Charlevoix Courier)

Henry J. Krebs, manager of Medusa's Charlevoix Plant, is retiring at the end of October after 52 years in the cement industry – all of them with Medusa.

It was the summer of 1917, when he was 13 and the war had made labor scarce, that Hank found a job at the Bay Bridge Plant on Sandusky Bay in Ohio. He worked afternoons, on weekends and during the summer. Hank, who was a four-letter man in high school, excelling in basketball, football, baseball and track, says the hard work at the plant was the best toughening - up exercise he could have had. In high school he won several Ohio Athletic Association medicals in track and remained active in community sports programs for many years, including membership on the committee selecting the All-Ohio School Football and Basketball teams.

Remembering the early years of his life in Ohio, Hank recalls how reasonable prices seemed in the small company town next to the Bay Bridge Plant. "The houses rented for about $4 a month and electricity was sold by the wall outlet. If you had several, you simply paid 25 cents a month for each outlet.

"The working conditions then were much different than they are now. We worked a 12-hour day, seven days a week and we didn't even know what a vacation was. If you took one, somebody might have your job when you came back. I think I had my first vacation in the 1930s, about 15 years after I'd started working full-time.

"I started out working in the laboratory and testing departments and had to go to different parts of the plant to get samples of cement as it was being manufactured. I spent a good deal of time with a pick and shovel, too, and I remember well that hand loading clay and marl into railroad cars was hard work.

"Most of the early cement wagons were hauled by horses or steam locomotives on narrow tracks. We didn't have trucks until after World War I. In fact, most of the machinery associated with the cement industry just wasn't around in the early days. Strong hands counted for a lot and strong backs for even more. I think we made about 20 cents an hour and in those days that was good money," said Hank.

There's been a Krebs on the Medusa payroll since the founding of the company at Bay Bridge in 1892. Hank's grandparents had come from Germany ten years earlier and settled in the farming region near Sandusky Bay. When the company purchased a large part of this land for its manufacturing plant, the family turned from farming to cement and Hank's father became one of Medusa's first employees and his five uncles soon followed. So Hank Krebs comes from a cement industry family. One of his uncles, his father and brother all worked for Medusa for many years. Their service, plus Hank's 52 years, totals more than 200 years of cement-making. And that's a lot of cement.

Over the years Hank held many jobs with Medusa and came up through the ranks. He was construction superintendent, manager of two of Medusa's plants and was Director of Purchases in the Cleveland headquarters office before coming to Charlevoix as Plant Manager two years ago.

Oliver wins PP &K contest

To millions of Americans, the coming of Fall means one thing above all others – Football.

And nowhere was football more evident than at Clare High School recently as 138 boys participated in the zone competition of the national Punt, Pass & Kick contest.

Twelve-year-old Danny Oliver of Charlevoix won top honors in his age group and thus earned the fight to go on to the district competition at Jenison Field House in East Lansing.

Pink & Blue Shower

Mrs. Wayne Daining was a recipient of a baby shower last Tuesday evening at the John Best home on Steepleview. Mrs. Robert Greydanus and Mrs. Martin Rubingh were co-hostesses with Mrs. Best, who had yellow and green decorations in her home. About 32 relatives, friends and neighbors enjoyed the evening visiting and playing games. Ice cream and cake were served after Mrs. Daining opened the many beautiful gifts given.

Mr. and Mrs. Olland Kauffman and son Jeff were visitors with the Chet Farrell family Friday and Saturday. They came for the homecoming game and the men were co-ho fishing on Saturday.

Vester Shooks was honored at a family supper on his 84th birthday Friday, October 17, at the home of his son, Walter and wife. Coming for this happy occasion were Mrs. Vester Shooks, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Essenberg and two daughters from Grand Rapids, Mrs. Robert Green and daughter from Charlevoix, Mr. and Mrs. Versal Shooks and family and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Shooks and family from R.R. Central Lake. "Vet" was happy to have all his children with him to celebrate his birthday.

Grandview News

New patients to enter Grandvue recently are Peter Larsen of Boyne City and Mary Anna Hull of Charlevoix. Charles Nowland was transferred to Little Traverse Hospital on October 14, and Mary Matchett was transferred to Charlevoix Hospital on October 13. Newton Thomas of Boyne City passed away October 15.

The Grandvue MCF Auxiliary met at the Facility on October 9, with approximately 30 members present. Final plans were made for the Benefit Games Party to be held November 5. You will find details of this party elsewhere in this paper. All proceeds will be used to give the patients a Merry Christmas.

Patients greatly enjoyed the pears and apples which were donated by Mary Stark, Dorothy and Vern Boyer, and Claudia Brooks. The fresh fruit tastes especially good to these people, and we appreciate the thoughtfulness of the donors.

Patients with November birthdays are: William Alward, Nov. 6; Gertrude Block, Nov. 7; Charles Glashow, Nov. 7; Clarissa Knapp, Nov. 19; May Riness, Nov. 19; and John Sutherland, Nov. 21.

Churches in charge of November chapel services on Sunday evenings are: Nov. 2, Community Reformed, Charlevoix; Nov. 9, R.L.D.S, Boyne City; Nov. 16, Missionary East Jordan; Nov. 23, Assembly of God, Charlevoix; and Nov. 30, Church of the Nazarene, Charlevoix.

District Court

In District Court action this week two Charlevoix County people were sentenced by Judge Charles L. Brown.

Charles Walley, 43, East Jordan, was sentenced to the State Department of Corrections on a moral charge.

Judith Potter, 18, Charlevoix was sentenced to the Detroit House of Corrections for two to 14 months for forgery.

Free blood typing at Charlevoix Hospital was offered to residents last week. Above child was one of 200 who were "typed".

The cultural kick

Anytime that I've ever gone on a cultural kick it's given me a lift for weeks, and I've found that when you do it with kids it's even more fun. Last week I went on a cultural kick with two whole busloads of Charlevoix seventh and eighth graders, and I'll tell you that it was a night to remember.

Mrs. Robert Tollas our imaginative music teacher got the whole project organized so that all seventh and eighth graders who wished could go by school bus to Petoskey to see The Music Man. Naturally she needed a few steely nerved chaperones so my husband and I went along on a bus to lend propriety to the whole evening.

With responsibility on our shoulders Jack and I got to the school busses half an hour early, but that wasn't early enough for excited students were already there ahead of us jockeying for position on the busses and shouting out of the bus windows to their friends who were chasing up and down hunting for familiar faces too.

I was certainly surprised to see so many girls dressed in slacks to go to a play, but then I remembered that the note from school had read, "dress warm." I had interpreted that to mean long sleeved sweaters with your skirts whereas the girls had interpreted it to read long sleeved sweaters with your slacks. That just shows you how great the generation gap really is.

Finally with a great roar of voices the busses started off to the play, but anyone hearing them along the way would have thought that we were heading for a football game. The students were cheering for Charlevoix High as if the next six points depended on their shouts. It was really an educational experience for me, for on that trip I learned all of the Charlevoix cheers. Well, if not all at least enough to get me through the basketball season.

I have to hand it to those kids, when we got into Petoskey they quieted right down and from that point on they behaved like young ladies and gentlemen. Even when we all had to stand in the cold in line outside the theatre they did a lot of joking and laughing, but I never saw one person shove another.

And no wonder that those students loved the play, The Music Man, for they recognized so many friends from Charlevoix.

Vincent Chew, who has taught so many of them at Junior High was in the very first scene along with Paul Donnelly who has taught many students at CCD classes.

Mary Beitel, who has given many Charlevoix girls their first realy beauty parlor permanent and sent them on their way to a big dance, sung her way through the entire play changing costumes and hairdo as she went.

Rev. Duane Imig was so made up as a turn of the century salesman that I didn't ever recognize him at first. He was in the extremely difficult train scene where rhythm meant success or failure, with no half-way allowed.

And speaking of perfection as I'm about to do, The Buffalo Bulls quartet with Dr. John Lignell and Byron Wright sounded perfect to my ear. Those men were really great, and there were moments of true brilliance in the show such as when the quartet sang Lida Rose against June Benton's Will I Ever Tell You. You could pay $6.50 for tickets to the Fisher Theatre and you wouldn't hear anything better than that.

I think that the kids really got a cultural boost from the show for after the performance they mobbed the cast in the lobby to get autographs. I noticed that the tall young man in the show got special attention from the Charlevoix eighth grade girls. I wonder who was more thrilled.

Frankly I can hardly wait to see if the Little Traverse Civic Theatre can ever do it again with a new musical, for The Music Man will be a hard show to beat.

But one thing for sure, if they do venture into a new musical you can bet your last dollar that I'll be on the school bus getting my cultural kicks with the junior high, for with them it's double the fun.

ALL-ELECTRIC AWARD -- Robert Hilty (left), division manager of Consumers Power Co., presents his company's all-electric award to six Northern Michigan bank representatives. Besides Hilty, from the left are Conrad Wallen of the State Bank and Trust Co. of Petoskey; Fred Payne, Charlevoix County State Bank; Kenneth Arndt, Gaylord State Bank; Donald Gardey, Roscommon State Bank; Lyle McKinley, Citizens National Bank of Cheboygan, and Robert Willet, People State Bank of Alpena. A representative of the Northwestern State Bank of East Jordan was not present.

County State wins award

Central Computer Corp., which serves seven Northern Michigan banks, has received Consumers Power Company's All-Electric Award.

Representatives of the banks and contractors for the new computer center received the award at a luncheon last Wednesday, at the Holiday Inn in Gaylord. The new center is located in Gaylord.

The computer center, which went into operation late last year, utilizes a new innovation in heating – heat by light. Lighting provides ⅝ of the heat in the attractive new building. This is the second building in Northern Michigan to implement this new concept in heating.

Member banks receiving the All-Electric Award were Citizens National Bank of Cheboygan, Charlevoix County State Bank, People State Bank of Alpena, State Bank & Trust Co. of Petoskey, Gaylord State Bank, Northwestern State Bank of East Jordan and Roscommon State Bank.

R.D. Brooks Co., general contractor with offices in Boyne City, received a meritorious award for its work as general contractor, and Muller Electric of Petoskey, electrical contractor for the center, received a meritorious award.

Consumers Power Co. officials who attended the luncheon included Al Southwick of Jackson, general commercial and lighting sales supervisor; Robert Hilty, division manager, Fred Baumgartner, lighting engineer and Willis Allen, marketing superintendent, all of Traverse City, and Richard Dahlquist, district manager, and Joseph Ellery, sales consultant, both of Cheboygan.

V.F.W. Auxiliary

Eighteen members and guests gathered at the V.F.W. Auxiliary October 16, for a membership buffet. Buncon winners won white elephant prizes and Mrs. Tom Hodgkinson won the five-dollar membership drawing. Hallowe'en decorations gave the buffet a festive background.

The women have collected many items to be included in the overseas packages. However, the Auxiliary has received very little response from area families in obtaining servicemen's addresses. These boxes are to be sent to any local serviceman serving anywhere overseas so please call 547-9598 or 547-4260 and give the V.F.W. Auxiliary the name of a serviceman in your family.

Charlevoix Woman's Club

The speaker at the next regular meeting of the Charlevoix Woman's Club will be Miss Esther Bain, director of "Loch Rio". "Loch Rio" is a home for girls, founded in 1958 and supported by the Michigan Federation of Women's Clubs. It is located in Belleville, halfway between Ann Arbor and Detroit. It is not an institution in the usual sense of the term, but rather, a "home away from home" for girls with emotional problems or family problems. Charlevoix women's clubs have contributed to the support of "Loch Rio" since it was founded but this is the first time a member of the staff has come here to give us an inside look at one of our most worthwhile and appealing projects. The meeting will be at 1:30 p.m., Monday, November 3, at the Weathervane Restaurant. Hostesses at the tea following the meeting will be Mrs. Ralph Hess, Mrs. Donald Couse, Mrs. Henry Krebs and Mrs. John Lignell.

The Arts and Crafts Group of the Charlevoix Woman's Club met Monday morning, Oct. 20, at the home of Mrs. Ray Wood. Plans were discussed for a display of handcrafted Christmas decorations and gifts, to be exhibited at the December meeting of the Woman's Club. Their next meeting will be at 9:30 a.m., also at Mrs. Wood's home.

Mrs. Jennie Duffy and Mrs. Florence King are still patients in Charlevoix Hospital and would enjoy seeing their local friends.

R.E. Miller of Petoskey and Mrs. Ruth Roberts were guests at the Sam Alexander home this Sunday.

We received a letter from and Mrs. Robert Wilson who are spending a few days in their former home town Hudson, Ohio, after spending several weeks in England and Ireland, having made the trip on the new Queen Elizabeth II which is 963 feet long, gross tonnage 65,863 and carries 2,025 Passengers with a crew of 906.

We sometimes wonder how such weight can stay above water. They said the ship was so big they were lost most of the time but it was fun as they felt quite sure they would be found sometime. They will soon leave for their winter home in Tucson, Arizona.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barnum made a business trip to Oscoda Friday.

The Ladies Fellowship had the Church Pulpit Chairs repaired and reupholstered and what a beautiful job was done by the Boyne Upholstery people.

The Weekly Club will meet with Mrs. N.C. Christensen this Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Bundy have closed their summer cottage and will spend the winter in Tucson, Arizona.

Miss Kessler weds Gary Lee Stutzman

Gary Lee Stutzman and Kathy Kay Kessler were married October 17, at the Mt. Hope Methodist Chapel in Lansing, Michigan. The Reverand Arthur J. DeFouw officiated at the candle light service. The bride and groom recited their vows from memory.

White mums flanked either side of the altar.

Vonnie Eastin, sister of the bride from Lansing, was Kathy's only attendant. She wore pink taffeta with a matching headpiece and carried pink and white roses. Kenneth Hunt, brother-in-law of the groom, was his best man. He is from Allegan.

Only immediate familes were present. A special guest was Mrs. Mabie Stutzman, grandmother of the groom, from Charlevoix.

Kathy Kay Kessler is the daughter of Mrs. George Jakovac, 300 E. Main Street, Lansing and Carlton Kessler of 928 W. Jolly Road, Lansing.

Gary Lee Stutzman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stutzman of Charlevoix.

Kathy is a June 1969 graduate of Western Michigan University with a B.A. degree in Special Education. She is presently teaching at the Lincoln School in Lansing for the Emotionally Disturbed.

Gary graduated in January 1969 from Northern Michigan with a B.A. degree in Music Education, and is presently teaching at Flint-Northern in Flint, Michigan.

Jennet Reamsma went to Grand Rapids to bring her mother, Mrs. Maggie Reamsma, home on Saturday. Mrs. Reamsma had been visiting there the past 7 weeks. Also helping out at the home of her daughter, Cornelia. Beattjes. Mr. and Mrs. Battjes welcomed another daughter Connalee into their home born on September 29.

At the end of last week, we had a total of 4 inches of rain last week, making 7½ inches for October.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Klooster, jr., of Ann Arbor and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kremer of Grand Rapids, who were spending the weekend at their cottage at Interlochen, were Sunday dinner guests of the formers parents, Mr. and Mrs. A.M. Klooster.

Mrs. John Burns entered Little Traverse Hospital in Petoskey Sat. for observation and treatment for an ulcer.

Mrs. Kate Alkema and her son Paul and his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Boomsma all of Chicago visited Mr. and Mrs. John Jansen from Wednesday to Saturday last week.

State jobs are open

The Michigan Civil Service Department is now accepting applications for a wide variety of state jobs, according to State Representative Robert W. Davis, (R-St. Ignace).

A November 3 deadline has been established for submitting applications for the positions, all of which are available on an open competitive basis. An evaluation of education and experience will be an important factor in judging applicants. Written tests are required for some jobs, and these have been tentatively scheduled for December 6.

In addition, applications are also being taken for two special youth employment programs. Special trainees (employment level 01) are being sought for the New Careers Training Program. Salaries for these jobs range from $4,060 to $4,850 and there are no educational and experience requirements, and no written examination is necessary. Trainees must be under 22 years of age as of October 20, 1969. Persons accepted will be trained for more specialized jobs in state government. These positions are located in the Detroit area.

Persons between the ages of 16 and 20 are encouraged to apply for positions in the State Police Cadet Training Program, which seeks to train future state troopers. Applicants who meet the criteria for admission will be eligible for cadet training school and eventual appointment to trooper training school. A written test for cadet applicants has been scheduled for December 6. Salary range for trainees is $5,300 to $6,250.

Rep. Davis suggests that persons interested in additional information on these and other state employment opportunities should contact their local state employment office or write to the Michigan Civil Service Department in the Lewis Cass Building in Lansing.

Teen-tab at church

Reverend Steve Gelatt and Reverend Jim VanLoo will be in the Sunday evening service, November 2, at 7 p.m. at the Charlevoix Assembly of God, 203 E. Upright.

Both men are originally from this area, but in recent months they have made their home in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, where they have formed a Non-Denominational Christian organization known as Teen-Tab.

The purpose of the organization is to reach teenagers with the message of Jesus Christ.

Smith asks driver help

High school principal Vane H. Smith has asked that all parents who drive their youngsters to school to use the east or gymnasium entrance.

Failure to do so ties up bus drop-offs at the front of the building.

Grandvue party

An All-games party will be held at the Grandvue Medical Care Facility from 1 to 4 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 5, Mrs. Louis Manglos, president-elect of the facility auxiliary, has announced.

Proceeds from the games party and the bake sale that will be held at the same time will benefit the Medical Care Facility.

Parents back to school

"Multiplication Bingo" proved to be both fun and a challenge to 16 mothers of Mrs. Berry Potter's fifth graders, who entertained them at a "Mothers' Tea" Thursday, October 17, at the Charlevoix Middle School.

The mothers joined the children in the game, which is a painless way of practicing the "times tables". They enjoyed listening to the boys and girls as they played "Spelling Baseball", engaged in addition contests, and held a discussion on such topics as whether or not there should be report cards and "talking in class."

Cards sent by Riker

Hugh Riker will be designing and sending boxes of Christmas cards to Charlevoix County servicemen. Each man will receive one box of cards to send to family and friends.

Names of servicemen must be sumitted by parents or wives, to Hugh Riker, Heritage House, in Oleson's shopping center, Charlevoix.

Mailing will be done by Riker to assure proper mailing and addressing. It would be appreciated if names were submitted as soon as possible, because Christmas mailing deadlines are approaching.

Alma College rep at CHS Friday

ALMA – E. William Beauchamp, assistant director of admissions at Alma College, will visit Charlevoix High School Friday afternoon to talk to students wishing information on programs of study at this mid-Michigan college of liberal arts and sciences.

Located at the center of Michigan's lower peninsula, Alma is the college of the Synod of Michigan of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. and has an enrollment of approximately 1,200 students.

Alma's 60-acre campus provides pleasant and up-to-date facilities complementing a modern academic program in which most studentts study only three courses during each of three eleven-week terms. The college's faculty is characterized by professional competence and a personal concern for those whom they teach.

Students who wish to talk to Beauchamp may make arrangements through their counselor at their high school. Further information about Alma College may also be obtained by writing to the Director of Admissions, Alma College, Alma, Michigan 48801.

City girl elected

Organization and club officers for the 1969-70 academic year at Grand Valley State College were recently announced. The more than 20 organized groups on campus are formed and continue to grow through the interests of the student membership: interests which range from theatre to psychology, from politics to science, to name just a few.

The groups offer a wide variety of activities and service projects at the college and in neighboring communities.

Among the officers for 1969-70 is Kris Lieberman, 216 Park Avenue, Charlevoix, who has been elected vice president of the Theata Tau Sorority.

This season's duck hunting has been profitable for a few people. Three examples were brought home by Bill Gauthier (left), 205 W. Lincoln and Robert Wise (right), 206 W. Upright. They were shot at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, October 21 in Norwood, while the sky poured rain. Having no retrieving dog, Wise got wetter than usual in fishing the ducks from Lake Michigan.

Library Notes

The witches and goblins will be out this week, and to help the youngsters do a little research and prepare for Hallowe'en, the Library will feature special books in the display shelves. Some of them are spooky, some of them are fun.

The display will include "Giants and Witches and a Dragon or Two" a collection of stories guaranteed to bring chills up little spines. "Little Witch" by Anna Elizabeth Madame Sniekasnee who likes to turn boys and girls into potted plants. "Hallowe'en" by Helen Borten is a slim volume which tells all about the holiday and how it first began.

There is a book of "Hallowe'en Tales and Games" by Ethel Owen and "A Tiger Called Thomas" an easy book with delightful illustrations, "Mouseskin's Golden House" told and illustrated by Edna Miller, which will appeal to the smallest reader in the house.

"A Cookbook for Girls and Boys" by Irma S. Rombauer (who also wrote Joy of Cooking) tells how to make Taffy Apples, crisp molasses cookies and popcorn balls.

"During the week of Hallowe'en, special bookmarks will be distributed to all the goblins and elves who come to the Library.

There are many hundreds of hidden taxes these days, but, alas, no place where the taxpayer can hide!

Locals

The Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District Vocational-Technical Education Citizens Advisory Committee will meet tonight at 8 p.m. in the Charlevoix High School Cafeteria, Charlevoix.

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Lewis were their daughter, Gwen and Paul Diptomble of Evanston, Ill.

Brian Seymour of The Lodge Richard Aull of the Weathervane were in Chicago recently for the Midwest Ski show at Arlington Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Chamberlain returned recently from a week's trip through the Upper Peninsula and Canada. While in Ontario they made the trip aboard the Algoma railroad.

Mrs. Ronald Fairbanks of Grand Rapids is spending a week here as the guest of Mrs. Dean Davenport. Mr. Fairbanks brought her here and returned after a weekend stay. His mother, Mrs. Agnes Fairbanks also came from Grand Rapids and is visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford G. Riley.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. V.Y. Tuttle were former students of Mr. Tuttle's when he taught at Sparta, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Burgett of Grand Rapids and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Burgett of Sparta.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hawkins have returned to Battle Creek following a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Chamberlain.

Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Smith of Berrien Springs visited two days this week with the latter's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. V.Y. Tuttle.

Modern pumpkin pie

(Ed. note: With Halloween just days away, and Thanksgiving not far behind it, the Courier offers its readers the following recipe for a holiday eating treat.)

One of Indian Squanto's lessons in living in the New World was planting pumpkin. Naturally, the Pilgrim women turned it into pudding, England having been long known for puddings of many kinds. They opened the top, scooped out the seeds, filled the shell with milk and spices, sweetened it with maple syrup or molasses, and baked it in hot ashes. They ate the "pie" with a spoon.

From this pumpkin pudding gradually evolved pie in crisp, flaky crust. The latest evolution in pumpkin pies is one made with Jell-O golden egg custard mix. Quick to stir up with canned pumpkin, this pie is chilled in the refrigerator rather than baked in ashes.

Garlanded with puffs of prepared whipped topping, lightly scented with nutmeg, pumpkin pie has become quite a different dessert from that served at the Pilgrims' first Thanksgiving, but its flavor is just as festive. Nor would serving coffee with pumpkin pie be a Pilgrim tradition, but it's certinly an American one.

This time let it be Holiday Demitasse, a rich, strong coffee made with instant quality coffee and a touch of the spice cardamon.

Also from their Indian friend, Squanto, the Pilgrim women learned how to make bayberry candles. By boiling 20 pounds of bayberries, they got a pound of wax. From this, they could make five candles, the size of a thumb, by dipping wicks 30 times in the wax. Each candle would burn two hours. Is it any wonder that such a precious source of light was saved for company occasions? Lighted twigs were for everyday use.

SNOW

This grade-schooler stares out in dissappointment onto the playground. The grounds were too wet and recess was cancelled.

There wasn't even any work for the dog catcher. All the dogs figured it was too cold to ride in that little cage.

Ed Vogler was just one of many who were without snow scrapers. Some used brooms, but most just used their hands.

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 22nd, 1969

Some people were caught outside without the proper clothing. However, there weren't too many people walking last Wednesday as it snowed all day.

The driving was just like last winter, too, but there were only a few accidents reported. And, most people took extra precaution against the weather.

Boating anyone??? Some people still have their boats in the water...most of them wished they didn't.

Charlevoix football field was covered with snow, but there wasn't a game last weekend, so no one suffered.

Oh, thank you...thank you...this young pup might be the only one who enjoyed the snow, but it all melted the next day and the big puppy started his panting and drooling again.

What shall I do? Ride my bike or build a snowman? Most of the youngsters in Charlevoix did both last week.

CLOSED FOR THE WINTER

Louis Edwards, owner of Ironton Jiffy Market, knew when winter was coming, and he closed up for it. ??????????

Snow didn't bother some...it wasn't going to ruin their day, and they just went on their way.

The snow came so fast that most of the ski-dooers missed out. But, there were a few who dared it...riding on the leaves.

The snow fell Wednesday and Charlevoix looked like mid-winter. The Charlevoix area also had 4½ inches of rain last week.

Ruppe Reports

"The U.S. Merchant Marine fleet has, in past years, steadily lost ground to foreign competition. Has the Nixon Administration proposed any program to save our vanishing ships?"

Yes, the Administration has proposed new programs which, I hope, will help us to maintain a fleet that can carry our domestic, and a substantial part of our foreign sea trade. For example, one of the great problems has been the high cost of ship-building in this country. The Maritime Administration is already working toward more efficient contracting procedures. A design competition for a series of basic designs has been instituted. Since it has been shown that a simple standard design for multiple-ship production leads to substantial cost reduction, a set of basic designs would lead to grenter profitability in merchant marine operations.

The Administration has further suggested that this greater profitability, coupled with better managment, could make it possible for our merchant marine to operate without government subsidy. The maritime industry could then proceed on a purely competitive basis.

Federal funds could be diverted to our government research and development staffs, who will continue to work with private industrial teams—to find new techniques to lower ship and transport costs, and further improve the U.S. competitive position. It is inconceivable that this nation, which is involved in one-third of world trade, should continue to lag behind in improving world transport.

Obituary

I. Alward

Funeral services for Isaiah Alward, 94, pioneer Banks Township resident who died last Tuesday at Little Traverse Hospital where he had been a patient for a week were held at the Hastings Funeral Home, Friday. The Rev. John Bell of the Eastport Baptist church officiated. Burial was in Ellsworth cemetery.

Born near South Bend, Ind., Aug. 7, 1875, Mr. Alward came to Antrim county at the age of 14 years. In 1901 he was married to the former Lena Smith who preceded him in death in 1952. He operated a farm in Banks Township until recent years when he made his home with members of his family. He had lived with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Jablinski of Ellsworth until he was taken to the hospital.

Besides his daughter, Mrs. (Ethel) Jablinski, he is survived by four sons, Maynard and Nelson of Ellsworth, Charles of Central Lake, and Steven of Kodiak, Alaska; 18 grandchildren; 22 great-grand-children; two great - great - grandchildren and a brother, William Alward of Norwood Township.

Halloweener gets a smile as well as a treat at this house on the Northside. Multitude of "ghosts and goblins" made the rounds last Friday in search of good tasting items.

Goblins treated to feast

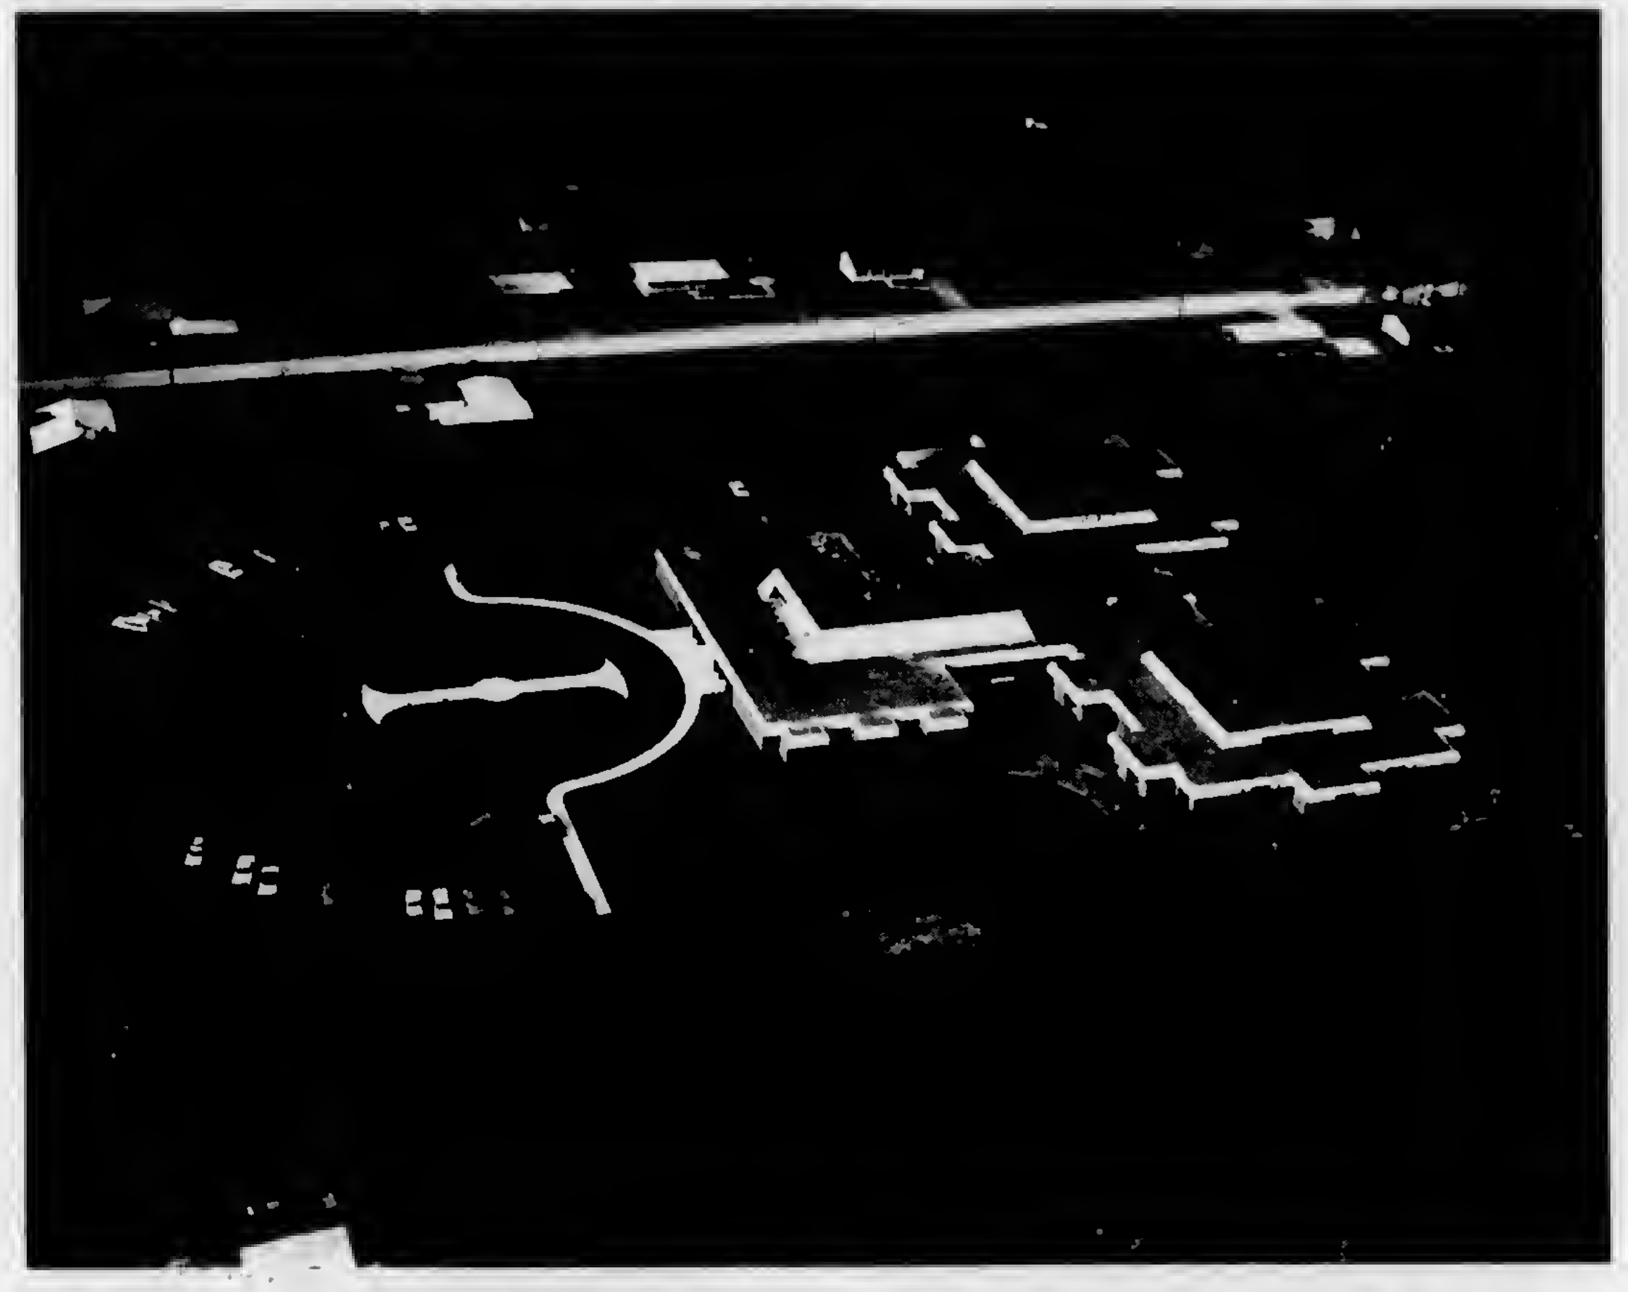
Youngsters of all ages and all descriptions toured from door to door in Charlevoix last Friday night in search of candy, popcorn or gifts to UNICEF.

And, according to all reports, "treats" were abundant and "tricks" were kept at a minimum.

Ghosts, goblins and other assorted Halloweeners made their rounds early in comparison to other years, due apparently to the weather and the fact that the league-leading Charlevoix Red Rayders were playing Boyne City that evening.

By 8 p.m., most of the house-to-house visiting was completed.

One member of the Courier staff traveled through the area between Dixon and Petoskey Avenue. The number of trick or treaters was large, he reported, and the quality of the hand-outs was high. "The five cent candybar was the rule, rather than the exception, this year," he claimed.



Aerial view shows overal building and play area. Landscaping will completely finished in spring.

Dan Geneit ends 33-year U.S. Post Office career

A 33-year career with the Charlevoix Post Office came to an end last week, as postmaster Dan Geneit retired Saturday.

Geneit, who rose from the position of substitute carrier through the ranks to postmaster, has served in the highest local position since 1965.

Until a successor to the post is named, the position will be filled by William I. Supernaw, assistant postmaster for the past four years. Supernaw is not seeking the permanent spot, as he plans to retire early in 1970.

Geneit has held virtually every possible position in the local office. He joined the department in 1937, and became a regular carrier in 1942. From 1944 to 1946, he served in the U.S. Army, and returned to the post office as a clerk, remaining in that spot until 1957 when he was named assistant postmaster.

Also retiring from the department last week was J. Gordon Dennis, after 28 years service.

Dennis, an Ellsworth resident, joined the post office in 1942. He served a long period of time as the dispatch clerk and ended his career as a rural carrier on Route 2.

To discuss annexation

Charlevoix Township Supervisor Oscar P. Stroud has announced that there will be an open discussion meeting on annexation today at 8 p.m. at the VFW Hall on U.S. 31 North.

There will be representatives of both the City and Township on hand to answer question relating to annexation.

All interested persons are invited to attend.

Earl Miller family tree steeped in local history

BY BERNICE WEXSTAFF

Senior citizens now have their own special recognition month (May) according to the American Association of Retired Persons. President Richard M. Nixon is in complete agreement with the Association's aims to promote the welfare of the senior citizens of the land who have contributed much during their active years.

Locally, Earl Miller of 100 W. Dixon Avenue is an old-timer who rates special mention for his many years service in the post office department.

Earl is the son of pioneer groceryman, Byron Willis Miller and the grandson of homesteader Robert Miller who came from North Ireland by way of 'York' (New York) state over a century ago.

The first Millers found the Charlevoix area sparcely settled with white men: They were part of that group of hardy souls who settled down to tame the wilderness, and although many remained unsung, tame it they did.

Earl's father was an early business man who established his grocery store in the woods far out from the then settled district ... (According to today's calculations about where the present Chamber of Commerce building now stands).

Earl, who was 87 years old in September, served as a rural mail carrier for 33 years, until his retirement in 1949. He and his wife, Margaret Donlevy Miller spend their winters in Jacksonville Beach, Florida, but they always spend a few weeks enroute with their only daughter, Jane and family, (the Edwards Radles) in Whitefish Bay, Wisconsin.

But whether visiting in Wisconsin or vacationing in Florida, Earl never fails to take his five-mile constitutional each and every day, rain or shine and his springy step and clear eye testifies to a healthy daily rendezvous with sun and wind.

As the grandson of Egbert Carpenter, Earl can also claim pioneer roots on the distaff side....A life-long 'solid citizen', Earl is a credit to his forebears and the Charlevoix community.

School dedication planned for Sunday

(Ed. note: Charlevoix's new elementary school will be dedicated Sunday at ceremonies beginning at 2 p.m., followed by an open house from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. Courier staffer Chris Carey wrote the following concerning the new school and the drive to build it.)

BY CHRIS CAREY

Since 1960 the enrollment at Charlevoix school has increased 50 percent. The classrooms were overcrowded and the individual could not get the attention that he or she deserved. Because of this the Charlevoix School Board was forced to put a building bond issue before the people in the fall of 1967.

So the voters went to the polls April 1, 1967, to decide the fate of the two bond issues. The first and the largest was the $1,595,000 issue for the construction of a 31 classroom elementary school on the north side of town and for the remodeling of the old elementary school.

The second issue--for $475,000--was for the expansion of the high school, including a 600 seat auditorium, which would cost approximately $200,000.

The vote on the new elementary school was 633 "yes" and 323 "no." The vote on the high school proposal, which included the 600 seat auditorium was defeated by nine votes, 482 "no" to 473 "yes."

The bids for the construction of the school were considerably higher than was expected.

The low bid of $1,298,000 was by Barnes Construction Company of Grand Rapids. The architect was Dick Wiggins.

Construction was started in September 1968.

Some of the features of the new school make it one of the most modern schools in the state. Instead of walled cubicles for each classroom, as conventional schools are built, the new building's classrooms are not divided by a permanent wall.

The school has three original wings, one for the first and second grades, one for third and fourth grades and another for kindergarten and general use. More wings can be added, if needed, without too much trouble.

In each of the two academic wings, the classrooms will open into an "instructional materials and study center." The rooms will be opened to these areas where teaching tools and aids are always available.

All the classrooms are carpeted and accoustically treated to eliminate noise interference from teachers and students.

Each of the teaching areas are entered from the outside with each room having its own bathroom. All the walls that exist are covered with chalk and tack boards, so that all the walls are "teaching area".

The new elementary school will be dedicated Sunday, at special ceremonies being held at the new school.

The dedication address will be delivered by Robert Vratanina, Dean of Instruction at North Central Michigan College and a native of Charlevoix.

An open house will follow with members of the Parent-Teacher's Organization acting as guides. The P.T.O. will also serve refreshment in the cafeteria.

Deadline changes

In an effort to expedite production of the Charlevoix Courier, news and advertising deadlines have been altered slightly.

Legal advertising must be in the possession of the Courier by Friday noon, the week prior to publication.

Larry Edwards, advertising director, announced that other advertising will have a Saturday noon deadline.

Those who desire coverage of events or meetings should notify the Courier several days in advance of the event.

Group of "trick or treaters" fared well at this home on Burns Street.

Hospital accreditation protects public

Rollie Dudik, administrator of Charlevoix Hospital, announced last week that the hospital has been accredited for a three-year period.

"This accreditation is a published protection against hit or miss standards in hospitals," Dudik said. "It is evidence that medical and hospital people are on guard, assuring that the hospital is well run, well organized, well equipped and well staffed. All of these things are important to the people of the community.

"A good deal of the long, hard work spent in securing this three-year accreditation is the direct result of the labors of Mrs. Marquerite Ikens, assistant administrator. Without her efforts, we couldn't have done it.

"Chances are that when you think of the word hospital, you first think of a building. A compact arrangement of rooms, wards, operating rooms, and laboratories. But a hospital actually is people - the physicians, the nurses and the other personnel and staff that serve you - and the governing board, the administrator who oversee hospital affairs. Many of these people you may never see, but nevertheless they are working behind the scenes to provide the best possible care. The hospital is primarily a place in which people care for the sick.

"A hospital needs a yardstick to measure the success of its various activities. To provide a measuring stick the medical and hospital professions have developed a nationwide hospital accreditation program. This program sets up carefully designed standards for every area of activity in a average hospital. The policy of this program is to look at the hospital from the patients viewpoint - to safeguard the patients life and health," Dudik added.

Hospitals which seek accreditation and meet these prescribed standards have earned the right to display the certificate of accreditation. Four national and medical health organizations comprise the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals which grants that certificate: The American College of Physicians; the American College of Surgeons; the American Hospital Association and the American Medical Association. The accreditation program officially sponsored by the Commission is a voluntary, cooperative, non-profit public service.

Accreditation adds work for doctors and hospitals and it costs a lot of money - more than half a million dollars each year from the funds of the organization comprising the commission. Yet this expenditure of time and money is made for one purpose only...for the benefit of the patient.

The accreditation program for hospitals was started in 1918 by the American College of Surgeons. The ACS, pioneer in the development of hospital standards, made an outstanding contribution to better hospital care over its year of sponsorship and invested over $2 million in the program. But it became increasingly clear that one medical organization could not handle the expanding program alone.

Rollie Dudik and Mrs. Marguerite Ikens of Charlevoix Hospital staff pose with accreditation plaque.

I have a copy of The Grand Rapids Press for November 12, 1918, with headlines "Fighting Stops, Peace Reigns, Draft Calls Canceled, Foe Signs Drastic Peace Terms." Happiness reigned for everyone and what hopes our boys had for Eternal Peace and what joyous celebrations were held all over our great land November 1, 1918. I wonder if there will ever be Eternal Peace over the World. There may be Wars and rumors of Wars because there is as yet no complete Brotherhood of Nations, anymore than there is a complete Brotherhood among individuals.

Purdy gets assistantship

William K. Purdy, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Karl Purdy of Route 3, Charlevoix, has received an undergraduate assistantship from Western Michigan University's Honors College.

He will work with Dr. John L. Feirer, head and professor of the industrial education department, on constructing a machine to do structural testing of simple wood structures in high school classes.

Purdy is a senior at WMU, majoring in vocational technical education.

CHS seniors are eligible for grants

General Motors recently announced the continuation of its Scholarship Plan by making available 293 scholarships to outstanding secondary school graduates for the fall of 1970 at more than 200 colleges and universities. The awards will be made to entering freshmen and may be renewed through the normal four undergraduate years for those with satisfactory records.

While the participating colleges have full discretion in the allocation of GM scholarships and in the selection of students, they have been asked to give preference to those applicants who look forward to careers in industry. For example, those institutions which offer programs in engineering are urged to select qualified young people who are interested in this field of study. Colleges which do not offer degrees in engineering are being asked to select students in business administration, economics, mathematics and science. Seniors at Charlevoix High School may apply through the guidance office.

Golden named Florist editor

Appointment of William P. Golden, formerly of Charlevoix, as managing editor of "Florist" magazine has been announced by the Florists' Transworld Delivery Association.

Golden, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Golden of 201 W. Garfield, had been assistant city editor of the Jackson Citizen Patriot.

In his new position, he will be responsible for publication of a monthly magazine which is circulated among 16,000 florists and suppliers in the United States and Canada. The magazine's offices are located in the FTD International headquarters at Detroit.

Golden and his family will reside at Westland, near Detroit.

He is a graduate of Charlevoix High School and Ferris State College.

Obituary
C. Greeley

Funeral services for Charles Greeley, 91, former Norwood Township resident and father of Mrs. Kenneth B. Forbes, were held Friday at Heuvelton, N.Y., where he had lived for the past 33 years. Burial was in a Heuvelton, N.Y., cemetery.

He died Wednesday at a Canton, N.Y., hospital following a month's illness.

A native of New York State and the eldest of five children, he came here with the late Loc Mayne at the age of 15-and one-half years following the death of his parents. As a youth and young man he was employed in mill yards in the area. Later he operated a farm in Norwood Township.

Surviving are his wife, Bertha, whom he married after returning to Heuvelton; one daughter, Mrs. (Florence) Forbes of Charlevoix; two grandchildren; six great grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. D.D. Hall of St. Petersberg, Fla. A daughter, Doris, preceded him in death in 1926.

Robert R. Ware II

Robert R. Ware II, of 200 Primrose Pl., San Antonio, Texas, 17 years of age, died Saturday, October 25, in San Antonio.

A fourth generation summer resident of the Belvedere Club, he was well known to the Charlevoix boys against whom he played baseball.

Bob's home was in San Antonia, Texas where he attended the Alamo Heights High School. He was President of the Senior Class and member of the National Honor Society. Although only beginning his fourth year, he had already won four Varsity letters and played football, basketball and baseball. Coaches at the school had already sent Dave Johnson to the Baltimore Orioles, and Bill Grabarkewitz to the Los Angeles Dodgers and looked upon Ware as their brightest professional prospect. At the Belvedere Club, he won numerous tennis trophies, and he liked to water ski and sail.

He is survived by his sisters, Susan and Amy Elizabeth and brother Tom, another four sport athlete. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. "Mike" Ware of San Antonia, Texas, formerly of Oak Park, Illinois.

His paternal grandfather, well known as a summer resident of Charlevoix since 1883, was the late Robert R. Ware, Sr. Mrs. Robert Ware, Sr., still summers in Charlevoix.

A Bob Ware Memorial Scholarship Fund has been established in his name at the Alamo Heights High School. This scholarship is to be awarded annually by the coaches for whom Bob worked. The award will be made on the basis of responsibility, courage, respect, and good citizenship, and of achievement beyond the indicated capability.

Bob's parents have asked that flowers not be sent, but rather contributions made to this scholarship, c/o Alamo Heights High School, 7101 Broadway, San Antonio, Texas 78209.

The drug game What are 'up and down' drugs?

SECOND IN A SERIES

Amphetamines and barbiturates are the "up and down" drugs, usually taken in pill form.

They are said to "pick you up when you're down and bring you down when you're up." For most people, amphetamines do have exhilarating effects, while barbiturates bring calming.

They are powerful drugs, too powerful to play around with. Yet too many people are doing so. No one knows how many, but the best estimates are that about 200,000 -- and perhaps as many as 400,000 -- persons regularly abuse these and other non-narcotic drugs.

The case of Mary Jones illustrates the matter. It's a hypothetical case, not a real name, but it is true.

Mary takes amphetamines to get going and barbiturates to put her to sleep. She does this day in and out. She takes the "up and down" pills without the supervision of her family doctor.

Mary is -- or is on the way to being -- a slave of these drugs, addicted to them, a "junky" as the slang goes. What is worse, she doesn't know it. She doesn't know facts she needs to know, like these:

The "up drugs," pep pills also called "bennies" and "speed," are a group of drugs known as amphetamines. They form one-half of what is perhaps the problem in the U.S. today.

The other half of the problem are the "down drugs" -- sedatives, sleeping pills, the large family of drugs made for medical purposes to relax a person.

What do the "down drugs" do?

They produce a relaxing effect for most people; in normal, medically supervised doses, they mildly depress the action of the nerves, skeletal muscles, and heart muscle. In ad-normal doses, the effects resemble alcoholic drunkenness.

Are these drugs addicting?

The amphetamines or "up drugs" produce "psychological" dependence -- a practice that can become a habit for mental or emotional reasons.

The "down drugs," barbiturates usually, are physically addicting. Some experts consider barbiturate addiction more difficult to cure than narcotic like heroin or cocaine.

Are these drugs dangerous to use?

They have definite medical and health values if properly used under a physician's direction.

None is properly available without a physician's prescription. This is for the very good reason that their misuse or abuse can be dangerous.

Barbiturates are a leading cause of accidental poison deaths. Sleeping pills distort how people see things; they slow down reactions and responses. They are an important cause of automobile accidents.

Amphetamines misused can lead to accidental deaths and to accidents because they can distort perception, judgment, and even cause severe mental derangement.

For a free leaflet on "The Up and Down Drugs," write to Box 1080, NIMH, Washington, D.C. 20013.

"Happy 21st Birthday, Johnny"

At least, we hope it's happy. Johnny's strung out on "speed," and most people take him for about 35. He's shooting "meth," now, but he started on pills "dexies," "bennies." He has to use a little more each day to maintain the "high" and avoid "crashing." It's as though he were a car that's raced its motor continuously for a year. No wonder he looks like he's ready for a 50,000 mile overhaul.

You see, on "speed," you don't eat, you don't sleep, you don't feel you have to pay any attention to your health... because you feel so "up" all the time.

So while you're "up" on speed, your body runs down. Johnny raps all the time about how, since he's started "speeding," he's really living. At this rate, he may have lived his whole life before he reaches 22.

Pat's Reaction

Dead-eye Dick

For someone who has 20-20 vision I seem to spend a great deal of time fooling with other people's glasses, and now with contact lenses becoming so popular I seem to spend more and more time on the floor scrambling to find someone's contact lense that has somehow popped out and popped down, but nobody knows quite where.

I've found that nothing gets a group together faster than hearing one member cry, "my contact has popped out! Will someone who can see please help me find it?"

While searching around on the floor for the lense, falseness flees and familiarity enters, so even if you haven't lost your contact lens but just want to get your party moving it's a good trick to use, sort of a 1969 version of charades.

My husband got contact lenses last summer and he just loves them. They are so comfortable that one day he forgot and dived into the water wearing them. He was lucky to retrieve the one that he did.

I guess that the fact that he likes his own contact lenses so well is the reason why he agreed to let our daughter who is fourteen get a pair. I'm much too hard hearted to agree to such a thing, but Cathy caught her dad in a weak moment and he said, yes.

That's why last Wednesday found me at the eye doctor's office for Cathy's final fitting. Wow, there's a lot more to getting contacts than I had ever realized. Since she had been in the office twice before I thought that we could just breeze in, grab up the contacts and breeze out in ten minutes.

Such was not the case. A neat young man was there with bottles and cloths and he proceeded to give her a reel explanation, examination and trial run with the lenses. I simply couldn't watch. It's a horrible sight to see someone poking themselves in the eye. That's just not my idea of fun.

Anyway I had other fish to fry. Our second daughter Janet is 13, and somehow or other she had broken her glass frames in two places. Foolish me, I brought her along so that the optical department could repair the glasses. You can just guess what happened.

Janet wanted new frames. The man repaired her old frames but admitted that they wouldn't last much longer. I agreed to buy new frames. Janet didn't want any of the frames that might fit her lenses.

I reasoned with her.

I implored her.

I argued with her.

I gave up on her and agreed to buy a new set of frames and a new set of lenses. After all she has to wear them every day so she might as well be happy with them. That was Janet's reasoning.

While Janet was picking out the new frames, a project which took quite a while, I found my way back into Cathy's room where she was painstakingly poking herself in the eye again. I tried to ask a few educated questions, but my gross ignorance made the man stare so I retreated to the optical department.

Janet was still picking out frames.

"Which ones do you like, Mom?"

"Oh, I like those blue ones, Janet, they make your eyes look so blue."

That decided her. Janet chose the brown pair.

One thing for sure, I'm not going to fall into the trap of having my eyes checked. I just might find out that I'm blind as a bat, and I just can't go through either the new frames or the poke in the eye bit. Annoying as it is, I guess that I'd rather scramble for someone else's contact lenses. It's the lesser of two evils.

LINDA VANDENBERG

Miss Vandenberg to wed

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob K. Vandenberg of Ellsworth announce the engagement of their daughter, Linda to Kenneth D. Richardson. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Doyle C. Richardson of this city.

Kenneth is a graduate of Ferris State College and is now attending Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant.

Linda is a graduate of Davenport College of Business and is presently employed at Campbell Real Estate Corp. in Grand Rapids.

The wedding date has been set for January 24.

Ruppe Reports

"Congressman, what are you doing to help the President stop the inflationary cycle?"

Judging from constituent mail, I find that 11th Congressional District voters consider inflation to be the major domestic problem facing our nation. I feel that I must support every responsible measure to curb rises in the cost of living, even if it is politically unpopular.

I think that anti-inflationary moves must be initiated here at the Federal level, with cutbacks in government spending. The President, as you know, has streamlined his budget requests, to cut waste and inefficiency. Here in Congress, I have voted against appropriations that I did not feel were critically needed at this time. For instance, I voted against the appropriations bill containing the funds for a Congressional pay raise; I did not feel that legislators could ask citizens to curtail spending unless we ourselves were willing to do so. I voted against the last Foreign Aid authorization and appropriation measures, because I did not feel that our nation could sustain such a large expenditure at the time. Finally, I voted for amendments which would reduce the Department of Defense budget, because I felt that the military expenditures exceeded our strategic defense needs.

Major Vote of the Week

Housing and Urban Development Act of 1969. House final Passage: 339 Yeas to 9 Nays. Ruppe Vote: Yea.

Boyne Country has expansion explosion

One of the greatest expansion programs undertaken by any four-seasons privately-owned resort complexes in the world is currently underway in Boyne Country. Most of it is scheduled for completion in 1970.

Conscious of the conventioneers', skiers' and golfers' needs and to correct the inadequacies of the past, Boyne Country is undertaking a gigantic program of construction with a deep sense of appreciation of year-round customers' patronage through the years. Boyne Country includes the prime ski resorts of Boyne Mountain, Thunder Mountain, and Walloon Hills, all in or near Boyne Falls and Boyne Highlands, near Harbor Springs all in the heartland of Northwestern Michigan's finest recreational real estate. During the summer months this includes the summer convention resort facilities at Boyne Mountain and Boyne Highlands.

"All stops are out. We have been lax in providing our valued winter and summer customers with enough of the best places to stay and dine and have after recreation hour activities," says Everett Kircher, Boyne Country president and planner of the expansion.

The massive program calls for a commercial village at Boyne Mountain already under construction and one at Boyne Highlands, two condominium residential villages, carving new golf courses, building convention halls, just to name a few of the changes.

Skiing is only half the story at Boyne Country. What began as a playground for skiers is now a year-round resort.

At present Boyne Country annual sales are divided 60-40 between winter and summer business. "We look for the day when that ratio will be reversed," says Kircher.

"So, we're pushing hard to make these facilities attractive to the non-skiing trade. . . particularly conventions."

Sleeping accommodations for about 750 people are currently available at Both Boyne Mountain and the Highlands. "Eventually, we want to be able to handle a convention of 1,000 people at either location and are building toward that direction. Part of this will be handled by condominiums in Boyne Country," he mentioned.

The first condominium village is called Boynstadt and is situated at the foot of Boyne Mountain only minutes of easy access to the resort complex which offers over 13,000 acres of pleasure. . . skiing, golf, salmon and trout fishing, sailing, motor boating, deer and small game hunting, swimming, water skiing, horseback riding, retirement living, investment opportunities all under one central recreational administrative organization.

Almost concurrently, a condominium cluster will be built at Boyne Highlands. In both cases the apartment buildings have been studiously researched to conform to the strong, textured environments established by the main lodges in earlier building. Sixty-four units--one, two-and three-bedroom apartments will be ready soon.

The two commercial villages for Boyne Mountain and Boyne Highlands complement the bold new concept in achieving the perfect socio-recreational center. The unique archectural style is planned as one solid village to result in the happy wedding of the most advanced ideas of city and archectural planning without destroying the idyllic, dream pictures of an European village with all it's charm and textures.

Golf has to be big time here. Trained personnel is hard to come by anywhere. "Our snow making maintenance crew has applied the same principles and techniques of snowmaking to manicuring grass. The same compressors pump the same water winter and summer to make the white snow or grass green. The Boyne Country golf pro also doubles as a ski equipment expert. When the snow flies, their kitchens serves up cool summer salads as easily as a hot bowl of chili and cocktail lounges can concoct an icy Tom Collins as well as a hot buttered rum," mentioned Kircher.

As evidence of things to come in the golf world, is their newest golf course at Boyne Highlands near Harbor Springs. It already ranks as one of the ten outstanding courses in the United States, says it's designer Robert Trent Jones. A second 18-Hole Championship golf course in the Boyne Country complex is already on the west slopes of Boyne Mountain. The 650-foot vertical mountain course--all down hill--is carved from a declining morain that extends from the top of the mountain to the shores of Deer Lake. This shady-beached, 1,500-acre warm water lake is to be the site of the planned Boyne Country Club and Four Seasons Beach Club and Marina.

This summer saw the realization of the unique Boyne National Golf Academy. The academy featured a complete golf program in a one week session of instructions from August 3-10, for boys between the ages of 11 and 16.

"There is no reason not to include a golf porgram for the parents of the youngsters attending our academy as well and we're working in that direction now," Kircher promised.

With the completion of the 18-Hole Boyne Mountain Course, they will begin three more 18-Hole courses for the Boyne Country Golf complex. In all, the total roster of Boyne Country Golf courses will be seven when the development is complete. These will include the Boyne Highlands 18-Hole Course, the Mountain Course constructed at Boyne Mountain and two more 18-Hole courses at Boyne Highlands, and yet another 18-Hole Championship Course for Boyne Mountain, the 9-Hole, Par-3 Course at Boyne Mountain and another 9-Hole, Par-3 Course at Boyne Highlands. This tallies up to an impressive 108 Holes of golf in the Boyne Country complex in the next five years. Naturally with facilities such as these, they are gearing for national tournament play.

"Engineering and design is the principle of success. We've taken our Golf-given northwestern Michigan resources and treated them gently. Then the key is turned on and it lives better for all of us. It's developments such as these and with a sharp eye to the future that will make Boyne Country Mid-America's golf and ski mecca happen," Kircher concluded.

Torino. High Style.
Nothing in its field can match it for luxury.

The elegant Torino Brougham is rich in looks, lavish in appointments. Compare it to other intermediates. You won't find its equal anywhere—not in appearance and certainly not in price. It has a longer wheelbase for a smoother ride. A wider track for better road holding. Hideaway Headlamps, concealed windshield wipers, 302 CID V-8 are just a few of the standard features. Take your choice of 2- or 4-door hardtops. Either one is worth a visit just to see how beautiful it is.

Torino Brougham 2-Door Hardtop

Torino. High Performance.
New SportsRoof styling... six great V-8's.

Torino GT gives you the ride, the handling, even its own aerodynamic SportsRoof styling that adds to your go. And you can go all the way up to the 429 Cobra Jet Ram-Air V-8 with a living, breathing, through-the-hood shaker. Then add our new Laser Stripes, high-back buckets, 4-speed Hurst Shifter®... you get the idea. Park the GT if you want to collect a crowd, and take them on a cruise if you want to dazzle them.

Torino GT SportsRoof

Torino. Low Price.
Lowest priced hardtop in its class.

This is the beauty that caught the competition napping. You won't find a lower priced intermediate hardtop anywhere in the country. Yet it offers you many features you'll find only on the more expensive Torino models. Longer wheelbase. Wider track. Curved side glass. Concealed windshield wipers. Fiberglass belted tires, and more. Recipe

Easy Pumpkin Pie

- 1 package (3 oz.) egg custard mix
- 1-½ cups canned pumpkin
- ¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1-2/3 cups (13-oz. can) evaporated milk
- 1 egg yolk (optional)
- 1-½ teaspoons pumpkin pie spice
- 1 baked 9-inch pie shell, cooled
- Spicy Whipped Topping

Combine custard mix, pumpkin, sugar, milk, egg yolk, and spice. Bring quickly to a boil, stirring constantly. Pour into pie shell. Cool or chill until set. Prepare Spicy Whipped Topping and use to garnish top of pie.

Note: ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, and ¼ teaspoon ginger may be used in place of the pumpkin pie spice.

Spicy Whipped Topping. Prepare 1 envelope whipped topping mix as directed on package, adding about ½ teaspoon nutmeg or ginger before whipping. Makes 2 cups.

Dividends to arrive

In a continuing effort to encourage driver safety, the 13th Farm Bureau Mutual auto dividend in 20 years will begin arriving in policyholder mailboxes in Charlevoix County. The new dividend, 10 percent of the semi-annual premium for some 50,000 Michigan auto policyholders, will add up to $280,000. Total auto dividends paid during the firm's 20 year history now exceed $2,100,000.

"Driver safety, that's the key," said Nile L. Vermillion, executive vice president of Farm Bureau Insurance Group, in announcing the dividend. "As an insurance company we have a responsibility to encourage safe driving through dividends ...showing that safety really does pay. But ultimately, only the individual motorist can take the decision to drive carefully, defensively, safely. Farm Bureau Mutual auto policyholders have."

The latest auto dividend was approved by Farm Bureau Mutual Insurance Board of Directors effective October 20. In the past three years, Farm Bureau Mutual has paid out over $800,000 in auto dividends to policyholders while most auto insurers have been raising rates.

Vermillion also said that an insurance firm must..."Conscientiously serve all of the driving public. That is the need our group-rated auto program .. . .the first in the Nation....is meeting."

According to Vermillion, Farm Bureau Insurance Group's group auto program, adopted by 21 Michigan business, church, school and governmental units, follows basic group health and group life concepts. Group rating and administration reduce individual insurance rates while eliminating arbitrary cancellations by the insurer.

Knowing how to control a skidding car can be valuable information, according to Liberty Mutual Insurance Companies. Never jam on the brakes or step down on the accelerator. Steering in the direction of the skid and pumping the brakes are the most effective ways of regaining control of the vehicle.

Rayders bump Boyne; prep for St. Ignace

Following a 16-6 win over Boyne City last Friday, the Rayders are busy preparing to go against St. Ignace this week for the M-HS championship.

The Rayders seemingly had little trouble against their county rivals, even with the condition of the field. Again, the Charlevoix defense played an outstanding game, holding the Ramblers scoreless until the final minute.

The Rayders must win against the Saints to win the championship.

The stage is set, and as the pre-season polls predicted, it will be the Red Rayders and the Saints facing one another, with the winner getting the championship trophy. While the odds will be against the Rayders winning, odds can be broken. One big thing going for the Saints is their 20-game home winning streak.

The Rayders will definitely be their toughest competition this season, and the second place Saints will have to be plenty sharp to win. John Brown and Company, trounced TCSF last Saturday night, 37-0. Brown increased his league scoring leadership with four touchdowns in that game, and is a sho-in in winning his second straight scoring title.

Boyne offered a still resistance in last weeks game, but the Rayders never trailed in winning 16-6. Boyne saved some face by scoring with 30 seconds remaining in the game.

Switching from the top spot to the bottom, Gaylord is going to Petoskey in attempt to get a crack at winning their first game of the year. Should Petoskey win, the Blue Devils will have their first winless season in 20 years. Petoskey dropped a 35-0 contest to Cheboygan last week, and now have a losing streak of four games, with their only win coming against Boyne City. Gaylord is expected to win its first game of the season, 14-12.

Cheboygan's up-and-down Chiefs travel to Rogers City Friday night. Cheboygan's three wins came at home, while their three losses were on the road. Cheboygan seems to be on every other game, and this isn't scheduled to be that "other" game. Rogers City had a week off in preparing for this game, but the Chiefs will break "tradition" and win, 28-16.

The leagues two parochial teams will battle at Alpena CC Saturday night. Coach Jim Surles has rejuvenated his Thunderbolts, and currently they are in third place with the 5-2 record. The Thunderbolts rolled over Gaylord last week by a 27-6 margin, and have three fine backs; Mike Clearwood, Dave Ruth, and Tom Boilore to show for their fine season. Alpena remains in third place with a convincing win over Traverse City St. Francis.

Within a week the football shoes will be hung with care, and league coaches will be getting together to decide on the All-Conference team. Their biggest task will be selecting the four backs for the first team. It will be a hard task, since there are no less than 10 worthy of such recognition. It should be interesting.

IN THE OPEN

BY LEE SMITS

At this time of year in days gone by, just before first snowfall, lumbercamps throughout Michigan, north of Bay City – Muskegon – were being manned for the winter harvesting. An important member of a crew was the camp hunter. He might be on the payroll as a swamper – at maybe $26 per month, plus a bonus for each deer brought in – like $5 per deer.

Deer were not much more abundant than now, but they were a lot less man-shy. Wolves were fairly common, and deer learned that wolves avoided the presence of mankind, so that there were more deer in the general vicinity of lumber camps than there were in more remote territory.

Careful questioning of successful camp hunters – those that could be believed – revealed that they did very well to kill a deer a day, without regard to sex or size.

The 1969 deer hunter might take a few useful hints from the old-time professionals. Glaring colors were not then in vogue among hunters. Woolen clothing was standard. For foot-gear, high rubbers with leather tops, worn inside trouser legs.

Belt knives were scorned, because they were worn by "farmers" from "down below". To the woodsman, the lowest form of life was a farmer, a hay-kicker, a moss back. Permanent residents of the north called visiting hunters "the Kerosene gang", claiming that the invaders went to great lengths to avoid spending any money in the northern counties, even lugging kerosene from "down below". In that era "down below" was all territory south of Saginaw Bay. In later years, "down below" was applied to everything south of the Straits of Mackinac.

Let's take a look at a camp hunter. Instead of a sheath knife he carried an encrusted jack knife, with a big blade kept razor sharp. He was armed with a 30-30 rifle. He carried a length of clothesline for hanging up a dressed deer. In general, he considered a compass an affectation. Said he never could get lost.

The camp hunter explored his territory until he was familiar with the goings and comings of all the deer in the region. He had no prejudice in favor of bucks. His clientele favored yearlings. For Thanksgiving or Christmas he aimed to provide a tender hind-quarter that could be boned and baked as a turkey substitute, complete with stuffing.

The camp hunter knew how to walk in the woods, without having to watch his feet. He would drift along, silent as a shadow, scanning every foot of cover along the way. When he shot he usually could tell whether it was a hit or a miss, by the way the target deer behaved. If he had drawn blood, he smoked a pipe or two before taking up the trail, giving a wounded deer a chance to lie down and stiffen. He was more of a hunter than a sitter, although he would post himself on a runway for an hour at dawn and dusk, motionless and alert.

A lumber camp usually had a team of chuck sled ponies, employed in delivering mid-day meals to men in the timber. A dressed deer was hauled into camp by the chuck team, if the ponies were not too fearful of blood scent. Jenny, a smart little sorrel mare, actually seemed to enjoy hauling a deer carcass. Once the deer was secured to Jenny, a slap on the haunch would start her on her careful way back to camp.

Ellsworth loses, 40-0

Ellsworth dropped its final game of the year to Ski Valley champs Bellaire, 40-0, last Friday.

The game concluded a disappointing season for the Lancers, who finished with a 0-4 league record.

Denny Drenth finished in fifth place in the scoring race, however, notching 26 of the Lancers' 32 points in league competition.

Farm Bureau annual meet is Nov. 10-12

Final plans for the 50th Annual Meeting of the Michigan Farm Bureau, November 10, 11 and 12, have been announced by Elton Smith, Caledonia, president of the state's largest farm organization.

Dr. Robert Parker, a scientist-astronaut from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration Manned Spacecenter, Houston, Texas, will be the featured speaker at the Golden Anniversary Banquet, November 11 at the Lansing Civic Center.

"We are honored to have Dr. Parker on our program. His presence especially befits the theme of the occasion, 'Focused On The Future'," Smith said.

Library Notes

This week the Library suggests some important biographies which are recommended for good reading or good re-reading.

"Northern Nurse" by Elliott Merrick is the true account of an Australian nurse who signed up for two years service with one of the Grenfell hospitals in Laborador. During the illness and absence of the doctor in charge, she found herself in the role of doctor, dentist, nurse, surgeon, dressmaker, bookkeeper and church soloist, among other activities. The story is written by the man who later became her husband. It is a vigorous, intensely interesting book, and it is the kind of "escape" literature that is particularly pleasant these days.

"No Time For Tears" by Lora Wood Hughes is the eighth book to receive the Life-in America award. It is also a story of the nursing profession, but it is, in addition, a history of pioneers and outdoor adventure. It is truly as perfect an account of an American life as any story could be. Among these biographical studies we learn to know Dirty Potter, the ex-English aristocrat who never washed himself, his clothes or his dishes in all his years in the Alberta wilderness and Julie, the prostitute who had a face like Mona Lisa and spoke in perfect English, and we become acquainted with Anton and Trevor, disqualified doctor and unfrocked priest who were not afraid to serve. Once started, this is not an easy book to put down.

Delegates to give report

Delegates to the National Council meeting of the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., Mrs. W.O. Wilcox, Cadillac, president; Mr. Vince Bali, Traverse City, treasurer; Mrs. Alma Minzey, McBain, leader; Mrs. Jane Lockwood, Cadillac, leader and Mrs. Virginia Warner, Traverse City, Executive Director will report to the 11 county Crooked Tree Girl Scout Council on the events and action of their National Council at Association Meetings.

Student unrest, number one conversation topic in American homes, is caused by lack of maturity in adults, Dr. Matthew P. Dumont, keynote speaker at the 38th National Convention of Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., told 8,000 delegates and visitors in the Seattle Center.

"According to the Harris Poll, student unrest has become the major topic of conversation in American homes," he pointed out.

"People who are no longer young and whose only concern is the sustenance of a youth rebellion are copping out in the most cowardly and shameful way," Dr. Dumont charged.

"There is no reason," he went on, "why we should not be capable of listening to the voices of youth within ourselves. What after all, does youth say? It asks, 'Why are you so faithless to your own values?'

It asks, 'Why are you seduced by meaningless complexity?' It asks, 'Why are you so righteous about your vested interests?' It asks, 'Why do you lie?' and 'Why are you so unhappy?'

'We can ask ourselves these questions," Dr. Dumont, Chief, Center for Studies of metropolitan problems, National Institute of Mental Health, said, "and look for answers to them within the fabric of our own private and public lives. Is it impossible for us to realize how foolish we look to the young when we puff ourselves up indignantly and defend our toys — our monstrous toys – when there is work to be done?

"Do we really need the young to tell us to feed the hungry, and clothe the naked, and shelter the exposed, before we fling ourselves to the heavens like some kind of maniacal child? Do we need the young to tell us to stop the war?"

Dr. Dumont was born in New York City and received his psychiatric training at Massachusetts General Hospital. He did postgraduate work in community psychiatry with Dr. Gerald Caplan at Harvard. He has published a number of articles on community psychiatry and is author of the book, "The Absurd Healer," published by Science House, Inc.

In conclusion, be asked adults to show wisdom, courage, and compassion, instead of showing only power; to recapture the bold, impatient, inpertinent stirrings – and stagger the imaginations of the young.

"Instead of talking about them with rage or terror or romantic nonsense," he proposed talking to youth with behavior "which would very quietly and very clearly say, 'It's good to be over 30.' "

Crooked Tree Girl Scout Council is a member agency of ten northwestern lower Michigan United Community Chests, serving 5,000 members in 11 counties, including Charlevoix.

Miss Sanford engaged

Mrs. Rowena Sanford announces the engagement of her daughter, Rita Jean, to Thomas F. Hawley, the son of Mr. and Mrs. E.D. Hawley of Charlevoix.

Miss Sanford was graduated from Charlevoix High School and from Northwestern Michigan College in 1968. She is presently a senior at Michigan State University.

Hawley graduated from Charlevoix High School and from Northwood Institute in May. He is now associated with General Motors corporation before intering the Navy in January.

The wedding will take place December 20, at First Congregational Church.

Women's World

Plan activities

The Music Group of the Charlevoix Woman's Club will meet on Monday, November 10, at 1:30, at the home of Mrs. Robert Tollas, 203 E. Dixon Avenue. They will be rehearsing music for a Christmas program.

The Women's Fellowship of the Congregational Church will hold their Thank Offering Tea on November 5, at 1:30 in the afternoon at the home of Mrs. Darrell Dinwiddie. All ladies who are members of the church or who are interested in the church are cordially invited to attend.

The Little Flower Guild will meet at the home of Mrs. W. L. Peters on November 6, at 8 o'clock in the evening. Sister Ann will show a film on educational needs of today.

The Book Review Group of the Charlevoix Woman's Club met on October 27 at the home of Mrs. Charles Bellinger. Mrs. Bellinger reviewed Queen Christina by Georgina Masson. The book is a biography of a 17th century queen of Sweden who abdicated her throne almost as soon as she was crowned. She fled incognito to Spain and thereafter lived much of her life in Rome, where she became a Catholic. Although she had voluntarily renounced the crown, she eventually came to think of herself as a martyr who gave up the throne of predominantly Lutheran Sweden in order to become a Roman Catholic.

The next meeting of the Book Review group will be Monday, Nov. 24, at 1:30, at the home of Mrs. Donald Couse. Mrs. Robert Martin will review "The Intimate Enemy" by Dr. George Bach and Peter Wyden, a book that tells "how to fight fair in love and marriage."

The Home Decorating Group and the Antiques Group of the Charlevoix Woman's Club met together on October 27, at the home of Mrs. Dave Fowler. This was an organizational meeting so no program had been planned. It was decided to keep the two groups together for the time being. Those present were interested primarily in decorating with antiques, rather than in collecting. Their next meeting will be Nov. 24, at 9:30 at the home of Mrs. Charles Duerr. Members are asked to bring a small antique or heirloom and tell what is known of its history.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER

I PRESUME it is more or less natural for people to take this for granted, more or less unassuming to a certain degree overlook many things. Therefore it is again brought to attention that 1969 is Charlevoix County Centennial year. One hundred years ago in 1869 the county of Charlevoix, Michigan was organized. At that time Charlevoix became the county seat and has remained as such ever since. Of course many of you people are aware of this and maybe equally as many are not. In sort of with a celebration both Chamber of Commerces of both Boyne City and East Jordan, I understand, have called a Centennial Year to their neighborhoods attention. Their libraries including Charlevoix Public Library have displayed beautiful paintings of our Mrs. Irene Young. It is hoped that our industries, businesses, and citizens will be kind enough to wipe off dust and cobwebs from a wide variety of things having to do with Charlevoix County way back when. It is very interesting to have these displayed with placards bearing identificiation, etc. I am sure some of our vacant windows along Bridge Street and others can be made available and maybe our library might have some room for a piece of printed material, etc.

The Michigan Retailer Association at Lansing with the cooperation of some Petoskey facilities will hold a retail Sales Refresher Course, in a sort of clinic like fashion. This program will be held in the Petoskey High School three separate Thursday evenings started at 5:45 p.m. November 6, 13, and 20. Of course the purpose of this course is to fulfill the recognized needs for continued training in sales proficiency both in managerial and sales clerks level. Also to raise the proficiency level in the area. A dinner will be served prior to each meeting. A registration fee of $7.50 for the three meetings will be charged. The course instructor will be William Haight, Manager of Community Relations at Michigan Retailers Association at Lansing. You retailers and staff are urged to take advantage.

I, too, plan to be away Monday, October 27 primarily to discuss matters we might be able to undertake here and at the same time learn from other's ideas they have been using effectively.

Davis looks at legislation

"I have several amendments to offer to the program," stated Rep. Davis, "but this is to be expected since parts of the program affect the various areas of the state and the economy differently." "And," added Davis, "the Governor has said repeatedly that he does not object to constructive alternatives to his program being suggested."

"Most of my colleagues seem to be following this course of constructive analysis and criticism. However, there are the inevitable few who loudly voice their criticism, apparently with political motives in mind, but offer no meaningful alternatives to the proposals they deride. It is a rather deplorable method of trying to create a political issue without proposing specific proposals," reported Davis.

"As I've said before, the specifics of Governor Milliken's program are open to debate. But, there can be no doubt that he has had the courage to call for sweeping reforms in an effort to achieve true and comprehensive education reform."

Action in the Legislature this past week has centered on the committee and caucus rooms. Until the education reform bills are studied thoroughly and released by the various committees, actual floor sessions will be brief. We probably will limit floor work to Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday for the first couple of weeks. This will provide additional time for committee work, which is the first priority at the moment.

Also extremely important at this time are informational caucuses held to discuss the education reform measures. At these meetings we have been holding extended discussions on every minute detail of the bills. These point-by-point explorations of the issues help develop greater understanding of all aspects of the proposals by the members. It is also a means to test for possible weak points in the program which may have te altered as debate proceeds.

"I was very pleased to learn of the discovery of a potentially vast field of oil and gas deposits of northern lower Michigan. If the very exciting initial reports of this find are borne out, it could have important implications for the region and the entire state," said Rep. Davis.

State officials made hopeful predictions that the field might yield more than $1 billion. That would just about equal the crude oil total pumped since the first Michigan well was opened in 1925. If expectations are confirmed, this could greatly aid the employment and economy of the region. The state could also realize a substantial income from land leases to companies developing wells in the area.

"The oil and gas field is estimated to extend over an area 175 miles long and 50 miles wide. It is believed to lie under a crescent from Manistee on Lake Michigan, through Gaylord, to Rogers City on Lake Huron. Growing, dynamic Michigan has gained an important plus to its vibrant economic outlook," stated Rep. Davis.

The Western Michigan University Department of Music will present its First Annual Band Spectacular on Friday evening, November 14, 8 p.m. in the University Auditorium. The spectacular will present WMU's four bands in a two hour display of characteristic literature. The ensembles programmed include the Symphonic Band, the Wind Ensemble, the Jazz Lab Band as well as WMU's "Marching 100".

Public school instrumental music students are invited to register in the name of their school in order to compete for a free assembly by one of the WMU bands. Band directors should write to the music department's concert coordinator for details.

Local students now at WMU who will be participating in the First Annual Band Spectacular include Carol Annis, 207 Nettleton Street, Charlevoix.

Mayor William Fochtman, bank president Jerry Redeker and State Representative Bob Davis were part of observation of grand opening of new bank.

Progress measured in many ways

Progress in a community is measured in many ways....community facilities, educational improvement, population growth due to industrial expansion and new construction to name a few.

Charlevoix includes itself in at least a few of these categories. Industrial expansion and resulting population growth is evident......and the new building of the First State Bank is the latest new structure housing a local business.

The Board of Directors and President Jerrald Redeker came up with a handsome, functional building that has drawn attention from all over the state to our community as well as the bank.

Obviously, banking today is not the dull, austere transaction it was years ago....in fact, it almost "swings".

Pick your goals, don't be trapped

by DAVID SARGENT

"I don't want to be trapped by society", said the earnest youth, "as you have been."

What does he mean by "trapped?" Does he mean wearing shoes and ties, or working at a regular job, or accepting values revered by others, or does he mean the responsibilities that inevitably accrue to all but the rollingest of stones?

For aren't we all "trapped" one way or another? On an Olympian level, we are trapped in a giant tragedy -- by being born to die. More prosaically, we all eventually develop or accept some standards, whether of conformity or rebellion, and then live by them. Is the warrior against the establishment any the less trapped than his enemy? How much freer are the bearded and beaded than those in the gray flannel suits?

Isn't life inevitably a series of choices between incompatible alternatives. To earn a living requires certain sacrifices. Some kinds of living demand more sacrifices than others, but whatever we do militates against doing something else. Raising a rollicking brood of children means a lower level of personal material gratification. A warm and spiritually rewarding marriage militates against much sowing of wild oats.

To choose one alternative over another does not mean we are trapped -- that is just life. As long as we keep ourselves spiritually free to consider the options open to us and then select the one that seems best for us, we are free. We are only "trapped" when we accept a set of values and standards that make each choice predetermined. When our goals are given us by others, we are truly trapped, but when they are of our own considered selection we are really free.

Does the beard, bead, and headband society offer such options, or is it the "trapped" society?

Education

BY DICK BROWN

Who pays the price when pupils and/or faculty go on strike?

A classic example of the hardships imposed when educational institutions are shut down is evidenced at San Francisco State college where last year class disruptions prevailed for almost four months.

Inspectors for the Western Association of Colleges and Universities have placed San Francisco State on what amounts to probation was not for failure to offer approved educational opportunities but failure to take advantage of those opportunities.

In addition some 60 students who completed work on master's degrees are threatened with having that work go for naught because there was so much class disruption.

Unless the accrediting authorities back down these students will see years of effort go down the drain face rejection for advance education or find themselves short changed on the job market.

Accreditation is based on the content of courses taught, the quality of instruction and evidence that students have done the work.

Taking four months out of a school year to carry placards, throw rocks and yell obscenities means that the contents of the courses, the quality of instruction and opportunity for doing the work have gone down the drain.

When classes are not held it is obvious that teaching cannot proceed and work cannot be done.

What has happened at San Francisco State is a warning that was applicability everywhere at every level of education.

Disruptive students, irresponsible instructors or weak administrators may together make a joke out of the purposes of education but sooner or later the price for their little game must be paid as the students at San Francisco State are finding out.

Here is a poem dedicated to education.

When I was a student I was quiet.
I didn't protest; I didn't riot.
I wasn't unwashed; I wasn't obscene.
I made no demands of prexy or dean.
I sat no sitin; I heckled no speaker.
I broke out a window-few students were meeker.
I'm forced to admit with some hestitation,
All I got of school was an education.

My favorite courthouse front lawn bench sitter and philosopher came up with a goodie the other day. In discussing television he said, "In Grandfather's day everyone thought television was impossible. Today Grandfather still thinks so, after seeing the crop of new fall shows."

Fatal flaw

Threats of consumer strikes have raised their ugly heads once more, and again they hold a common fatal flaw. They are aimed at the symptoms of inflation rather than the cause.

In various parts of the country, consumer spokesmen have urged the boycotting of meat. The idea is that high meat prices are the fault of meat producers and retail merchants. Yet, they are merely victims of inflation, just as are the boycotters.

One consumer, who happens to live knowledge not only of the reasons for country, raises some questions that meat price protesters may find difficult to answer. She asks: "Should we boycott the truck dealer for a truck that costs $1,800 more than in 1952? Or, should we boycott the lumberman and ask our friends to do likewise for lumber that costs $400 per 1,000 board feet? Should I hurt the lumber worker who received $1.83 per hour in 1952 and now receives $3.05 per hour? Should we boycott the hay baler manufacturer for this equipment that costs $2,000 more than in 1952? Some blame prepackaging of meat, but I'm sure Mrs. Consumer won't trade the luxury of our modern supermarket for the old country butcher shop."

The time spent futilely blaming our neighbors for inflation could more profitably be spent gaining a better knowledge not only of the reasons for inflation-governmental monetary and fiscal policies-but also for a better understanding of the principles of the free market that have resulted in the most efficient, high volume, retail, mass distribution system the world has ever known. Romance on a bus

Until he showed up feeding squirrels, I had forgotten My Most Unforgettable Character, Harry Holmes, the singing bus driver.

Back in the late 40's, Harry drove the bus that went by my parents' home in Port Huron. Two blocks later, headed for downtown, he also drove by my girlfriend's home. I didn't own a car, so it was often Harry's responsibility to get Noreen and me to the movie on time.

Usually, I'd board the 7 p.m. bus at my corner, and then Noreen would get on 2 blocks later. This way I didn't have to pay her fare. She was a working girl and I was a struggling veteran trying to get through college on only a $75 a month for beer.

It didn't take long for Harry to realize he was important to our romance. After he'd pick me up, he'd begin looking for Noreen. (She didn't always board at the same corner because sometimes she had to walk a block to Shamaly's Market to sell empty beer bottles to raise her bus fare. We were a wealthy couple). If Noreen were nowhere in sight, Harry would slow down to 5 mph to give her more time to materialize.

Harry was easily the town's most popular bus driver. It wasn't simply that he was always friendly; always had a corny joke. He was also a singer. Not very good, but louder than the motor. And properly inserted into the lyrics was always the name of the next street. If you missed your stop it was proabably because you became bemused and thought Hoagy Carmichael had written something called Stardust on Rawlings St.

Noreen and I were an addition to Harry's repertoire. He let the other passengers know when his favorite couple made connection successfully. And, whenever one of us went downtown alone, he wondered aloud what the trouble was. He took a real interest in the courtship, following the ups and downs closely and vocally. Whenever I boarded the homeward bound bus alone and beery, he would tch-tch steadily for 10 blocks. I would have walked 15 miles rather than take another girl onto Harry's bus.

The Readers' Digest would end this tale with Harry bussing Noreen and me on the first leg of our honeymoon. But alas. She found another, a guy with a car, and I left town on another bus line. It was 20 years before I thought of Harry again...

Suddenly there he was, the star of a feature story in my hometown newspaper. He's retired now and spends much of his time in a lawn chair, feeding peanuts to pigeons and squirrels.

"I feed them rain or shine — that's half my life now," he told the reporter. "You have to keep busy or you just rot away...all I want to do now is live in Port Huron until I die."

Harry lives smack on his old bus route. Boy, what I'd like to do is go home and ride that bus and get off at Harry's corner and hand a bag of peanuts to my Most Unforgettable Character.

But I'm so damn busy earning bus fare, I'll forget to do it. And then I'll think of it again when I read Harry's obituary.

That's life. What a shame.

Bell lab development in every pocket

Bell Telephone Laboratories engineers occasionally work in unusual fields. Over the years they have developed such diverse things as air-to-ground radio communications for aircraft and sound tracks for movies.

But one of their most interesting accomplishments is the little-known story of how they helped to develop the "sandwich" coins that every American now carries in his pocket.

Last year alone more than 1.4 billion U.S. coins were minted using a technique similar to one worked out by Bell Labs engineers Rembert R. Stokes, Roger A. Kimber and William Pfered in 1964.

The U.S. Government was faced with a silver coin dilemma five years ago. Uncle Sam was worried about the short supply of silver, fearing that the silver in the coins might become so valuable that the public would begin melting them down.

When the BTL engineers heard about the government's problem and the strong likelihood that a substitute coinage would be adopted, they found themselves in a dilemma of their own. They had just finished designing the new single-slot public telephones so they would reject everything but nickels and silver dimes and quarters.

Equally concerned about new coinage were the $4 billion-a-year vending machine industry and the U.S. Treasury, worried about public acceptance of substitutes.

Since a large share of coins are used in pay telephones, Bell Labs began to study various materials to see whether any would be compatible with the new single-slot phone, as well as the vending machines.

First Bell Labs looked at alloyed, plated and laminated coins, searching for one with the required characteristics.

Since then the government has saved millions of dollars by making quarters, for example, at a cost of only two cents a piece–a 21-cent saving over prior costs. The substitute coinage has proved highly satisfactory to all–the government, the vending machine industry and the Bell System.

those Charlevoix couples who support the Petoskey Area Mental Health Clinic. Their punch bowl and table arrangement drew enthusiastic praise from their guests for its originality. The punch bowl was a scooped out pumpkin shell with a lighted pumpkin above through which poured a continuous flow of punch. Greenery, gourds and squash gave the house a festive autumn air.

Guests who attended the cocktail party or prime roast beef dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rayder, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. George Nipson, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Beitel, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Bartlett, Mr. and Mrs. David Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hess, Mr. and Mrs. Charles England, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Tollas, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Payne, Mr. and Mrs. James Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. John Michael, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Donaldson, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Kenney, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Diller, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Hite and Dr. and Mrs. Dave Pray.

Bob Cromell and Jerry Meggison of hatchery staff survey fish taken in Lake Michigan last Friday. Information gained will be used to re-build Great Lakes into a mecca for the sportsman.

7 CHS footballers are All Conference

Kraag Lieberman has been named to both the defensive and offensive All Conference football team today, according to Charlevoix High School director of athletics Leonard Staley and conference officials.

Lieberman was named as the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference outstanding defensive safety as well as taking a spot at offensive end.

Other Charlevoix players to earn berths on the offensive team were quarter back Stewart Coleman and tackle Norm Ostrum.

Named to the defensive unit besides Lieberman were linebacker Vic Kantola and interior lineman Kevin Swanson.

Gaining honorable mention nods were halfback George McClellan and guard Tim Doan.

Survey to determine lake fish condition

Myrl Keller is one man who sees a great future for Lake Michigan as both a sport fishery and, eventually, a commercial fishery.

"Lake Michigan," says biologist Keller, "Has always been a mecca for recreation, but for the last 20 years it has lacked the basic ingredient to the sportsman.....fish."

For the past several years, this trend has been reversed. For the first time in the last two decades, Lake Trout have been abundant.

Reports from local fisherman indicate the catch this year has been "good" for those who know how to go after the game fish.

"The coho fishing must be termed successful, too," said Keller. "And, there is no reason to suspect it won't continue to develop," he added.

Some of the progress in returning Lake Michigan to good hunting grounds for the angler has been the continuing vigilanec by the Department of Natural Resources through Keller and his staff.

At this time, they are wrapping up a two-month survey of Lake Michigan waters.

Basically, the survey is designed to gain information on the reproduction, feeding habits, and migration routes of the varieties of fish in Lake Michigan.

"We are interested in getting information on the general well-being of our fish stocks, and evaluate the sea lamprey control program," Keller stated.

The survey comprised two segments. The first was completed in October and was concentrated in the Grand Traverse Bay area. The second segment of the survey, in process at this time, centers in our area of Lake Michigan.

Both segments have been worked in cooperation with the state and local fisherman Jake "Chum" White, Jr. As compensation for his work, White is given the fish after the needed information has been secured and may sell them commercially.

According to Keller, his department wanted to know what the population totaled for whitefish, lake trout, yellow perch and lake herring. He noted that predominate food for fish in this area appears to be smelt and alewife.

Another major concern of the survey is determining what effect, if any, any pollutants may have on natural reproduction of trout.

The trout being sampled this fall are completing the reproduction cycle for the first time since being planted in 1965. Michigan State University and the federal government are joining the state in this area of research.

The major goal in Lake Michigan appears to be the re-establishment of an outstanding sport fishery.

However, Keller indicates that the commercial fisherman has not been forgotten.

"We are interested in a commercial fishery which is an asset to the Great Lakes resource. In the future, we plan to have a healthy commercial fishery of a size that's compable of harvesting available commercial stocks and provide the industry with a good income," he noted.

The second segment of the two-part survey will be completed this month.

Stewart Coleman today was named the Number 1 quarterback in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference. Coleman, a senior, was the driving force, both as a leader and player, behind Charlevoix's 6-1-1 conference record, which was good for second place. (Courier photo)

School Board accepts dress code modifications

Charlevoix's School Board discussed the controversial dress code at Monday night's meeting, but escaped the side of controversy by accepting guidelines from the high school student council, faculty and administration.

The school has had a dress code for several years, and Superintendent Rex Milligan noted that this week's action consisted of several minor changes and modification.

The Board also heard a report from Dale Boss, Board member in charge of transportation, that the bus garage has been enlarged. The change in door position has allowed two more vehicles to use the facility. Cost to the district totaled $600.

Board member Charles England reported to the Board that his curriculum study is progressing. He indicated that one meeting has been held between teachers and administration.

Furniture for the Middle School was purchased at a cost of $3,318. The majority of items consists of desks and chairs.

Appointed to a committee to study a youngster's enterence into kindergarten were elementary principal Glenn Snider, Board member Richard Donaldson, and one kindergarten teacher.

State law dictates that a child must have his fifth birthday on or before December 1 to be enrolled. However, the committee will investigate the possibilities of establishing a November 1 date, as some youngsters are not prepared for school life at age five.

The Board established a policy that anytime the gymnasium is being used, there must be a qualified adult present. According to school officials, this is not a change in present procedures.

The floor of the Middle School gym will be refinished following Board action. Sanding and re-sealing will be performed by Charles and Eugene Bergmann.

According to some Board members, recently some items of business have been brought up by members without first putting them on the agenda.

The Board adopted a policy to place all items on the agenda, except for those of a sudden or emergency nature.

Annex vote set Jan. 6

Charlevoix Township voters will go to the polls early next year to help decide whether or not Charlevoix city and township should be joined as one governmental unit.

The County Board of Supervisors set January 6, 1970, as the day of election in the township following a hearing Monday morning in the County Building.

A petition for annexation was presented by Charlevoix city attorney John Michael. Michael told the supervisors that the city was asking for annexation at the request of the Township Board of Supervisors.

Should the annexation vote be favorable and later approved by the County Supervisors, Charlevoix would become the largest city, in terms of square mileage, north of Cadillac.

Population would jump to approximately 4,000, with the addition of over 700 township residents.

A week ago today, city and township officials presided over a public meeting to answer questions and hear concerns about combining the two areas.

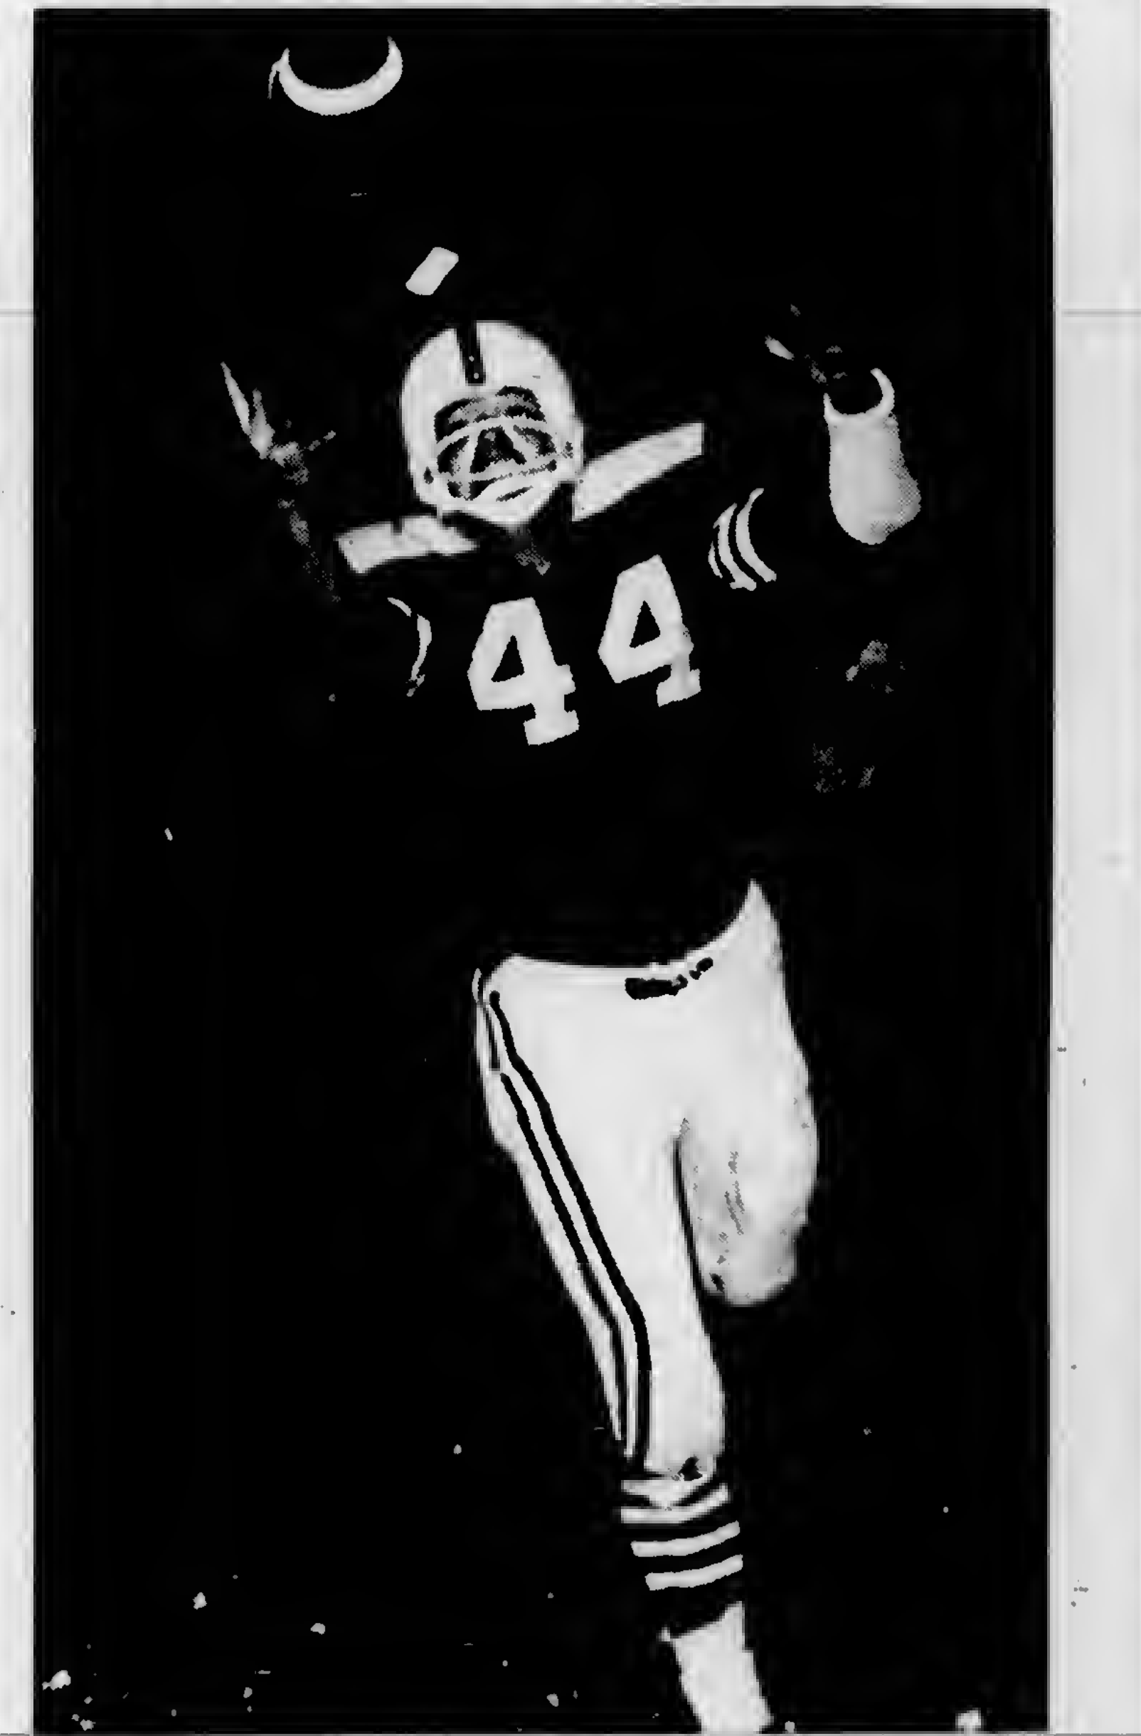
Prime considerations were about police protection, water, sewers, taxes and road improvements.

Boosters host meal

The annual fall Band Booster Dinner will be held tomorrow at the high school between 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. Band members are selling tickets for the swiss steak dinner at the price of $1.50 for adults and $.75 for children under 12.

Traditionally the Band Boosters of the Charlevoix High School Band stage a fall dinner to raise money for the band to do the extra things which contribute to making the Charlevoix Band so outstanding.

Mrs. Melvin Plum and Mrs. Franklin Cellner will be in charge of the kitchen, and Mrs. Don Brown, Mrs. Jack Moll and Mrs. Stan Fiedorek will be in charge of the dining room. Mrs. Claire C. Martin is ticket chairman of the event.



Kraag Lieberman has been named to both the offense and defense of the Michigan-Huron Shores All Conference team.

MR. AND MRS. J.E. STOCKWELL

Miss Bacot is bride of Jack E. Stockwell

Emmanuel Episcopal Church in Petoskey was the scene for the wedding of Susan Larice Bacot and Jack E. Stockwell. The Rev. Lee C. Lindenberger officiated at the double ring rites.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Bacot of Charlevoix. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Stockwell also of Charlevoix.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown with empire demi "A" line of Bridal wreath Chantilace with a wedding ring neckline and long slim sleeves. The skirt flowed into a chapel train and both were edged with a tiny floral scallop. The head piece was of matching lace with sequins, stephanotis, and bead work on elbow length silk illusion.

The maid of honor was Connie Gear, cousin of the bride. Bridesmaid was Mrs. William J. O'Daniel, sister oof the groom. Junior Bridesmaid was Mary Louise McDonough.

Serving as best man was William J. O'Daniel, brother-in-law of the groom. Groomsman was Thomas Sumner.

The bride's mother wore a coat dress ensemble in lime green with matching accessories. The groom's mother wore a brown suit with matching accessories.

A reception was held in the undercroft of the church. Pam Selph was hostess. She was assisted by Arlene Bacot, Chris Beedle and Judy Derwe, all cousins of the bride. The rehearsal dinner was held at the Grey Gables Inn, in Charlevoix.

The bride is presently employed at Freedman Artcraft. The groom, a veteran of the Army, is now attending North Central Michigan College.

Guests were present from Illinois and many Michigan cities.

Several of the 200 persons who attended Sunday's dedication of Northside Elementary School enter building for ceremonies.

Over 200 at dedication of new elementary school

Over 200 local residents were on hand Sunday to dedicate the new Northside elementary school.

Main speaker of the ceremonies was Robert Vratanina, Dean of Instructions at North Central Michigan College.

Vratanina told Charlevoixans that new school shows that local people are aware of the importance of the education of their children.

He praised the modern concept of the structure, noting that moveable walls between classrooms shows progress. He commended local planners for including a materials center in the school, "which puts learning materials at the students fingertips."

Master of ceremonies for the program was Glenn Kenney, former president of the local Board of Education.

Following dedication ceremonies, refreshments were served and tours of the school were conducted by the P.T.O., headed by Fred Payne. Over 450 persons toured the new facilities.

Others taking part in the ceremonies included: Jack Rader, president of the Board of Education, who spoke and accepted the plaque with Board members names from Richard E. Wiggins of Daverman Associates, Inc., architects, and Gerald Barnes, president of Barnes Construction Company, contractors.

Elementary school principal Glenn B. Snider welcomed guests; Superintendent of Schools Rex E. Milligan introduced the Board of Education, and the Rev. Francis Denay offered the invocation and the Rev. George L. Majors gave the benediction.

Boy Scout Troop 11 and the CHS Concert Band also performed during the ceremonies.

Original oil paintings, given to the Friends of the Library by William Eisendrath and Nathan Cummings were viewed. The paintings will be rotated between the public library and the three city schools.

Countians in contest

The National Make It Yourself With Wool Contest is drawing many talented teenage contestants from District 9 (Antrim, Benzie, Emmet, Charlevoix, Grand Traverse, Kalkaska, Leelanau, Manistee, Missaukee and Wexford counties.)

According to Mrs. Elvin Hillard, local District Director of the Contest, interest among girls is running high in the try for some $30,000 in prizes to be awarded by the American Wool Council and some 40 national sponsors. Awards include two all-expense paid dream vacation in Europe, college scholarships, Government Bonds, sewing machines, luggage, cosmetics, and accessories.

To enter girls must make a garment of 100 percent wool fabric loomed or knitted in Ameria and model it before a panel of judges. Local winners progress to State and then National judging with awards at each level.

Girls interested in entering or wanting more information should contact Mrs. Elvin Hillard, c/o Mrs. Marlon Maxon, County Extension Office, P.O. Box 612, Cadillac, Michigan 49601.

The National finals will be in Denver, Colorado, on January 22, 1970.

what's a funny place for a phone?

That depends a lot on your sense of humor. If making tracks across a clean carpet to get to a telephone leaves your wife a little less than happy, then perhaps there's nothing so funny about an extension telephone in the garage or workshop.

Extension telephones make sense. They save time by letting you use a telephone wherever you are.

Call your Michigan Bell Business Office or ask your telephone man. For as little as ninety-five cents a month (plus tax) you can put an extension in any funny old place you'd like.

MR. AND MRS. W.J. SOMMERVILLE

Sandra White weds W.J. Sommerville, Jr.

Sandra Jean White of Charlevoix beacme the bride of Ward James Sommerville, Jr., of Petoskey at the Foursquare Indian Church in Petoskey, Saturday, November 1. The Rev. Emily Smith performed the double ring ceremony at 11 a.m. in the presence of more than 125 guests. Arrangements of white and yellow mums and candelabra graced each side of the Altar.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. White, R 3, Charlevoix, are parents of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. Ward Sommerville, Sr., 717 Woodland Avenue, Petoskey, are parents of the groom.

The organist and soloist, Mrs. Wesley Plamp played traditional wedding music and sang "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer".

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride chose a sleeveless floor length gown of aqua blue acetate and rayon sheath style, with a bow at the waistline and ruffles at the neckline and hemline. She wore a matching aqua color veil and white accessories, and carried a bridal bouquet of white carnations.

Debra White was her sister's maid of honor and wore a floor length gown of yellow nylon, with white overlay on the bodice, and short sleeves. She wore a matching yellow veil and white accessories and carried a small bouquet of yellow carnations.

Ronald Hibbler of Petoskey served as best man. Darcy Hibbler and Charles Wager of Petoskey were ushers.

A reception hosted by the groom's parents was held at their home, with Mrs. Steve Gilliam, sister of the groom, assisting.

Mrs. White chose a two piece suit of white suede and navy jacket with white accessories for her daughter's wedding, and wore a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Sommerville, mother of the groom, wore a navy blue two piece suit with white trim and black accessories, and wore a corsage of pink carnations. The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Bob White, Sr., wore a two piece red knit suit with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

After a brief honeymoon in Michigan, the couple will reside at 717 Woodland Avenue, Petoskey.

The bride is a student at Charlevoix High School. The groom is employed at Thompson Industries.

Guests attended from Flint, Central Lake, Alanson, Charlevoix, Grant, Chicago, New Jersey, Florida, and Newago.

Speaker at Nazarene

Gerald Carnes of Petoskey will be the evangelist and singer in a week-end meeting at the Charlevoix Church of the Nazarene, north of town on Waller Road, off U.S. 31.

The services will be held Thursday and Saturday Nov. 15 at 7:30 and on Sunday at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Carnes was assistant pastor of North Flint Church of the Nazarene. He worked at Penney's in Flint. Recently he was transferred to Penney's in Petoskey, where he is manager of the basement store. He takes appointments for week-end meetings as speaker and singer.

The pastor, Rev. Thomas Rash, extends a welcome to all to enjoy these meetings.

Simple solution to rising car prices.

The Simple Machine.
Ford Maverick. Still $1995*

Our small car has scored a big success. And the reason is simple—solid value. Now, with other car prices going up all around it, Maverick is going its own Mavericky way. It still costs $1995* and that's still a small price to pay for a car that's simple to drive . . . simple to park . . . simple to service . . . simple to repair . . . and simple to own.

Simple to drive. Turn on the engine and you turn loose the power of 105 horses. Yet Maverick rivals the economy imports in gas mileage.

Simple to park. Maverick can U-turn in a tighter circle than the leading import. It can nip around corners and slide into tight parking spaces with amazing agility.

For more information about Maverick see your Ford Dealer or write. Maverick Catalog, Dept N-1 P.O. Box 1503, Dearborn, Michigan 48121.

Simple to service. Maverick is easier and less expensive to maintain than an economy import. Maverick requires fewer oil changes, fewer chassis lubrications, too. You save time and money.

Simple to repair. The Maverick Owner's Manual has 24 pages of instruction for routine maintenance jobs you can do yourself like change spark plugs, adjust ignition timing, and more. Fenders and grille can be replaced in a matter of minutes.

Simple to own. The simple machine can start solving money problems for you right now. Check it out at your Ford Dealer's. The price that made it famous now makes it a better buy than ever.

*Ford's suggested retail price for the car. White sidewall tires are not included; they are $32.00 extra. Since dealer preparation charges (if any), transportation charges and state and local taxes vary, they are not included, nor is extra equipment that is specially required by state laws.

The drug game Fact, fiction on marijuana

Nearly everyone has heard fables, fictions, or fallacies about marihuana, perhaps like these:

"Smoke pot and you wind up hooked on heroin... Man, it's cleaner than alcohol... It's the first step right into the psycho ward... There's just no reason to keep it illegal... Why doesn't anyone tell the truth about marihuana?"

None of these statements is based on scientific fact, but on half-fact or misinformation. The first statement, although wrong, stems from some studies showing that sizeable percentages of heroin addicts previously smoked marihuana (pot). The reverse is not necessarily true, although this adds no reasoning to the side of those who favor unrestricted marihuana.

Alcohol and marihuana are not comparable, as far as No. 2 goes. Moreover, the long-term effects of marihuana smoking are simply not known as yet.

As to No. 3, scientists have not proved that marihuana is a direct cause of mental illness. Nor have they proved that it prevents mental disorders or helps mental health.

There are some reasons on the legal side for restrictions on marihuana, as, for example, the indisputable fact that science does not know very much about it. It does not appear, moreover, that mass, permissive, total population usage of an unknown but powerful mind-affecting drug is rational.

"Why doesn't anyone tell the truth about marihuana?"

This despairing kind of cry is perhaps based on confusion brought about by those who favor taking all shackles off marihuana and who disseminate misinformation or slanted material rather than objective information.

Here are some facts about this controversial substance, entirely founded on what science now knows, not on guesses, rumors, and wishful emotionalizing.

The smoking of marihuana is illegal in nearly every civilized country of the world. Nevertheless, with the possible exception of alcohol, it is today probably the most widely used intoxicant in the world.

Despite its current pervasiveness, scientists are quick to acknowledge significant gaps in their knowledge of marihuana's effects on man – and animals, too, for that matter.

The little research that has been done in the U.S., and there has not been a great deal anywhere in the world, has principally used marihuana seized by the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs which was supplied to qualified researchers.

But all natural marihuana is of uncertain potency, and seized materials are frequently unrefined and impure. Reliable research, whether in test tubes and analytic machines, on animals, or on man, can only be conducted if the drug is standardized, the potency constant.

The scientist, in a word, has to have a uniform substance to study if he is to produce results and accurate findings of value.

This long-standing problem seems at last to have been largely solved. National Institute of Mental Health research grantees and others have succeeded in isolating a number of compounds in cannabis, the plant from which marihuana cigarette material comes.

In addition, they have determined the exact structure of tetrahydrocannabinol (THC), the probable main, active principle of marihuana. Thus, the production of uniform, synthetic or man-made marihuana is now possible.

With this compound, THC, sometimes called "liquid marihuana," scientists can at last run controlled, uniform experiments.

Very early work showed that the compound would be useful not only in laboratory studies but also in careful investigations in humans.

Basic research using synthetic marihuana compounds, along with a broad spectrum of clinical studies, is being supported and stimulated by the National Institue of Mental Health. This is a part of an invigorated attack on narcotic and drug abuse through research, training, services, and education.

Some other facts about marihuana which every citizen, old and young, needs to know have already been established. Here are some questions often asked and answers to them.

What is marihuana?

Marihuana – also spelled "marijuana" – is a drug found in a plant (cannabis sativa) that grows in mild climate countries all around the world. Some of its nicknames are pot, grass, weed, nnd Mary Jane.

How is it used?

For use as a drug, the leaves and flowers are usually dried and crushed or chopped into small pieces. This green-colored product is rolled and smoked in cigarettes or pipes or can be sniffed or taken in food. Its sweetish odor is easily recognized. The smoke is harsh; it smells like burnt rope or dried grasses.

Is marihuana used for medical purposes?

No. It has no known use in modern medicine. There are medical research studies seeking scientific information on it, but it is not used to treat or cure illness.

Statements that marihuana is "medically safe" are not supported by scientific evidence.

Do we know what marihuana does to the mind and body?

We do not know the physical affects fully. Long-term effects are absolutely unknown. The kind of research needed to learn the results of continued use has not yet been done. It is getting underway now, however, as pointed out.

Does marihuana affect judgment?

Yes, but no favorably. A person using marihuana finds it harder to make decisions that require clear thinking. He is open more easily to other people's suggestions. Doing anything that takes good reflexes and clear thinking is affected. It is, for example, dangerous to drive while under the influence of marihuana, just as it is with alcohol.

What about the laws?

There are Federal and State laws – and international laws -- dealing with marihuana. Possession or sale of it in the U.S. is a felony under Federal law. Many states deal with marihuana as severely as if it were a narcotic.

Many feel that the laws should be changed; many others do not. In any case, young and old alike shold know these and other facts.

For a free leaflet on marihuana, write to Box 1080, NIMH, Washington, D.C. 20013.

(This is the third in a six-part series on drug abuse presented by the Courier.)

Pat's Reaction

Turn it down!

Noise is one of those things which is hard to define. What can be music to one person's ears is simply dreadful noise to another person's ears, and I don't mean just a Gustav Mahler symphony either.

To my ear some of the rock groups just make noise while others like the Jefferson Airplane create music. There is a difference. Appreciation is recognition and if I were more educated to rock music I'd be able to distinguish the differences and enjoy all of it more, but as it is I must admit that when I'm driving with a group of kids in the car I have to turn the radio off or I'd go stark raving mad and crash into a telephone pole.

On the other hand my children are always asking me to turn off the garbage disposer or the dishwasher when they're in the kitchen. To them that's noise.

But not to me. To me the hum of the dishwasher and the gurgle of the garbage disposer are heavenly music. Sometimes I like to turn on the dishwasher, the washing machine and the dryer all at the same time. Then I can just lie back and listen to them all vibrate. It's a happy sound.

Now I have another happy sound to hear, the sound of my new oven cleaning itself. Friends warned me that the stove made a terrible noise when it cleaned the oven automatically. They said that there was a great whirring and that I might be scared that something was wrong. They claimed that the terrible noise lasted for two long hours.

Not worry? Not like it? Not me.

What could be a happier sound than that of your oven cleaning itself? Those well-meaning friends must have been listening to someone else's oven. They couldn't have been listening to their own or they wouldn't have called it noise. The only alternative to oven cleaning hums and zums are ammonia coughs and steel wool scratching. What kind of an alternative is that?

And at last I think that I've found a solution for all of those noises that I don't like. For instance when I hear a cat fight outside my window and I've got a pretty good suspicion that one of my cats is in it, I simply put my head under the hairdryer and read a book. After all, unless it's a train coming through the house, what you can't hear can't hurt you.

Noise can change to poetry as we learn to like the sound. When I first moved to Charlevoix the sound of the foghorn in the early morning hours woke me like an electric shock, and I simply couldn't go back to sleep with the darn thing blowing.

Do you know what? Now I like it. I also like the toot of the Sundew's horn as it requests the bridge tender to open the bridge. These are happy sounds and part of my town. They're like hearing the band play across town at the football field on a night when you can't go to the game. They're like hearing the sounds of happy kids shouting victory cheers when the game is over. These are Charlevoix sounds and I like them.

Our new school

Officially opening any building in a small community is an important event....but, when the structure is a school, it takes on added import.

Charlevoix has perhaps enjoyed more than its share of school openings in the past decade. Charlevoix High School is still "new", as far as schools go. And, now, we add to our list the new elementary school on the Northside.

Though education has suffered some setbacks through millage defeats, our building program has continued on its way, oblivious to related educational problems.

The new school is modern, reflecting the latest trends in education and construction. The economies of space stands out. The economics of carpet are apparent although there are many who still do not understand how "a rug" can cost less in the long run than a tile floor.

Grouping of classrooms according to grade, with the ability to open several rooms into one mass, will allow team teaching, better utilization of equipment and much more.

Undoubtedly, a few "bugs" will be found in the future. Several minor problems have already been corrected.

Yet, when we look at the overall picture, our new school is a very big progressive step in local education. Now, if we could only solve the millage problems.......

A new pollutant

Pollution is of prime concern to residents of our county. We are primarily interested in the contamination of our air and water.

However, we are in danger of other contaminants. Man is polluting his world with all kinds of contaminants. Including noise.

Shrill sounds bombard us from all directions. From television and radio. From jet engines. From sidewalk drills. And from rock music.

Recent research--into the effects of rock music on the ear--is revealing. At the University of Tennessee, Professor David M. Lipscomb played rock music to guinea pigs. He turned up the volume to the same intensity as that measured in a nearby discotheque.

For four hours a day the guinea pigs heard "hard rock." At the end of three months, the results were disconcerting. Twenty-five percent of the cells of the inner ear were completely destroyed.

Noise pollution is only the latest concern in a long list. Our lungs are damaged and our hearts are overtaxed, for example, by breathing man-made impurities in the air. Our waters are filled with waste. Our fish and birds are dying from DDT. Pollution is everywhere.

Keeping down the levels of all kinds of pollution is essential. Clean air, especially, is critical to our well-being.

Inside, the modern, fully carpeted school makes education easy for students and teachers alike.

Viewpoint!

Industry

By Bob Myers

Go into any small town and you're apt to hear, "The old fogeys running this town don't want it to grow. They keep industry out."

It's a myth which must be spread by dreamers who think their town is so wonderful that someone MUST be keeping industry out. Otherwise, they think, General Motors would be here tomorrow.

I doubt if there are sinister plots afoot in any of the towns in this area.

Who benefits from a new factory in town? The immediate and greatest beneficiaries are the banks and the local government. A factory has a big bank account. Local government benefits because factories pay big taxes without causing much expense.

So, when factory officials start looking over the town, who do you see squiring them about? The local government officials, the bankers and the real estate agent.

Existing factory owners are cordial, but they know they lose by another factory in town. It's competition for the local labor supply.

Local merchants are only mildy interested. The factory itself will give them little business. A factory employee doesn't trade where he works. He is more apt to trade where he lives. A local merchant would rather have a man live locally and work out of town at $4 an hour, than live in town and also work here, at $2 an hour. It's true that small town factories provide employment for wives who might not otherwise have jobs. But by and large, merchants are more interested in where a man lives, and how much he earns, than in where he works.

You'll seldom see officials of local government trying to interest a developer in building homes. New homes - unless they are high-priced - are a lot of work for the officials and they don't pay off in taxes.

In the small town Establishment, you have four groups - the officials, the bankers, the merchants and the industrialists. Credit them all with equal and normal parts of unselfishness, and then look at their pocketbooks. You won't make too many mistakes predicting their actions.

You find that only the industrialists are hurt by a new factory coming to town. And that hurt is usually so small that it doesn't bestir them to active opposition. Besides, the local industrialist may own stock in the bank, and maybe even a site for the new plant.

You find the merchants paying lip service to new industry, but not really pushing it, except in the remote, dying towns where they grasp at anything.

But you don't find any group conspiring to keep industry out. The retired person, or the wage earner, may want the town to stay small and quiet but he is not organized. He may also hope that the new factory will pay enough taxes to ease the burden on his property.

Soaring land prices in areas closer to the big cities are a big reason. Trouble in the inner cities is another. Workers are moving out to this area and the small factories are following them.

Is it good? That's not the point. I's happening.

Grass roots opinions

ELKTON, MD., WHIG: " 'The exploration of space will go ahead whether we join it or not. It is one of the great adventures of all time, and no nation which expects to be the leader of other nations can expect to stay behind in this race for space. This generation does not intend to founder in the backwash of the coming age of space. We mean to be a part of it – we mean to lead it.' These visions have since come to pass, although the man who spoke of them never got to fully savor their fulfillment. That man was President John F. Kennedy..."

PETALUMA, CALIF., ARGUS-COURIER: "Inflation is the cruelest tax of all. It penalizes everyone and the poorest most of all. No one is missed. The thrifty suffer ill rewards for their self-denial. Pensioners and others with difficult...It is high time the government began to set an example of trimming off unnecessary fat. Uncle Sam, that fine spare figure of tradition, is getting almost too fat to carry."

HUNTINGTON, IND., HERALD-PRESS: "Continuing debate over the Safeguard antimissile defense is at least focusing on the real issue – the question of disarmament...The way in which it is decided may well determine, not only the sort of future America is to enjoy, but whether the nation will have any future at all."

Speeches make me sick

Would you believe I paid $100 to hear Gov. Ronald Reagan speak – and then walked out before he opened his mouth?

Neither would I. So let the truth be told: I was present on an editor's discount, which is better than that given clergymen. But everyone else at the banquet, which covered a whole basketball court with no room to dribble, paid 100 bucks for a $5 dinner. The idea was to raise money to help Michigan Republican legislators get re-elected. And if I'd keep my big mouth shut, a lot of influential people might think I'm a rich Republican, thus refuting the often-heard rumor that I'm a poor Communist.

(Actually, I'm a prohibitionist. I drink, but I want to bring back bootlegging so George Raft won't have to make those degrading TV commercials. That's no kind of work for a self-respecting crook).

However, the price of the meal really doesn't matter. Free or $1,000, I probably would have left before the speech anyway. And this is nothing against Reagan. True, he was a pretty bad actor. The only movie I liked him in was Kings Row, when he got chopped in half. And also true, he is not my idea of what a governor should be in the 20th century – or even the 18th. I keep having this nightmare where he is elected president and appoints John Wayne secretary of defense.

But still, I should have stayed and listened to Reagan. It was bad manners to leave. But I have this phobia or illness or something. I can't stand speeches. They give me a severe case of the twitches, a rash, and nausea. The only cure is escape.

Why is that, Doctor?

You might think this is a serious affliction for a newspaperman to have. There's no question that my profession sometimes requires that I listen to a speech. But not as often as you might think. Most hep speakers today supply the press with printed copies of their remarks before they make them. This allows the reporters to read along with the speaker, usually moving their lips. And their stories the next day always contain such illuminating paragraphs as: "Departing from his prepared text, Senator Smith coughed."

However, when there is no advance copy to ease my escape, and I am duty-bound to report the lousy speech, I manage to survive by playing a little game. I try to make notes on what the man says before he says it. For instance, if Ronald Reagan says "I have no objection to college students speaking their minds," I know his next word is going to be "but." Or if President Nixon says "The 1954 Supreme Court decision outlawing segregation in our schools must be enforced," I know his next words will be, "However, we must move slowly."

And so on. Everytime I'm right, I reward myself by taking a long look at the prettiest broad in the place, usually a waitress. When I'm wrong, my punishment is having to eat one of the cold green peas which I've hidden under my napkin.

This game doesn't prevent the twitching, rash and nausea, but it keeps me from thinking about it and scratching in public.

Onward and Upward.

A fine program was offered for the new elementary school's dedication Sunday. Deserving credit for a large part of the planning is Fran Martin.

Media Decisions, a trade paper for advertising buyers, checked the results of several surveys on newspaper advertising results. From them, they compiled the answers to these often-asked questions:

(1) Which gets better readership — back page or inside page?

Studies of 32,000 ads show that the difference is small; what's more, it's in favor of the inside page. For every 100 men who remembered an ad on the inside page only 97 remembered the back page of the section. For women the advantage is 100 to 90.

(2) How does readership increase as you up the size of an ad?

Until you get to ¼ page, increasing the size of your advertisement increases readership dramatically.

(3) What shape newspaper ad gets highest readership?

Most studies show that the vertical shapes are the best read. Best read is the ad that's twice as high as it is wide. Horizontal rectangular ads usually score below average.

(4) Do small-space ads do better "above the fold"?

No.

(5) Are newspaper readers attracted by reverse plates?

No. In fact they're discouraged from reading white type on a black background. Starch compared ads of the size and same product category. They found the reverse ads noted by just 3 percent more men, no more women — and "read most" by 20 percent fewer men, 20 percent fewer women.

Out of the past

A compromise was proposed to settle the mix-up over road signs and property lines at the west side of the Ironton Ferry landing. The solution will settle the problem but will not settle the legal question.

Gregg Shadko retired after 43 years of service to the state of Michigan. He had been working for the state since 1942.

Glenn Kenny, President of the Charlevoix School Board, made moves to stop complaints about the public library. The complaints had to do with library hours and the cataloging of book cards.

The 1967 Community Chest Drive netted $13,670. Its goal had previously been set at the sum of $14,675. Additional donations were still expected.

The MID-AMERICA SKIER made its debute in the states of Michigan, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. It is published by the Charlevoix Courier.

The ground-breaking ceremonies were held at the site of the construction of the new Charlevoix High School. Bob Lieberman, President of the School Board, did the honors.

Nine Rayders were listed on the All-Conference Team for the football season of 1959 after their team won the conference title.

The Board of Commerce Banquet was held at the Wayside. The address was given by Charles Potter of Cheboygan.

Objections to the re-zoning of an area on the south side of Petoskey Ave. resulted in the city council deferring until a latter date any decision on the issue.

The Charlevoix Red Rayders tied with the East Jordan Red Devils for the championship of the Northern Michigan Class C Conference.

The 1949 Community Chest Drive fell $700 short of its $3,760 previously set goal.

Charlevoix residents followed the Rayders all year long. Above, part of large group of CHS boosters who made the long trip to St. Ignace.

Retirement party held

A retirement party was held last Saturday night at the Weathervane Inn for Lloyd Himebauch in honor of his 30 years of employment at Hamilton & Son Boatyard. The party was given by Robert S. Hamilton.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Archie Himebauch, who were celebrating their anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Empey and son Kenney, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Cotton, and Mr. and Mrs. David Flood.

Council approves R2 zone

City Council Monday night approved a rezoning request of Ralph McRae, in order that he may build six, two story town house apartment units.

The move came after contractor McRae requested that the property, formerly R1, be zoned R2 so he could build multiple dwellings.

According to Council, the construction must be completed within two years. The sight is on the corner of Petoskey Avenue and Meech Street, on the city's north side.

In other business, Council approved the plans of United Associates of Cheboygan for a boat launching facility at Ferry Avenue. Cost of the project is expected to be in the $160,000 range. No timetable has been set for construction. Officials said the beach area would remain about the same size.

Council also awarded a contract for a land fill operation to Charlevoix Garbage Service, which began November 1.

The federal GSA will be paid $3,000 for improvements at the old Coast Guard station, on Pine River channel.

Council also paid bills totaling $49,667.91.

Rayders lose 20-14; are second in M-HS

Charlevoix High School closed out a successful football season last Friday night with a 20-14 loss to St. Ignace in the Upper Peninsula community.

The loss forced the Red Rayders to settle for second place in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference.

For the local team, it was the only loss in eight league games. However, a tie with Cheboygan allowed the Saints to slip in a half game ahead of the Rayders. St. Ignace posted a 7-1 record, while Charlevoix finished at 6-1-1.

The Rayders made a game attempt to get back in the game after falling behind 8-0 early in the first quarter. Kraag Lieberman went 52 yards in the first period for the Rayders' first TD, and Stew Coleman tied the count at 8-8 with a conversion toss to Dan Berg.

The second period saw the Saints score the winning touchdowns and hold the halftime lead, 20-8.

In the final stanza, the local 11 capped a short drive following a fumble recovery with a six-point pass from Coleman to Berg.

CHS principal Vane H. Smith expressed pride in the Rayders for a fine season. "They played well all year, including the loss to St. Ignace," Smith said. "We are proud of the team for their play and their conduct."

Apparently, it was "one of those nights" for Charlevoix. On the trip home, a bus carrying students broke down, stranding some 40 fans for about two hours.

The problem was diagnosed as a faulty alternator. The students finally arrived back in Charlevoix in a St. Ignace School District bus.

BY LEE SMITS

Any outdoorsman is likely to have a pet gimmick a foible, an invention that he cherishes. A famous naturalist-photographer, Walt Hastings, carried hard candy afield. A few pieces of candy, Walt found, provided a quick pick-up.

For Stewart Edward White, a Michigan man, author, sportsman, a vest was an indispensable item of clothing. White wore a vest on wilderness expeditions and in Africa. He found vest pockets a great convenience.

Hy Dahlka, of Gibraltar, a veteran wild-fowler, kept a can of deer tallow on the engine of his tug, duck hunting in Lake Erie. The tallow protected his hands from the effects of handling decoys in freezing weather.

The late James B. Hendryx, of Suttons Bay, kept a canned-heat outfit in his duck boat and drank tea, with a lot of sugar, when exposed to storm and cold.

One of the best of the old-time deer bunters in the Upper Peninsula carried a small knapsack on a shoulder strap. In the knapsack was a sweater and a rubber poncho. If he worked up a sweat, he pulled on the sweater; caught in the rain, he wore the poncho.

Tom Schroeder always had a plastic bowl in his hunting coat, a drinking cup for his dog.

A notebook and pencil was a standard item of equipment for an old-timer, who left messages along the trail to keep his partners informed of his plans.

Cheesecloth or cotton rags were toted by a highly successful hunter, for wiping out the inside of a hog-dressed deer. He also doused the interior of a deer carcass with black pepper, to keep flies away.

A deer hunter put in a phone call to object to high rubbers. He said they were never waterproof. Knee boots, of flexible rubber, he said, were much preferable. For warm feet, at all temperatures, sheepskin moccasins worn inside rubber boots are sure fire.

But, above all, a Michigan deer hunter of the present era must be ready and able to sit, motionless, for hours. Can he smoke? On that question there is a difference of opinion. Some experts say that smoke will not spook a deer, although of course a deer-sitter should choose a stand up-wind from the direction from which he expects a deer to approach.

A test of woodcraft and hunting skill is to take a deer track – keep on it – and hang up the deer. Few city dwellers can do it. Once a deer is jumped, and knows it is pursued, the odds are all against the hunter.

Joy Graf earns degree

Joy A. Graf, 504 May Street, Charlevoix, was among the 1,560 students who received their undergraduate and graduate degrees this fall as the result of their final scholastic work during the 1969 Summer Sessions of the University of Wisconsin at Madison, it was announced today by the University registrar's office.

Joy received her Master of Arts, education and English, degree.

The list of summer and fall degree recipients was announced today as all student scholastic records for the summer and the early autumn were completed and compiled.

This brings the total number of degrees awarded by the University at Madison during 1969 to 7,810 and the total number of degrees granted by UW here during its 120-year history to 180,093. A total of 6,250 degrees were conferred at the University's annual winter and spring commencements this year.

Of the total 1,560 degrees awarded this fall, 501 were bachelor degrees and 1,059 were higher degrees. Of the higher degrees, 286 were doctorates, maintaining Wisconsin's high place among the nation's universities in the number of doctor of philosophy degrees conferred.

Impala's hidden persuaders:

①350-cu.-in. engine
A new more powerful standard 250-hp V8 makes the 1970 Impala move with all the more assurance.
On good ol' regular gas.

②Anti-theft column lock
A locking system is built right into the steering column. When you take your key with you, you lock not only your ignition but your steering wheel as well.

③Aluminized exhaust system
It simply means that your original muffler, tailpipe and exhaust are going to last longer than you'd probably expect them to.
Fair enough?

④Side guard beams
They look like highway guard rails, and they're built into both sides of the car for extra protection in case of impact.
Not too many cars have them.

⑤Inner fenders
Up inside every fender is another fender to protect against slush and mud and help keep your Impala looking young.

⑥Flush and dry
We build the car so that rain and wash water can run down through the inside of the rocker panels, then out.
Air follows to do the drying.

⑦Full Coil suspension
Huge coil springs at all four wheels are four big reasons why a Chevrolet Impala rides smoother and quieter than a low-priced car has any right to.

Skiing is safer... but, be careful!

Skiing is getting safer, a three-year study of ski accidents reveals.

In a report that encompasses studies carried out at 11 major ski resorts in the U.S., an investigative team found the overall rate of injuries has decreased by more than one-third in the past decade.

James G. Garrick, Director of National Ski Safety Research, now with the Department of Orthopedic Surgery at the University of California, Davis Medical School, and his colleagues interviewed 5,355 uninjured skiers and 4,032 injured skiers, who represented 1,333,170 days on skis from 1964-67.

He was assisted by Dr. Mark B. Coventry, of the Mayo Clinic, and William Sears, of Fort Collins, Colorado.

The last two years of the research were funded by the U.S. Public Health Service. The report was offered at a recent meeting in Chicago of the National Ski Study Group during the National Safety Council's annual convention.

Dr. Garrick candidly admits he's still puzzled about why the accident rate (2.4 per 1,000 skier days) is dropping. But his findings indicate that a larger number of skiers are becoming more skilled on the slopes. This factor accounts for more than half of the decrease, he says.

"For example," says the 33-year-old skiing orthopedic surgeon, "at the time of our study, males seemed to make up higher proportion of the ski population than they did 10 years ago and the level of experience of the average skier is greater than it was 10 years ago."

He predicts that as the proportion of expert skiers grows, the overall injury rate will continue to decrease.

Other factors tending to bring down the injury rate, said the investigators, are better equipment, better instruction and better preparation of the ski slopes by the resorts.

Age, sex and skiing ability are closely related to the injury rate, the study shows. Injuries decreased when skiers graduated from the beginner stage to intermediate skills. Males tend to move more quickly into the lower injury groupings.

Almost without exception, females tended to be injured more frequently than males of comparable ages and ski ability, even though men were reluctant to tell about it.

And for those old timers on skis, the age of 45 could be a danger point. Dr. Garrick's study shows the injury rate for skiers past 45 tends to go up. Once again, the rate is higher for women in this age group.

The study shows that expert skiers don't have to adjust their ski bindings tighter simply because they are better, more rugged skiers. This is no evidence, Dr. Garrick reports, to support the theory that the better the skier, the tighter the bindings should be set.

The study discovered that ski bindings used by experts did not release prematurely at a greater rate than those used by beginners or intermediates, even though the bindings might have been set for the same release factors.

In a comparison of one ability group against another, for example, beginners against experts, the study showed that the severity of injury didn't vary greatly.

For those who have always maintained that the "last run of the day" was the most dangerous due to fatigue, the report tosses that argument into the waste basket.

"There is no evidence to support the contention that the last run of the day is any more dangerous than any other run at any particular time of the day," said Dr. Garrick.

"We can't really tell a skier how to ski safely," he said. "We wanted to look at the reasons people said skiers became injured. Some things proved to be true, others didn't stand up to the test," he concluded.

So, local skiers, whether taking a turn on Mt. McSauba or elsewhere, can take heed. Caution is the byword.

For sale: trusses

Anyone need an aluminum truss–100 feet long?

Douglas Dodge, surplus supervisor for the state Department of Administration, has a problem, or rather, 233 problems entrusted to him by the Department of State Highways.

The problems consist of 112 cast aluminum roadside sign supports and 121 tubular aluminum end supporters and box trusses, four feet square, in lengths from 25 to 100 feet.

Designed to support roadside and overhead signs on Interstate freeways, the supports became obsolete when federal specifications were changed to improve highway safety. The aluminum supports are being replaced by "breakaway" supports which collapse when struck by cars. Other sign supports are being moved so far back from the pavement edge that overhead signs have become impractical.

Dodge will accept sealed bids at his office in the Mason Building, Lansing, and he has a supply of reduced-scale prints of the trusses available for prospective bidders. While not offering prizes for the most original suggestions, Dodge is receptive to ideas for new uses for the trusses. The most practical use would be for commercial signs on private property where they could not be clobbered by traffic.

Some of the trusses, anchored to posts and decked with lumber, would make rigid, rustproof boat docks. Cut apart and re-welded, they could be made into cradles for boat or snowmobile trailers. The tubing, cut into lengths, could be fabricated into sturdy, rustproof railings.

She is a graduate of Charelvoix High School.

Evangel is a four-year accredited college of arts, sciences, and humanities. It is the national college of the Assemblies of God, with students enrolled from 48 states and eight foreign countries.

Hunting season totals 8 deer

The hunting season on Beaver Island is well under way. Bad weather, however, has kept many hunters out of the woods. To date there have been eight deer killed.

The hunting statistics reported by the Department of Natural Resources show that there were 364 permits issued for guns and 98 archery permits issued.

Friday and Saturday Oct. 24 and 25, the weather opened up a little and accordingly brought many people north. We know this to be a fact because of the unusual number of office contacts. Two families of the lot plan to move to Charlevoix, are looking for a reasonably good three bedroom home to occupy a year or so until they become grounded or adapted, then plan to build. One of these families' breadwinner has been transferred to Michigan with a chance of locating at Cadillac or any city north of Cadillac and he insists it to be Charlevoix because they were so taken when they were here a time or two for a short stay not long ago.

We yet have quite a number of much needed dollars outstanding according to our voting right membership register and contributions otherwise, the last of which was paid in 1968. It is certainly hoped we will not have a curtail our operations.

Among the latest on my employee list I have four young women anxious and needing office employment as they have had experience. Let us hear from some of you potential employers.

With permission of an area publication I write the following: Quote:

"An Open Letter
To A DISCOURAGED YOUNGSTER

Dear Kid,

Today you came to me for a job. From the look of your shoulders as you walked out, I suspect you've been turned down before, and maybe you believe by now that kids out of high school can't find work.

But, I hired a teenager today. You saw him. He was the one with polished shoes and a necktie. What was so special about him? Not experience, neither of you had any. It was his attitude put him on the payroll instead of you. Attitude, son. A-T-T-I-T-U-D-E. He wanted that job badly enough to shuck the leather jacket, get a haircut, and look in the phone book to find out what this company makes. He did his best to impress me. That's where he edged you out.

You see, Kid, people who hire people aren't 'with' a lot of things. We know more about Bing than about Ringo, and we have Stone-Age ideas about who owes whom a living. Maybe that makes us prehistoric, but there's nothing wrong with the checks we sign.

Ever hear of "empathy"? It's the trick of seeing the other fellow's side of things. I couldn't have cared less that you're behind in your car payments. That's your problem and the governments. What I needed was someone who'd go out in the plant, keep his eyes open, and work for me like he'd work for himself. If you have even the vaguest idea of what I'm trying to say, let it show the next time you ask for a job. You'll be head and shoulders over the rest.

You know, Kid, men have always had to get a job like you get a girl: Case the situation, wear a clean shirt, and try to appear reasonably willing. Maybe jobs aren't as plentiful right now, but a lot of us can remember when master craftsmen walked the streets. By comparison you don't know the meaning of "scarce."

You may not believe it, but all around you employers are looking for young men and women smart enough to go after a job in the old-fashioned way. When they find one they can't wait to unload some of their worries on him.

FOR BOTH OUR SAKES, GET EAGER, WILL YOU?

'D-Day' for hunters...season said 'good'

Rain, sleet, snow or sunshine...it didn't matter for an estimated 600,000 Michigan deer hunters who moved out into the woodlands before dawn Saturday morning.

The primary objective is to bag a trophy buck, but with it goes the carefree, happy-go-lucky atmosphere of camp life with old friends. This alone is more than ample reward for the thousands of hunters who patiently wait each year for the magic date of November 15.

According to DNR authorities, the 1969 season is expected to be similar to what it was last year when an estimated 99,930 deer were taken. Around the state, slight changes in some areas can be anticipated as deer numbers fluctuate. The Upper Peninsula reportedly has a reduced deer population which the northern Lower Peninsula a herd remains basically the same. In southern Michigan, deer numbers appear to be up.

The Charlevoix County deer prospects are very much like that of the entire state with certain isolated hunting areas reportedly down in deer numbers, others holding their own and some regions with slightly more whitetails. The biggest factor expected to determine the success of the 1969 season is dependent on the weather over the whole season.

However, it was expected that some 40 percent of the total deer harvest would be taken last weekend, when interest was at a peak and hunters were out in vast numbers.

The snowfall late last week was expected to help hunters, easing tracking and keeping deer moving in the brisk temperatures.

Portions of Charlevoix County were new areas for stalking the elusive trophy. The DNR opened the areas in hopes of thinning the stock which has been raiding local orchards.

In addition to normal hunting areas, several private farms have been opened to hunting through a program sponsored by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

Seven county farms have been opened under the program, including:

August Bulman farm, located on Miles Road, East Jordan, in South Arm Township, section 7 and 8.

Margaret Bennett farm, located on Ridge Road, East Jordan, in Eveline Township, section 24.

Margaret Deschermeier farm, located on Upper Bay Shore Road, Bay Shore, in Hayes Township, section 13.

Doug Gilkerson farm, located on Ellsworth Road, Ellsworth, in South Arm Township, section 20.

John Spiegl farm, located on Maple Grove Road, Charlevoix, in Hayes Township, section 11.

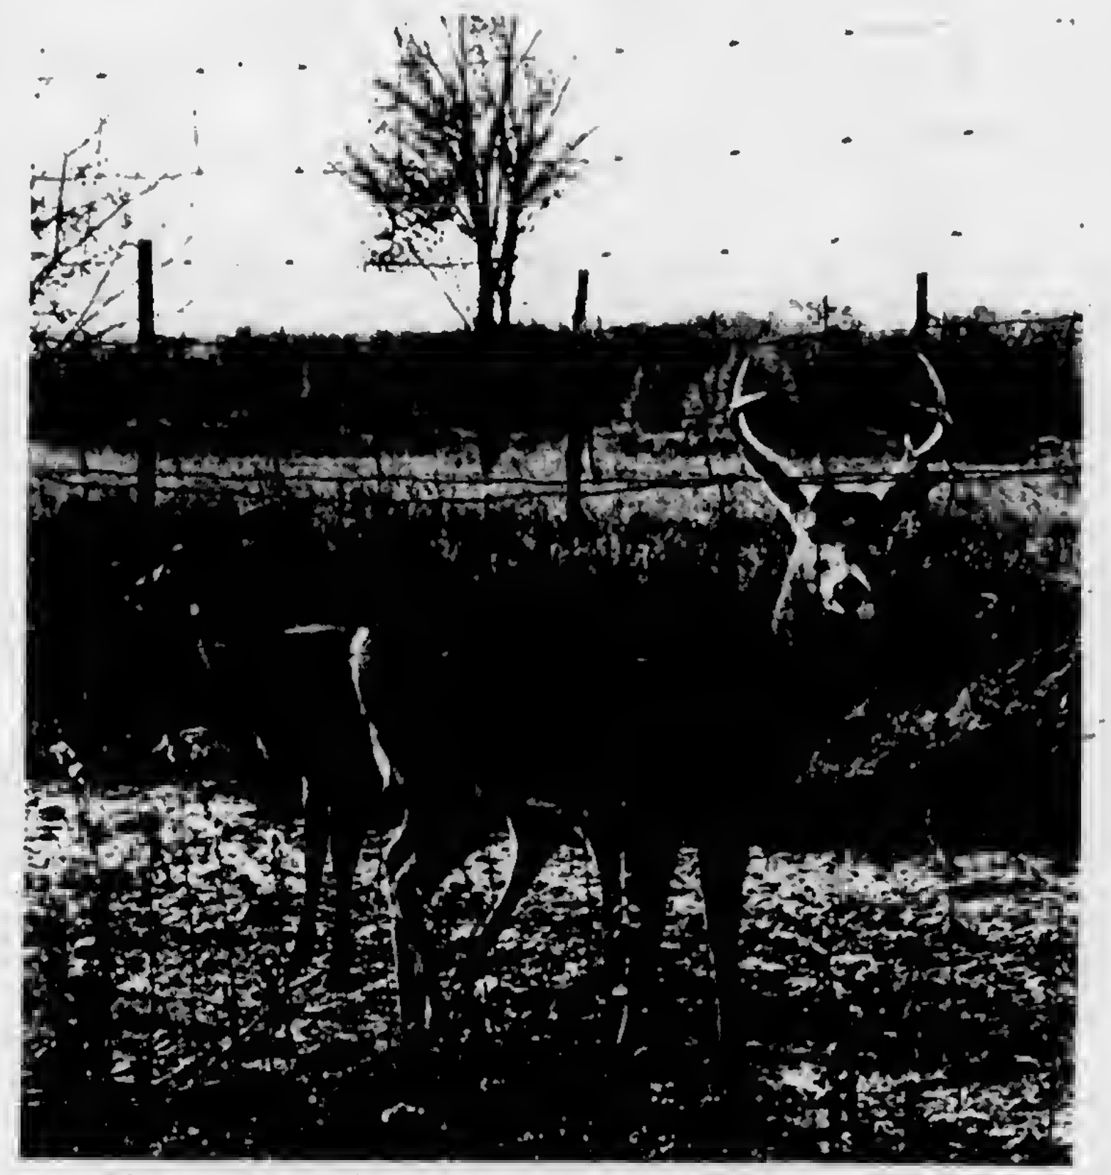
William Zitka farm, located on Phelps Road, East Jordan, in Eveline Township, section 32.

And the James Novak farm, located on Rogers Road, East Jordan, in Wilson Township, section 31.

The northern Lower Peninsula's antlerless deer quota was set at 30,115, a four percent increase over last year. New areas open to antlerless deer hunting this season include parts of counties on the western side of the state where the animals have caused orchard and crop damage or where they are faced with a deer food shortage.

The whitetails are expected to be more scattered because of a poor acorn crop this year, which means some harder hunting is in store for hunters than when the animals are concentrated in oak areas.

Regardless of what this season holds, "buck-fever" has afflicted thousands of our citizens as they've spent the past weeks checking their favorite deer trails and building new blinds. Deer camps, forgotten 50 weeks out of the year, were cleaned for the onslaught of happy hunters. Many of the area restaurants, sportshops, grocery stores and gas stations were ready for the land-office boom they faced last week.



The elusive buck...a reported 600,000 hunters began the quest for a trophy last Saturday. The above pair were snapped by Courier photographer in East Jordan.

Ready for winter. . .This backyard contains all the fixins for summer or winter fun. Snowmobiles, on left, didn't receive first workout of winter, and boat was likewise abandoned. . . . Reason? First day of deer season and the owner was off tramping in the woods.

First snow brings out sledders, snowmobilers

The season's first major snowfall was recorded in Charlevoix last weekend, covering a two-day period and dumping 12 to 14 inches of snow on the city.

According to reports, Ellsworth and Ironton were even harder hit than Charlevoix. Ellsworth reported 16 inches on the ground, and Ironton claimed 15 inches.

After Friday's snow, deer hunters were elated. But, when the storm continued in from Lake Michigan with no let-up, the joy turned to dejection.

However, it didn't stop local hunters from taking to the woods. According to local hunters, the deer take locally was not particularly good.

Sno-mobilers regaled in the moist snow. Beginning Saturday, and continuing until late Sunday night, the machines were heard and seen throughout the area.

For drivers, many of them caught without snow tires on their autos, it meant much slipping and skidding on city streets.

City snowplows, taken out of mothballs, went to work and were able to keep streets free of large amounts of snow.

This week, following rain Monday, they continued plowing, moving the snow further toward the curb.

Several minor accidents were reported and investigated by police, but for the most part only bumpers and fenders suffered.

Along with the first snow, out came all of the sleds and bump-jumpers. All of the children got all bundled up in their snow pants and boots and mittens ready to hit the hills for a day of fun.

Some of the most popular places to slide are those of the Chicago Club, the Belvedere Club and the Hooker's Hill. Hooker's Hill is the only one that is run by the city and that has an adult there to supervise.

Later on in the winter they will advance to the big hill out at the Belvedere Golf Course. This is usually for the older youngsters, because there is a steep hill to climb after every ride.

Remember to be careful during these winter months, but have fun while you do. You may not think it can be done, but it can.

Vaccination for K-3 youngsters

Local health officials have begun an all-out attack on rubella...German measles...the mild-appearing disease whose impact on pregnant women is so fearsome.

The recently developed and approved rubella vaccine will be given free to all Charlevoix school youngsters in kindergarten through third grade in early 1970, according to officials. Public school and those who attend St. Mary's will receive the vaccine.

According to Dr. R.S. Libke, M.D., Director of District Health Department No. 3, the vaccine has been scheduled for this area for the month of January. Due to the fact that there are slightly over 5,000 children in District Three (Emmet, Charlevoix, Antrim and Otsego Counties) in the grades K-3, it may not be possible to complete the program in that month alone, and may extend into February. Dr. Libke urges all parents of children in grades K thru 3 in these four counties to take advantage of this urgently needed vaccination by signing the permit slips as they are received and to return them to the school promptly.

Public Health officials chose kindergarteners through third graders as the first target group because children of these ages are considered the most common major source of epidemic danger. Presently, not enough vaccine is available to extend the immunization program beyond those grades, but as it becomes more plentiful, public health officers urge the immunization of all children from pre-kindergarten through puberty and the instituting of routing rubella vaccination program for all youngsters entering school. The thrust this year is to reach the primary potential spreaders of the disease, to forestall the anticipated epidemic.

Art Reibel buys Castle for use as horse farm

At the old Loeb estate the pendulum of time has swung back and once more the area will be used as it was originally intended, as a horse farm.

Just recently Arthur Reibel purchased the property from John Van Haver, and he intends to renovate the horse barns, raise the board horses and establish a riding academy. Next spring Reibel will bring in 22 riding and draft horses to start his stables.

Art's wife has long had a serious interest in horses and it was her enthusiasm which prompted Reibel, a Charlevoix attorney with Reibel, Oliver and Dinan to buy the Van Haver property and turn it into a horse farm.

Mr. and Mrs. James Driggett who have raised horses in the Charlevoix area for many years will be responsible for the horses at the Reibel property, and this winter are caring for them on the old Hooker farm. By spring the horse barns which Van Haver used as a foundry building, can be remodeled into horse stalls and a paddock area can be built.

This does not mean that Van Haver Castle will cease to exist as a popular Charlevoix tourist attraction. On the contrary Reibel will continue to open the castle for tours and will run the gift shop during the summer months.

Reibel feels that horses grazing on the property will add to the pastoral estate atmosphere and actually enhance the baronial feeling of the castle area. Reibel also owns 28 acres of land across the street from the castle so he can enlarge his horse farm in the years to come.

He and his wife will move out to the property in the near future and are now remodeling and adding to the attractive stone cottage so that it will adapt to their family of two girls.

Van Haver has decided to devote his full time to his major interest of casting and has taken a position in the foundry industry.

The Loeb farm was originally built in 1918 by Albert Loeb, an officer and major stockholder of Sears, Roebuck and Co. in Chicago.

Down they go!

Hospital adjusts rates

In this day when prices continue to climb skyward, Charlevoix Hospital has taken the opposite direction with the announcement that rates have been adjusted, mostly downward.

The announcement, made by Rollie Dudik, hospital administrator, concerned eight classes of charges. Of that total, three moved downward, three remained steady, and one moved up.

Effective January 1, 1970, the schedule shows: Newborn in pediatrics, no change from present $34; baby in isolation, reduced to $18, from $19; nursery after monter leaves, reduced from $19 to $18; isolation charge of $2 reduced to no charge.

Nursery charge unchanged from $18; pediatrics charge remains at $34; semi-private room charge unchanged from $37.

The rate for a private room was increased from $40 to $45.

The hospital also announced that rather than reduce the nursery room rate, the Hospital Board elected to give each newborn a $5 gift certificate.

When asked the reason for the increase in the private room rate, Dudik stated that "it was merely a matter of reducing the popularity of the private room; the differential has been too close.

"Consequently, because the hospital is set up to run on a semi-private basis, problems in the availability of space arose due to overwhelming requests for private accommodations," Dudik concluded.

C of C banquet set December 7

"Something different in the way of dinners, and it should be good," said Chamber of Commerce manager Wally Loder.

He was referring to the annual dinner-meeting of the chamber, set for Sunday, December 7, at 4 p.m. in the Weathervane Inn. "We are going to have a Mexican dinner, complete with wine of the country," Loder said.

According to chamber officials, the meeting will feature entertainment, and the business meeting will be brief. Bill Supernaw will serve as master of ceremonies.

"The primary purpose of the dinner meeting," the chamber manager noted, "is to get together. The three newly elected directors will be presented, as will the complete election returns."

Tickets for the dinner are available at the Chamber office, or from directors Lyle Miles, Tom Acton, Gordon Neff, Dave Juilleret, Ralph Hess, Bruce Bartlett and Tom Hanna.

Obituary

Mrs. McInnis

Mrs. Nora Moran McInnis, 82, former resident of Charlevoix, died November 13 at Largo, Florida. Services were from the Feaster Memorial Home, Largo, Fla., and interment was in Serenity Memorial Garden Parks on Monday.

Mrs. McInnis lived in Charlevoix as a summer resident, then as a permanent resident for 40 years before moving to Florida 10 years ago. She was born in Detroit.

Survivors include a son, Patrick Moran, of Charlevoix; a daughter, Mrs. Mark (Noreen) Zendt, Miami, Florida; one grandson; two great grandchildren; a brother, Arthur Appel, of Dearborn, Mich.; and a sister, Mrs. Lawrence (Gurnthern) Prea, of Hamtramck; five step-sons, George McGinnes, N.Y., Albert McGinnes, North Hollywood, Calif., Roy McGinnes, of Los Angeles, Bud McGinnes, Dearby, N.Y. and Wallace McGinnes, of Thornwood, N.Y. and one step daughter, Mrs. Jack Moses, of Pikesville, N.Y.

Home on leave

Rex Milligan, Jr., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Milligan, 201 Meech Street, while on a short leave from the U.S. Navy. He plans to go hunting with his father before returning to duty on the U.S.S. Forrestal.

Visitinghours changed at NMC

Information about a change in visiting hours at Munson Medical Center was released today by Edward L.T. Lyon, Assistant Director of the hospital. Effective Monday, November 10, the visiting hours for all patients will be extended from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. this applies to all patient areas except coronary care, pediatrics and maternity floors.

In making this statement, Lyon stressed the fact that since the welfare of Munson's patients is the hospital's primary concern, visitors be requested to leave the patient's bedside when treatments are being given, if the situation warrants. The cooperation of all visitors is asked in this matter and will be appreciated, Lyon said.

Party fun forautumn

Want a great idea for an Autumn get-together? Host a wine and sausage party, says Jacque Filiatreau, secretary of the sausage council of the Natonal Live Stock and Meat Board.

"A wine and sausage party is perfect for all occasions," said Filiatreau. "Not only does wine complement sausage, and vice versa, but when served together, they combine to add to the festivity and elegance of any party."

Continued Filiatreau, "When wine and sausage are served side by side each should be chosen with the other in mind: For heavily-spiced, heavily-smoked sausage, a full-bodied dry, red wine is excellent. For softer, less-seasoned meats, fragrant Roses, or fine, dry wines blend better with the flavor of sausage. However, like everything that deals with personal taste, it is up to the host...and personal preference prevails at all times."

An old favorite with Europeans, the first wine and sausage parties were held in Paris. Recently, this Continental treat has been added to the American scene...as taste-testing parties or as a vehicle to bring good friends together. And it appears to have become a new custome rather than a passing fad, said Filiatreau.

Election results will be announced at the Annual Dinner Meeting.

Sort of reminder invoices were mailed recently for apparently over-looked 1969 membership fees and for the lesser amount contributions to those last paid in 1968. Prior of this, time permitting, there has been some personal follow-up, which has, of course, assisted. Again I mention we do need it! Thanks!!!

Taken from a bit of publication by the Chamber of Commerce of the U.S.--and I quote:

"MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS"

"It takes a lot of doing to mind your own business.

"Like taking an inventory of the factors or forces which may affect your market, and knowing what steps are needed to make those forces work for you.

"Like being sure that all employesss are well-trained, that every effort has been made to be sure the educational facilities are available when needed. Taking a look at the environment in which the people you need as customers live to be sure it is healthy so time can be spent on building instead of rebuilding.

"All these things are part of the business of your chamber of commerce. If you are not active in your organization, go by and get involved today.

"That's minding YOUR OWN business."

Local twins are wanted for contest

Will a set of Charlevoix County twins be a part of January 1, 1970's Rose Bowl? Could be!

"Farmers Insurance Group is seeking four sets of twins, age 18 through 21, to ride our float in the 1970 Tournament of Roses parade," announces Robert E. Early, president.

Twins may be brothers, sisters, or a sister and brother.

Winners of the contest will receive an all-expense-paid trip to Pasadena, Calif., to ride in the four boats on the company's "A Holiday in the Park" Tournament of Roses float, attend the Rose Bowl football game, plus sightseeing tours of southern California. Winners will share these activities with the float queen and her attendant, also selected in a national contest.

The float, which depicts people enjoying a holiday outing in a park, is done in the "Art Nouveau" style popular at the turn of the century. It contains an island in a park lagoon centered by a band playing on a bandstand whose canopy is reminiscent of the shape and stained glass effect of a Tiffany lampshade. Couples, dressed in the costumes of the period, listen to the band as they go boating in the lagoon. The bed of the float will be covered with roses while the boats are surrounded by water made of swirls of white mums.

Twins wishing to enter the contest should write for entry blanks and contest rules to Twin Contest Coordinator, Farmers Insurance Group, 4680 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90054. Completed entry forms must be postmarked no later than November 30.

License plates for 1970 went on sale Saturday in Charlevoix. Some of those who want low number plates brave snow and cold. First to purchase plates was Wallace Mingus of Sturgis, who reportedly "drove all night to be first in line." He arrived at local office at 6:30 a.m., waited in line until local office opened at 10 a.m.

1970 license plates on sale in Charlevoix

New 1970 passenger car license plates went on sale November 15 in Charlevoix.

November 15 fell on a Saturday this year, and Secretary of State James M. Hare said individual branch offices made a determination of whether they would open on that date to sell plates to "early-bird" buyers. The local office was opened at 10 a.m.

"Our 13 civil service branch offices which normally close on Saturdays were closed as usual and began selling new plates starting Monday, November 17," explained Hare.

"Most fee branches which are normally open Saturdays were open to sell plates," he noted, but he added that some were closed because it was the first day of the deer hunting season in the state.

Hare reminded all Michigan vehicle owners that it is necessary to have their titles when purchasing plates. This is in addition to a signed prepared or filled out application, proof of liability insurance, and cash enough to purchase the plates.

The Secretary of State also reiterated his edict of the past several years that plates are to be sold on a "first-come, first-serve" basis.

In a memo to all branch managers, Hare set forth the following policy:

"No transaction being mailed to out-of-town or out-of-state applicants will be processed until after the close of business on November 15 or the opening day of the sale.

"Dealer transactions must be processed in the normal course and should not be given priority over individuals who make applications for plates the first day of the sale.

"Plates must be sold in strict numerical sequence on the first day of the sale and Department of State officials will review all of the first day's transactions to make sure this is complied with.

"Branch managers, their employees and members of their families shall not buy personal vehicle plates on the first day of sales.

"Transfer of series of plates that have been previously assigned will not be approved except where the allocation of plates to a branch has resulted in either an insufficient supply or a surplus of plates on hand."

Hospital Guild

The monthly meeting of the Women's Guild was held Monday, Nov. 10, with 13 members present.

The sewing group and newly organized Boyne City branch, presented the guild with 18 layette gowns and 12 hand puppets. Mrs. James Davis is chairman of this group and reported that the umbrella sales are doing well. Mrs. Gerald Staublin and Mrs. Albert Seger donated a few hours in instructing the group in Boyne City on the third Wednesday at the Presbyterian Church.

Some volunteer help is needed at the Charlevoix hospital during the noon hours and early evenings. Any member that is interested will be welcomed.

Mrs. Alice Gebeau received a service pin and recognition from the North Central District for the period of 1961-1963 in her duties as president of the association.

December 8, in the hospital meeting room is the annual Christmas party. All members are urged to come and enjoy the holiday season. Refreshments will be served.

WMTA prexy is named to committee

Wesley B. Tebeau, president of WMTA, has been appointed to the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission advisory committee on recreation resources development, Alfred E. France, federal cochairman, announced today in Washington, D.C.

The committee will develop teaching and training programs for the tourist industry in conjunction with the Universities of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan State.

The projects are coordinated by J. P. Gilligan, director of the University of Wisconsin Center for Recreation Resources Development, and the group will work in Madison.

"The program the first year will consist of developing a 'blue-print' for the Center's operation and expansion, plus developing Extension educational programs in this field," Tebeau stated.

"Our primary concern is that meaningful data be compiled that will be practical and relevant to the small business man in meeting and solving his day to day problems," according to Tebeau.

Grandvue patients to receive new TV

The patients at Grandvue Medical Care Facility are expected to receive a new color television in time for Christmas, a gift from the Facility's Auxiliary, Mrs. W. G. Boswell, president of the group, reported at the organization's regular meeting last week.

Mrs. George Plumm of Charlevoix was named a committee of one to gather information from area dealers prior to making the purchase and presenting it in time for the holidays.

At the same meeting, Mrs. Boswell announced that the artificial Christmas tree and decorations the Auxiliary had planned to purchase were being donated by several anonymous donors who had offered the gift. The funds will now be used to purchase a nativity scene, outdoor decorations or both, she said. A special Christmas dinner treat, such as molded holiday ice cream and six card tables for use by the patients will also be purchased.

It was explained that an artificial fireproof Christmas tree was mandatory to meet state fire marshall requirements.

Mrs. Boswell will name a committee to assist with Christmas arrangements at a later date. Patients assisted by hospital personnel will decorate the Christmas tree.

Prior to the business session held at the Facility Thursday, Dr. Jerry VanDellen showed slides and talked on the world trip he and Mrs. VanDellen took last summer.

The meetings of the Auxiliary have been suspended for the holidays. The next meeting is scheduled for February 8.

Grandview News

Patients entering the Facility recently are Robert Proctor of East Jordan, Evelyn Wangeman of Boyne City, and Ruby Vermillion of Boyne City. Mrs. Mary Anna Hull was discharged to her home on October 28. Mrs. Esther Johnson passed away November 4.

Virginia Uhlinger, social services worker, attended a meeting in Traverse City on October 28. On October 30, Mrs. Hilda Watkins attended a meeting at Boyne Mountain.

Many thanks to Mrs. Waldon and Mrs. Trojanek for the bibs and lap robes which they brought in on October 28, and thank you, too, to Mrs. Frank Grunow and Mrs. George Zinck who brought their Brownie Troup, all in costume and bearing gifts for the patients, to the Facility on October 30. This Troup is from Boyne City. The patients really enjoyed seeing the little ghosts, goblins, princesses, etc., that came to visit them. Halloween Day found more of the same – including an Aunt Jemima – in bigger sizes, haunting the rooms here. Underneath the costumes were none other than members of the staff.

We were happy to have William Moulton, Administrator of the Emmet County Medical Care Facility in Harbor Springs, Jerry Joneson, Director of Social Services for Emmet County, and Richard Tillen, Director of Social Services for Charlevoix County, visit our facility on October 31. Moulton just recently took over the administration of Emmet County M.C.F.

November 5 was the date of the Grandvue MCF Auxiliary Benefit Games Party at the facility. Approximately 100 ladies attended this party and guests and patients alike had a good time. The proceeds from this party will be used for Christmas at Grandvue.

The Norwood WSCS hosted the birthday party for the patients having November birthdays. In charge were Mrs. Henry Potter, Mrs. Ed Potter, Mrs. Agatha Matchett, Mrs. Rose Ager, and Mrs. Gertrude Matchett.

We would like to thank the Boyne City V.F.W. Auxiliary for their gift of a beautiful yellow mum plant which they sent over in honor of Veteran's Day.

The monthly Utilization Meeting took place at the Facility November 11 with Drs. VanDellen, Savory, and Martin attending.

Several members of the staff attended a farewell luncheon at the Weathervane in Charlevoix for Rev. Majors, who is leaving for Alaska soon. Rev. Majors is on the Board of Directors, serving as Chairman. His presence will be missed, and we wish him the best of luck.

November 14 was the date for the regular Grandvue MCF Auxiliary meeting. Dr. VanDellen was guest speaker and showed slides of his trip to Thialand and Manila and also to the Ship Hope. This is the last meeting until February, at which time regular meetings will resume.

New hope for addicts

Treating and rehabilitating narcotic addicts successfully has been hampered by the fact that the addict was often treated in a hospital far from his home community:

Usually also, he was not adequately followed up and helped with his problem after release from the hospital.

Means for overcoming these and other deficiencies are provided in the Narcotic Addict Rehabilitation Act of 1966 – known as NARA.

Congress established a new national policy through NARA. It calls for the treatment of narcotic addicts rather than solely prosecuting them under criminal statutes.

For the first time, Federal law provides that narcotic addicts may apply for treatment in lieu of prosecution for certain crimes and that addicts not charged with a criminal offense may also be committed to the Public Health Service for treatment and rehabilitation.

NARA thus set in motion a new nationwide program for the supervised treatment and rehabilitation – an aftercare program of three years' duration – of addicts in the community.

The National Institute of Mental Health, Division of Narcotic Addiction and Drug Abuse is responsible for the examination and treatment of patients committed under provisions of NARA.

How is it working? A look at five "case histories" suggests that the program is off to a good start.

Robert J. started using barbiturates in reform school when he was 15. At 19, he was a high school dropout – and heroin addict.

Jose H. is 32. He started using heroin at 15 and has been using it intermittently ever since.

John P. has been an addict since he was 19. Now 26, he found his "habit" costing him $35 a day at the peak of his addiction; and he stole checks to support his addiction.

Bill M. is 30 years old and has a 10-year history of drug abuse. Once he was sent to jail to "kick the habit." Merely jailing him didn't work.

Another heroin addict, R.R., had been stealing $25-30 daily to pay for the drug. His family, consisting of his wife and three children, had broken up.

Before NARA, there would have been little hope for the rehabilitation of any of these five individuals. Typically, they would have remained hooked on hard narcotics, stolen more and more to pay for their drugs, been jailed repeatedly.

Likely, they would have been dead within a few years from an overdose of drugs, which happens frequently among narcotic victims.

Moreover, the five, it is estimated, would have stolen $82,800 in cash or merchandise to support their habits since the time they entered the NARA program.

Now, each of them has been free of drugs since at least May 1968. Two of them have been rid of their habits since the fall of 1967. All are either gainfully employed or receiving training; and one is attending college part-time.

Among the first to receive treatment under NARA, they were given six months of intensive inpatient treatment at an NIMH clinical research center. On discharge, they went into intensive rehabilitation programs established in their home communities. Local agencies were contracted with by NIMH to provide the services.

Currently, 58 such programs have been set up in 55 U.S. cities in 37 states. More are being added almost daily.

Now enrolled in the total program are 268 patients.

The number is growing and by summer of 1970 is expected to reach 2,000 patients, according to Dr. Sidney Cohen, Director of the Division of Narcotic Addiction and Drug Abuse of the National Institute of Mental Health.

Admission to NARA is always through the Federal courts. In some cases, addicts themselves request commitment proceedings be started. In others, they elect commitment to treatment rather than face prosecution on Federal criminal charges.

So far, the program has had a low dropout rate. Dr. Cohen attributes this to two factors mainly: the personal attention and intensive service received by the patients and screening out of addicts who show little hope or desire for successful rehabilitation.

The program already is paying dividends in economic savings as well as social ways, according to Dr. Cohen. He estimates, for example, that "for less than $1 million (the cost of the aftercare program to date), thefts required to support the habits of the addicts receiving rehabilitation have been reduced by $1.6 million – a savings of $600,000."

The savings are calculated on the basis of findings by the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Justice which indicate how much the average addict must steal daily to support his drug habit.

Far from all addicts will ever be as outstanding beneficiaries of the program as R.R., mentioned earlier, but his case is encouraging and hope-bringing to others.

He was a heroin addict for nine years before entering NARA's program. After intensive treatment at NIMH's Lexington center, he went into his community aftercare program, in Detroit, following four weeks of psychological testing and vocational evaluation there. He took part in self-help group therapy and was placed for employment in an automobile production plant.

Since he began his therapy, he has paid for renovations on his home, purchased an automobile, and assumed full family responsibilities for his wife and three children. He also became an active member of his community's social organizations, helping groups on youth and drug problems.

As do all NARA patients, R.R. will remain in his aftercare program for 36 months. The chances of his completing the program and maintaining his progress are good, say the program authorities.

For a free folder on the NARA program, write to Box 1080, NIMH, Washington, D.C. 20013.

Pat's Reaction

Doctors's waiting rooms are a phenomenon all to themselves. Some people like them and some people hate them. As yet I haven't decided about my feelings for I've had such a grab bag of experiences in them.

Esther Livingston told me that at the Burns Clinic where she works the waiting room is so nice that some people arrive at one o'clock in the afternoon for a four o'clock appointment. They usually have some plausible story about how they got a ride there, but she swears that the truth of the matter is that they simply like to sit in the large busy waiting room and watch the world go by.

Of course there's an aquarium swarming with fish that they could watch, but let's face it, people are far more interesting to watch than fish. I guess that it's because they're much less predictable.

Twice during the past week I was at Jensen's Animal Hospital waiting and I'll have to nominate that waiting room as the most lively one around. The variety of animals and animal lovers is impossible to describe.

Last Tuesday my tom cat Rascal was limping so I took him to vet's to diagnose the case. Riding in the car isn't Rascal's idea of a ball anyway and he howled pitifully during the drive, but when the car stopped I think that he thought that the worst was over.

Such was not the case. When Rascal hit the waiting room and heard those dogs barking and yowling his hair stood right on end. That cat fur flying made me start sneezing and I dropped him, whereupon Rascal leaped to the top of the admissions counter.

Quick thinking cat, I thought, he wants to admit himself, get examined and get out of here fast.

The receptionist upon seeing that huge 12 pound cat staring her in the eye recorded our vital facts and complaints and took us immediately into a private examining room.

There I was to hold Rascal on an aluminum table while the nurse inserted a rectal thermometer.

As the song says, you know it ain't easy, but somehow we managed.

Fortunately Dr. Schaub appeared on the scene in a matter of minutes and in just 30 seconds his experienced eyes diagnosed the problem which had baffled me for two days. Rascal had a serious bite infection on his tail, but the tail was so covered with hair that I hadn't seen it. Rascal would have to stay overnight to have his wound cleaned.

I guess that I must have looked as stricken as I felt, for the doctor reassured me, "Don't worry, we'll taka good care of your kitty."

Rascal looked forlorn and I was grieving as I walked out through the waiting room of anxious pet owners and sick animals.

The next afternoon I couldn't wait to call the vet's on the phone so I arrived without an appointment and I had a long wait in the waiting room.

During that time I chatted with another cat lover and I saw two darling dogs bound exhuberantly into the arms of their owners.

One dog was greeted by two little girls and a happy mother. This dog, Heidi, was a collie puppy who came out sporting a walking cast on her back leg as long as she was long. By all rights Heidi should have barely been able to maneuver with the awkward metal cast, but there she was bounding around in great spirits. I guess that it pays to be young.

Finally I got to see my Rascal. He looked none the worse for wear except that he resembled a raccoon for he had a three inch space shaved on his bushy tail which exposed two ugly sores. The doctor warned me that I would have to bathe his tail twice a day and put medication on it or the tail would surely have to be amputated.

I surely hope that I won't have to go back to the vet's with Rascal to have his tail severed, but if I do you can be sure that I'm going to do one thing, I'm going to dress in the most bazaar costume that I can put together. In that way I can wait and at the same time give all the other waiters something interesting to look at so that it takes their minds off their troubles. I'll make my own little contribution to waiting room fun. Next!

IN THE OPEN

BY LEE SMITS

Charles Braun had a place on Mt. Elliott in Detroit that combined turtle soup with horseshoes. The best horseshoe tossers in this part of the world frequented Braun's and in back of his place they played the ancient game.

That was in the daytime. In the evening expeditions took off from Braun's to collect snopping turtles. They wove their own nets, barrel-shaped trap nets, which were baited with fish heads. They returned by the dawn's early light with the trunks of their cars crowded with indignant turtles.

In the window of Braun's establishment was a champion turtle. It weighed 30 pounds and had adjusted to capacity so that it would gently take food from the hand of a friend, and leave the hand intact.

Not only were alcoholic beverages on sale at Braun's, but also mason jars filled with concentrated turtle soup. Mr. Braun revealed to customers various secrets of soup-making. He insisted that the best way to execute a snapping turtle was to cut its tail off and let it bleed to death. He then immersed the turtle in boiling water and peeled off the outer layer of shell and moss. The inner shell, almost pure white, was boiled to add power to the soup.

In pursuing turtles, Mr. Braun and his associates helped various forms of wildlife, including waterfowl, fish and frogs. A snapping turtle will eat anything that it can chew and it can chew almost anything that it can get between its jaws. It has an ill-tempered attitude toward all living species. Reliable marsh men tell of witnessing deadly fights between snapping turtles during the spring mating season.

Except for people like Mr. Braun, a snapping turtle has few enemies. It is possible that waterways would be clogged with snapping turtles were it not for skunks and fox. When a female turtle digs a hole in sand or gravel and lays her eggs, she is likely to be spotted by a skunk or fox and presently the fresh eggs are dug up and consumed, with a litter of leathery shells left as evidence.

Michigan snapping turtles are big and tough, but there are turtles far tougher down South. The alligator turtle is three or four times bigger than our native snapping turtles.

Turtle hunting has a singular fascination for its followers. Trapping is the most effective method of harvesting turtles, but the sporting way is to stalk them in stagnant ponds, heave them aboard a canoe by a tail hold, then restrain them by passing a length of baling wire around the turtle between the upper and lower shells and twisting it tight, thus immobilizing the dangerous head.

In capturing a turtle it is important, first of all, to make sure which end to grab. A tail hold is safe. The biggest turtle of our experience escaped because of slight delay in determining which end to reach for.

When Wolfgang Feller had his famous road house on the Canadian side of the Detroit river opposite Peche Island, he kept mallard ducks, which reared their broods in a canal alongside the road. One Sunday afternoon in early summer, a hen mallard uttered frenzied calls as her infants scrambled up the banks. Wolf diagnosed the trouble as snapping turtle. A friend of the ducks waded out into two feet of water where tufts of yellow down were appearing and saw on the canal bottom a snapping turtle rending a fledgling mallard. As Wolf arrived with a shot gun the turtle was flung out on the bank where a twelve gauge duck load ended its predatory career. The turtle became soup material, but until the mallard were full grown, ready for duty as live decoys in the fall, none of the hen mallard would permit their offspring to swim in that sector of the canal where the turtle had operated.

A turtle hunts its prey by lying in stealth, camouflaged by a growth of moss. Come fish or fowl within reach and a swift lunge seals its doom.

Snapping turtles also consumer aquatic plants. They live to advanced old age. They are vicious, predatory, without redeeming traits, but they are interesting members of the outdoor pageant, undoubtedly performing a duck hunter with a painful problem.

A snapping turtle, years ago, presented a duck hunter with a painful problem. The turtle, picked up in the fall, was about two inches in diameter. After spending the winter in idleness and luxury in a city apartment, on a diet of table scraps and hamburger, the turtle was about the size of a saucer

K-3 pupils to receive vaccination

In the epidemic of 1964 – considered the worst in a generation – an estimated 50,000 unborn babies were maimed or murdered by the ravages of rubella, a disease generally considered minor and innocuous. In Michigan the toll left 277 severely damaged children, most with more than one handicap. Public health officials stress the fact that rubella is not to be confused with "red" measles – rubeola. Rubella – the particular disease called "three day" or "German measles" - has not been stoppable by immunization until this year. Customarily, rubella is sometimes such a slight illness that it comes and goes without its victim even being sure he has been sick. It is characterized by mild temperature, some headaches, muscular soreness, occasional slight swelling in the neck, and usually a noticeable skin rash. The disease is highly contagious. If you get it there is evidence you can start spreading it before you show any symptoms, and you can keep on spreading it after the symptoms have passed.

The disease was not considered serious until after 1941 when research uncovered a definite link between rubella and birth defects. Studies since then have revealed that rubella has probably killed or crippled more children in recent years than polio, scarlet fever, chicken-pox, mumps, and regular measles combined. Each year, the disease is linked to still more tragic damages discovered in babies at birth. It has been found responsible for miscarriages, stillbirths, deaths in early childhood, and multiple handicaps in surviving children. Those handicaps include, among other things: cataracts; glaucoma; blindness; deafness; mental retardation; brain defects and diseases; bone defects and diseases; heart, liver, and spleen defects, and defects in other organs.

The result has been a tremendous – and growing – burden on society, and on individual parents and families. Educating the devastated survivors of the 1964 rubella epidemic alone will cost the nation an estimated $3 billion, say experts. The individual cost is estimated between $9,000 and $13,000 a year for one rubella-damaged child. The problems in trying to teach them are enormous. As one doctor puts it, "Some of the children can't even lift their heads; others suffer from periodic rages because they can't stand the routine daily stresses; others scream at night so wildly that parents have to put them to bed in the basement." Rubella, as a result, is also a home and family wrecker. It has resulted in youngsters abandoned by parents; in husbands deserting the mothers; in feelings of guilt and hostility between parents and between the children and their normal brothers and sisters.

The disease reaches these special victims, the unborn children, through the mother. If she catches the virus anytime in early pregnancy, her baby may die – or may live with gross congential defects. It is not generally recommended at this time that women of childbearing age be vaccinated, the final decision in each case resting properly with the individual's personal physician. Pregnant women themselves can't be vaccinated because this might jeopardize their unborn children. But the real threat is to them, the epidemic threat, comes from the young school-age children, children who can be vaccinated. And a vaccinated child cannot spread the disease to the potential mothers or to anyone else.

Just as the threat of rubella is unique, so is the attack on it. Essentially the current immunization program aims at vaccination of one segment of the population solely in order to protect another, totally different and twice-removed segment. That is, the school youngsters are being vaccinated in order to save the lives and health of children yet unborn, children of the next immediate generation–and, of course, in the long run, children of continuing future generations. As part of the effort to assure the widest public understanding of the problem, and the need for this oblique approach to solving it, the Department of public Health has asked for help from a variety of "outside" sources.

Many volunteer agencies have a special interest in the immunization program, because their work so often deals with persons whose problems are a manifestation of rubella's devastation. In addition to the assistance from physicians, these groups are lending their support, by generating informational campaigns of their own. Their activities include providing source material about specific cases for news stories; providing source material about specific cases for news releases and public service reports for both newspaper and broadcast use; and providing speech, talk and discussion program materials for service club, church group, and P.T.A. meetings.

Among those organizations cooperating are United Cerebral Palsy, the National Foundation–March of Dimes, the Society for Mental Health, the Society for Crippled Children and Adults, the Heart Association, the Association for Better Hearing, the Association for Retarded Children, and the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Most local health departments are following State Public Health recommendations that the vaccination project be carried out through the schools directly, in as much as the schools provide a ready-made means of reaching the youngsters who must be reached, as well as a ready-made means for getting the locally required parental permission to permit immunizing the children. When a school is scheduled in the program, parents will be notified and will be asked to give approval. State and local public health officers are stressing the facts that the vaccination is free, and that unless the K-3 school children are immunized, the threatened rubella epidemic appears inevitable. On the other hand, if the immunization program is successful as expected, thousands of Michigan mothers-to-be will be protected against the danger of giving birth to a defective or handicapped child. Health officials are suggesting that parents of children whose ages put them outside the immunization program this year, should contact their family doctors about the advisability of any additional vaccinations.

The older children, from fourth grade through puberty, being often out of the home–at school and at play–are in significant danger or exposure and are a mobile source of transmittal. On the other hand, many more of this older group are likely to have already had the disease. Thus, as a group, these youngsters are considered much less of a threat during the oncoming epidemic.

Generally, say public health officials, the youngest children, from age one–when the newborn's natural immunity fades–to kindergarten comprise the second most crucial segment of the population. This is because, although not in school where the real contact-danger exists, they are most susceptible as a group– simply because most of them haven't had the disease previous to this epidemic period. Another important consideration is the fact that the youngest children, statistically, tend to live in homes where there is a higher likelihood that the family-building process is still underway, i.e.: that the mother may become pregnant during the next year or so. For this reason, the State Department of Public Health recommends that parents see to it that their preschool children are immunized as soon as sufficient vaccine becomes available.

Holiday party time recipe

Party time or just the gathering of the clan during the holiday season can ruin almost any well regulated budget. Not to mention the harried homemakers' nerves. With Michigan navy beans more plentiful than ever and priced low, here is an easy to whip up "quantity recipe" that could feed forty but won't. It's too tempting looking, festive and so tasty you'll want to serve it time and again. If perchance there are any beans left, these freeze but beautiful.

HOLIDAY BEAN AND CORN FIESTA

HOLIDAY BEAN AND CORN FIESTA

4½ ounces instant toasted onion

3-54 ounce cans navy beans in tomato sauce

2½ pounds whole kernel frozen corn

12 ounces cheese, sharp process, grated

1 3/4 ounces parsley, minced

1½ cups ketchup or chili sauce

¼ cup prepared mustard

1 tablespoon ginger

Combine beans with all other ingredients, mixing lightly but well. Divide mixture evenly between two 12" x 18" x 2" baking pans - or portion into 6 ounce bean pots or casseroles. Bake in preheated oven at 350 degrees.

Baking pans - bake 30 minutes or till hot or bubbly

Bean pots - bake 20 minutes.

County homemakers get jump on prices

Charlevoix County homemakers seeking to stretch the family income to cover rising living costs can pick up a tip or two from their 4-H sons and daughters. More than 1¼ million 4-H members are already getting the jump on inflation by learning to get the most value for their dollar through the 4-H Consumer Education-Home Economics program.

Locally, both boys and girls benefit from this national educational program supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service. 4-H'ers talk with managers of stores, banks and credit departments and carry on their own in-the-store research. They learn the basic steps to wise buying: (1) Analyze income and plan purchases accordingly; (2) Compare brands, labels, materials, warranties, guarantees and buying incentives; (3) Know when to pay with cash or credit, use their savings or borrow elsewhere; (4) Evaluate purchases to determine whether the money was well spent.

The young people find the program interesting and useful. For example, one of last year's national 4-H winners, budgeted the family expenses for three months and saved $135 on the food bill alone.

"Read the label" is the advice given by others enrolled in the consumer education program.

The young people look for clothing labels which indicate whether a garment requires dry cleaning or simple laundering. And they suggest adding the maintenance cost of the purchase price when comparing similar clothing purchases.

Keeping the label handy for re-reading at a later date, is a tip provided by Arlene Haeder, 18, of Wolsey, S.D. She suggests homemakers permanently file garment and appliance labels and guarantees for future reference on laundering and service repairs.

Labels on canned foods are the buyer's clue to securing the best value, an Eckley, Colo. 4-H'er found in her study of food labeling. "While the size of the can is standardized," said Delaina Gardner, 17, "The difference in net weight is due to a more solid pack or greater density in syrup content."

For their work in the 1968 4-H Consumer Education-Home Economics program, these young consumers each received a $600 scholarship. Again this year, Montgomery Ward provides $600 scholarships for each of six national winners. The company also offers one educational trip per state to the National 4-H Congress held in Chicago November 30 - December 4, and medals of honor for the four best projects in each county. Awards are offered through the National 4-H Service Committee, Chicago.

Winners are selected by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Cherry growers study order

Cherry growers and processors representing states in the Great Lakes area have proposed a federal marketing order, following a meeting with a special committee named to study the cherry marketing situation. The proposed draft was discussed by the group and each representative took the order back to their members for further study.

According to Rodney Bull, Bailey fruit grower and chairman of the Michigan Agricultural Cooperative Marketing Association (MACMA)Red Tart Cherry Marketing Committee, "During the past six years the production of red tart cherries in the United states has ranged from a low of 150 million to a high of 525 million pounds. The price to the grower has ranged from a low of 5 cents per pound to a high of 18 cents per pound. The price of processed frozen cherries in 30 pound containers has ranged from 11 cents to 32 cents. Needless to say, the industry has suffered a serious whip-lash and financial uncertainty.

"We do not have an over-production of cherries. . . we just have too many cherries some years and not enough cherries other years. Our industry markets and prices have suffered as a result."

Bull continued, "A federal marketing order, with a reserve pool storage provision, would provide a more uniform flow of cherries to the market on a year-to-year basis and provide an improved income situation to the grower and processor."

Primary purpose of the order that was drafted, in cooperation with the United States Department of Agriculture, is to increase the income of producers and processors and to provide a more uniform flow of cherries.

The proposed draft has a primary action provision. . . the storage, in a reserve pool, that certain excessive supplies of cherries in large crop years will be made available to the markets in short crop years.

Each grower will have two options . . . he may put his excess cherries into the reserve pool; (if he chooses this option, he must agree to finance the cost of harvest, processing, and storage) or the grower may leave the excess cherries on the trees, unharvested.

Harry A. Foster, Red Tart Cherry Division Manager, MACMA, has announced that there will be special area grower meetings the latter part of November, and at the Michigan Horticultural Society Annual Meeting in Grand Rapids, December 2-4, to explain the proposed marketing order.

Not Revolution

U.S. Faces Reform, WSU Prof. Claims

An international authority on the history of revolutions believes today's anti-war and civil rights movements are more reformist than revolutionary, and says improvements in society historically originate with older leaders, not the young.

"The United States is not experiencing a second revolution, as some would suggest, but a reform movement," says Dr. Louis Gottschalk, history professor emeritus at the University of Chicago and visiting professor at Wayne State University in Detroit.

"We are experiencing reform rather than revolution," Dr. Gottschalk feels, "because it is advocated by the United States government. The government wants to bring about reform in society, so it is educating a reluctant society." He adds that a "true revolution is more sudden" than movements this country now is experiencing.

Dr. Gottschalk

Dr. Gottschalk describes the anti-war movement as more revolutionary than the civil rights movement. But he says it still is unlikely to succeed as a true revolt because the government is too strong to be overthrown or forced to change its policies unwillingly.

Dr. Gottschalk notes that a historical pattern for reform exists. He advises, "If a government is wise, it will make timely concessions to demands for reform. A strong government does this. A weak one makes no concessions, and runs the risk of being overthrown."

The WSU professor compares the present "revolution" of American youth to the Romantic movement preceding the 1848 revolutions in Paris and Germany.

"Romantics, like our contemporary youth, believed in 'doing their own thing'—for them, emotions were more important than gradual reform or the process of history," Dr. Gottschalk says.

"The Romantics rebelled against form of all kinds, whether in literature, art or politics," says the professor, a recognized authority on the American and French revolutions and author of a score of history books.

He explains that the Revolution of 1848 was a flop because "the establishment became fed up with the excesses. The result was even more repression than before, and the reforms came much later through older leaders like Bismarck."

Dr. Gottschalk did his undergraduate and graduate work at Cornell University. He twice was honored as a Guggenheim Fellow and was named a Fellow of the American Academy of Sciences and the American Philosophical Society. In 1953 he was named a Chevalier of the Legion d'Honneur in France.

He presently is working as an editor and author with the United Nations' International Commission for a History of Scientific and Cultural Development of Mankind, which is publishing major works on man's history.

Youth takes over '70 auto market

The "Youth Oriented '70s" are here and with them comes the age of performance in automobile manufacturing from Detroit to Charlevoix.

The new-car market is being almost exclusively dominated by today's young people, who are demanding more horsepower and fancier interiors...and local auto dealers can provide what they want.

"Longer hoods and shorter, bobtailed trunks, spectacular new colors, paint striping and white lettering on extra wide black Polyglas tires which resemble racing slicks are all part of the performance scene – what one can do with a car beside drive it conservatively," is what "it's all about".

Also part of the performance scene are colorful names like Duster, Boss, The Machine, Charger, Swinger; brilliant colors like orange, green and purple, and accessories copied from race cars like hood tie down pins, side scoops, bumblebee stripes and rollover bars. The tie down pins are candidates for "item most likely" to be stolen this year.

Hardly any automaker offers a six-cylinder engine in many models, and most have quit making sixes. Reason is everyone seems to want more pickup and passing power than six gives. And almost everyone buys assorted accessories which drain off power.

It is also reported that the plain, unadorned, unstriped, no chrome, sensible standard, "Square" models just don't sell.

IN THE OPEN

BY LEE SMITS

We inherit much of our sporting ethics, language, code of manners from the British. The British sportsman has a keen interest in everything that pertains to outdoor life; weather, local history and legend, game and fish cookery, all species of birds and mammals, elemental geology.

A Michigan hunter who couldn't identify the principal species of trees in this state would be regarded as a stupid lout by an English cousin.

Of course a fly fisherman gets to know the insects found along his favorite streams and a successful grouse hunter should recognize the food plants that grouse prefer. Yet natural history for the fun of it is too often ignored.

Of all the places for bird-watching, nothing, in the western hemisphere at least, surpasses southeastern Michigan. Two continental fly-ways converge over upper Lake Erie. Detroit river marks the route of migrating flocks, spring and fall. A famous hunter was at one time keeper of the Spectacle Reef light in upper Lake Huron. Frank Witte never forgot visits of a scientist from Washington, who installed a telescope in the light tower and on nights of the October full moon observed the swarms of south-bound birds, passing over the face of the moon. While it is assumed that birds are guided largely on their travels by an inborn sense of direction, it also seems likely that they make use of conspicuous land-marks such as lakes, rivers, mountain ranges.

For those who might find it inconvenient to watch birds from a lighthouse tower in upper Lake Huron, excellent watching sites are available in almost any dooryard in southeast Michigan.

There are perils awaiting birds in the far journeys. After a heavy fog you are likely to see dead birds along city streets, in parks and on highways. They are tricked by lights, and by wet pavements which they mistake for rivers.

A pair of tiny warblers picked up in Detroit's Grand Circus Park were in eclipse plumage, baffling even to an ornithologist. A highly qualified specialist was called upon, Walter P. Nickell, author of numerous works on North American birds. Walter, who has retired from Cranbrook Institute and now resides in Clinton, Tennessee, identified the bird as a male northern Yellowthroat. Richard H. Pough, in his Audubon Land Bird Guide, says that the Yellowthroat breeds from New Jersey westward into Wisconsin, southern Michigan and Nebraska and winters as far south as Costa Rica.

The Pough book lists more than 45 species of warbler. The sparrows are as numerous and puzzling, with more than 30 listed. To complicate matters, there is a certain amount of interbreeding among different species and warblers, and the half-breed offspring are a challenge to professors.

More and more city people maintain bird feeders during the winter. A bird feeder, of course, calls for field glasses and a bird book, also a note book. Fascinating data can be compiled, from backyard visitors. Also bafflement, since many birds are in disguise for months of the year, their plumage corresponding with bird book descriptions only in the spring.

All bird people remind bird feeders that, once started, a backyard feeder should be kept in operation to serve birds that have come to depend on it.

But the satisfaction of spotting old friends, or unusual strangers, can well take the place of "reducing to possession" game birds with gun.

House OK's tax bill

Basically, if the bill becomes law in its present form (it must still pass the Senate), senior citizens could own any amount of property and still qualify for a $2,500 exemption, as long as their income is $6,000 or less.

Rising property valuations have been increasingly preventing deserving older persons from receiving an exemption. Removing the limitation recognizes that income is the only valid measure for exemption purposes.

The House of Representatives passed a significant bill last week updating senior citizen homestead tax exemptions.

The major provision of the measure (HB 2826) would completely eliminate property value restrictions which are now part of the qualification criteria for exemptions. Another important portion of the bill would increase the income allowance from $5,000 to $6,000.

Letters to the editor

Mr Editor:

We see in the Courier of two weeks ago that the City warned People that park their cars on the street and work in some office so their car is parked all day long on the street. Well this should not be allowed. Now lets look at the City streets how the streets are littered with cars all day and night. Does the street belong to the property owner or is the street for the public to drive on. People with nice homes all have their nice driveways and thats where their car is parked.

But the people that don't care how they litter the street with their cars just don't care about any one but themselves. Most of the time Antrim St. looks worse than the City parking lot. On other streets cars are parked with piles of leaves near the car the street sweeper has to go around the car and leave the leaves to blow over other lots that are cleaned. Our Streets are getting glutted more every year with cars so why not start and clean them up. Every one can have a driveway if they will only make one but these people just don't take the time to drive off the street. Any one that has to make a call at a home has to park on the street but its the property owner that should keep his car off the street. Lets clean our streets up and make it safe for all to drive on.

Quote Ike fairly

As the nation debates the size and cost of national defense, Vietnam, the ABM and the draft, it is ironic how eagerly critics turn back to the Eisenhower era to support their position.

Two sentences from the late President's famous Farewell Address of Jan. 17, 1961, are quoted in virtually every anti-military article:

"In the councils of government, we must guard against the acquisition of unwarranted influence, whether sought or unsought, by the military-industrial complex. The potential for the disastrous rise of misplaced power exists and will persist."

Clearly, this is a warning. But what did Eisenhower, the soldier, really mean? What else did he say? If he were alive today, would he permit the use of his words as a "cover" for attacks implying some kind of conspiracy between our military services and their suppliers of goods and services?

First, his whole speech was a plea for peace and "how we use our power" to achieve it. But immediately (unlike those who minimize the need for a strong defense) he declared: "We face a hostile ideology-global in scope, atheistic in character, ruthless in purpose, and insidious in method. Unhappily, the danger it poses promises to be of indefinite duration."

Turning to the "military-industrial complex" his first words were: "A vital element in keeping the peace is our military establishment. Our arms must be mighty, ready for instant action, so that no potential aggressor may be tempted to risk his own destruction."

Next, he freely pointed out the "total influence" of military security upon our lives, but came to this stern conclusion: "We recognize the imperative need for this development."

Only then came his advice to guard against "the complex," but even it was fully qualified by the phrases "unwarranted influence" and "misplaced power."

Did President Eisenhower really intend to condemn the "military-industrial complex"? His whole address deserves to be studied. To quote two sentences out of context is an abuse of the General's intelligence and an injustice to his memory.

Sex education in our schools

The current fuss here over sex education is another excellent example of people getting excited about the wrong things.

After seeing a couple of John Birch film shows, many county residents began fretting about our schools teaching the kids something they shouldn't know about sex.

The truth is, you might better worry about the things our schools are NOT teaching about sex. Because they are teaching practically nothing.

Two women have held a series of scare shows in recent weeks. Their propaganda is pitiful but it fools a lot of people. They say schools are showing dirty movies to the kids — movies so dirty that the women won't show them to adults, even. But, when asked specifically, the women cannot name one school where such films are being shown.

The only fair way to judge these movies would be to see them and to question the teachers, children and parents in the school districts where they've been shown. It is senseless to condemn an unknown simply on the basis of a prejudiced opinion offered by admitted propagandists. But this is exactly what too many people do.

Sex education in this county can be summed up easily, like this: By the time they get in high school, our teenagers already know a heck of a lot more about sex than they are going to be taught in any class. And what little they learned in elementary school, they must have picked up during recess.

We don't mean to treat the subject lightly. We realize that most people worried about too much sex education are not radical right-wingers.

We do object to the irresponsible charges made by the Birch-type arm-wavers who always leave the impression that sex is something dirty and unhealthy which should be discussed only behind closed doors with close relatives. This type of thinking comes from warped minds and produces more warped minds. It is responsible for much unhappiness and trouble.

Our schools could and should offer more sex education. Nationwide studies are currently engaged in creating guidelines for interested schools. Expert, experienced, responsible people and organizations are working hard on the subject. They are not communists dedicated to ruining Junior. They are plenty smart enough to know the importance of morality. They simply recognize the great problem caused by a LACK of intelligent sex education and are looking for solutions."

No matter what you might hear at a town hall meeting, it is this lack which should concern you. As far as sex education goes, nothing wrong is being taught in Charlevoix County schools. In fact, nothing much at all is being taught. That's something to get excited about.

Frequently newspapers and other periodicals lay out good money for a professional survey of what the reader wants and expects in his newspaper or magazine.

One of the exchange papers which comes across my desk just completed such a survey. It made interesting reading After reading the results, I grabbed the Detroit Free Press in the daily attempt to get me in the right frame of mind to go out into the world straight from the breakfast table in a fighting frame of mind.

I came to the conclusion that other dailies, as well as the new underground Free Press, should conduct a survey– not on what readers want but on what they would like to do without. When the surveyor comes to my door here is a partial list of the answers he will get as to what I can do without in my Free Press:

Which movie is the most shocking-and why.

The comings and going of the jet-settera, including Jackie and Ari.

Articles on how to get rich quick on the stock market.

The why-I-talk dope stories by drug addicts.

Any prescriptions for the world's ills from Dr. Spock with the possible exception of how to cure heartburn.

News of the latest hippie fad.

What Prime Minister Trudeau of Canada wore to the discotheque on Saturday night.

Anti-American speeches from foreign movie stars who earn the bulk of their money in the United States.

Demands of student groups representing a minute minority of the nation's youth.

Advice from heads of state of mini-nations on how the United States should be run.

The lates antics of the Beatles and their imitators.

What entertainment personality is involved with what other's wife.

The latest attack from Ralph Nader.

The pie-in-the-sky advice on putting 2 chickens in every pot and 4 pots in every home from economists who never worked with their hands at anything more trying than tying their own shoes.

The list could go on and on.

If the average man saves for the next 20 years at the rate he has been saving for the past 6 months, he will be able to retire at 60–owing $100,000.

+ + +

The generation gap is the distance between a father's guiding hand and his youngster's rear end.

With high school football season here and a full week's schedule of sitting in bleachers, I have come to the conclusion that one good thing about middle-age spread is that it brings people closer together.

The unhooked generation

One million people a year quit smoking. But thousands start. Many of them are teenagers.

According to a recent nationwide survey, only about one percent of 12-year-olds smoke. But by age 17, 35 percent of the boys and 21 percent of the girls are regular smokers. Smoking is most common among teenagers whose parents and older siblings have the habit, according to the study which was conducted by Chilton Research Services of Philadelphia.

"Kick the habit and join the unhooked generation" is the slogan of the anti-smoking campaign of the National Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association. But a big slice of the "now" generation gets hooked every year.

Anti-smoking campaigns are having an impact, though. Teenage smoking--and adult smoking--is now declining. In the nationwide survey, 91 percent of the teenagers interviewed thought smoking was harmful. The same survey--in comparison with another study done ten years ago--showed a ten percent drop in teenage smoking.

In some areas of the country, teenagers themselves have organized their own anti-smoking campaigns. A group in California consulted the top advertising men in town, radio and TV programmers, and newspaper editors for tips on how to set up effective campaigns. Then they went ahead and produced a real smasher.

In Michigan the Youth Advisory Council to the Michigan Youth Commission has undertaken a youth-to-youth campaign on the hazards of cigarette smoking. They will utilize the service of mass media and the assistance of youth serving agencies to "get their message across."

Sergeants hurt image

It's 24 years since I was an army sergeant but I still wear my hair in the standard topkick fashion, with most of my ugly skull showing through.

I was reminded of this recently when pictures of Sgts. William Wooldridge and William Higdon began appearing in the newspapers.

These guys are right out of Central Casting. The photos showed only their few hairs, many stripes and brave jaws. But you can bet a 3-day pass you could cut your finger on the crease in their pants. They always stand stiff and bark yessir and nossir to officers. Back at the barracks, their beds are made so tight you could bounce a bowling ball off the blanket.

Such sergeants are made of the stern stuff required to keep America safe. They make Little Old Ladies feel secure and they furnish the raw material from which John Wayne fashions Academy Award nominations.

Soldiers like Higdon and Wooldridge are usually pictured on recruiting posters. But here they are on the front page and the headline says "Sergeants Take Fifth in Kickback Scandal."

Goodness gracious. Is nothing sacred?

Higdon and Wooldridge appeared before a U.S. Senate investigating committee. They are accused of having their meaty paws in Uncle Sam's pockets. It is charged that millions of bucks were swiped in a sweet racket wrapped around the operation of army service clubs in the U.S. and overseas. Given a chance to deny the accusations, the sergeants refused to answer for fear they might incriminate themselves.

They have a perfect right to clam up, of course. It is one of the rights they fought for in Vietnam or Colombia or Little Rock. But what about the image of the hard-core American sergeant? Can you see John Wayne hiding behind the 5th amendment when questioned by some lousy pinko senator? I guess not.

And, for gosh sakes, what about the image of the crew haircut?

Everyone knows that longhaired boys are shiftless punks who shouldn't be allowed in school unless they're playing guitar at the senior prom. Some of my best over-40 friends can judge a boy's character, ambition, relatives, friends and blood type simply by his haircut. This saves a lot of trouble. College professors have created elaborate psychological tests which cannot reveal that much about a person. But you and Spiro know what a bunch of weirdos those professors are. Some of 'em even wear beards and carry signs.

All responsible parents raise their children to understand that the more hair a man has, the less likely he is to be elected commander of the Legion post. But now comes some crewcut sergeants to fog up our prejudices.

What's the answer?

Well, I just remembered why I bucked so hard for sergeant's stripes 24 years ago. It was so I could be admitted to the Sergeants Club at Camp Polk, La. That's where all the action was. – booze, girls and gambling. I gained a lot of bad, longtime habits to go with my short hair. And my conduct has been somewhat suspect ever since.

I think I'll be a good boy, turn over a new leaf, and let my hair grow.

ON THE 'FLIP' SIDE

We were told the following story this week. We pass it along as our "Holiday Fable".

Many years ago, when the animals in the jungle passed their first constitution, they provided for a jungle electoral college to select their king.

As sort of an assistant to their king they provided that the man who received the second highest number of votes in the electoral college would become their vice-king.

This assured them that if something happened to the king the second best man would be in line to succeed him.

But the king and vice-king did not always share the same political philosophies, and sometimes the king was even afraid to leave the jungle for fear of what the vice-king might do in his absence.

So the animals changed the constitution and provided that the king and vice-king be elected as a unit from the same political faction.

While this worked out very well through the years because the king and vice-king were a team, the system evolved that the king, if he were a strong king, selected a weaker animal as his running mate so that he didn't get in his way.

As a natural consequence, the position of vice-king became less and less important.

In fact, not too many years ago, a donkey named Elbie Jay, while serving as king, more or less limited his vice-king's public appearances to attending international funerals.

When Elbie retired, he was replaced by Dickie, the elephant.

As a concession to a certain political block, Dickie selected an elephant named Spiro Who as his running mate. No one probably would have cared how able the new vice-king was, if the new king followed the old procedure of keeping the vice-king in the background.

But Dickie made the mistake of letting old Spiro Who out ever once in a while and every time he opened his mouth he got all four feet into it, which is quite a feat for an elephant.

Pretty soon the animals got up in arms and forced the selection of both king and vice-king by popular election.

Old political conventions were thrown out and the people were assured that successors to the high public office would be given some public exposure before being elected.

MORAL: It is better to keep one's mouth shut and be suspected of being a fool, than to open it and prove it.

Library hours changed

Charlevoix Public Library has announced new hours, effective today.

According to Miss Dorothy Olmsted, librarian, the new schedule has been introduced in an effort to accommodate patrons who are unable to take advantage of the evening hours.

The new hours are:

Monday and Thursday, 1 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Tuesday and Wednesday, 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Friday and Saturday, 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

"We hope that this experimental change in schedule will be helpful to those who prefer to use the noon hour to visit the library," Miss Olmsted said.

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date with Mayor Fochtman presiding. Aldermen present: Klooster, Mol, Sundberg, Gill, and Hanna. Absent: Alderman Boss.

The Minutes of the October 27, 1969 meeting were approved as presented to the Council in writing and as recorded in the Council Minutes book.

Moved by Alderman Gill and supported by Alderman Mol that the rezoning hearing tabled at the October 27, 1969 meeting be brought from the table for consideration.

Motion adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Aldermen Klooster, Mol, Sundberg, Gill, and Hanna.

Nays: None.

Absent: Alderman Boss.

Alderman Sundberg offered the following Ordinance, supported by Alderman Hanna.

ORDINANCE NUMBER 315

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND SECTION 2101 AND SECTION 2102 OF ARTICLE XXI, BEING ORDINANCE NUMBER 203 OF THE ORDINANCES OF THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN, AS AMENDED, ENTITLED, "AN ORDINANCE REGULATING AND RESTRICTING THE HEIGHT AND SIZE OF BUILDINGS; THE SIZE OF YARDS, COURTS, AND OTHER OPEN SPACES; THE DENSITY OF POPULATION; THE LOCATIONS AND USE OF BUILDINGS AND LAND FOR TRADE: INDUSTRY: RESIDENCE AND OTHER PURPOSES; CREATING DISTRICTS FOR SAID PURPOSES AND ESTABLISHING THE BOUNDARIES THEREOF; PROVIDING FOR CHANGES IN REGULATIONS, RESTRICTIONS, AND BOUNDARIES OF SUCH DISTRICTS; DEFINING CERTAIN TERMS USED HEREIN; PROVIDING FOR ENFORCEMENT; ESTABLISHING A BOARD OF APPEALS; AND IMPOSING PENALTIES FOR THE VIOLATION OF THIS ORDINANCE."

CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

Section I Section 2101 of ARTICLE XXI of Ordinance Number 203, as amended by excluding from residential description 1 the following described land: all of Lot 11 of Block 1, Lindsay Park Addition to the City of Charlevoix, and those portions of Lots 12, 13, and 14 of Block 1, Lindsay Park Addition to the City of Charlevoix, now zoned Residential District 1, and being in excess of 132 feet South of the South line of Petoskey Avenue.

Section 2. Section 2102 of ARTICLE XXI of Ordinance Number 203, as amended, is hereby amended by adding and including in Residential District 2 the following described land: all of Lot 11 of Block 1, Lindsay Park Addition to the City of Charlevoix, and those portions of Lots 12, 13, and 14 of Block 1, Lindsay Park Addition to the City of Charlevoix, now zoned Residential District I, and being in excess of 132 feet South of the South line of Petoskey Avenue.

Section 3. The parcels herein described shall revert to Residential District 1 zoning on the date of November 10th, 1971, in the event that construction of residential townhouses, in accordance with the plans now on file with the City of Charlevoix, have not been commenced by that date.

Section 4. All ordinances, or parts of ordinances, inconsistent with the provisions hereof are hereby repealed.

Section 5. This Ordinance shall take immediate effect.

Adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Aldermen Mol, Sundberg, Gill, Klooster, and Hanna.

Nays: None.

Absent: Alderman Boss.

Moved by Alderman Klooster and supported by Alderman Hanna that the City of Charlevoix offer the General Service Administration $3,000.00 for the improvements on the old lifeboat station.

Motion adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Aldermen Klooster, Mol, Sundberg, Gill, and Hanna.

Nays: None.

Absent: Alderman Boss.

It was unanimously agreed by the Common Council to accept the revised plans for the Ferry Avenue ramp as drawn up by the United Associates.

Moved by Alderman Hanna and supported by Alderman Sundberg that the City enter into a Contract with Charlevoix Garbage Service for a 5 year period beginning November 1, 1969 to November 1, 1974, for the purpose of maintaining a location for the dumping and depositing of all forms of refuse.

Motion adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Aldermen Klooster, Mol, Sundberg, Gill, and Hanna.

Nays: None.

Absent: Alderman Boss.

The Finance Committee having examined bills totaling $49,667.91 find them correct and recommend they be allowed.

Moved by Alderman Gill and supported by Alderman Mol that the bills be allowed and orders drawn for their amounts.

Motion adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Aldermen Klooster, Mol, Sundberg, Gill, and Hanna.

Nays: None.

Absent: Alderman Boss.

On Motion the Council adjourned.

Local churches plan Thanksgiving services

Charlevoix churches will hold traditional Thanksgiving services this week.

A Union Thanksgiving Service by six local churches will be conducted Thanksgiving morning beginning at 10 a.m. The service will last for one hour, with the host church for the service this year, the Charlevoix Assembly of God, 203 East Upright Street.

The other churches that will be participating in the service are: First Baptist Church, Community Church of God, First Congregational Church, Church of the Nazarene, and First United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Tom Rash of the Church of the Nazarene will be bringing the message from Psalm 105:1-5. Each minister from the participating churches will have a part in leading the service. A time of praise and thanksgiving with special music will also be a part of the service.

Everyone of the community is invited to attend.

The Christian Science Society, 205 Clinton Street, will hold its annual Thanksgiving service at 11 a.m.

The lesson-sermon, with excerpts from the Bible and the Christian Science textbook, Science and Health, with the key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, on the topic of "Thanksgiving", will be read.

There will be a period for the giving of testimonies of healing and other expressions of gratitude for blessings received.

The service will also include the reading of the Thanksgiving proclamation of the President of the United States.

The Community Reformed Church will hold its annual Thanksgiving Service at 10 a.m. Thanksgiving morning.

The Junior Youth Fellowship will present a short play "Thanksgiving Ann".

The Pastor A.F. Mansen, will speak on the subject, "God's Goodness to Man". Throughout the world there are many people who are hungry and in need of the basic necessities of life. The various Churches of our country unitedly minister to these through Church World Service. Our Thanksgiving offering will be for those in need. "Everyone is welcome," said pastor Mansen.

Are the new Michigan license plates hard to read? Bill Zeitler, Charlevoix representative of the Secretary of State, lets you be the judge. So far, about 150 plates have been sold at local office. Says Zeitler, "Tell people not to wait until the last minute to get their plates. It's no fun standing in line outside that last week. If they stop by now, there's no waiting." He also noted that his office will be closed this Thursday for Thanksgiving, and also Friday.

CHS student body accepts dress code

BY CHRIS CAREY

The Charlevoix School Board recently passed some revisions to the Dress Code that had been previously passed by the Student Council. These revisions included the length of boys hair and the girls now being allowed to wear slacks.

The boys will now be able to wear their hair down to their shoulders as long as it is neat and clean. They are also allowed to wear bluejeans as long as they are not too tight and they are neat and clean.

Boys shirts must also be tucked in unless they are designed to be worn out.

The main changes in the girls code is that they are now allowed to wear slacks. However, they cannot be too tight and they will not be allowed to wear ski pants or bluejeans. Bermudas are not permitted, nor are pant skirts that resemble bermudas. Girls bangs must be cut so the eyebrows are visible. Their hair also must be kept neat and clean.

It has been left up to the Student Council and the rest of the student body to report to the officials anyone who is abusing the new code.

There were various reactions from the student body pertaining to the new dress code. Some of the students supported it while others thought it was not strict enough.

But on the whole, the code was accepted by the student body.

Many boys seemed to be against the girls wearing slacks with the reason being that they are supposed to look like ladies, and in slacks many of the girls don't. The boys that did support the idea simply stated that it wasn't the business of the administration to tell anyone what they could or couldn't wear.

Some of them felt that a girl will not act like a lady if she is in slacks, however, a girl in slacks looks better than a girl with a skirt that is too short.

The dress code will probably change again soon when the styles change but until they do, the students and their parents must accept them whether they approve of them or not.

Elliotts link in network

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Elliott, owners of Frank's Flowers, Petoskey Avenue, Charlevoix, were formally accepted today as a subscriber of Florafax Delivery, Inc., one of the world's largest flowers-by-wire organizations.

Affiliation with Florafax provides subscriber florists with a link to more than 7,500 fellow subscribers in all fifty states of the United States. In addition, Florafax provides coverage in South America and has signed a reciprocal agreement with a service in Canada which makes the facilities of 1,500 Canadian florists available to Florafax subscribers.

First band concert of year planned for Dec. 3

BY PAT BEGROW

The Charlevoix High School Symphony Band will present its premier concert on Wednesday, December 3, at the high school at eight o'clock in the evening, and the band members are inviting the entire community to be their guests at this complimentary concert.

Reorganization of the school and the creation of the Middle School has greatly changed the make-up of the instrumental groups of the high school. The High School has two band groups, the Marching and Concert Band which is comprised of freshmen and sophomores, and the Symphony Band which is composed of juniors and seniors. It is this band which will present the first in a series of concerts planned by the band groups.

Seventh and eighth graders meet in separate groups each day to practice.

The December 3 concert will feature the finest of band literature including Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro" overture, the moving "Elsa's Procession to the Cathedral" by Wagner; and Jerry Belek's stirring "American Civil War Fantasy."

An unusual feature of the program will be the entire cornet section of the band playing Leroy Anderson's "Bugler's Holiday" as a "Triple" trio.

The band will also play lighter numbers and marches which are popular with Charlevoix audiences. This group will include "Selections from the Sound Music," the march "Red's White and Blue March," by the famed comedian Red Skelton; "Pride of the Wolverines" by John Phillip Sousa and the catchy German march "Wein, Bleibt Wien" by Schammel.

The Charlevoix Band Boosters have reported a very successful Band Dinner for they served over 500 meals at their dinner on November 13. The financial report has not been completed, but a sizable profit will ensue, thus reducing a bit more the $1,200 outstanding amount due on the uniforms purchased nearly two years ago.

The Band Boosters hope to reduce this debt still further by the sale of candy which they will initiate on the night of the concert. The quarter pound almond chocolate bar which the band sold last year was so popular that Band members will be selling it again this year. They are hoping that the community will get behind them, buy chocolate bars and enable them to pay off the uniform debt.

Local teens spend more

The teenagers of Charlevoix County, who represent a larger proportion of the population than ever, spend an estimated $1,648,000 a year on such items as clothing, records, beauty supplies, radios, paperbacks, snacks and other various needs.

Based on facts and figures, these findings were gathered by the Institute of Life Insurance, the Rand Youth Poll and others, covering the entire nation as a whole. The facts show that today's teenagers have a personal income of more than $2 billion a year. This includes their weekly earnings and their allowances. This is a drastic comparison to the $5 billion they had to spend in 1950.

On this basis, in Charlevoix County, where there are approximately 2,060 teenagers, it amounts to an estimated $1,648,000 a year.

This large amount of buying power is of vast importance to the local merchants. They are aware that this money is spent quickly.

The Rand Poll showed that the average teenager in the 16-19 age group allots his weekly contributions. Among the female gender, the largest item is that of personal grooming, $4.60. Next comes clothing, $4.20, and movies and entertainment, $2.15.

Dating and the movies were the top items of the boy's list which takes up $4.45. This is followed by car costs and clothing at $3.25 and $3.10, respectively.

Of even greater interest to the merchants and those who manufacture, is the other family purchasing at an estimated cost of $4 billion a year, over which the teenager has a direct influence.

Recalling the past for Thanksgiving '69

(Ed. note: Mrs. Wexstaff, a regular contributor to the Courier, offers the following at the beginning of the holiday season.)

BY BERNICE WEXSTAFF

The oft repeated story of the first American Thanksgiving has become almost unbelievable legend to the Space Age World of which our land is an authoritative portion. In a day of interstate super highways the vast forests the Pilgrims knew are a "Never Never Land" beyond the imagination of the average citizen.

To the Pilgrims, the Atlantic ocean and the New England coast was a grim fact of life. But life in the British Isles was no bed of roses either and there's little doubt they chose the lesser of two evils: perils of exploration and in a new and unknown world over religious, politican and social domination in the Old.

During that first winter of suffering -- privation--sickness--and death, they lost more than half of their original number--and secretly buried them at night so the Indians would not be aware of their dwindling numbers. At one time, all but a scant half dozen of the Pilgrims were ill because of the hardships which included enduring rugged weather unknown in their native isles.

The following spring and summer was kinder to them. They were enabled to build snug log shacks to protect them from the bitter winter weather and their first crops produced from half-cleared land was to them a bountiful harvest.

The Pilgrims were thankful and because of their deep and abiding faith in an unseen Providence they decided to celebrate a day of thankfulness together. As no individual family had quarters large enough for feasting, the celebration was set in the open in the brisk October air. No home hearth was commodious enough for the cooking so that, too, must of necessity be done in the open and a trio of saplings was cut and bound at the top with leather

Thanksgiving feast

Elk's nose, anyone?

BY ELEANOR RATIGAN

As a general rule, our traditional Thanksgiving dinner remains pretty much the same from year to year, and this is as it should be. Special recipes for turkey dressing or mince pie are handed down from mother to daughter. The holiday menu is sometimes extremely elaborate – beginning with oysters on the half shell and ending with a flaming dessert, but the charm of this special holiday dinner should lie in its simplicity, and it should contain as many seasonal foods as possible from fresh fruits, cranberries and vegetables to the inevitable pumpkin pie.

Since we are largely indebted to the Indians for teaching our forefathers how to prepare the abundant foods the New World offered, the modern-day cook (with a firm belief in authenticity) will include succotash, squash, yams, cranberries and pumpkins in her menu.

A typical Indian festival, from which our Thanksgiving Dinner originated, went something like this:

Along the river banks or the shores of the Big Water, the preliminaries were similar to any large barbecue or picnic today. The chidren tusseled and tangled and played games with pebbles. The maidens sat along the shore or river's edge, throwing shy glances at the young braves who, straight as arrows, showed off their feats of strength of played Indian hand ball in typical male fashion.

By the fires, the squaws gossiped together in age-old custom as they prepared the food.

The menu, as it would appear in a modern-day restaurant or hotel dining room would offer:

Turtle Soup
Cat Tail Soup
Mulligatawny Soup
Baked White Fish
Sturgeon with Herb Dressing
Siskawet with Wild Rice
Haunch of Venison with Wild Cranberries
Bear Steaks
Elk's Nose
Roast Porcupine
Smoked Beaver Tail
Roast Corn
Swan Potatoes
Baked Apples
Beans in Squash Shells
Wadapinig
Trout Herbs
Pegessaneg
Maize Cakes with Choke Cherry Jam
Maple Sugar Candy

A Feast worthy of the Great Spirit! Only the rarest and most delectable of foods were served at these festivals. Wild turkeys were so abundant that they were not considered suitable for important occasions.

"Wadapinig", mentioned in the above menu was a long, thin, knotted root, yellowish-brown in color. It tasted like watercress and was eaten either boiled or dried. When dried, it was pounded between stones, and the powder was used to make bread or broth. either boiled or dried. When dried, it was pounded between stones, and the powder was used to make bread or broth.

"Pagessaneg" was the Indian name for the sweet wild plum which could be found around the middle of October. The trees grew wild along the banks of rivers and small lakes, and the Indians dried or boiled the fruit with maple syrup and made it into a cake or dough. After the plums were boiled in a kettle until the mass became thick, it was spread out on a piece of birchbark and allowed to dry in the sun. It became tough, leathery substance which could be rolled up and packed in mococks, (little birchbark boxes) and stored in holes in the ground, along with so many other of the Indians' foods. Pagessaneg would keep a long time and, during the winter, pieces could be cut off and boiled with dried meat to add a special sweet flavoring.

"Maskigamin," or wild cranberry, grew along the St. Mary's River in Michigan and elsewhere along the Great Lakes. They were highly prized by the Ojibways, and these swamp-born berries were larger and finer than our domesticated fruit. Although the berries ripened in October, they didn't fall off the bush but kept on ripening even beneath the snow!

"Siskawet," mentioned in the Indian festival menu, was the name given to a highly-prized fish which resembled the salmon trout of the Northwest, but was peculiar to Lake Superior. It was too fat for the white man unless it had been well rendered out like bacon. If a siskawet was hung in the sunshine above a bowl, by the end of a week, half the weight of the fish would have dripped into the bowl.

Wild turkeys no longer darken the sky in their flight, but our domestic turkey, roasted to golden-brown crispeness, has become a symbol of our Thanksgiving dinner. Among the many things for which we should give thanks on this special day, we should probably be grateful that the head of the house can heap our plates with juicy slices of turkey rather than Smoked Beaver Tail, Elk's Nose and Roast Porcupine.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER
CHAMBER MANAGER

We regret having to accept the resignation of Mr. Larry LaGrow, from the Board of Directors of this Chamber. Larry's constructive remarks at our Board Meetings, his well expressed opinions, etc., as well as physical effort will be missed. Larry and his family are going to greener pastures down state.

Another loss, so to speak, John VanHaver Castle, a tourist attraction, if there ever was one. This feature and his wide-spread variety of publicity brought thousands of people to Charlevoix annually. Many people have written in as to whereabouts, etc. And many people annually have stopped at the Chamber of Commerce office only to inquire about the castle, where is it, how far, etc., seeming to be for the moment only concerned about this particular attraction.

Be reminded that Charlevoix Pairs and Squares will be hosts for a western square dance Saturday, November 29, caller for which will be Bev Taliman of Livonia, at the Charlevoix high school gym. This is sponsored by North Western Michigan Square Dance Council.

A wise proverb worth repeating: "What you say about yourself is advertising; what others say about you is reputation."

Be reminded that the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce annual Dinner-Meeting will be Sunday, December 7, 1969, at 4 p.m. at the Weathervane Inn. Come early and mix it up a bit with your friends and neighbors before dinner. The business portion of this meeting will be held at an extreme minimum and will give more time for fun and fellowship. Donations are $4.50 per person, which includes dinner, tip, tax, etc. There will also be Intertainment. Tickets are available at your Chamber office downtown and also from any of the Board of Directors, Lyle Miles, Tom Acton, Gordon Neff, Dave Juilleret, Ralph Hess, Jr., John Schroeder, Bruce Bartlett, Ken DePew, and Tom Hanna. You are urged to get your tickets early. This will assist up to report to the Weathervane in reasonable time as to approximately how many dinners. Capable radio announces, Bill Supernaw, will be MC.

It is policy of there develops a vacany in our Board of Directors to contact the first, second, third, and so on, runners up in the election to fill the vacancy. The first runner up was contacted to fill this vacany of Larry's, and he had to decline. The second accepted to serve the two year balance of term and will be announced at the dinner after the announcement of the three new Directors to start serving three year terms beginning January 1, 1970.

Traffic on the Mackinac Bridge in October, 1969 showed a gain of 21.6 percent over the same month of 1968, so reports the Mackinac Bridge authorities.

SODA
BICARB

When you shop for your holiday turkey take note,
It's essential to pick up the one antidote
For soothing the miseries of mid-section bulge
That strike any diners who overindulge.
It's soda bicarb which speedily squelches
That stuffed-up feeling with delicate belches.
Thus feasting and comfort can co-exist
When soda's been put on the shopping list.

NP

Thank you, come again

"Thank you – come again" reads the sign in large black letters on the front door of the corner grocery store. Most customers give it less than a passing glance as they exit, because they're still trying to recover from the shock of their grocery bill. It's true that prices of food are up over past years. There's nothing earthshaking about that statement, but it is also true that the cost of living has increased! And the cost of living affects the farmer's cost of farming, the processors cost of processing, and the grocer's cost of grocering.

Why the rise in costs? Each increase in the salary of the "breadwinner" in your family is reflected in higher prices people in industries must pay to stay in business, and to care for their families too.

Spokesmen for the grocery trade point out that labor costs are up more than 100 percent in 20 years! Costs of containers and packaging material are up 40 percent in the same period. Overhead costs such as rent are up 96 percent.

Who is to blame? Press reports indicate that the farmer is not being blamed by many consumers for increases in the weekly grocery bill. There have been a few isolated flareups on meat prices, but most housewives rightly blame inflation as the chief villain behind higher market basket costs.

The farmer, for example, is getting only two cents more of the food dollar in 1969 than he did in 1968. The farmer's share of the food dollar now is 41 cents, while middlemen are getting 59 cents. Even at 41 cents, farmers are still behind a decade ago when they received 50 cents of the food dollar.

Consumers should note that only 17 percent of their income after taxes is being paid for food as compared with 25 percent during the mid-1940's. Often the housewives grocery bill unknowingly becomes inflated with the purchase of non-food items. Why not check during the next visit to your local supermarket?

Library Notes

Current fiction which will be on display on a special "Good Reading" shelf of the Library include:

"Edge of Glass" by Catherine Gaskin, a novel of suspense and conflict set in the wild beauty of the Irish countryside. The plot deals with the priceless magnificent Culloden Cup which the heroine went to Ireland to reclaim as her rightful property. By the end of the books, she reclaimed a great deal more than the historic work of art–a strange legacy of dangerous value. The author has written 12 books and is always good reading.

"The White Rose," by Jan Westcott is a 1969 novel written by the author of many popular historical novels. In her most current work, Miss Westcott deals with the tempestuous love story between Edward IV, the tall youthful warrior-king and Elizabeth Woodville, the beautiful widowed mother of two young children, an "enemy" Lancastrian in the War of the Roses – a match that was to have tragic repercussions for all England. As will all of Miss Wescott's novels, "The White Rose" is filled with dramatic and vivid scenes and is researched so thoroughly it can stand as a full-fledged biography.

"To Glory We Steer," by Alexander Kent, is a magnificent novel of the sea, set in the West Indies during the last years of the American Revolution. This is a first novel by a man who has always had a great interest in naval affairs, particularly in the ships and men of the eighteenth century.

"The Lasy Mayday," by Keith Wheeler is a novel about an American nuclear submarine, a former Russian Premier, and an international crisis. It is a very human tale of the captain and crew of a United States submarine, on a mission so impossible that the "mayday" distress signal should have sounded the moment their orders were issued.

Keith Wheeler, also the author of Peaceable Lane is a top staff writer for Life Magazine.

Robert Wilder has published 18 books. His new novel "An Affair of Honor," is an explosive story of ruthless power and greed. Set in the beautiful Bahamas, it is the story of a man who manipulated the destinies and shape of the islands. This new Wilder book is the author at his exciting and suspenseful best.

Conclusions on drugs

(Last in a series)

Until recently, most parents of young people were not especially concerned with facts about drug abuse. The use and misuse of new and ancient mind-altering preparations were largely matters of medical, pharmaceutical, and, as regards control, legal interest.

Any compendium of advice on "what every parent should know" might comfortably have excluded the subject of drugs.

No longer is this so. Today, our pill-oriented society is alarmed and confused over the growing abuse of drugs among young people.

Waves of shock follow in the wake of reports of campus-wide "pot" or marihuana. The word, "marihuana," has, like it or not, infiltrated the nation's playgrounds.

The problem is real, not just a hobgoblin one. Drugs, such as marihuana, the amphetamines and barbiturates, LSD, and the opiates (particularly heroin) have become familiar: pot, speed, bennies, goofballs, junk, acid, and similar terms in the world of youth, whose innocense frequently blurs the distinction between being turned-on and turned-off.

As the principal Federal agency responsible for stimulating research on drug abuse, the National Institute of Mental Health is vitally interested in strengthening our arsenal of knowledge and in helping to make the real facts about drugs, as known from scientific evidence rather than rumor, available to the public.

In reaching the public, every member of which has a personal need to know about mind-affecting drugs and their proper and improper use, newspapers are a most important medium.

In our current campaign to develop and carry out, as a cooperative program with everyone interested, a nationwide drug abuse educational program, the newspapers of America are playing a key role.

Articles, such as this, and many other features, editorials, and, of course, the reporting of news developments of all kinds are helping a great deal.

Through such means, people can learn, for example, that the Institute has recently published a series of four factual easy-to-read leaflets on drugs which are being made available to anyone who wants them.

These leaflets attempt to answer some of the most frequently asked questions surrounding the use of marlbuana, LSD, amphetamines, barbiturates, and narcotics.

Many of the questions about drugs that young people may bring up to their parents will be found answered in the series.

Being brief, the leaflets cannot go deeply into all the points that may be raised by youngsters. One frequently heard concerns adult use of alcohol.

"Well, you drink, don't you?" a child may say.

In the first place, the use of alcoholic beverages by persons over 21 is not against the law; marihuana, LSD, and narcotic drugs are illegal.

Secondly, the immoderate use of alcohol – the "abuse" of alcohol – does nothing to recommend this as a means of escaping realities or as a way of life.

Thirdly, the acceptability of moderate social drinking assumes that adults are mature enough to make mature decisions as to their behavior.

Finally, there is the irrefutable fact that the fresh young years of personality growth and development are dangerously inappropriate for any chemical means of confounding reality.

As authorities are well aware, neither laws nor knowledge of the medical facts can themselves bring about the prevention of drug abuse.

It is not so much the total phenomenon of the great use of drugs in America today that bears investigation. Rather it is the misuse and abuse of drugs.

The major harm and the greatest dangers come through the improper taking of drugs, not their proper utilization.

It is toward understanding of drugs, particularly the more powerful mind-affecting compounds mentioned here, that we are campaigning. It is not to prevent the appropriate, often vital, usage of drugs, but only their abuse and misuse, that medical, scientific, and educational efforts are aimed.

Pat's Reaction

Jet age Thanksgiving

Either Thanksgiving has changed a lot since I was a kid, or I've simply changed a lot. Whatever the case, that happy hallowed day just isn't the same.

It used to be that I really looked forward to Thanksgiving. Oh boy, four days of vacation and a big turkey dinner. Well now I think, my gosh, the kids will be home for four days vacation and I've got to cook a big turkey dinner.

The prospect cools my enthusiasm.

Fortunately I like to cook so I enjoy cooking a turkey dinner, but it's a far cry from the dinners that I've enjoyed in the past at kind relatives' houses.

When I was a teenager we always used to go to a favorite aunt's house for Thanksgiving dinner and every woman in the family would bring some special dish. We met at her farm and we ate like farmers although we hadn't done a lick of work to deserve it.

We had turkey, dressing, gravy, cranberries, fruit salad, German cabbage, mashed potatoes, sweet potatoes and rolls. Nowadays the thought of all that starchy food makes me gag. And then to top it all off we would be offered our choice of either pumpkin pie or mince pie. In order to flatter each pie maker we had to accept a small piece of each. How we ever ate it all I'll never know, but to refuse someone'a favorite dish was to invite wrath.

Today when I cook Thanksgiving dinner I dispense with mashed potatoes and sweet potatoes. In deferance to the special day I do pass a few rolls, but dessert is usually something simple like pumpkin ice cream or a dish or browniea to be passed. Take them or leave them. No one who refuses to eat hurts my feelings for I'm always counting calories too.

Another way in which Thanksgiving looks different to me is that Thanksgiving is still the kickoff before Christmas, not the time to tie up the loose ends. I must admit that at Thanksgiving time I am not prepared for Christmas. I've hardly recovered from Halloween.

Nothing upsets me more at Thanksgiving time than to have efficient women brag about how they've managed to finish their Christmas shopping, addressed their cards and are now concentrating on making hand crafted Christmas decorations.

I hate them.

I never shop until the last minute.

I usually don't send cards past the K's.

And I never ever make Christmas decorations.

Just think, if it weren't for people like me who would buy the homemade items at the church bazaars? These crafty and they just don't know it. and they just don't know it.

My family aren't sedentary. They don't just like to eat on Thanksgiving Day. They like to do things.

I like to do things too and I look upon Thanksgiving as the happy opening of the ski season. I've already had everyone try on their boots so if its a nice snowy day we can all go skiing. Our most successful Christmas was one that we spent on the ski slopes, but at Thanksgiving we aren't always so fortunate to have good snow.

But if it doesn't snow we always have the football games. I've never been able to figure out why some women don't want their husbands to watch TV football on Thanksgiving day. It's a harmless pastime and the women always lose the argument anyway.

I like the games myself and so I just plan to serve dinner during halftime. With an extra TV in the kitchen I can follow the game while I'm preparing dinner and not miss a play.

So you see Thanksgiving all depends on how you look at things.

CHARLEVOIX TOWNSHIP ANNEXATION PETITION
Donald Berlage, Attorney at Law, presented a petition by the City of Charlevoix to annex the Township of Charlevoix.

TO THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF CRARLEVOIX COUNTY:

the petition of the City of Charlevoix respectfully shows;

1. That the City of Charlevoix is a Fourth Class City, incorporated under Act 215 of the Public Acts of the State of Michigan for 1895, as amended and located in the County of Charlevoix.

2. That the township of Charlevoix is a Michigan municipal corporation located in the County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, the description of said township being:

In Township 34 North, Range 8 West, beginning at the intersection of the shore of Lake Michigan with the South line of Section 31; thence East along the South Line of Sections 31, 32, 33, 34, and 35 to the Westerly shore of Lake Charlevoix; thence Northerly, Northeasterly and Easterly along said shore of Lake Charlevoix to the East line of Section 24; thence North along the East Line of Sections 24, 13, and 12 to the shore of Lake Michigan thence Southwesterly, Westerly and Southwesterly, Westerly, Northwesterly, Westerly, and Southwesterly along said shore to the point of beginning; EXCEPTING therefrom any portion thereof incorporated in the City of Charlevoix.

3. That at a regularly scheduled meeting of the Charlevoix Township Board, held on the 9th day of December, 1968, a motion was made, supported and unanimously adopted requestion the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix to petition the Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors for annexation of the Township of Charlevoix in its entirety by the City of Charlevoix; a copy of said motion being attached hereto, made a part hereof and marked Exhibit A.

4. That the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix, as its regular meeting, held on the 18th day of August, 1969, duly adopted a resolution determining to alter the boundaries of said city of Charlevoix be taking in and annexing the Township of Charlevoix in its entirety to the City of Charlevoix, for the reasons set forth in said petition, directing initiation of statutory procedures for annexation. A copy of said resolution being attached to, made a part hereof, and marked Exhibit B.

5. That a map showing the land and premises above described and which are thought to be annexed to the City of Charlevoix is attached heretu and marked Exhibit C.

6. That the reasons for said proposed annexation are as follows:

a) to facilitate the orderly growth and development of both the City of Charlevoix and the Township of Charlevoix.

b) to facilitate and extend to said area in its development and use of said land, the utilities, services and other advantages of being located within the boundaries of the City of Charlevoix.

c) to offer to its residents an efficient, economical form of government, avoiding duplication of effort and expense in maintaining two separate district governmental units contiguous to one another.

d) such other reasons as appear in the aforementioned resolutions or as may be presented upon the hearing of this petition.

WHEREFORE, the City of Charlevoix prays, that the Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors order annexation of the Township of Charlevoix to the City of Charlevoix, and make such changes in the boundaries of the City of Charlevoix in accordance with the provisions of MCLA 82.1.

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX,
a Michigan municipal corporation

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Meyers spent several days this past week with Mr. and Mrs. Al Schuette in Rose City.

Rev. La Verne Steele of Boyne City had charge of the morning church service this Sunday. Rev. and Mrs. Harmon are in San Francisco, California, visiting Rev. Harmon's mother. Next Sunday, Rev. Harmon will be guest speaker at the Metropoliton Methodist Church in Detroit. Rev. Steele was also with us Sunday, November 23.

Mr. and Mrs. William Crowe have returned home from Detroit.

Mrs. Jack Jentzen returned home from the Gaylord Hospital recently.

The Deer Hunters had plenty of snow this season, in fact, too much which made it impossible to get around with cars and on foot as we have about 15 inches that seemed to come all at once. Visibility has been very poor. Just one hunter has been successful locally.

The Weekly Club met with Mrs. Tom Harrison last Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Vaun Ogden of East Jordon were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Beene this Sunday afternoon.

LOCAL
Mr. and Mrs. Philo E. Sumner and daughters, Roxanne and Gaylee left Sunday enroute to Orlando, Fla., to attend the wedding of their son, Randy Lee, to Leslie Stewart, on Nov. 22. They will tour through the southeast to Jacksonville where they will visit briefly with their son who is stationed there with the U.S. Navy before touring the state of Florida prior to the wedding.

ADJOURNMENT
Moved by Supervisor Davis and Supported by Supervisor Taylor that the Board adjourn until Thursday, October 16, 1969 at 9:30 A.M. Motion carried.

Clarence F. Rabach, Clerk — John Kujawski, Chairman

The Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors convened in regular session on Tuesday, October 14, 1969.

Meeting called to order by Chairman John Kujawski.

ROLL CALL
Roll was called and the following members were present: Supervisors Ingalls, Cunningham, Smith, Davis, Richardson, Griffin, Kullik, Taylor, Milstein, Kassin, Tompkins, Kujawski, Staley, Moerland, 14. Absent Supervisor Carson, 1.

PRINTING COMMITTEE
The Printing Committee opened bids at 10:00 AM. The Bids were read to the Board and the matter tabled.

MINUTES OF PREVIOUS SESSION
Moved by Supervisor Kullik and supported by Supervisor Taylor that the minutes of the previous session be approved. Motion carried.

FUEL OIL BIDS
Moved by Supervisor Richardson and supported by Supervisor Staley that the following resolution be adopted:

TO TRE HONORABLE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS:
MEMBERS OF THE BOARD:

We, the Public Building and Grounds Committee report as follows:

We have received bids for Fuel Oil for the County Building for a period of November 1, 1969 to October 31, 1970 as follows:

1969-70 M-HSC Forecast

Gaylord, Cheboygan Expected to Chase Saints

BY JAY SODERBERG

The St. fgnace Saints are favored to win their second straight Michigan-Huron Shores basketball title, but probably will be pushed to the final week of the season before doing so.

Last year, the Saints won the title because they played more league games than Petoskey, due to prior scheduling conflicts the Northmen had with Cadillac. St. Ignace finished at 15-1, compared to Petoskey's 14-1.

Expected to give the Saints a scare are teams from Cheboygan and Gaylord.

Here's a team-by-team preview:

ST. IGNACE

Coach Gene Shank expects the Saints to be tougher than ever this season with the fine group he has assembled. After last season's loss to Houghton in the Upper Peninsula finals in Marquette, he promised he would return next season. He shouldn't have any troubles keeping that promise.

All-stater Leo Donovan, their 6-5 shooting star, is back for his final season. Donovan was one of the top stars in the Upper Peninsula last year, and also was the top scorer in the conference, averaging 21.9 ppg. With him are John McKinnon, 6-3, who expects to repeat as all-conference, Lynn Closs, Roger Schlehuber, and Rick Holle. All except Closs go over the six foot mark.

Rick Powers, who averaged better than 18 ppg. last season on the JV team, along with Jeff Savard and Mike Bishop, who sat out last season for disciplinary reasons, look real good, also.

The Saints should be the one!

CHEBOYGAN

Coach Frank Karwoski's Cheboygan Chiefs waited until the final few games of the season before catching "fire," went on to defeat Petoskey in the district finals and ended up at the .500 mark. With no seniors on last year's squad, things look real bright for a fine season this year. Their only loss, Dick Renz (13.3) quit the team, but it is figured that his replacement can handle the job.

The team will be led by Joe Beatty and Greg Johnson, a pair of 6-2 sharpshooters, both of whom averaged over 15 ppg. last season. Others include Mark Fralick (6-2), Corky Jewell (6-0), Kurt Sheppard (6-3), Dave Johnson (5-11) and Dan Nieland (6-2). Up from the JVs comes Mark Anderson and Rich Thompson. Both top the 6-2 mark, while Anderson led the JV scoring attack.

GAYLORD

The Blue Devil basketball success will probably continue this year, as coach Jim Mongeau looks forward to a real good season. Last year they finished in third place, and they are looking to do at least the same this year.

Missing from this year's squad is Tom Johnson, the dimunitive little ball handler who scored over 250 points last season. Two others, Craig Cardinal and Ron Sanders, were also lost to graduation.

Back to bolster the squad are Rick Catt (6-2), Kurt Mongeau (6-4), Butch Lehmann (6-0) and Dana Hird (5-9). Catt scored more points than any other player in the conference last season (326), but played two more games than Donovan, the top scorer by average in the conference.

Others expected to bolster the squad are Brad Grein, Bob Fullmer, Doug Ashley, Maurice Harmon, Tom Rector, Jerry Winkle and Bud Harned. Grein and Harmon were the top scorers for the JVs last winter.

CHARLEVOIX

The Red Rayders will be lacking the big men they had for the past two years, but are expected to improve on last season's 6-10 record. Don Ward, Paul Fiedorek and Dan Livingston have graduated, but replacements have been found.

Returning is high-scoring Stewart Coleman along with Kraag Lieberman, Tim Doan, Carl Nowak, Bruce Meggeson and 6-4 Kevin Swanson. Lieberman, Meggeson and Coleman were starters on last years squad, and the top scorers of the squad. Up from the JV team comes promising Tom Bergmann.

BOYNE CITY

If ever there was a dark horse, the Ramblers would have to be it. With what should be the tallest and atrongest team in the league, the Ramblers could just possibly click. Three losses in Brad Price, Don Holzschu and Craig Korthase should have little effect on this years squad.

The big men include 6-5 Mike Mueller, 6-4 Kurt Kujawski and Bill Korthase and 6-3 Jeff Belford. Others ready are Max Houck and Skip Roberts. Up to help the varsity are Tim VanAlstle and Keith Roberts, stars of last seasons JV team.

TCSF

Coach Bob Topper lost his leading scorer in John Wambold and leading rebounder in Larry Truelove, plus a host of other fine boys, but can look toward two hotshots to lead his club this year.

Stan Kozlowski and Mike Comstock combined for a 30 ppg. average and should be the bulk of the scoring attack this season. Others include Cam Wolff, Frank Hall, and Mike Halpin, a 6-3 junior up from the JVs. Halpin averaged over 17 ppg. last season. Others up from the JVs are Jeff Rademacher, Gary Thaxton and Jerry Zeits.

ROGERS CITY

Coach Bob Britzke has been working out with his squad in an attempt to improve on last year's 6-10 mark, and his goal is to bring the team to the .500 mark. Gone from the lineup are Archie Urban, the team's most valuable player and Ralph fdalski, Jerry Whiteley, Steve Kroll and John Parsons.

Expected to give the squad some rebounding power are a pair of 6-4 giants in Eric Stone and Jim Greene. Others include Paul Newhouse, Mike Grulke, Tim Paul, Randy Fairbanks and Keith Gordon. Grulke was the top scorer on the JV team.

PETOSKEY

The Northmen had one of the better Class B teams in Northern Michigan last season, but coach Lee Milner lost four of the five starters from that squad. Lost from the team that posted an 18-2 mark are Dick Swenor (20.3), and their three big men, Bill McKnight, Ed Rice and Jeff Knight. Another key man Weldon Annis also graduated.

The biggest threat this year will come from 6-6 Bob Vratanina. Others expected to see action are John Helbert, Steve Splan, Steve Frye, Steve Mosler and Fred Padgett.

ALPENA CATHOLIC CENTRAL

The Thunderbolts finished in the cellar last season with a 3-12 mark, and will have a hard time making any progress this year. Only three men have graduated, however, and with the strength of a great JV squad last year, coach Jim Surles figures his team may win more games than most people expect.

Graduated seniors are Dave Beach, Tom Townsend and Pat Gallagher, with only Beach hitting over the 10 ppg. mark.

Looking for starting roles will be Rick Kauffman, Phil Milostan, John Gapske, Bob Kassubowski, Mike Clearwood and Pat Sequin. The best talent will probably come from last year's JV squad.

Winter a 'blinger'

The Department of State Highways is prepared to sprinkle Michigan's state highways in the next few months with 244,000 tons of rock salt, 3,500 tons of calcium chloride and enough sand to build a miniature Sleeping Bear dune.

With tongue in cheek, highway maintenance engineers are predicting a "blinger" of a winter, basing their forecast on reports of the unusually dark color of woolly caterpillars this fall, the thickness of fur on fox pelts and the abnormally large numbers of nuts being collected by red squirrels.

Their definition of "blinger" lies between "humdinger" and "pistol." Last winter's storms were "humdingers." The epic snowstorm of January 26-27, 1967, was a "pistol."

Truthfully, the engineers aren't worried about the prospect of plowing, salting and sanding Michigan's 9,200 miles of state highways. Planning for this winter's snow removal began early this year with preparation of the Department's $10 million annual winter maintenance budget.

By May, orders had been placed through the state's central purchasing agency for enough salt and calcium chloride to clear Michigan highways of anticipated normal snowfalls.

By September, salt had been trucked to state and county maintenance garages from bulk shipments delivered by lake freighter to storage yards in the lake ports of Hancock, Gladstone, Sault Ste. Marie, Traverse City, Alpena, Bay City and Benton Harbor.

Since last winter's snows melted, maintenance crews have been busy repairing road shoulders and eroded slopes, patching pavements, plugging pavement joints and performing a thousand and one other tasks to keep Michigan hughways smooth and safe.

Now with winter weather here, field service crews are adding muscle to their hustle to paint center lines and pavement markings on newly constructed highways, and to finish painting edge markings on all two-lane state highways. Other crews are spraying roadside traffic signs with clear lacquer to protect their reflective coatings and replacing signs swiss-cheesed by hunter's guns or gnawed into lace edges by hungry porcupines.

By the time the big freeze comes, most field crews will be re-assigned to district garages to act as back-up crews for snowplow drivers, to overhaul their own equipment and to help convert dump trucks to snowplows by attaching front-end plows and underbody scraper blades.

With the help of its own radio net work, which links maintenance vehicles on the highway with district and county garages, and the services of a commercial weather-forecasting service and hourly bulletins from the U.S. Weather Bureau, the Department is determined to meet every storm that sweeps across the state.

Local pair at meeting

At the 18th annual meeting of the Michigan Association for Retarded Children, Harold J. Bergum, Birmingham was elected president. Speaking to about 200 attending the one-day meeting, Bergum urged members to take an active role in establishing programs for the adult retarded. He said progress for Michigan retarded up to now has been largely the result of public interest in the plight of children.

"We are now faced with the far more difficult task of helping to create a climate for the adult retarded of Michigan as it now exists for retarded children. We will have wasted the money of Michigan taxpayers if community interest ends when retarded children grow up," Bergum declared.

In unprecedented action, the state association unanimously adopted a resolution calling for action by the governor to separate responsibility for the mentally retarded from the State Department of Mental Health and establish a separate division of mental retardation. According to Bergum, the action was based on a shift of emphasis in recent years from institutionalization of the retarded to community-based programs. He said study by the MARC indicates that states where mental retardation has been the sole responsibility of a division created for this purpose, have shown notable progress. The State Department of Mental Health is also responsible for programs for the mentally ill.

Elected as vice president of the state organization is Lee H. McNally, Detroit. Secretary is Mrs. Ann Zuzich, Royal Oak. Treasurer is Robert Beauchamp, Detroit.

Attending the meeting from this area were: Robert O. Bergmann, delegate to state annual meeting from G.A.R.C. and Lillian F. Bergmann, director of G.A.R.C. workshop program.

Seal campaign is underway

Michigan's 1969 Christmas Seal campaign began last week with the mailing of over 4,450,000 sheets of colorful Christmas Seals to homes and businesses thoughout the state. Charlevoix residents, for the most part, have received their seals.

"Included with the Christmas Seals is our appeal to Michigan citizens for a contribution that would provide funds necessary to support programs of the tuberculosis and respiratory disease assocations;" said Winthrop N. Davey, M.D., Ann Arbor, president of the Michigan Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, state Christmas Seal agency. "Contributions to the campaign enable us to continue important programs in education, service and research beneficial to the health of all people in Michigan."

Davey stressed the fact that tuberculosis is still very much with us. He said an average of 42 persons a week are found to have tuberculosis. Also, about one person in eight harbors TB germs without being aware of it. This approximates over one million persons in Michigan. Many cases of advanced tuberculosis are still being found in spite of efforts on behalf of TB-RD associations and health departments to detect TB in the early stages. In Michigan, during 1968, 2,618 new cases of tuberculosis were found. Also, during 1968, TB claimed the lives of 262 victims.

"TB need not be the scourge that it once was," said Dr. Davey. "Today, TB can be prevented through the use of drug treatment. Through the use of the drug, isoniazid, persons exposed to TB or found to have been infected with TB germs, can be placed on drug treatment to prevent their breaking down with active TB."

Dr. Davey also cited the need of Christmas Seal funds in the fight against emphysema, chronic bronchitis, asthma and other diseases and their major causative factors, cigarette smoking and air pollution. Emphysema deaths, alone, have risen sharply over the past several years. In, 1968, emphysema claimed the lives of 1,134 persons in Michigan.

Christmas Seal contributions support breathing exercise classes for adults with emphysema, chronic bronchitis and other respiratory ailments; special exercise classes for children with asthma; a state-wide public alert about the symptoms of respiratory disease; the purchase of pulmonary equipment for hospitals; smoking education information for schools; smoking withdrawal clinics; seminars for professional persons about respiratory diseases; a state-wide ninth grade tuberculin skin testing program; research at Michigan's leading universities and much more.

Dr. Davey, who is professor of internal medicine and chief of the medical chest section of the University Hospital, Ann Arbor, urges all Charlevoixans to answer the appeal letter early with a generous contribution and to use the colorful Christmas Seals on all their holiday mail.

St. Mary Rated Near Top of Ski Valley League

BY JAY SODERBERG

The Ski Valley League prepares for its second season in the coming weeks, and the biggest question lies in who will replace Suttons Bay as the league champ.

The Bays won the league title on the strength of all-stater Craig Bahle with an 8-2 mark, and went to 18-2 before being bumped in regional play.

It is the feeling of most coaches in the league that Ellsworth has the best shot at winning this year.

Last year, Ellsworth finished up in second place. Some feel that Bellaire or St. Mary have enough power to win the crown.

ELLSWORTH

The Lancers have a new coach in Dick Strong, but with the return of Denny "Hud" Drenth, watch out. Drenth, the all-everything junior, topped the league in scoring last year as a sophomore, hitting for a 21.8 average.

Missing are several teammates, including cousin Stan, and Ron Boss, who chipped in for a 17.8 average.

What makes this team so good? Four boys over the six foot mark will all be starters this season, including 6-4 Joel Donaldson. Donaldson was the leading rebounder in conference play last year. Two others very much respected are Jim Jansen and Steve Chellis.

Vying for the remaining first team berth will be a number of boys up from the JV squad.

GAYLORD ST. MARY

The Snowbirds failed to break the .500 mark last year for the first time in several years but were, indeed, the victims of injuries. New head coach Irv Dieterle inherits a team that could lead the school to its first conference title ever.

While John Peterson, Bill Koronka, Bill Lewandowski and John Holewinski were graduated, the nucleus of four returning starters will keep the Snowbirds alive.

The biggest bet to make the team spark is 6-1 Craig DeCorte. DeCorte averaged better than 20 ppg. last year, made the all-conference squad and honorable mention all-state. He is within reach of breaking the all-time Snowbird scoring record this year.

Along with DeCorte will come Bill Peterson, an exceptional sharpshooter, and Steve Szocinski. The big man will be 6-6 Rick Holewinski, Another Holewinski, Al, along with two Cherwinskis, Jerry and Brian, and Paul Daunt could also help the cause.

BELLAIRE

Ed Stoneburner hopes to keep the "barn burning" this year despite the fact he lost four valuable players from last years squad that finished in the cellar. Their biggest blow comes from the loss of Denny Polzin. Polzin averaged 20.6 points a game last year, finishing third in league scoring.

The team will be paced this season seven boys that all top the six-foot mark. Perhaps the best bet will be Brian Larson and Ron Klintworth. Also back is Don Murden (12.4), 8-2 transfer Dave Sprik and 6-4 Byron Blasdell. Others expected to battle for starting positions are Glen Trochelman and Kurt Mills.

Up for his first try at varsity action will be Tim Fischer who averaged better than 17 ppg. last year as a JV player. One other boy up from the JV's is Mike Sennett, and he is also a good shooter.

INLAND LAKES

Arnie Shellenbarger is the third of four new coaches in the conference this year, and he will have a tough job in trying to lift the Bulldogs from their 10-7 over-all mark of last season. Gone are high-scoring Rocky Freed along with Walt Ellis, Tom Rodgers and Terry Ream.

Built around the nucleus of Roger Waldron and Kent Maybank, the Bulldogs should be able to hold down at least fourth place in the conference.

Other good prospects include John Hanel, Arnold Ostrander, Mark Freed, and Rodney Waldron. Several players up from last year's JV team should be considered likely starters. They include Dave Hackleberg and Allen Maves.

SUTTONS BAY

Al Eckerle takes over the reigns of the Norsemen only to find that most of the team graduated last year and chances slim for a repeat of the conference title. Gone are all-stater Craig Bahle, along with four other starters in Jim Hawley, Al Mebert, Jim Lawson and Curt Raftshol. That in itself will shock any new coach to the school system.

However, there are a few bright lights in the system. Lanky Rich Bahle, at 6-4, returns for his senior year and could have a great season. Others include Gary Swenson, Ron Mawby, Ray Collins, and Jerry Knudson. Russ Snook, a sophomore, was one of the top scorers in the JV league last season, and be could help spark the team with his good shooting.

CENTRAL LAKE

Coach Ron Fencil is one of the two veteran coaches returning this year in the league, and his squad was almost depleted either from graduation losses or through elgibility rules. Of them, Ralph Payton, a 20 ppg. man, was perhaps the most valuable.

According to the coach, Clyde Payton, Rick Murray, Roger Lisk, and Al Blackwell will not play for the Trojans this year either.

So back to brace the team are Larry Eckhardt (12 ppg.) Don Mathews, Mike Donner and John Oliver. Several key men up from last seasons JV team are Fella Bothwell, Dave Hebden and John Dingman.

LOCAL

Weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Swenson were her son, Stuart Brock, of Silver Springs, Md., and her daughters, Mrs. Jack Harris of Owosso and Mrs. Winston Scheidt of Dun Eden, Fla. It marked the first time in 27 years that the three were here at one time.

Mrs. Ira Olney accompanied Mrs. Dora Frank of East Jordan to Tampa, Fla., where they will spend the winter at the former's trailer.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Madill of Calgary, Alberta, are spending some time here while visiting his aunt, Miss Mayme Orlowski and cousin, Mrs. C.D. Geiken.

IN THE OPEN

BY LEE SMITS

Now for a spot check, a rough trial balance of Michigan's natural resources, a survey report, based on a car trip, Detroit to Munising, and a week of wandering in the Upper Peninsula, with the interests of sportsmen in mind.

We saw very few deer, alive or dead, along the way. Question-are deer learning to avoid highway peril? It could be. Scientists have not told us very much about communication among animals. Does a fish that has survived the pain of a hook in its jaw let other fish know about man, the predator, and his wiles?

As the car rolled along through wooded country, it was possible to read the history of Michigan's deer herd. Hardwood brush – maple mostly – was heavily browsed. Cedar swamps showed the browse-line where hungry deer in winter had cropped as high as they could reach. Big cedar was harvested during the era of pine logging and abundant second-growth was a prime factor in the buildup of Michigan's deer population. Hardwood cutting and second-growth provided another kind of winter food. As deer leave their winter yards they crave tender twigs of hardwood.

Probably there are more deer in northern Michigan now than when the first settlers arrived. The Upper Peninsula had caribou. There were caribou in Michigan – on Isle Royale in Lake Superior, in the present century.

Moose were never abundant in Michigan. Moose prefer a certain combination of water and woods. Forty years ago 70 moose were transported from Isle Royale, where there had been a heavy starvation die-off, and were released in the central part of the Upper Peninsula. Moose were sighted at times for a few years, then disappeared. Originally the moose had drifted westward from Canada along the north shore of Lake Superior before crossing to the big island. We followed a moose track for 10 miles on an old road a year of so after the planting. The tracks were straight east, as though the moose was returning to Ontario.

Recently we found the tracks of a moose and calf in Alger County. It is not usual to find moose sign along the St. Mary's River, opposite the Canadian shore.

What else on a spot check expedition? Not too many grouse, but a lifetime of grouse watching has revealed that grouse may be absent from good habitat yet be abundant a mile away where there is an ample food supply.

Bear? Michigan has more black bear now than it had 50 years ago. There was a time when bear were the villains, killed, trapped, persecuted the year around. Bear earned the hostility of early settlers, not merely because on occasion they did prey on live stock, but also because a dead critter of any kind attracted bears from far and wide. A mauled carcass was deadly evidence of bear guilt.

At a lunch room on Highway 2 we could see a group of rental cabins, half a mile down the road. A sizeable bear was exploring the premises, in broad daylight. That bear had caught the scent of food – and was prepared to rip a cabin apart to get to a tidbit.

The most exciting event of our expedition was a brief stop at the Seney Wildfowl Refuge where we parked with more than 100 Canada geese surrounding the car. These are giant Canadas, a race or species that was considered extinct until recently. These geese average twice the weight of common Canadas. They breed on the refuge, in spite of the depredation of raccoon, Michigan's most destructive predator. A gander guarding his mate on the nest is a formidable fighter. But raccoon are smart, and by team work, they succeed in enticing the parent geese away from the nest so that the raccoon can pounce on eggs of fledglings.

Half a century ago ravens were rare in Michigan. Now they are fairly abundant, and it could be that highway-killed deer provide a food supply that enables ravens to flourish and increase.

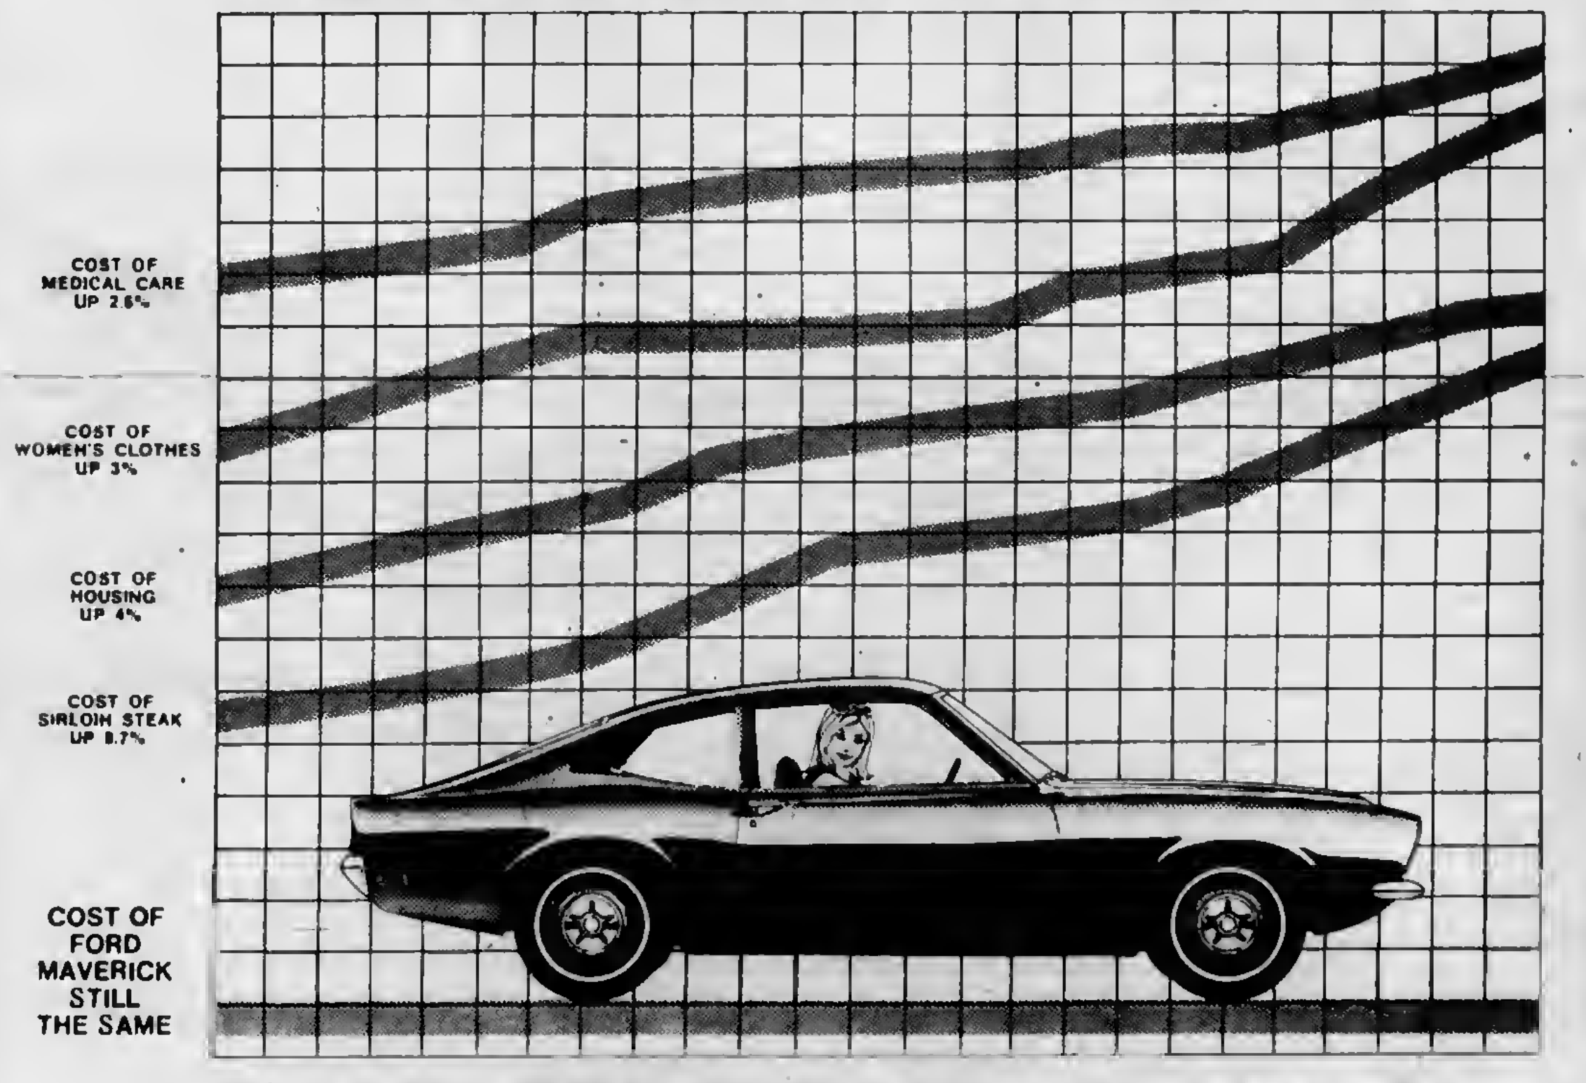
Look what's happened since Maverick was introduced in April.



COST OF MEDICAL CARE UP 2.6%
COST OF WOMEN'S CLOTHES UP 3%
COST OF HOUSING UP 4%
COST OF SIRLOIN STEAK UP 8.7%
COST OF FORD MAVERICK STILL THE SAME

Your Ford Dealer's holding the price line.
Maverick. Still $1995*

When it comes to prices, you know what's going on. And what's going up. But there's one thing still going straight. Maverick. It holds the line. And its small price makes it America's biggest car value. Here are the facts about our Simple Machine.

It's simple to drive. You get the passing power of a 105-hp Six. Great gas mileage too.

It's simple to park. Maverick can turn in a tighter circle than the leading import.

It's simple to service. Maverick is easier and less expensive to maintain than an economy import. It needs fewer oil changes, fewer chassis lubrications.

It's simple to repair. You can do many routine maintenance jobs yourself.

It's simple to own. Maverick saves you money when you buy it. And when you drive it. That's the reason our small car is going over big.

Maverick lets you stop worrying about rising costs. Come see the Simple Machine at your Ford Dealer's now.

For more information about Maverick see your Ford Dealer or write: Maverick Catalog, Dept. N-4, P.O. Box 1503, Dearborn, Michigan 48121.

*Ford's suggested retail price for the car. White sidewall tires are not included; they are $30.00 extra. Since dealer preparation charges (if any), transportation charges and state and local taxes vary, they are not included, nor is extra equipment that is specially required by state laws.

Baby food...and beer trucks

(Ed. note: Don LaBerteaux is widely known for his skills as an essayist. In the following disertation, LaBerteaux offers his commeots for publication for the first time in Northern Michigan. His expertise is taken for granted by experts in the fields of socio-economics and refuse disposal.)

DESERTATION ON MONOSODIUM
GLUTAMATE
BY DON LABERTEAUX

According to the news media, we once again find ourselves in the middle of another health controversy. The two latest targets are cyclemates and Monosodium Glutamate, MSG. In other words anything with an artificial sweetners in it and babyfoods. Although babyfoods are not the only product which contains MSG, it is the one that has caused the most attention. I can just visualize in the not too distant future, of picking up a jar of babyfood and finding, "Warning, the contents of this jar may be hazardous to your health," printed on the label.

The only thing that this proves to me is that those well meaning watchdogs of our society are hard at work. Though I am not sure if they are trying to protect me from some unknown danger, or just trying to make a name for themselves. I understand that the field of after dinner speakers is quite lucractive these days, and they make good fillers for newspapers and magazines.

These people can be found everywhere; from food processing and automobile manufacturing and through all levels of government. White I think it would be wrong to silence them, I do think that you have to take what they say with a grain of salt.

As far as I am concerned these are the same type of people that back in history said that tomatoes were poison, and that have been telling us since Cain slue Abel that the world was going to the dogs.

Thinking back I am sure that some of the same people that are involved in the latest controversy, were involved in the, "Great Cranberry Crash of 1959". In fact, it was about the same season of the year. However, it hurt the cranberry farmer far more than it could possibly hurt the babyfood maker. In 1959 the cranberry farmer was just entering his peak season when we were told not to eat cranberries, as the spray used on them caused cancer. All the housewives were just beginning to wonder how they would be able to get those red stains into their best white tablecoths without cranberries. However G. Mennen Williams, then governor of Michigan, came up with a equally staining substitute, cherry sauce. You could tell he was out to get votes among the Michigan cherry farmers. I wonder to this day if the whole thing wasn't dreamed up by some cherry growers association in order to peddle their surplus cherries. Even though I find cherry sauce delicious, being a traditionlist, I still ate cranberries. Besides have you ever tried to make a Scarlet O'Hara with cherry juice?

At the same time we were told that a host of other items were injurious to our health. The list included; milk from paper milk cartons (paper milk cartons being the villain), black jellybeans, and lip stick. The biggest reaction as far as the lipstick was concerned was there was a sudden drop in the number of cases of infectious mononucleosis, kissing disease.

It seems to me that someone, somewhere has an ax to grin with the cranberry farmer, producer of paper milk cartons, makers of black jellybeans, or babyfoods. In the case of black jellybeans, however, I must admit I agree. There are far too many black ones in a bag and not enough red or orange.

The controversy over MSG got so big so fast that the three leading manufacturers of babyfood announced, they were excluding it from their products. They did this not because they thought it was dangerous, but because of the aroused public. Not because they were thinking of the welfare of the children, or of the nation so much as the welfare of their profit and loss statement.

It was reported that labortory animals being fed a diet containing large amounts of monosodium glutamate suffered brain damage.

Gerber announced, when they removed it from their babyfood, they had been using it for the past 18 years to improve its flavor, as that is about all it's good for anyway. As far as I am concerned, anyone that can do anything to improve the flavor of babyfood, and get my children to eat it should win the Nobel Peace Prize.

You don't have to be a mathematical genius to come to the conclusion a hell of a lot of babies have been raised eating babyfood which contains MSG, and it didn't seem to affect their brains.

I think this whole thing is very un-American. The Chinese use large amounts of MSG in their food, and now the news is out, I expect Chairman Nao to accuse the United States of chemical warfare.

Let us assume these people are right. You use a lot of monosodium glutamate in your diet. You get to feeling poorly so you go to your family physician. He tells you, that you have a terminal brain illness from eating so much MSG, and give you a year to live. One month before you are to die from this disease, you are crossing a street and a fast moving beer truck runs over you. Now, as far as most people know you meet your untimely demise in a truck pedestrian accident, thats what the death certificate says. No one, but no one, considers that within a month you would have been dead anyway. You become one of those many statistics in the police records, because of you, people are told to drive more carefully. The WCTU come out with a statement saying you would be alive today if we still had probition, and helps them prove their evils of alcohol.

The moral, if any of this desertation is, why give up eating something you enjoy to get hit and killed by a beer truck? Or, watch where you are walking as I don't want the 18th amendement to be renacted.

Slush is about all that remains from first storm of the winter last week. Light snow has fallen on several days since, with accumulation of approximately two more inches, bringing Charlevoix total to 16 or 17 inches so far this fall.

Club meets Dec. 8

The next regular meeting of the Charlevoix Woman's Club will be a Christmas program on December 8 at 1:30 at the First State Bank Community Room. This is a postponement of one week from the date shown in the Club yearbooks. The change was necessary in order to obtain the "Holiday Hostess" program prepared by the Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. The Arts and Crafts Group is in charge of Christmas program arrangements.

The Arts and Crafts Group will have a workshop meeting at 9:30 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Paul Santek 110 Oak Street, on Monday, December 1.

The Music Groups will meet at 8 p.m., December 1, at the home of Mrs. Robert Tollas, 203 E. Dixon. This was previously announced as an afternoon meeting, so please note the time change. All singers are urged to come, to rehearse number for the Christmas program.

The Altar Society of St. Mary's Church will meet on December 1, at eight o'clock in the evening at the home of Mrs. Frank Schuch on Meadowland. There will be a Christmas party, but no potluck supper. Members are reminded to bring their gifts of clothing and toys for the children at the Holy Childhood School in Harbor Springs.

Snowshoe hare full of mystery

One Michigan creature that can afford to be completely free of concern about his color is the snowshoe hare, points out Dr. William Prychodko, of Wayne State University's biology department.

The Creator made Sammy Snowshoe both dark and light alternately, and it suits his needs perfectly. The white he wears in winter and the brown he puts on in summer both protect him from his enemies.

Although thousands of these hares are killed each year in Michigan some of them in Charlevoix County, surprisingly little is known of the life and habits of this sly, secretive animal whose big white winter feet gave him his common name, says the Wayne mammalogist.

As in the case of several other northern mammals, the hair covering the body of this animal is longer in winter than in summer. Thus his foot covering is not only different in color but in size.

Snowshoes, like western "jack rabbits," are true hares. They differ from rabbits in building no nests to receive their litters of young, points out Dr. Prychodko. Their youngsters are born fully furred with their eyes open. Soon they are able to move about. The average snowshoe litter is three, much smaller than the average cottontail litter of blind and naked babies.

The snowshoe is found in fair abundance throughout the upper two-thirds of the State. Unlike the cottontail rabbit, which prefers bushy fence rows, abandoned fields and other farm-type cover, the snowshoe prefers dense conifer swamps and thickets. Often he ranges the same area as the white tailed deer.

Recently conservation officials began bringing him into certain areas of the Southern Lower Peninsula where they felt the habitat was suitable for his survival. In 1966 transplanting efforts brought 49 Sammy and Susie Snowshoes into the Gratiot-Saginaw State Game Area where rabbits are protected from hunters. Twenty-nine snowshoes were brought to the same area last winter. It appears their offspring are having no serious problems in adjusting.

Still unexplained are the snowshoes' periodic cycles of abundance and scarcity. The number of them shot by hunters has ranged from 356,000 in 1964 to a recent low of 192,000 in 1967. Generally speaking, the hunting season for snowshoe dovetails with small game seasons to various areas of the State.

Kircher looks to future

One would think with such an impressive track record of significant ski area achievements a sense of satisfaction of accomplishment is reached. Not so with visionary Everett Kircher, Boyne Country owner / operator, "We have been woefully lacking in providing proper and expected facilities to encompass the all-environmental needs of our increasingly recreation / investment-minded public," he intoned and pointed out, "consider that one-third of our nation's population is within a maximum of 8-hours driving distance to Boyne Country which includes Mid-America's prime ski resorts of Boyne Mountain, Boyne Highlands, Walloon Hills and Thunder Mountain.

Even the most naive city-dweller, whose idea of communicating with nature is staying at the Astoria without room service, is aware of the overwhelming need for providing the best recreation possible in it's natural, God-given setting. We owe this at least to our offspring."

"Skiing used to be a brown bag and pot-bellied stove sport," remembers Boyne Country's General Director Moll, "but today it's luxury hotels and gourmet foods. I can remember when we would hang a sign on the door and go skiing without missing any trade. We would see all the customers we had right out there on the hill."

Moll warned, "It would take an initial investment in time of 10 years to open a ski complex well enough equipped to be competitive. Then you better be ready to pour a lot of money into promotion and have the backing to ride out some bad weather years," he says. "If not–forget it!"

Boyne Country is also a case study in why resort operators must broaden their horizons beyond skiing if they hope to enjoy maximum success.

Skiing is only half the story at Boyne Country. What began as a playground for skiers is not a year-round resort with golf courses, swimming pools, horseback riding, boating and complete convention facilities.

At present, Boyne Country's annual sales are divided 60-40 between winter and summer business. Kircher looks for the day when that ratio will be reversed.

"Ski business is fine but it can't support itself in this style and it's still not enough to meet the demand," says Kircher indicating the two plush lodges and seven chair lifts at Boyne Mountain. "You can't pay for this kind of facilities or keep the people necessary to run them with a four-month operation."

Acting on that belief, Kircher has pushed hard to make his facilities attractive to non-skiing trade-particularly conventions.

Companies and organizations looking for a meeting place to mix business with relaxation find everything they need in Boyne Country.

Sleeping accommodations for about 750 people are currently available by utilizing the lodges at both the Mountain and the Highlands. The latter–built with convention trade in mind–has 24,000 square feet of meeting and display space.

Kircher eventually wants to be able to handle a convention of 1,000 people at either location, and he is building in that director.

Part of his condominiums in Boyne Country plan is a unique use of the condominium concept.

Thanksgiving 1969

With the coming of Thanksgiving this week, the happiest time of the year is upon us again.

It seems like only a few weeks ago that Thanksgiving 1968 rolled around, followed by Christmas, New Year, sunny days on the beach and the beginning of school.

And, now here it is again! And, with it, we are tempted to sit back for a few minutes and reflect on the months since last Thanksgiving.

We are thankful...no doubt about it. So are many others...among them our daughter, who is thankful for all Charlevoix's snow. Compared to what she saw in Pennsylvania, this is a child-snowman-builder's dream.

Wives are thankful that the football season is half over, and soon their husbands will return to them from all-day binges in front of the TV.

Red Rayder fans are thankful for the outstanding season in football.

And we are thankful that you, our subscribers, continue to increase in numbers.

After all, we couldn't express our wishes for your contentment and a field of plenty if you didn't read your hometown paper each week.

Latest efforts on highways

Highway fatalities seem to increase every year. At latest count, five persons lost their lives this year through accidents in Charlevoix County.

There are more cars on our roads than ever before....and the end isn't in sight.

State and local officials enforce traffic laws more strictly, yet the toll keeps climbing. What follows is an examination of the latest efforts by officials to curb the fatality rate.

LICENSE CRACKDOWN! The Michigan State Police are combining their old legal authority to stop motorists on the highway with their random vehicle-operator check lane program in a new attack on motorists driving on suspended or revoked licenses. And it appears to be working! Previously, the police check lane teams stopped only as many cars as could be handled quickly without causing traffic jams or undue driver delays. Now, as many cars as can be handled without a traffic pileup are stopped for a driver license check, and a portion of these are waved into the check lane for a vehicle inspection. The Police report 85 drivers were caught in September and October with invalid licenses, compared to 36 in July and August, before the new drive started. The comparison may be even more dramatic in the future because a couple of police districts had started the license check in the summer and several districts lacked sufficient manpower to get under way in the fall. Last July at a State Safety Commission meeting, Col. Fredrick A. Davids, State Police Director, said he was disgusted with the number of motorists driving with invalid licenses and was going to do something about it. The Michigan plan thus is a variation of the roving blockades used in some states for years to catch scofflaws.

YOUNG DRIVERS CHEATED? Dr. Robert W. Nolan, assistant director of the Michigan State University Highway Traffic Safety Center and a leading authority on driver education, told a recent conference that Michigan 'teen-agers are being cheated--and their lives endangered--by the growing trend toward short summer session driver education courses. Nolan said Michigan public schools are being paid by the state at the same rate for three-week summer courses as they are for the semester courses which once were in the majority. But, he said, youngsters can't obtain the proper training in such a short period. He said about 70 percent of youngsters now are being taught in the summer periods.

THE MERGER TREND. Three old-line national traffic safety organizations---the National Highway Users Conference, the Automotive Safety Foundation and the Auto Industries Highway Safety Committee—have completed agreements to merge next January into the Highway Users Federation of Safety and Mobility. Initial financial support will come from some 600 industries, businesses and highway user organizations now funding the three groups. The organization will continue to be based in Washington. The headquarters and field staffs will be combined.

Recipe of a non-cook

BY BOB MYERS

Our family's favorite sandwich recipe came 20 years ago from the late Harold Tuttle. Tut had a grocery store where the Gamble store is now located and later worked at Haug's. He was a cheese fancier and used to buy whole cheddars and age them in the basement of his store.

But to get back to the sandwich: Dice (or crumble) aged cheddar and mix with onions, green pepper and salad dressing. It's a hearty sandwich with snap to it.

An idea for salad dressing comes from Harold Boudreau, a Frenchman from Detroit whom I met while sailing last summer. He adds horseradish to Four Seasons or other prepared dressings, claiming that it's the main ingredient lacking most American dressings.

For a chip dip, or with crackers for a dessert, be creams bleu cheese, horseradish and worcestershire sauce.

Another sailor told me that to reduce the fish taste of fish, they should be marinated in lemon juice for an hour before cooking. My wife dips fish in potato flakes before frying. They give a better color than flour. She got the idea from the Jack Trumans, of Dryden, several years ago.

Another sailing friend from Detroit, Wayne Soucey, mixes pepper and flour and salt ~~and~~ kneads it into the fish before cooking. He spends several minutes working the mix into the fish, rather than simply dipping or rolling the fish in it. He uses the coarse pepper, and lots of it.

A Canadian friend improves canned pea soup with boullion cubes. Our family tried it and liked it.

Along that line, anyone but a hopeless optimist knows that what a can of pork and beans needs is more pork. So fry some bacon, dump it on the beans and someone is going to compliment the chef.

If it says chicken soup on the label, you can guess that chicken is needed. Soup chickens sell for 5 cents a pound and in my will I intend to leave the Campbell Company $5. That should enable them to double the chicken content of their soup for the next 10 years. In the meantime, root around and find a can of boneless chicken or turkey. It will do wonders for insipid soup.

There are many variations on this theme. My French friend adds sherry or rum to canned bean soup, canned stew and even stewed prunes.

And do you hunger for a baked potato while camping without an oven? Just boil 'em in oil. That's better than baking in foil, which leaves them soggy.

Too beat to begat?

At first, when Spiro Agnew said I belonged to "an effete corps of impudent snobs," I didn't know whether to be mad or glad.

I have always wanted to belong to a corps. The word has a glorious ring to it as opposed to corp, which jingle jangles, or corpse, which just kind of lays there and does nothing for me, or crops, which depend too much on the weather.

But corps conjures up visions of Marines landing and drums and bugles playing. Patriotic. I'll bet Agnew himself belongs to several corps (the plural is spelled same as the singular, otherwise the members might feel like maggots. We intellectuals know all this kind of stuff). And it was nice to have the Vice President of the United States put me in a corps.

The impudent snob business sounded ok, too.

To be impudent means to be bold. There's a TV show called "The Bold Ones" and the ones are all fearless heroes who unselfishly catch crooks, distribute justice and frighten germs, all for the good of mankind. Which is good enough for me.

As for a snob, I've always wanted to be one. A snob is a guy on top who looks down on the jerks below. My trouble has always been that there was no one down there. To see anyone at all, I had to look up, which is tougher on the neck and the pride. But this boost from Agnew, putting me up where I belong, restores my self esteem. After all, for a man to give you a boost, he's gotta be below you.

Which brings us to effete. Words are my business, so it is embarrassing to admit, but I didn't know what the heck that meant. So I reached for the dictionary which said effete means: "that has brought forth offspring, exhausted; no longer capable of producing; worn out, exhausted, spent and sterile."

Is the vice president saying our corps of impudent snobs is too pooped to procreate? Too beat to begat?

If he is right, I'm suddenly not feeling so impudent.

But he is wrong and I hereby request to be drummed out of the corps, I may be a grandfather, and I may look more than I leap, but still, the Vice President has no right to slur my manhood. Where does he get his information? Has J. Edgar been bugging bedrooms?

In fact, that was a pretty censorable thing for our No. 2 leader to be saying in public. The movie people would rate that speech "R" and Spiro's own 14-year-old daughter couldn't listen to it. She'd be better off at a nice clean peace rally if she could escape her dungeon and swim the moat.

I hate to be impudent, but it's better than impotent.

Onward and Upward.

ON THE 'FLIP' SIDE

What is next?! A friend of ours passed along the following story which could herald a future trend in our area.

There is an old adage that dog is man's best friend. When you count the number of veterinary hospitals in the area it is obvious that man's best friend is a part of a substantial number of households.

But if dog is man's best friend, animal owners through the years have shown rather shallow feelings when their pet needed them the most. In the past, when an animal had a serious illness it was the tendency to help him avoid his pain and suffering by putting him to sleep.

Fortunately, things are changing.

Where veterinarians have been looked upon primarily for giving shots, boarding, bathing and grooming, the profession is coming of age, with the younger breed of veterinarians specializing in specific medical problems of animals.

Recently a very famous quarterhorse in Texas developed cataracts. His ability to perform at rodeos was severely limited because the vision in one eye was seriously impaired. An animal opthalmologist in Indiana removed the cataracts and now the horse is as good as new on the redeo circuit.

There are now veterinarians who have become involved in serious research in the areas of kidney transplants and even yeart surgery for animals. As those specialists perfect their research the lives of animals will be extended and the grief and suffering of a family from the premature loss of a favorite pet will be lessened.

It is many's hope that sometime in the not too far distant future of true animal hospital will be built, similar to a human hospital, where the specialists can gather in one central place — and the practice of putting pets to sleep will be a thing of the past, because their illnesses can be diagnosed and treated by specialists.

This, of course, will not put the general practitioner out of business, just as the general medical practitioner for human beings continues to be the first line of defense. The specialists will not be involved in less serious illnesses or the ordinary care and boarding of pets.

We have seen medical science make great strides in areas that seem to affect most of us very little, so it is reassuring to dog and cat lovers that progress is being made in an area so close to home for so many of us.

Vaccination clinic set

Local county officials are again arranging with Dr. Jehle, veterinarian at Gaylord, for an Antrim County Rabies Vaccination clinic.

This program is scheduled for December 6 and will be carried out at the sherriff's garage in Bellaire. Dr. Jehle advised that he will be on hand, beginning at noon, to administer rabies shots to dogs and cats during the afternoon. Dr. Jehle will be using a recently recognized two-year vaccine for this program. Vaccination certificates are necessary to purchase dog licenses.

A slight increase in fee for this vaccination is anticipated.

Community Chest meet

The annual meeting of the Charlevoix Community Chest will be held December 8, at 8:15 p.m. in the Jury Room of the County Building. At this time three directors will be elected to succeed retiring directors Mrs. James Williams, Thomas G. La Blance and Robert Clock. Any person contributing or participating in the Community Chest drive is invited to attend this meeting. Nominations may be made from the floor.

Annual Community Chest reports will be made at this time also.

Anyone desiring additional information concerning the annual meeting may contact Mrs. Don J. Anders, executive secretary.

Mrs. Anders reported an additional $185 received in contributions this past week, bringing the total above the goal of $17,914 to $826.

Thanksgiving '69

thongs to make an anchorage for the hanging iron cook-pot. A stonerimmed wood fire on the ground completed the Pilgrim's first Thanksgiving kitchen.

The spirit of Thanksgiving was strong in their hearts. Although many of the foods to which they had been accustomed in the Old World were lacking in the New they cooked the pumpkin, the corn, the wild turkey, venison, sweet potatoes and wild cranberries the Indians had taught them to use.

So the Pilgrims gave thanks to the Almighty for their blessings although they had little of this world's goods in comparison to Today's plentitudes. As patriots it is our duty to follow in their established pattern in spite of our sufficiencies which at times seems to leave the Divine Providence of little concern in our lives.

The time has come to expose our enemies who labor to take from us all our forefathers brought into our national life stream. It would be wise for those who noisily demonstrate in the name of patriotism to recognize that those who formulate the demonstrations many have an entirely different purpose--to give aid to our enemies by showing them a divided America.

Recognizing the need for the dissemination of knowledge of the American way of life, a housewife, Mrs. T.J. Trogden, of Paris, Illinois, formulated a plan to invite foreign students in Chicago colleges into local homes for the Thanksgiving holiday. In a few short years, this has grown to extend across the length and breadth of the land. For anyone interested in entertaining one or more students of foreign extraction, write to Mrs. T.J. Trogden, Jr., 603 E. Court Street. Paris, Illinois 61944.

America can not return to the simplicity of the 17th century, but fortunately we can still join the long line of American patriots in a whole-hearted prayer to the God of our fathers for the multi-blessings both spiritual and material in our beloved country on this Thanksgiving 1969.

"Smart art", says this group of elementary schoolers who stop to admire several oils decorating the halls.

Art in community 'neat' say school youngsters

BY EDITH GILBERT

What do folks around Charlevoix think of the new paintings and sculpture that are sprouting up all over town?

"It's neat!" says Buffy Hess, age 13, when questioned about the new abstract sculptures located in the courtyard of the Senior High School.

These stone figures are part of another recent gift donated to the Friends of the Library by Nathan Cummings, Charlevoix summer resident and a member of the Business Committee of the Arts, whose national chairman is C. Douglas Dillon, former ambassador and Secretary of the Treasury.

Dillon urges businessmen to view the arts as "essential funtions--as means AND ends--of corporate involvement with the life of the community."

Seems like Tom Duke, Chairman of the Board of the First State Bank of Charlevoix, agrees because two original oil paintings by Paul Collins of Grand Rapids and purchased at the Charlevoix Waterfront Fair last summer are now hanging in our local bank.

"Many people come in the bank just to see the paintings," reports Jerry Redeker, President.

But, Cummings admitted, there are obstacles to alliances between business and the arts. "A communications gap has often

Local Farm Bureau plans Jan. membership drive

Plans have been completed for the annual Farm Bureau membership campaign set for the week of January 5, according to Wayne Saunders, Charlevoix County Farm Bureau President.

In a recent board session, the farm organization confirmed the appointment of Bertha Parsons of Route 1, Charlevoix, as manager of the membership drive, announcing at the same time that volunteer workers would aim at a goal of 302 Farm Bureau member families in the county for 1970. This is the share of the more than 55,560 Michigan Farm Bureau Membership goal, Mrs. Parsons explained.

In outlining the importance of the campaign she mentioned some of the advantages of belonging to Farm Bureau, such as services to member program, seeds, feeds and fertilizers, petroleum, insurance, paying markets assured by sound approaches, and cooperation among producers, rural women working for betterment of home and community Foundations set on a firm belief in law and order, and consideration of the other man's rights, a voice in the legislature and the successful telephone grid, by which means news is spread to farmers throughout the state of any legislative action favorable or unfavorable to agriculture, so that they may contact their Legislators expressing their wishes on issues vital to them.

"Each year Farm members grow smaller and it becomes more important that those who remain become better organized", she said. "Farmers were the first to work cooperatively, but it appears of late some have forgotten this lesson."

Mrs. Parsons also added that most farmers are aware that unless they speak with a united voice--others will speak for them, and that the major task involved is the direct-personal invitation to every non-member farm home.

She pointed out that the Farm Bureau method of direct contact by neighbor volunteers is a major organization strength. A compulsory check off system she said, "Is one way to add names to a list, but it's not the way to add real strength to an organization."

Courier will publish kids' Yule drawings

Again this year, The Courier is for kids at Christmas time. We want them to send up their Yule drawings, their letters to Santa, and their photos.

The drawings must be on white, unruled paper in black pencil, pen or crayon. Only black. They should measure no more than 5 inches by 7 inches. The subject can be anything, anything at all, to do with Christmas as seen most brightly-though the eyes of a child.

With each drawing must be the child's name and age, also the name and address of the parents. We won't be able to print them all, but we'll do our best for the kids who do their best.

As usual, we will print all letters to Santa before sending them on to the North Pole. We will also print snapshot of the youngster, preferable taken while they were writing or drawing.

Now is not too early to start drawing, writing, posing and mailing.

Tom Hanna named to top city post

Thomas G. Hanna was named Charlevoix City Superintendent at a meeting of City Council a week ago Monday. Hanna is presently employed as an engineer at the Medusa Portland Cement Company.

Hanna will be succeeding James Taylor who is retiring after ten years as superintendent.

The appointment will be effective as of December 8.

Hanna, a native of Cleveland has a degree in civil engineering from Cleveland State University, He joined the Medusa company 8½ years ago and moved to Charlevoix to oversee the construction of the South Point plant. When the plant was completed in 1967, Hanna stayed on as engineer.

He was elected First Ward alderman, a position he will no longer hold with his new appointment.

He is a member of the Board of Directors for the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, a member of the First Congregational Church and a member of its Board of Trustees, and he has also served as Cub Scout committee chairman.

Hanna, his wife, Ann and their two children live at 707 East Dixon Avenue.

In other business, council was to designate a tract of city-owned land between Boulder Park and the Medusa Cement Plant as the sight of a new sewage disposal plant. The location of the present local sewage disposal plant is downtown, adjacent to the city docks.

Kiwanians to observe anniversary

Frank O. Staiger, Governor of the Michigan District of Kiwanis International will visit Charlevoix on December 9. The purpose of his visit is the 35th anniversary of the founding of the Kiwanis Club in Charlevoix. Governor Staiger took office the first of October and will serve until the end of September 1970. He is from Port Huron, where he has a record of 34 years of perfect attendance with the Port Huron club.

Staiger served as secretary-treasurer of the Michigan District from 1943 until his retirement in 1968. As one of the best known Kiwanians in the state, he was a natural to move into the highest office. Besides his Kiwanis work, Governor Staiger has been active in community affairs in Port Huron. He served two terms as mayor, was chairman of the city's charter revision committee and president of the school board for two terms.

He also has served as corps sergeant-major of the Port Huron Citadel of the Salvation Army. Staiger and his wife Leona have three married sons and ten grandchildren.

It was 35 years ago, what was thought to be a bottle of nitroglycerine nearly finished the Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix before it started, in fact one member was so perturbed that he didn't show up for three weeks. Oscar North, the clubs first president was illustrating the power of suggestion and had passed around a bottle of so called nitro glycerine (North was a chemistry teacher). When this bottle was dropped, by pre-arrangement, the late Clarence Meggison, exploded a blank cartridge under the table.

A considerable number dashed to the door in record time. However, the bottle turned out to be ordinary water, and ultimately 26 men became charter members, with one member, Harry Bingham, still active in the club. We might add that over the years, six Charlevoix Kiwanians have become Lt. Governors of the 20th division extending from Gaylord to Sault Ste. Marie.

The Charlevoix club was sponsored by the Petoskey club, making it the 55th club in Michigan. In 1939 Charlevoix hosted the Michigan district convention at the old Belvedere Hotel with sixty-five of the state's then sixty-six clubs the state's newest club had set a record. Each spring the Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts gather sap from the boundless maple trees within the city, from which the Kiwanians make their famous maple syrup.

The funds derived from the sale of the syrup are used for the club's youth projects. December 9 at the Argonne Supper Club in Charlevoix, Kiwanians and their Kiwaniqueens will gather to celebrate the club's thirty-fifth birthday anniversary.

Many dignitaries from all over the state will attend. The Governor of the Michigan District of Kiwanis International will be the featured speaker.

CHS wins debate

The Charlevoix High School Debate Team participated in their first conference meet at Traverse City recently. The debate topic for this year is: Congress Should Prohibit United States Unilateral Military Intervention In Foreign Countries.

Taking part for Charlevoix were Julie Supernaw and Christ Carey, affirmative, and David Hess and Linda Gill, negative. The winning team from Charlevoix was Julie Supernaw and Christ Carey. They edged out their opponents by two points with a score of 22-20. The negative team lost to the Traverse City affirmative team by the score of 27-39.

There are 15 debaters and each will have a chance to participate in a debate this year, but not all of them will be active in conference debates.

CofC meet on Sunday

Wally Loder, secretary-manager of the local Chamber of Commerce, reminds members that the annual dinner-meeting is scheduled for this Sunday at 4 p.m. in the Weathervane Inn.

"Members should plan to come early," Loder said, "so they have time for their favorite beverage and some chit-chat before dinner at 4 p.m."

Tickets are available at the Chamber office or from directors.

Steve Paterka, the city golf course greenskeeper, holds up the rope that was cut through by a snowmobiler who cut across the green. Paterka said that they are going to put up chicken wire and heavier stakes to try and keep the snowmobilers off the greens. He said that if this doesn't work, they will close the golf course to all snowmobilers. (Photo by Larry Edwards)

Garden Club members discuss winter mulching

Sixteen members of the Garden Club met November 11 with Mrs. Mildred Ochs and Mrs. Elsie Bennett serving as co-hostesses.

An interesting lesson was read by Mrs. Marjory Dinwiddie which had been prepared by Mrs. Carolyn Rader on the month for cleaning up the garden, such as cutting back plants, bulb care and winter mulching.

The popularity of mulching as a garden practice has increased greatly in recent years. Fruit growers, especially growers of apples and small fruits, use mulches extensively. Home gardeners more and more are learning to appreciate the value of mulches for flowers, vegetable and shrubbery, according to the report.

The greatest advantage of a mulch is the conserving of soil moisture.

The second advantage is the control of weeds, particularly annual weeds.

And frost penetration under a mulch is much less than where the ground is bare.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Edith Stenman at 1:30 p.m., Tuesday, December 9, for a Christmas program.

Library Notes

New specialty books will be discussed this week. They are especially recommended for study groups and for those patrons who have varied interest and enjoy reading about beautiful things.

"Oriental Rugs in Colour" by Preden Liebetrau is a small volume with lovely colored illustrations. It is a practical guide to oriental rugs generally found today. It describes their history, colour, patterns and symbolism, and gives sound advice on the purchase and care of rugs. In addition to the 65 color prints, there are many black and white drawings as well as maps of the chief rug area. The author is head of the rug department at Magasin du Nord, the famous Copenhagen store.

"Oriental Rugs and Carpets" by Stanley Reed is another important book for anyone who may wish to trace the history of a family heirloom. The author traces the development of the Oriental rug from its beginning in the 13th century up to the present day—covering a wide area from China to Spain. One chapter is devoted to prayer rugs and includes discusson of methods of dating these rugs and identifying their place of origin. There are 24 pages of color prints and about 100 illustrations.

"Art is to Enjoy" by Donald Walton is a delightful, easy-to-read book for those who would like to become more knowledgeable about fine art. It is a basic primer for people of all ages which starts right at the beginning and explains every step toward true art enjoyment in lively, interesting style. How much is a painting worth. This book answers the question with some fabulous examples and some advice from actor and renowned art collector, Vincent Price.

"Walls" by David Van Dommelen is a short text with over a hundred illustrations told from a point of view that is both practical and artistic. The author feels that walls should not be taken for granted. Man has always needed walls, and Mr. Van Dommelen offers new insights as he examines the wealth of history and meaning that lies within this essential simple and utterly necessary structure–the wall.

"A garland of Weights" is a beautifully illustrated history of and guide to collecting paper weights; specifically the paperweights fashioned by the craftsmen of the great French glass works. There is also a chapter on fakes, dealers, and prices. It is a particularly handsome volume and the edition was limited to one thousand copies.

"American Cut Glass" is a large, well-illustrated book for the discriminating collector. It is authentic and informative, guiding the collector in the selection of what is worthwhile from the matter patterns--good, inferior, or indifferent, that are now on the market. One of the most valuable features of the book is the fact that most of the better cut glass patterns can be identified and related to the basic patterns pictured. It is a book to read for pleasure and to use for reference.

Changes at USCG Academy

Two significant changes have been announced by the Coast Guard Academy that will affect seniors making application to become cadets.

For the first time, College Entrance Examination Board test scores will be accepted for the tests taken prior to the December 6 date, as well as the December 6 test. In years past only the December test scores would be accepted.

The second major change is in the eyesight requirement which for years has been 20/30, correctable to 20/20. Now, applicants may have a visual acuity of only 20/40, correctable to 20/20. In addition, the Superintendent of the Academy may grant a waiver to outstanding applicants whose visual acuity is 20/100.

These changes are to a program of admissions that is unique among the nation's four military academies. There are no congressional appointments made to the Coast Guard Academy, and there are no quotas of any kind. Those who are accepted as cadets make the grade solely on personal ability.

Additional information and application forms can be obtained from the school guidance counselor or by writing to the Director of Admissions, U.S. Coast Guard Academy, New London, Connecticut, 06320.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER
CHAMBER MANAGER

Be reminded the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce annual Dinner-Meeting, Sunday, December 7, 1969, 4 p.m. at the Weathervane Inn. We very much urge advance dinner tickets, for which donation is 14.50 per person and includes dinner, tip, tax, and entertainment.

You are welcome to call at the office to read what I think is a very interesting article, "Free Enterprise Is For Everyone," by Jenkin Lloyd Jones, President of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

"Parking Will Get Worse." The Census Bureau estimates that by 1975 we will have 224 million Americans. The total could reach about 266 million by 1985, and about 325 million by 2000. The increase would be more than twice the population of Great Britain and five times that of Canada; so says some of the news release by above named Chamber.

Would you believe????? Today's electronic computer can solve in two seconds a mathematical problem that would take a man, without a computer 38 years to solve! My, My, My!!!!

The C of C of the United States in a news release indicates "Six Moon Steps for Communities." Business men and organizations concerned with attacking community problems effectively can learn something from the six steps our government took in approaching the problem of how to land a man on the moon. These are the steps pointed out by Arch N. Booth, Executive-Vice-President of the C of C of the United States:

1. Make an exhaustive study of every aspect of the problem.

2. Agree on what is available to meet the needs outlined; what can be done, and by whom.

3. Decide in advance not to be intimidated by the magnitude of the task, its expense, or the time and effort required to perform it.

4. Set up an adequate organization of competent people.

5. Resolve to refuse to be stampeded into shortcuts or unrealistic time schedules.

6. Build into the program the capacity to rebound from failure, and to analyze and learn from mistakes.

A business outlook by Secretary of Commerce, Maurice H. Stans on the 1970 business outlook. "The rate of increase in prices for the economy as a whole will moderate in 1970, compared with an expected increase of nearly 5 percent this year. . . . Expect a further (profit) squeeze as aggregate output eases and labor costs continue to rise. . . With the economy growing at a slower rate, it is necessary. . . that wage increases not be as large as in 1969."

We are all quite familiar with the continued rise of "costs" of everything for several years. I wish to recall to your attention the article in the Courier issue of November 26, 1969, "Out of the Past," (5 years ago; the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce announced the increase in membership fees by about 10 percent). In the meantime, as your costs have constantly been increasing, so have the C of C costs in every respect. As we stand now financially, so to speak, the straw is about to break the camel's back. This year, because of the lack of funds, we have had to curtail much too much, in order to carry on and do the best possible with the little to do with. Needs, demands, etc., of this Chamber are also continually increasing–locally and otherwise. It is not unreasonable to feel or believe that this community, through its Chamber of Commerce, should be able and willing to meet the increasing needs and demands. Have you ever thought about the situation from our position? We should, I believe, have much less of "let George do it," and/or unassuming attitude, or taking things too much for granted. I have enjoyed the support of our community since I have had this appointment and I can say without hesitation that the cooperation and support have been improved. However, there is definite need that this attitude be increased. This issue has been before the Board of Directors a few months ago, and I intend to have it on the agenda for the regular Board Meeting, Tuesday, evening, January 6, 1970, the time for 1970 budget.

STATE BANK OF CHARLEVOIX

To the south of Charlevoix the duck population has been plentiful, as witnessed by these four swimming placidly in an area lake.

Former residents are found dead

A former resident of Charlevoix, William Durance, 74, and his 37 year old son, John William, were found dead Sunday morning November 23 at their home by another son, Edward. Edward is the prosecuting attorney for Midland County. An autopsy was being performed to determine the cause of death.

Graveside services were held last week at Charlevoix's Brookside Cemetery with Rev. Lawrence Tenhopen officiating.

William Durance was born August 8, 1895, in Charlevoix and spent the early years of his life in this area. After graduation from Charlevoix High School, he enlisted in the Signal Corps during World War I, serving in England. After his discharge he returned to Michigan and was graduated from what is now known as Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti. He did some teaching in the Detroit Public School System.

In 1925 he married. Mildred Dean. She preceeded his death in 1964. After her death he moved to the Sanford area in Midland County.

Mr. Durance was a member of Christ Methodist Church, in Detroit and a charter member of the Lapeer Parent's Association.

He is survived by one son, Edward, of Midland; a brother, Albin, of Charlevoix; two sisters, Francis Durance, of Charlevoix and Mrs. Genevieve Baumgartener, of Romeo and four grandchildren.

Born in Grosse Pointe March 25, 1932, John William is survived by one brother, Edward.

The family has suggested that any one wishing to honor John's memory may contribute in his name to the Lapeer Home and Training School, Lapeer, Michigan.

Locals

Mrs. Nicholas J. Miller left for an indefinite visit with relatives in St. Louis, Mo., and Cincinnati, Ohio.

Miss Cudd weds at St. Mary's

St. Mary's Church was the scene November 21, for the wedding of Kathryn Sue Cudd and David Lee Dominic of Petoskey.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Cudd of 703 East Dixon Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dominic of 911 Franklin Street, Petoskey, are the parents of the groom.

The double-ring ceremony was officiated by the Rev. E. Francis Denay before an altar of decorated with white potted mums. White mums were also placed at the altar of the Blessed Mother.

Organ music was presented by Mrs. Dennis Warner. Soloist Arlene Supernaw sang the "Lord's Prayer." A duet was sung by Arlene Supernaw and Kathy Meggison.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white silk pique, fashioned with an empire waist and trimmed in yellow. Her shoulder length veil was of silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of large chrysanthemums and white tea roses.

Maid of honor was Miss Geri Oliver with Julie Supernaw serving as bridesmaid. They wore identical gowns of coral and white with coral headpieces. They carried large yellow chrysanthemums.

Richard Lutes of Petoskey served as best man with Jerry Goekey, also of Petoskey serving as groomsman.

Mrs. Cudd wore a light blue and white knit dress with blue accessories and Mrs. Dominic chose a lilac and plum knit dress with plum accessories.

A reception and buffet dinner for 75 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents. Barb Meggison served the punch and Connie Smith served the cake.

After a trip around Northern Michigan, the couple will reside in Petoskey where they are sophomores at North Central Michigan College.

Guests were present from Grand Rapids, Alpena, Gaylord Petoskey and Grandville.

Whitley-Nachazel united Nov. 22

Mary Ellen Whitley became the bride of Edward Nachazel, Specialist fifth class, U.S. Army, in a double ring ceremony at St. Mary's church, November 22.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. James Whitley and Mr. and Mrs. Elden Hoffman are the parents of the groom.

The Rev. Francis E. Denay officiated before an altar graced with arrangements of yellow, bronze and white mums.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white bridal satin and Chantilly lace. Fashioned with empire lines and a stand up collar, the gown had full length lace sleeves with ruffels at the wrist, lace over satin except for the front panel and an inverted pleat at the back of the skirt which ended in a chapel train. White blossoms of bridal illusion secured her veil. The bride also carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations centered with a white orchid.

Serving as matron of honor was Mrs. Joseph Nachazel of East Jordan, sister-in-law of the groom. She wore an A-line floorlength gown of green brocade with a matching chiffon panel. Her bouquet was of yellow and bronze mums.

Faye and Kathy Whitley, sisters of the bride, served as bridesmaids. They wore identical gowns of yellow brocade with identical headdresses with short veils. They also carried cascade bouquets of yellow and bronze mums.

Best man was Joseph Nachazel of Boyne City, uncle of the groom. Harold DeYoung of Ellsworth and John Whitley, brother of the bride, assisted as groomsmen. Robert Nachazel, brother of the groom and Robert Heeres seated the guests.

Kathey Heeres was flower girl and Gregory Dixon served as ring bearer.

A reception for more than 200 guests was held at the V.F.W. Hall. Serving was Mrs. Stanley Bennet and Mrs. Gordon Russell.

After a wedding trip out east and to Washington D.C., the couple will reside at Fort Mead, Maryland, where the groom is with the U.S. Army.

Guest attended from Flint, Ellsworth, Detroit, East Jordan, Cheboygan and Lansing.

'Holidays' topic for meeting

The Charlevoix Woman's Club will meet at 1:30 p.m., December 8, at the First State Bank Community Room. (This meeting was postponed from the December 1, date shown in the club yearbooks.) Hostesses for the meeting will be Mrs. Martin Harney, Mrs. Ralph Hess, Jr., Mrs. George Nipson and Mrs. Milford Saunders.

Three numbers by the Music Group chorus will introduce the program entitled "Heading for the Holiday". The program will include a slide film, "Be a Holiday Hostess" to be presented by representatives of the Michigan Consolidated Gas Company, who will also provide helpful suggestions for holiday entertaining, recipes and door prizes. Copies of Edith Gilbert's book "all About Parties" will be on display; an excellent Christmas gift suggestion. Edith, who is a Woman's Club member, will be present to autograph books. The Arts and Crafts Group will have several display tables of handcrafted Christmas items made by their members, and there will also be samples of Christmas crafts which can be purchased locally. This should be an outstanding program and members should make an extra effort to attend. Members of the Charlevoix Garden Club are invited to come as guests of the Women's Club.

The Little Flower Guild of St. Mary's Church will hold its annual Christmas party at the home of Mrs. George Plumm on December 4, at 8 p.m. Members are reminded to bring a small gift to exchange.

The Women's Guild of the Charlevoix Hospital will have their Christmas meeting and party on December 8, at eight o'clock in the evening at the hospital. Olds friends and new friends are invited to attend this annual party. That night the Guild will make Christmas favors for the patients' trays.

The Garden Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Edith Stenman on December 9, at 1:30 p.m. Mrs. Jeannette Cameron will be the co-hostess. The Christmas Program will be arranged by Mrs. Hill. Mrs. Rowe and Mrs. Couse.

Drakes visit Oak Ridge

Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Drake, Loeb School Road, Charlevoix, recently visited the American Museum of Atomic Energy (Oak Ridge Hall of Science), Oak Ridge, Tenn., which features demonstrations and displays on peaceful uses of the atom.

The Museum, operated for the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission by Oak Ridge Associated Universities, is the first such institution in the nation devoted to nuclear science. Especially trained lecture-demonstrators show how the power of the atom is utilized in medicine, industry, and agriculture.

A lecture in the Museum's "Medical Room" illustrates how radioisotopes or "tracer atoms" are used in diagnosis and treatment of thyroid disturbances and cancer.

Having sold their winter home in Zephyrhills, Florida, Mr. and Mrs. William La Valley have returned to their local home and will spend both seasons in our community. We extend them a cordial welcome as permanent residents.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Williams are spending the winter in Stuart, Florida.

Rev. La Verne Steele of Boyne City has been the guest speaker at our morning Church service for two Sundays. Last week his topic was, "Who do you think you are" and today, "What do you think you are doing", which were most interesting and so true. What are we doing to make this a better world in which to live.

Glen Williams has returned home from the Charlevoix Hospital as a medical patient.

Mr. and Mrs. William Vanderwall were guests last weekend of Mr. and Mrs. Don Barrett in Grayling.

With the mild weather last weekend all the deer hunters were out. Two weekends ago, with the 15-inch snow fall it was almost impossible to do any hunting, but with the warm rain on Monday that snow soon was gone but have had enough snow for tracking since so several have been successful in getting their licence filled.

We are happy to know that Mrs. Jack Jentzen has returned home from the Gaylord Hospital where she spent several weeks after the car accident in the fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gilbert are spending several weeks in Detroit with their children and other relatives.

Rev. and Mrs. Harmon spent last week in San Francisco, California, with his mother. This Sunday he was guest speaker at the Metropolitan Methodist Church in Detroit. We will welcome them back with us next Sunday.

The Ladies Fellowship are having a Homemade Candy Sale after the morning church service in the dining room December 7. Their Cookie Sale was most successful and they wish to thank everyone who contributed and purchased cookies. I am sure their candy will also be good.

Another Thanksgiving is over and we should all feel so grateful for the many blessings we have today, and we do have many if we just take time to look around us and think of the hardships our forefathers endured and still found things to be thankful for.

Preparing our Family and friends Thanksgiving Dinner is so much easier than our grandmothers who worked several days to come up with the annual feast. But today we can't truthfully say "I didn't have time" as an excuse for not doing something that should have been done. We can shop as late as Wednesday afternoon and come up with a dinner you would be proud to serve your Grandmother.

Scout news

Boy Scout Troop 11 held its first Court of Honor of the 1969-70 scouting season at the middle school cafeteria recently.

R.L. Hooper of the Scout Committee was master of ceremonies for the event attended by parents as troop members received various advancement awards and a record number of 20 merit badges and the badges of office for the year.

Scoutmaster Louis Edwards presented Tenderfoot badges to Chris Wimmer and Mike Kane; James Bergmann of the Scout committee gave Second Class awards to Robert Dannacher, Terry Mol, Brian Osterberg and Chris Begrow; Mr. Hooper presented a First Class award to Thomas Mort and John Ozga received the Star Scout Award from Val Avery, also of the Scout committee.

Patrols presented skits for the entertainment of those present before refreshments of cider and donuts were served.

Ruppe Reports

Federal matching funds must be used to build breakwaters and jetties to protect private shoreline property, according to Congressman Philip Ruppe. In testimony before the House Rivers and Harbors Subcommittee, the Northern Michigan Congressman urged prompt adoption of his bill to allow federal funds to be used in financing shoreline protection facilities on private as well as public property.

Ruppe said that high water situation in Lake Superior during the summer and fall of 1968, as well as present water level difficulties in the other Great Lakes, led him to the conclusion that federal funds were the only recourse for lakeshore property owners. "Shoreline erosion can be substantially arrested," Ruppe stated, adding that protective breakwaters, jetties and abutments can prevent excessive erosion during high water periods. "To the vast majority of shoreline property owners, the cost of constructing such facilities is unquestionably prohibitive." Ruppe cited the case of one constituent who was told the cost of building a breakwater to protect his already-eroded shoreline would be greater than the entire value of the property.

Present federal laws allow government matching funds to be used in constructing shore erosion facilities on public lands, but does not allow participation in projects to protect private shore land.

Ruppe compared his bill to the current Flood Control Programs of the federal government, which under certain circumstances can provide up to 100 percent for financing projects on private and public lands. Claiming there is little difference between high-water shore erosion and actual floods, Ruppe said, "We are asking only matching federal participation to provide protection against the same sort of natural occurances."

You, Your Child and TV: 1

VIDEO CAN AFFECT WHAT A CHILD WANTS

by Barbara Frengel Reeves

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The author, a professional observer of children's viewing habits, is assistant director of research for the Children's Television Workshop, producers of "Sesame Street," the new series for preschool children

Your preschool child is likely to have spent more hours watching television by the time he enters first grade than he will spend in his first five years of elementary school.

So says U.S. Commissioner of Education James E. Allen Jr.

Hard to believe?

A recent survey points out that the set is on more than 50 hours a week, on the average, in homes where there are preschool children.

Does the child learn much from all this?

Well, by the time he's four years old, he can find "his" program, keep the picture from flopping and adjust the fine tuning. All on a very complicated and sophisticated piece of machinery.

And he apparently never tires of television, as he does, eventually, with his toys.

This intensive diet is bound to have an effect on a child. Amazingly enough, there is little scientific research on this subject although every parent I've talked with has her own examples of the TV influence.

We do know it affects vocabulary.

You aren't alone in your wry observation that little Richard can't remember his Aunt Matilda's name but can recite—letter-perfectly—an entire commercial jingle.

And how many phrases have your children picked up from TV? Whether it's "ring my chimes" or "those cats were swingin'" the chances are you heard it first from your child and he got it from television.

One little girl in Mississippi was already reading on a third-grade level when she entered elementary school; she'd learned to read from watching the commercials.

Television also affects a child's play. Where are the six-guns worn when cowboys were supreme? Or the Davy Crockett coonskin hats of a few years ago? Today the super hero is the idol. A small boy in my neighborhood has appropriated one of his mother's dish towels to use as a cape. You know there must be quite some effect when four-year-old Andrew pretends to be Batman!

And no one knows better than a parent how television affects what his child wants. Father may spend hours looking for a toy he never heard of — but was told about—while Mother finds strange cartons of cereal in her shopping cart.

Many of the current commercials are aimed directly at children. They tell him what to eat, what to play with and what sneakers will make him run faster. A market research firm has even constructed a model supermarket for children to shop in so it can determine the pulling power of different commercials.

These commercials have tremendous impact. Because of this impact, the producers of "Sesame Street"—a public broadcasting project without any kind of product advertising—are using the techniques of commercials. But instead of toys or cereals, Sesame Street will "sell" numbers and letters of the alphabet.

There are many programs that will do a child some good. These programs may be only a channel away but a child doesn't know that. It is the wise parent who checks the TV listings and finds out what the content of programs really is.

It is not only a question of making certain programs off-limits. Still, a full-scale study requested by Congress now is looking into the effect of television violence on children.

It is a question of giving your child a wholesome and varied diet. After all, feeding him milk and cookies is not balanced nutrition!

NEXT: What you, as a parent can do to help your child get more out of the medium.

Mansen in FSU concert

Ferris State College music activities groups have planned three holiday concerts and a series of Christmas carillon concerts during the yule season for students, faculty and community residents.

Choral concerts are scheduled for December 4 and December 14. An orchestral concert is planned for December 9. Carillon concerts are set for December 7, 8, 10, and 14.

The Men's Glee Club, under the direction of William Donahue, and the Concert Choir, under the direction of Dr. Charles Horton, will present the 22nd annual Christmas Concert at 8 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 4, in the Auditorium of the Starr Educational Center.

The Glee Club portion will include traditional carols and contemporary songs of Christmas. Wally O'Brian, tenor of Grand Rapids, will be soloist. Edward Brooks, Carson City, is accompanist for the Men's Glee Club.

For the Concert Choir portion, the program will include choral works ranging from the seventeenth century to the mid-twentieth century. The choir will close its portion of the concert with a performance of the dramatic narration for speaker and chorus, "The Creation." Anita Farmer, Flint, and Kathy Wholey, Alma, will sing the solo roles. Both were featured in the Fall Chorale. Louise Weeks, Cedar Springs, is piano accompanist, and Thom Mansen, Charlevoix, will be organist.

The Dome Room in the Student Center is the locale chosen for the College-Community Orchestra concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 9. Dr. Dacho Dachoff, director of music activities for Ferris, will direct.

One of the features of the concert program is a Faculty Trio consisting of Dr. Horton, piano, Donahue, clarinet, and Dr. Dachoff, viola, playing Mozart's "Trio No. 7 in E-flat."

The orchestra, which is made up of area residents and Ferris students, will play a program which will include compositions by Rogert Jager, Luigi Boccherini, Howard Hansen, Henry Mancini, and Leroy Anderson.

At the concert's end the audience will be given an opportunity to sing a group of well-known Christmas songs with the orchestra.

A group new to the Big Rapids scene--The Choral Union--will present the Christmas portion of "Messiah" at 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 14, in the Auditorium of the Starr Educational Center. The Choral Union is made up of Ferris student singers, members of the Men's Glee Club and Concert Choir, and others not associated with singing groups, and selected area residents. Donahue is conducting the Choral Union. Dr. Horton is coordinating the soloists and playing the organ accompaniment.

Dr. Horton and Mansen will serve as carilloneurs for the Christmas Carrillon Concerts. Two are set for Sunday afternoons. The first is scheduled for 1 to 1:30 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 7. The second one is planned for 3:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 14, to precede the "Messiah." On December 8 and 10, the Carillon will play beginning at 6 p.m. as the students are going to dinner.

All the concerts are open to the public without admission charge. Seating is limited in the Dome Room.

Government holds inflation key

Dr. David I. Fand, professor of economics at Wayne State University, and an internationally recognized monetary authority, said Saturday, Nov. 22, that this country's anti-inflationary policies (monetary-fiscal) hold the key to achieving lower interest rates.

Dr. Fand, in a speech at the national "New, New Economics" conference in Phoenix, Arizona, rejected the prevailing theory that interest rates can be brought down by putting more money into circulation, adding, "That's like trying to put out a fire with gasoline."

He explained: "Policies that keep government expenditures down, money tight, the budget in balance (or surplus) and the commodity price level stable, are policies favored by the old-fashioned conservatives. But these are, in fact, the most effective ways to achieve a primary objective of the modern day liberal – low long term interest rates."

The WSU professor said that high interest rates are only a symptom of a troubled economy. He put the finger of blame on the escalating prices in the last few years as the real malady of our economic times.

1. Using a tight money policy to cool the inflation and slow down the rise of prices.

2. Keeping government expenditures down to keep pressure off interest rates.

Pat's Reaction

The bright side

Optomists have more fun than anyone, at least the optomists in our family do. I guess that's because they try the impossible and sometimes succeed in doing it.

Ten days ago my husband and I and our two sons took off early in the morning to see the Ohio State-University of Michigan football game.

Did we have tickets? Heck no, for tickets for that big game were as scarce as hen's teeth. But my husband, Jack, figure that it was a simple problem of logistics and that if the Michigan stadium held 100,000 people at least four of those 100,000 people wouldn't be able to attend the game at the last minute and we would be able to buy their seats.

The fact that Joe the Greek in Las Vegas was predicting that Michigan would lose by twelve points didn't daunt our spirits in the least. If you're a real Michigan rooter you always feel that your team is going to win, even against the supermen of Ohio State.

So it was in this gay mood that we attended a pre-game party and partook of a little spirits to lift our spirits for the cold hard fight ahead.

"What? You don't have tickets?" I heard someone say to Jack.

"No, we're going to buy some at the gate."

This lighthearted response brought on a stream of anecdotes about how people had been trying for weeks to get tickets, of how tickets were being sold at scalpers prices, and of how four tickets on the 50 yard line had just eluded us by three hours.

"Oh something will turn up," said Jack, and against the background of pessimistic moans and groans from our friends the four of us trooped off to the game barehanded.

But as we neared the gate we found that all kinds of people were selling tickets, some at scalpers prices and some at face value.

Jack picked up four good tickets at face value and we all trooped into the stadium to watch the greatest game of the collegiate football season when Michigan turned the tables and beat Ohio State by the predicted twelve points.

Later as we were leaving the stadium Jack said, "Since we had such good luck today in getting tickets for the game, why don't we see if there are two seats available for that new musical, La Strada which is playing at the Fisher."

"Gee, I'd love to see it. We might as well try," I replied.

So we quick dropped off the boys at their grandparents' house, dressed for the play and chased down to the Fisher Theater.

We arrived at about eight o'clock with thirty minutes to spare before curtain time. While Jack lined up for tickets I had a ball watching everyone go into the show. Sometimes I think that the best part about going places is simply people watching so when Jack came back joyfully waving two tickets I didn't even ask him where they were located.

"Jack, you've got to see a tall redhead who's here tonight. She's wearing a see through lace pants suit. It's a real spectacular."

In that happy way of watching we occupied ourselves for the next fifteen minutes. Some of the theater costumes were so wild that I seriously wondered what those people wear to parties. It must be great.

"Boy were you lucky to get tickets on the first floor," I said to my nearsighted husband as the usher led us down the aisle.

And can you believe it! She just kept leading us and leading us until she led us to the first row in the center section.

As I took my seat I tried to act matter-of-fact, but I nearly jumped out of my skin. In back of me was an auditorium full of people and we had walked in at the very last minute and evidently fell into two leftover celebrity seats. It was too much.

My optic Jack leaned over and whispered a sweet nothing in my ear, "It's a good thing that I didn't bring my binoculars this time."

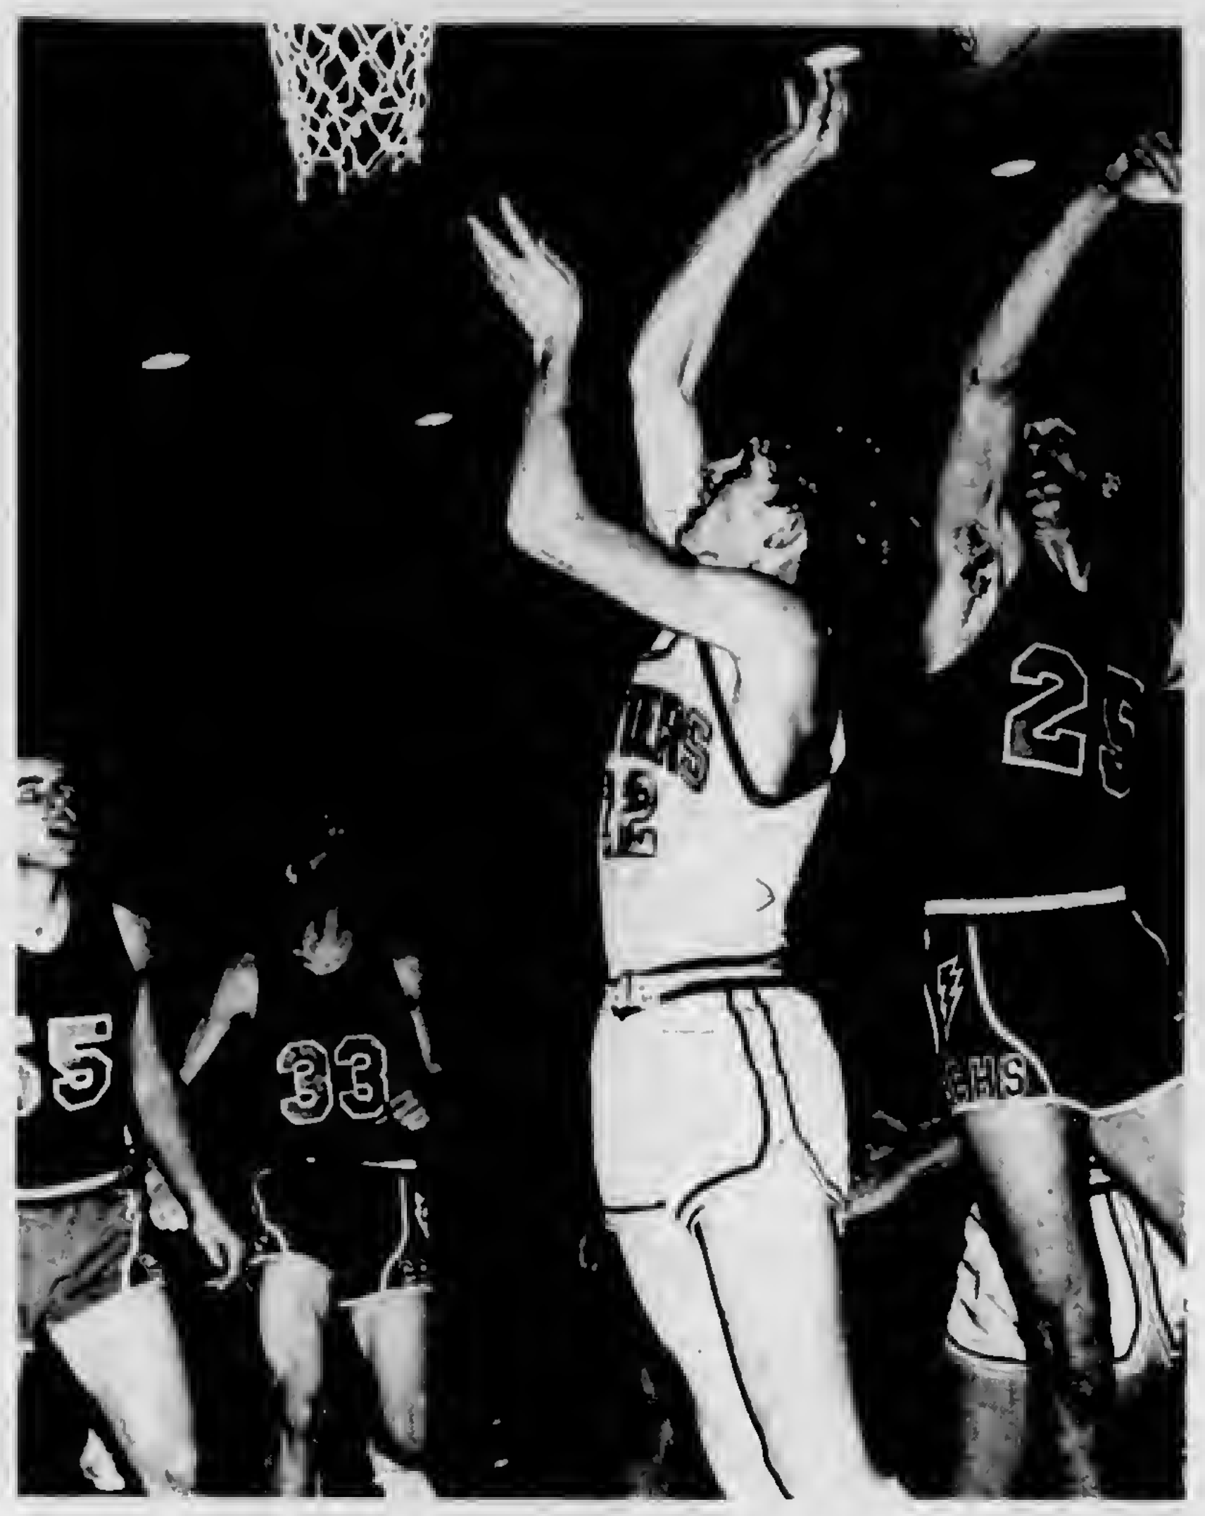
Countians invited to ski camp

Timberlee Hills, at Traverse City, will host its First Annual Junior ski Racing Camps from December 21 through December 24, 1969, announced Viktor Weyand, Timberlee Hills general manager.

"The racing camp will be under the close direction and supervision of Olympic Gold Medalist Christi Haas, who is probably the world's foremost woman skier," says Weyand. "Miss Haas joins us this year from Austria where she was coach of the Austrian National Women's Team. Charlevoix Countains are certainly invited to attend."

The Timberlee Hills Junior Ski Racing Camp is open to young men and women alike regardless of skiing proficiency so long as they show a marked interest in ski racing. The program has thorough workshops on ski racing techniques, course-setting techniques, ski maintenance and waxing, proper equipment and clothing selection, ski racing strategy, and the importance of physical fitness in racing.

"It is likely that some of the finest ski racers in Mid-America will get their start here at Timberlee Hills," concluded Weyand.



Stewart Coleman goes up for two, but shot is partially blocked. Coleman led Rayders to opening win.

Auxiliary collecting

Dear Area Residents:

The Petoskey Jaycee Auxiliary is still collecting Betty Crocker coupons for the Michigan Jaycees which are used to purchase kidney machines for the Michigan Kidney Foundation. Each machine is the size of a portable dishwasher and is placed in the home of a patient. It takes 600,000 coupon points or $3,000 to purchase one machine.

This is a reminder that we are still collecting for this cause and that anyone wishing to contribute may mail Betty Crocker coupons to Petoskey Jaycee Auxiliary, P.O. Box 126, Petoskey, Michigan 49770.

Sincerely yours,
Petoskey Jaycee Auxiliary

County gets $22M for snow

Charlevoix County is among nearly half of Michigan's 83 counties which had enough snow during the winter of 1968-69 to qualify for snow removal funds being distributed by the Department of State Highways.

The Department said payments have been sent to 41 counties which averaged 70 or more inches of snow last winter. A record 60 counties received payments in 1967 and only 24 counties qualified in 1968.

This year's payments totaled $854,695, an increase of $79,933 over last year.

The money, set aside from state gasoline taxes and license plate fees, helps defray the cost of snow removal in counties which have heavy snowfalls. The fund was established by the Legislature in 1956, and the distribution is based on average snow depth and miles of state highway in each county.

Snowfall measurements are made at one or more U.S. Weather Bureau observation stations in each county.

Gogebic County, with 195.87 inches, had the biggest average accumulation of snow last winter. Ontonagon County was second with 193.32 inches.

The largest payment was $46,927 to Marquette County, and the smallest was $2,411 to Ottawa County.

Charlevoix, with 115.07 inches of snow last winter, will receive $21,906 to defray the costs of snow removal.

Other area counties and the amount they are to receive include: Emmet, $22,558, and Antrim, $29,180.

Obituary

Mrs. Matchett

Funeral services for Mrs. Robert Matchett, 73, who died Wednesday at Grandvue Medical Care Facility, where she had been a patient since May 29 of this year, were held from the Winchester Funeral Home Saturday, 1:30 p.m. Rev. Stanley Hayes, of East Jordan officiated and interment was in Barnard Cemetery.

She was born July 27, 1896 in Detroit, the former Mary M. Buchta. She married Mr. Matchett in Charlevoix in 1950 and had always lived in Detroit until after her marriage.

Mr. Matchett died in May, 1967.

She attended the Barnard Methodist Church and its Woman's Society of Christian Service.

Survivors include: three stepchildren, Sanford, of Charlevoix, Mrs. Lee (Ruth) Shapton, of Lansing and Mrs. Vernor (Margaret) Hurd, of Jackson; two brothers, Herman and Edward Buchta; one niece, Mrs. Gail Thomas of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma; eight step-grandchildren and two step-great grandchildren.

Pvt. Willis at Ft. Knox

FORT KNOX, KY., – Army Private Donald J. Willis, is assigned to Company E, 18th Battalion, 5th Brigade, here in the United States Army Training Center, Armor (USATCA).

He will spend the next two months learning the fundamental skills of the soldier in today's modern, action Army–firing live ammunition under simulated combat situations, learning protective measures and first-aid for chemical, biological and radiological attacks, as well as being schooled in the use of modern arms.

Interspaced with the constant emphasis on proper physical conditioning, diet, rest and health habits, will be ample opportunity to utilize USATCA's many and varied recreational and religious facilities.

Following the completion of Basic Training, Pvt. Willis, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Willis, Jr., of 208 Antrim Street, Charlevoix will receive at least an additional eight weeks of either advanced instruction or on-the-job training to qualify him in a specialized military skill.

Tim Doan grabs rebound in Friday's action against Alpena CC.

Alpine meet at Boyne

For the first time in the history of the U.S. Ski Association, the Midwest has been awarded a sanctioned Alpine competition, it was announced at the association's convention here.

Alpine committee officials approved a bid made by Central division president, Carl Brebe of Midland, Michigan, to host a slalom meet February 21 at Boyne Mountain, Boyne Falls, Michigan.

Grebe, who had campaigned for two years to win approval of such a meet on Midwestern ski slopes, expressed appreciation for the decision and said: "We've finally overcome the image of being a region of nothing but flatland. Our next goal is to gain a sanctioned international meet.

Competitors in the Boyne meet will be accorded International Ski Federation racing points on the basis of their performances.

Rayders open with 73-57 win

Led by Stewart Coleman's 18 points, the Charlevoix Red Rayders opened the 1969-70 basketball season with a 73-57 win over Alpena CC last Friday night.

The Rayders have a full week off before taking the court at Petoskey, this Friday.

The local team jumped off to a two-point lead at the end of the first period, but Alpena rallied in the second stanza to move into the lead by three, 21-18.

Near the end of the first half, the Rayders tied the score and went into the intermission with a 28-27 lead.

In the third quarter, Charlevoix's fast-breaking offense widened the gap with 21 points while holding Alpena to nine.

Close behind Coleman in the scoring race were Kraag Lieberman and Bruce Meggison with 15 each. Norm Ostrum was the fourth Rayder in double figures, finishing with 13 points.

Leading scorer for Alpena was Bill McKay with 18.

Nurses look for nominee

The Northern Tri-County Nurses Association is beginning a search for registered nurses who have been actively involved in raising the health or social climate of their communities. The search is taking place between now and mid-December.

Mrs. Bonda M. Hale, R.N., president of the Northern Tri-County Nurses Association, in announcing the search, said: "The purpose of our seeking and identifying these nurses is to draw public attention to the good deeds that so many of our nurses are doing in this area. By 'involved' we mean an RN who has scored accomplishments on-the-job above and beyond the usual or had made an outstanding contribution off-the-job in the community."

The search is part of a campaign, being conducted across the country by state and district nurses associations, that is attempting: (1) to stimulate more nurses to be involved in their communities, (2) to demonstrate the Northern Tri-County Nurses Association's commitment to meaningful activities designed to improve our society, (3) to find nurses in every district whose activities exemplify this ideal, and (4) to encourage more nurses to be involved in their professional association.

Rod and Gun Club to meet

The Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club will hold its regular monthly meeting December 4, at 8:30 p.m. at the clubhouse. The time for the pancake supper has been set for 6:30 p.m.

Concert at CHS, Sun

Jim Laffoon, area Youth for Christ Director extends an invitation to you to attend Youth for Christ's annual "Holiday Concert" at the Charlevoix High School, Sunday, Dec. 7 at 3 p.m.

The program will feature a 50 voice ensemble of local teenagers under the direction of Marv Hollenbeck, area YFC Music Director. The ensemble is part of the expanding Youth for Christ program here in the Northland area.

Featured as guest soloist for this concert will be Audie Bauman. Audie has appeared in Youth for Christ programs throughout Michigan. She was selected Homecoming Queen while attending Central Michigan University, and is presently teaching piano and voice at Spring Arbor College near Jackson, Michigan. The program will include some of her own songs.

Plan to attend this concert for interested adults. Admission is free.

Local men are eligible for police

Young Charlevoix men interested in State Police careers are advised that recruiting of trooper candidates has reopened in accordance with a new Civil Service announcement, Col. Fredrick E. Davids, department director, reported.

Eligible to apply are men 21 to 30 years of age, inclusive, who are U.S. citizens and who have been residents of Michigan at least a year prior to application. They must have a high school education or the equivalent.

Candidates must be at least 5 feet 9 inches tall and weigh at least 150 pounds but not more than 230. Weight must be in proportion to height. They must be in good physical condition and meet certain vision and bearing standards. They must be of good moral character and have no serious arrest record. They may be married or single.

Trooper pay beings, including time in recruit school, at an annual rate of $7,579.44, or $290.40 every two weeks. Through regular automatic increases trooper pay climbs to a current maximum of $10,648.80 annually (or $408 biweekly) beginning with the sixth year. Longevity pay is additional annually after six years of service.

Interested young men can obtain application blanks and more complete information by contacting the Petoskey State Police post or by writing to the Michigan Civil Service Commission in Lansing.

Couple observes 60th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. William Schroeder, 108 Belvedere Avenue, celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary at a surprise party in the Lutheran Church recently.

Approximately 50 guests attended the party.

The Schroeders have resided in Charlevoix for the past 14 years, moving here from Mancelona. Fourteen guests attended from Mancelona.

Clinic closed in December

The Gaylord Chest Clinic will not be open for x-rays in Dec. as announced by Robert L. Libke, M.D. of the Michigan Department of Health. The next scheduled clinic is January 14, 1970 from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. This clinic is usually open the second and fourth Wednesday of each month in the Gaylord State Home north of Gaylord on old U.S. 27.

BY LEE SMITS

It was in Britain that ethics and manners were first applied to the killing of game. Rules were adopted. Never shoot a bird on the ground. Refrain from "claiming." Two men shoot, one bird falls, let your partner, or opponent, take the bird.

The term "Mixed bag" originated on the opposite side of the Atlantic. A strolling sportsman collects a hare, a snipe, a teal, a wood pigeon on an afternoon stroll. – that's a mixed bag.

So – here is a mixed bag of outdoor new items.

Reports are coming in of the serious damage done by birds on crops in the southeast corner of Michigan. Corn, berries, grapes, grain are gobbled by millions of feathered bandits – mostly redwing blackbirds and starlings.

This would be no problem in southern Europe where anything from a warbler to a goose is fair game. In fact, the problem of bird predation on crops would not have arisen in the last century because the ultimate indulgence for high-livers was reed bird, and any bird smaller than a robin was classified as a reed bird.

The standard reed bird was a bob-o-link, in eclipse plumage, headed to its southern wintering grounds. In Europe a similar bird was called an "ortolan" defined by Webster as "a European bunting valued as a table delicacy." An English sparrow is just as delicious as any European bunting. An Edwardian gourmet consumed ortolan, his head shrouded in a napkin so that no savor of the delicacy could escape.

In Europe, the swarms of small birds devouring crops would be a boon to sportsmen. With a small-bore gun, using shot shells, redwing blackbirds and starlings are a challenge.

In the old days, marsh shooters, waiting for the big flight of ducks to come down, harvested blackbirds, rail, maybe meadowlarks, to compose pot-pie feasts. This was a ritual, almost as significant as muskrat banquets later on.

Michigan is rated as about the No. 1 woodcock state. The D.N.R. woodcock specialist, Tom Prawdzik, game biologist at Atlanta, bands woodcock on their nesting grounds and considers the woodcock a prime game bird that is largely neglected. Of course, some bird dogs will not handle woodcock. The cocker spaniel was developed as a woodcock dog.

A gunner pursuing woodcock has to bear in mind that his first chance at a flushing bird comes when the bird reaches the top of its rise, before leveling off. A veteran woodcock gunner also picks the opening through which a bird is most likely to go, and prepares to take the bird, winging in that direction.

Michigan pheasant outlook still uncertain. No one seems to have the answer.

Of course, the smart hunter has made solid connection with a farmer in pheasant territory. A pitiful spectacle on opening day - carloads of eager sportsmen wheeling around the countryside, seeking a place to shoot, fenced lands all posted.

Perhaps the day will come when far-sighted farmers will encourage pheasants, then advertise to admit hunters on a fee basis.

Art in community

prevented artists and businessmen from even considering collaboration. Their cooperation depends upon mutual respect for the contributions which BOTH make to society and to each other."

Mutual respect may mean many things to many people. Take our young set around set around town here. According to Dorothy Olmstead, librarian, 'During our recent snow storm a group of children dressed our bronze girl in front of the library in a white dress. They paced the figure with fresh snow and invited me to 'come llok!' Of course, she's been dressed before with assorted garments including Brownie caps, mittens and even a bra! I guess it's more fun than dressing their own Barbie dool--or maybe some kids don't have Barbie dolls?"

Whatever the reason, she's now very much a part of the everyday life of the youngsters around town and their childish attentions does not indicate a lack of respect for art!

So Cummings acknowledges. "Almost all those companies that DO support the arts recognize their importance to the social problems of the community. The arts are cited as one way in which a business can directly affect the lives of the peope around it. They offer an opportunity for a company to do something completely on its own--without government interference."

Doing her own thing, without anyone interfering, Lisa Wicmer, age 9, pirouettes past a new grouping of original oil paintings, guaches and water colors that hang on two walls in the new elementary school.

"They're neat!" she echoes to the question of what she thinks of the recent donations of four paintings by William Eisendrath, summer resident on Lake Charlevoix and formerly head of the Art Department at Missouri University in St. Louis.

To date the gifts from both Cummings and Eisendrath to the Friends of the Library have been placed in and around the Public Library, the Senior High School and the Elementary School. It is the wish of the Board of Education that the paintings will be rotated from time to time so that the largest number of persons will have the opportunity to enjoy them.

"The kids think they're really neat!" says High School senior Mark Erickson as he helps carry paintings from the High School to the Library and from the Library to the Elementary School.

Rotating these works of art has been the most difficult part of the job of the art committee because people don't like to part with the paintings and sculptures once they've grown accustomed to having them around!

Whatever the obstacles may be, however, between the alliances of business and the arts and the Friends of the Library--there's one thing we're pretty sure of--the kids think it's neat!

Grandvue

There have been no new admittances to Grandvue since our last writing. However, Mrs. Phoebe Ross was discharged on November 22nd and will be residing with her sister, Mrs. Marion Clark of Central Lake. Mrs. Mary Matchett of Charlevoix expired November 26.

On November 19, several Brownie Scouts, along with their leaders, came to decorate the windows and hallways for Thanksgiving with turkeys and Indians which they had made. Those Brownies were from East Jordan and under the leadership of Jan Prebble, Judy Bartlett, Pauline Graham, and Fay Barrow. While they were here, they also sang some songs for the patients. Thank you for coming out, girls.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. J. Richard Smith of Boyne City on the birth of their first child, a son, Derrick, on November 19. Mrs. Smith is our visiting Physical Therapist.

Soon you will see Santa and two of his reindeer on the front lawn at the Facility, along with two lighted lampposts. These are new this year, and are the gifts of the Grandvue MCF Auxiliary. Also gifts of the Auxiliary and thru anonymous donors will be a new Christmas tree and Nativity Scene to be on display indoors. Another gift that is already being greatly enjoyed, and which was delivered in time for the Thanksgiving Day Parades, is a new Color T.V. set which was purchased by the Auxiliary. Many thanks for these gifts. Auciliary members!

Thank you also to the following groups for their gifts of fruit to the patients'; Boyne City Baptist Chapel G.A. Girls; American Legion Auxiliary of Charlevoix; and the young people of the Charlevoix Methodist Church. In addition to the fruit, the East Jordan Cub Scouts, Den 6, brought out a centerpiece, some gifts, and did a skit to entertain the patients on November 26.

December birthdays among the patients will include: Ruby Vermillion, Dec. 1; Mary Orlowski, Dec. 7; Blanche Taylor, Dec. 17; Charlotte Gee, Dec. 21; Florence Cameron, Dec. 28; and Tressie Boyer, Dec. 30.

LET WANT ADS WORK FOR YOU

Lose 10 lbs. In 10 Days On New Grapefruit Diet

NEW YORK (Special) - This is the revolutionary new grapefruit diet that everyone is suddenly talking about. Literally thousands upon thousands of copies have been passed from hand to hand in factories, plants and offices throughout the U.S. and Canada. Word of its success has spread like wildfire because this is the one diet that really seems to work for most over-weight people. A well known Toronto columnist recently praised it to the skies. He reported losing 20 pounds quickly and easily long after he despaired of ever getting down to his wartime weight of 165 pounds, all without giving up the occasional beer or rye. If it is followed exactly the average overweight person should lose 10 pounds in 10 days. There will be no weight loss in the first four days. But you will suddenly drop 5 pounds on the 5th day. Thereafter you will lose one pound a day until the 10th day. Then you will lose 1½ pounds every two days until you get down to your proper weight. Best of all there should be no hunger pangs. Now revised and enlarged, this new diet plan lets you stuff yourself with foods that were formerly "forbidden." Such as big steaks trimmed with fat, Southern fried chicken, rich gravies, mayonnaise, lobsters swimming in butter, bacon, fats, sausages and scrambled eggs. You can eat until you are full, until you cannot possibly eat any more. And still you should lose 10 pounds in the first 10 days, plus 1½ pounds every two days thereafter until your weight is down to normal. The secret behind this new "Quick weight loss" is not generally known. Fat, it has been theorized, does not form fat. Perhaps fat fights fat. And the grapefruit juice in this new diet might act as a catalyst (the "trigger") to start the fat burning process. You stuff yourself on the permitted foods listed in the diet plan, and still lose unsightly fat and excess body fluids. When the fat and bloat are gone you will cease to lose weight and your weight will remain controlled. A copy of this new and startlingly successful diet plan can be obtained by sending $3 to The

Unconditional money back guarantee. If after trying the diet plan you have not lost 7 pounds in the first 7 days, another 6 pounds in the next 7 days, and 1½ pounds every two days thereafter, simply return the diet plan and your $3 will be refunded promptly, and without argument. Tear out this message as a reminder. Decide now to regain the trim attractive figure of your youth while still enjoying hearty breakfasts, lunches and dinners. Intermediate district hears transfer request

At the latest meeting of the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate school board, taken under consideration was a request to transfer 10 acres from the Pellston school district to the Inland Lakes school district.

Lon W. Fairchild, who recently moved from Inland Lakes to the Pellston district, made the request on the grounds that he would like his child to continue to attend school at Inland Lakes on a doctors recommendation.

The Cheboygan-Otsego-Presque Isle Intermediate office sent the request to Gordon Robinson, president of the Charlevoix Emmet Intermediate school board, asking that the two boards hold a joint hearing on the transfer December 11. Inland Lakes lies in the adjoining intermediate district.

Robinson stated that he wanted to get an opinion from the Pellston board before agreeing to the meeting.

Robinson also told the board that the Michigan Association of School Boards is now urging members to go to the state capital December 2, when the Senate reconsiders the $1 billion school financing bill which includes funds for parochiaid.

Senate President Thomas Schweigert notified Robinson that the Senate will probably reconsider the bill, along with a companion measure to repeal tax credits, when it reconvenes. Both bills were passed November 13.

The board also learned that a survey will be made next year of all handicapped children in the district at the request of the state Department of Education.

Florida wedding for Miss Stewart

Miss Leslie Ellen Stewart of Winter Park, Florida, and Randy Lee Sumner, U.S. Naval Air Station, Cecil Field, Jacksonville, Florida, exchonged wedding vows recently in the First Baptist Church, Orlando, Florida.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lee Stewart of Winter Park, Florida. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philo E. Sumner of Charlevoix.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride chose an empire gown of re-embroidered lace and candlelight Peau d' Soie for her wedding. A band of the same re-embroidered lace secured her bridal gown. Her cascade bouquet was of frenched carnations and red roses centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Patricia Stewart Eighmie of Winter Park served her sister as matron of honor. Dana Jones of Winter Park and Susan Brown and Marcia Broome of Orlando were bridesmaids. They wore identical floor length empire gowns of emerald green Peau d' Soie. The matron of honor carried a single white rose dressed in satin leaves. The bridesmaids carried single red roses.

Shannon White, wearing a floor length gown similar to the attendants, was flower girl.

Daniel Charles Howard of the Naval Air Station, Jacksonville, Fla., assisted the bridegroom as best man. Clifford Davenport, Dennis Whiteman and Douglas Christian, all of Orlando, seated the guests.

Mrs. Stewart chose a lemon yellow silk worsted ensemble and matching accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Sumner, mother of the bridegroom, wore a powder blue knitted ensemble and matching accessories.

Following a wedding trip through southern Florida, the couple is at home at Winter Park, Fla.

The bride is a graduate of Woody's Hairstyling Institute. The bridegroom is a veteran of two years in the U.S. Navy.

Wedding guests were present from Seabring, Clearwater, Fort Lauderdale, and Jacksonville, Fla. and Charlevoix.

Time for improvement

Establishment of a federally owned Postal Corporation should benefit the public through the use of management techniques and modern facilities that have been so successful in business. Because the corporation would be self-supporting, the federal budget would not be forced to absorb postal deficits year after year. Also it would permit the postal employee to work to his full potential without losing any of the benefits and tenure that he has accrued in the current postal system, while providing a greatly improved mail service.

In March, 1968, former Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien testified before Congress that "time is running out on the U.S. postal service. The Post Office Department is in a race with catastrophe."

The current Postmaster General, Winton M. Blount recently stated, "Unless we change the way is handled we are going to be in for real trouble. ...There has been little attention to new techniques and new ways to approach problems."

President Nixon's current request for a series of postal rate increases, following close on the heels of those enacted just 18 months ago, indicates that Post Office problems are not solved by increasing postage fees. There is evidence, too, that postal service can be operated at a profit at lower fees. For example, the Independent Postal System of America, a private Oklahoma company handling third-class "junk" mail has proved that such delivery can be conducted at a profit. With rates a penny a piece below government rates, the company showed a substantial profit after its first year.

Representative Dulski (D.-N.Y.) Chairman of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee, in commentary on the proposed rate increases, said: "It seems to me that the Post Office Department needs to get its priorities straight. Postal reform should come first--and then we can deal with rates, if necessary."

We agree, don't you?

Tax reform

U.S. Senator Robert P. Griffin predicted this week that when the tax reform bill clears the Senate, it will not include a provision penalizing the sale of tax exempt bonds by state and local governments.

The Michigan senator pointed to a provision in the House-passed version which would have opened the door to taxation of such bonds.

"To a bond market that was already shaky," said Griffin, "the House action amounted to throwing water on a drowning man."

As a result, the sale of state and municipal bonds has suffered severely. Although citizens in many cities had voted in favor of issuing bonds to raise money for badly-needed schools, hospitals and other public facilities, too often the bonds could not be sold.

"Moreover," Griffin said, "if the House action were to prevail, the cost of constructing new public facilities would increase significantly."

However, the Senate Finance Committee refused to go along with the House proposal and voted solidly against making changes in this area.

The Michigan lawmaker predicted that the Senate may spend as much as three or four weeks debating and voting on the massive tax reform bill.

"Virtually every line of the bill will undergo close scrutiny on the Senate floor," Griffin said.

Full Support for education

There are thousand of corporations in the United States which comprise a business community which some campus extremists refer to as "the establishment." Yet, business is the financial backbone of education.

Companies of every size and in every line of endeavor contribute hundred of millions of dollars a year to universities and colleges. The press release from a single company tells the story. In this case the donor is an independent foundation sponsored by a large food manufacturing concern. In 1969, 24 independent colleges and universities will be the chief beneficiaries of $686,000 in grants-in-aid-of-education made by the foundation. Included in these grants is $135,000 that will help support a number of newly-established and experimental minority group programs at 12 colleges experimental minority group programs at 12 colleges and universities. In addition, $25,000 will be awarded to the United Negro College Fund to support its activities at 35 colleges and universities in the U.S.

This extensive support of education sponsored by a single company reveals the kind of generosity with no strings attached that is the source of intellectual freedom. (Clinton County News)

Fathers have duties

There are certain things a father should do for his kids. My wife says so.

I doesn't matter if the kids are brats. I doesn't matter if Old Dad twitches and foams at the mere sound of such revolting slogans as "The family that ticks together, sticks together."

This is a nation where the validity of a family relationship can be measured by how many times Dad takes Junior fishing.

So there I was at a church supper. On Saturday night! As I make this news public, I have the feeling that the south wall of the Alibi Bar just crumbled.

To start with, I ate too much. I always eat too much at these suppers. I take a selfish helping from every bowl passed for fear the bowl will never be back. Suddenly my plate is eye-high with more food than my wife melts in 3 days. And I eat every bite because after supper, there's liable to be a missionary movie about starving kids in India.

But there was no movie this Saturday. Instead the crowd moved into a room usually used for nursery school. Fathers with cigars grabbed seats next to the sandbox. We were gathered there to see a skit and hear songs and speeches. Just as I was asking myself what in the Good Lord's name I was doing 7 blocks away from my Alka Seltzer, I overheard something startling.

"Hey," I whispered to my wife, "that young man just said this is a Senior Youth Fellowship supper. Our oldest daughter long ago graduated from this group and the other 2 kids are too young for it. So why are we here, anyway?"

"Chrissie is playing the guitar, that's why," my wife answered.

This is a sure-pop method for getting wayward fathers to church. Just get his kids on the program, doing anything, it doesn't matter what. If the bum still refuses to attend, his wife is justified in turning his name into the Readers Digest and having him arrested for unAmericanism. I've eaten 8 a.m. breakfasts in church simply because my daughter was in the kitchen, dripping oatmeal in the scrambled eggs.

Anyway, Chrissie is our hippie-haired 13-year-old who'd rather be called Chris. And sure enough, there she was on stage with her best friend, Kathy, both of them strumming away while everyone sang. I didn't sound like everyone was singing the same song, but that was probably the guitar players' fault. Chrissie missed a lot of lessons.

When the sing-along ended, the toastmaster complimented Chirssie and Kathy who were uniformed in matching maxiskirts. "They made their outfits themselves, just for our program," the man said.

My wife gave a slight sigh.

"What's the matter?" I asked.

"Nothing," she said, "except I'm tired from sitting at the sewing machine the last 3 days, making those skirts."

Kids are beautiful.

And some dads are phonies. I never went to a church or school program without grumbling mightily. But I never left without somehow feeling good about having been there.

And when that kid finished playing the guitar, I took so many bows I almost fell in the sandbox.

ON THE 'FLIP' SIDE

We are told the "little guy" is going to remain caught in the middle of the inflation fight for some time to come.

It affects most of us through the rise in prices of all consumer goods ....particularly when we make our weekly visits to the grocery stores.

While we may curse our grocery stores under our breaths, the fact of the matter is, they don't have any control over the price spiral. There may be no other business where the profit margin is so small.

There's bad news for people trying to get money to build homes. A U.S. News & World Report survey of bankers showed that the money men aren't looking for easier money before 1971. Almost none saw any easing before spring.

The banks and savings and loan institutions just don't have the surplus money for mortgages. Afraid of further inflation and climbing interest rates, banks are keeping their money in short-term securities. Depositors, instead of banking their money at 5 percent, are putting more and more money into bonds or U.S. government agency securities that pay 8 percent.

The government won't let the banks pay more than 5 percent, or the savings and loans more than 5¼ percent. Yet the federal agencies come along and offer 8 percent. That's tough competition.

This all just didn't happen. It's part of the government money-management to curb inflation. The government wants to cool off the economy and one of the simpler ways is to put the brakes on home-building.

Trouble is, the people who are hurt are those least able to help themselves - - old people on pensions, blacks and other racial groups, and veterans returning from Vietnam.

Somehow, it doesn't seem right that it's home-building that's stalled, while on all sides we see more gas stations, drive-ins, and taverns going up. Can't the planners do better than that?

The Cub Scouts and Webelos were active in collecting for UNICEF on Halloween. According to their treasurer Pauline Steward, $69.01 was collected and they wish to thank everyone who contributed "Unicef" helps needy children in over 100 countries all over the world.

CUB SCOUT NEWS

Cub Scout Pack 16 held their pack meeting Nov. 8 at the Community School cafeteria. The theme was Buccaneer Days. All the cub schouts from Den 1 and Den 2 were dressed as pirates. The boys from Den 1 had carved and painted swords out of balsa wood. The boys from Den 2 (with the help of willing fathers) had made pirate clipper ships.

Scouting awards were given to Charles Carver, Craig Stewart, Teddy Matthews, Neil Vanden Berg and Jeff Muha. One year pins were given to Craig Stewart and David Muha, Wally Drenth was given a two year pin.

A scroll of appreciation signed by the Weblos Scouts was given to Mr. Evans, Weblo leader. Rev. Ronald Vander Werff is going to be the new Weblo leader. The Webelos will be meeting at the school every Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. At the present time the cub scouts are learning Christmas carols and making Christmas decoration.

The December pack meeting has been set for December 13. On December 16, the Cub Scouts from both dens are going to Meadow Brook at Bellaire to sing Christmas carols.

Snow, anyone? There was more than enough to satisfy the deer hunters. Anyone remember having so much in one night than that on November 14?

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Wynsma and family of Wyoming and Betty Wynsma from Hope College, Holland, were weekend visitors with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wynsma, Sr.

Visiting their mother, Mrs. Anne Osterbaan, Fri. evening and Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Peter D. Osterbaan and family from R.R. Zeeland. Pete as well as Burton came to hunt deer on Saturday.

Cornie Klooster spent Sunday at the home of Jake and Kathryn Timmer.

Mrs. Isabelle Vanden Berg of Six Mile Lake drove to Sault Ste. Marie, Canada, Sunday. Mrs. Ruth Isaacs who had been her guest for a few weeks returned to her home at Sault Ste. Marie at that time.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Petrie and Steve of Durand came Thursday evening. Carl and Steve continued on to the U.P. on Friday while Mrs. Petrie visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Petter and other relatives and friends in this area.

Edwin Petter of Six Mile Lake reports seeing a bull elk about 2 miles west of East Jordan, that being way out of elk range. Other residents of that area have also reported seeing the large elk.

Weekend visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Willard Vander Ark were Mr. and Mrs. Neil Van Vaalkenburg of Grand Rapids, who are the parents of Mrs. Ronald Vander Ark.

Quite a few men folks have gone deer hunting, some hunting locally, some in the U.P. and others out east and at Beaver Island.

Mrs. John Jansen is being treated for a heart condition at Charlevoix Hospital and is showing improvement.

3 C of C directors named

Charlevoix's Chamber of Commerce held its annual dinner meeting Sunday at the Weathervane Inn.

Highlight of the meeting was the introduction of the three new members of the board of directors.

Named were George Richardson, of Weathervane Inn, Inc., Charles Themm, vice president of the First State Bank, and Bruce Bartlett of Bartlett Tile.

Bill Supernaw of radio station WJML, Petoskey, was master of ceremonies at the 4 p.m. dinner. The meal featured Mexican cuisine.

Dance crowd whirls during get-together

The Northwest Michigan Square Dance Council sponsored a Western Square Dance in Charlevoix on November 29. The dance was held at the Charlevoix High School Gym and attracted a crowd of 164 people.

Bev Tallman of Livonia was the special guest caller, and thanks to his efforts, the dance was a real success. Dancers came from Boyne City, Central Lake, Charlevoix, Gaylord, Petoskey, Traverse City, and as far as Sault Ste. Marie.

The only unfortunate part of the evening was that none of the restaurants would agree to remain open to accommodate the dancers, although they'd been asked in advance to do so. After three hours of square dancing, 164 people can be mighty hungry.

The host club of this big dance was the Charlevoix Pairs & Squares. They dance regularly every second and fourth Saturday night at St. Mary's Hall in Charlevoix. Their door is always open to spectators and guests, as well as dancers. See photo, inside.

Kris Lieberman named varsity cheerleader

Kris Lieberman of Charlevoix was recently chosen a member of the Grand Valley State College varsity cheerleading squad. This year's basketball season will find Miss Lieberman and seven other members of the squad leading the college cheering section at all games.

A highlight of the year will be that this is the first season all GVSC home basketball games will be played on-campus in the college's new Field House.

Snowmobile rules set by Council

Charlevoix City Council Monday night discussed the snowmobile problem at the city golf course and adopted a five-point plan to preserve the course.

As announced by the city fathers:

No snowmobiles are allowed in the area of the sixth green (that portion of the course bordered by U.S. Route 31, Mercer and Division Streets);

No snowmobiles or other vehicle is allowed on any playing green or other posted area;

No snowmobiles are to use the golf course unless there is a minimum of four inches of snow on the ground;

No snowmobile is allowed on the course before 8 a.m. or after 11 p.m.;

There shall be no racing or other contests on the course.

Council established the rules following several instances this winter when snowmobilers damaged the course and greens. Last week's issue of the Courier carried two pictures of destruction from snow vehicles.

Council noted that the rules have been placed in effect on a trial basis. Should damage continue, the municipally-owned course will be completely closed to vehicles.

In other action, Council authorized the purchase and installation of a non-directional radio beacon at the city airport to replace the present weak beacon at a total cost of $1,000.

Council also authorized the signing of an easement deed on property at the old USCG station.

Board hears alternatives on school reorganization

If Governor William Milliken's school reform package is passed by the state legislature as presented, what will happen to the Charlevoix School District?

This question was partially answered at Monday's meeting of the local School Board.

The Governor's reform bill, already through the senate, calls for reorganization of school districts whose enrollment totals under 2,000.

With Charlevoix's total number of public school pupils considerably under that figure, the Board directed letters to the state Department of Education and state Representative Bob Davis.

According to David L. Donovan, supervisor of school district reorganization in Lansing, Charlevoix faces three alternatives.

As explained to the Board Monday, Donovan states that Charlevoix "probably will continue as the sight of a high school, due to the county's geography."

His alternatives include a merger with the Ellsworth School District, giving a single district an enrollment of approximately 1,850.

Donovan, in his letter to the Board, stated that this figure would be close enough to the 2,000 total to satisfy the state.

His other alternatives include the formation of a single administrative school district in the county, with two high schools, one of them in Charlevoix.

The third possibility, and the one least likely to meet with local approval, is a merger between Petoskey and Charlevoix schools and the placement of a high school between the two cities.

Rep. Davis wrote the Board that he does not feel the education reform package will pass in its present form, and feels that the local school system will not be physically changed. He, among others, has introduced amendments to that effect.

School Superintendent Rex Milligan expressed concern over the possibilities, and Board President Jack Rader told the Board members to "think about the situation" for discussion at a future meeting.

In other business, the Board moved to develop a general policy and fee schedule for public use of school gymnasiums for recreational purposes.

Several citizens attended the meeting to ask the Board for use of the facilities for basketball or other recreation.

Milligan praised the city for an outstanding summer recreation program, but expressed concern over the program during the winter months, calling it "quite limited".

The Board approved public use of the gymnasiums, and promised to announce a fee schedule at their next meeting.

The Board announced that the plans of the new elementary school have been selected to be displayed at the American Association of School Administrators convention in Atlantic City.

A request by the Gideons was heard by the Board. It was moved to allow the organization to make Bibles available to fifth through ninth grade pupils free of charge.

According to the Board, the Gideons will be allowed to deliver Bibles to the school, and pupils will be permitted to request a copy, but the books will not be distributed by school officials.

A total of $9,008 was requested from the Board for purchase of furnishings in several departments in the Middle School.

Congratulating them are Charles England, Campaign Chairman, and William Peck, Chest President. The Industrial Division has gone over its goal by more than $1,000, the total received to date being $6,222.94. Other divisions exceeding their goals were Special Gifts, $5,054.09 and Professional, $1,706.75. Other divisions reporting are Residential $1,497.35, Outlying Areas, $1,289.88, Commercial, $3,021.00 and Organizations, $135.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER
CHAMBER MANAGER

Maybe some of you have occasion to read "The Beaver Beacon," a mimeographed publication published out at St. James on Beaver Island. Personally, I appreciate the issue very much. I was impressed by the following lines, which appeared on the front page in the November issue received today.

"FORGIVE ME WHEN I WHINE"

"Today upon a bus I saw a lovely Maiden with golden hair; I envied her...She seemed so gay...And oh, I wished I were so fair. When suddenly she rose to leave I saw her hobble down the aisle, She had one foot and wore a crutch, but as she passed, a smile...Oh, God, forgive me when I whine...I have two feet...The world is mine. And when I stopped to buy some sweets, the Lad who served me had such charm; He seemed to radiate good cheer, his manner was so kind and warm. I said, "It's nice to deal with you, such courtesy I seldom find." He turned and said, "Oh, thank you sir!" And then I saw he was blind. Oh, God, forgive me when I whine...I have two eyes...The world is mine. Then, walking down the street I saw a Child with eyes of blue. He stood and watched tye others play; It seemed he knew not what to do. I atopped a moment, then I said, "Why don't you join the others dear?" He looked ahead without a word...And then I knew he could not hear...Oh, God, forgive me when I whine...I have two ears...The world is mine. With feet to take me where I'd go, with eyes to see the sunset glow, With ears to hear what I should know, I'm blessed indeed...

The world is mine. Oh, God, forgive me when I whine.

...Author Unknown

It appears more or less natural to have a certain amount of whining, sometimes it is in order and apparently sometimes it is an excuse for the lack of something else to fit the occasion. It always occurs to me regardless of our personal conditions, stations, or positions in life, there is whining so to speak. Unintentionally, it is overlooked that we have so much to be thankful for. We have a God-given privilege, "power of choice." I have always found it to be quite gratifying to step out of the way to be of some help and/or service or support in one form or another. Regardless of whether the egg or the chicken came first, I am satisfied to feel that in order that one may receive, the need to give is in the first place. What I have in mind as no doubt you can imagine, the position of your Chamber of Commerce in your community, how very little can be done without the community giving and/or supporting.

I was quite surprised to notice the lack of displaying this Chamber of Commerce membership emblem, conspicuously so in our general business area especially. This little piece has a purpose and cannot serve this purpose if it is tucked away out of sight or immediately disposed of.

Thanks to Jim Taylor, retiring City Superintendent, for the additional attractive lights fastened to the light poles (I hope out of reach) in the downtown area. These few pieces certainly add something. It is hoped that next year there can be provided possibly a dozen or a dozen and a half more. Maybe the business people would assist in underwriting the cost or some of it at least.

Sorry, folks, but it appears as though the colored lights will not be put up in a decorative pattern in front of the Chamber Commerce this holiday season, as I feel that a minority of "do it for a kick people" made it too expensive last Christmas.

Too bad--even the snowmobiliers had to abuse a privilege, also.

I should like to hear from any of you babysitters as I am trying to accumulate and keep available a list. I also have an occasional call for a public stenographer. Are there any available?

A reminder

Courier will publish kids' Yule drawings

Again this year, The Courier is for kids at Christmas time. We want them to send up their Yule drawings, their letters to Santa, and their photos.

The drawings must be on white, unruled paper in black pencil, pen or crayon. Only black. They should measure no more than 5 inches by 7 inches. The subject can be anything, anything at all, to do with Christmas as seen most brightly though the eyes of a child.

BILL WES LEO CUTS

With each drawing must be the child's name and age, also the name and address of the parents. We won't be able to print them all, but we'll do our best for the kids who do their best.

As usual, we will print all letters to Santa before sending them on to the North Pole. We will also print snapshot of the youngster, preferable taken while they were writing or drawing.

Now is not too early to start drawing, writing, posing and mailing.

TELEVISION CAN BE USED AS A TRUE TEACHING AID

by Barbara Frengel Reeves

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series by a professional observer of children's TV viewing habits. The author is assistant director of research for The Children's Television Workshop, creators of "Sesame Street," the new series designed to help prepare preschoolers for formal education.

Helping your child with his schoolwork often seems hopeless.

You don't understand the new math yourself, and how can anyone keep all those emerging nations straight?

Here is where television has the advantage.

It is as available to you as to your youngster. It offers limitless opportunities for learning.

First, find out your child's favorite programs. Don't depend on him for an answer because he's likely to mention the first one he thinks of—which might be the one he has just saw or the one coming on next. Check out what he really looks for and really watches during the week. Those are his favorites.

When you find them, sit down with him. As the two of you watch together, try to find out what he's getting out of these programs. Once he gets over the initial shock of your being there, he'll begin to share his thoughts with you.

Use these programs as a springboard for daily activities.

For example, if he talks about the pig on "Green Acres," use this opportunity to teach him more about animals. If he thrills at the Batmobile, teach him about cars. You don't have to be a mechanic to know the difference between a convertible and a station wagon.

The producers of "Sesame Street" are publishing a Parent/Teacher Guide each month to help parents who are interested in doing follow-up activities with their children. It is available through your local educational TV Station or by sending $2 to Guide, Box 9140, St. Paul, Minn. 55177.

Even without the guide, there are many simple things you can do on your own.

Encourage your child to find various channels himself. Locating Channel 2, or 13, or whatever, is a painless way to help him learn his numbers.

Time is another concept that TV can make more understandable to a young mind. Your child probably has a good idea of when his programs are on the air. Perhaps he'll describe one as "Right before Casper." When he does this, relate it to the hour. Say "That's right, Casper is on at 5:30 and Batman comes on at 6 o'clock. Here's where the hands will be on the clock when Batman comes on."

Perhaps the most important use you can make of television is to encourage your child to express himself. Get him to tell you about a program he watched. If it has an intricate plot he prepared for a nonstop onslaught!

Ask him questions about the program. What did Beaver do next? Why do you like Captain Kangaroo? What does Flipper eat?

Television is similar to other activities you share with your child. As you become more involved in the things that interest and attract him, you'll find out more about him.

This is one of the rewards of being a parent.

Pat's Reaction

Purposeful peeping

I hear that there's been a peeping tom around Charlevoix, and this seems like a pretty aimless occupation to me. This poor soul must need some direction. After all if he's going to peep he should peep with a purpose. Actually I wish that he'd hurry over to my house, for I could keep him busy and happy.

But, Dear Peeping Tom, don't enter at night through the back door for Ann keeps her roller skates in the back hall and if you stepped on those and went spinning you might spin head first into the kitty litter.

And for heaven's sakes, don't ever try to sneek in through the basement because you might hit your head on one of the sailboat masts which are suspended from the ceiling, or you might kick your shins on the children roll-around toy or the work bench.

But if you do manage to survive the obstacle course of the six bicycles and the eight pairs of skis in the basement do be careful going up the stairs for that's where I keep the ski boots stacked. And at the landing don't hit the hanging brooms and mops or trip over the four cat dishes on the big tin tray. There's a dish of water, one of dry cat food, and one of canned cat food. And there's one dish filled with vanilla ice cream each day for my old calico cat who was such a good mouser in her day.

No, Peeping Tom, if you're going to peep come on in the front door and announce yourself. Quick as a whistle I'll give you something to peep about. We have 55 windows in our house and nearly all of them are dirty, so I'll just hand you a big bottle of Windex and a fistful of rags and you can get to work peeping and cleaning.

You are welcome to peep both ways through the third floor bedroom windows. In fact, I invite you to do so. You will see dirt on either side. I'll even provide you with some extension ladders so that you can get up there and do the job well. You will have a ball.

As an added incentive in my own second floor bathroom I have no shade, only a thin curtain. This is because I felt that only someone happening by, hanging by his heels from helicopter could possibly peep in. But if you want to try it, okay.

I've never been one to lounge around in a filmy negligee, but I'll buy one if this is the incentive that you need to clean my fifty-five windows.

If you'll just knock at the window I'll even flit from room to room in my gauzy gown and point out the dirty marks that you may have missed during your cleaning. Certainly this would be an inspiration to you.

Actually after the great rains this past October I started peeping and cleaning windows in my own house, but I just got discouraged. I worked for six hours, broke two storm windows and got less than half of the first and second floors cleaned. It's a terrible job. I didn't have any fun at all.

But if you want to do it, you're welcome to the job, so just knock at my front door and I'll hand you the window cleaner. At my house you could be happy and useful, peeping and cleaning for the next two weeks.

Pollution danger stressed by expert

A specialist in water problems has warned northern Michigan resort communities to face up to the growing menace of water pollution or face economic catastrophe.

C. Robert Llewellyn said tourism-oriented areas that believe they are immune to the water-pollution problems of large urban industrial centers are "living in a fools paradise."

"True, resort area such as Petoskey, Traverse City, Charlevoix and Cheboygan have no steel mills or auto plants, but on a relative scale the dangers are even greater here because of our dependence on tourism," Llewellyn told a meeting of the Petoskey Optimist Club.

"If we do not have clean, fresh water in our lakes and streams we have nothing," Llewellyn said, "and the tragedy will be reflected in boarded-up shops and stores and a general economic decline."

Llewellyn cited the declining quality of Little Traverse Bay and the mounting incidence of pollution in northern Michigan's lakes and rivers.

"If we stopped polluting Lake Michigan this very minute, it would take 200 years for existing pollutants to be reduced to one-half their original concentration," Llewellyn, a regional executive of Culligan, Inc., a water-conditioning firm, said.

"Research suggests that the recovery time for Little Traverse Bay may even be longer," he added.

Llewellyn praised a proposal that the City of Petoskey stop discharging sewage into Little Traverse Bay as a "course of action that should be carefully studied by other communities."

But he said what is needed is an awareness on the part of businessmen, community leaders and private citizens of the scope of the problem and a willingness to support anti-pollution measures, "whatever the cost."

"We have the advantage of time," Llewellyn said. "But it is borrowed time, and we have the responsibility to use it wisely."

Library Notes

The Charlevoix Library is festive with Christmas books on display. There are old favorites and classics for the children including Dicken's "Christmas Carol," "Nine Days to Christmas", "Mother Makes Christmas", "With Bells On", "Peter and the Wolf," "The Christmas Puppy" and the delightful "Christmas Mouse." In addition, are charming, more modern books such as "Noel for Jeanne Marie," "The Wise Men's Camel Boy," "Paddy's Christmas" and "Aerne and the Christmas Star."

For the family, the Library has a large and varied selection of record albums which are available for circulation, plus an assortment of Christmas sheet music and carols. Read-together books include "The Light of Christmas," an anthology of fiction and non-fiction combined to give a beautifully varied picture of the meaning of Christmas past and present. The selections range in setting from Biblical to modern times. "The Holly Tree and Other Christmas Stories" by Charles Dickens needs no introduction. "Stories to Read at Christmas" contains a selected group of stories to read aloud. The shortest ones take approximately 11 minutes, the longest about 25 minutes. "Christmas Everywhere" deals with the observance of Christmas in such widely separated places as Mexico, India, Japan, China, Persia, Turkey and Australia. "Tiny Tim Pine," by William Ratigan is the sad tale of the little pine tree who was so small that even Santa Clause passed him by.

There is a wide selection of how-to-make-books and magazines with illustrations and decorations for making Christmas candies, cookies, breads, tree decorations, cards and gifts.

Foundation sells cards

The Michigan Chapter, Arthritis Foundation is selling a Christmas Card depicting "The Old Covered Bridge."

The card evokes a holiday mood with its rural setting, the winding snow covered road, the brown wooden bridge with its entrance flanked by rows of sno-covered trees, and the blue skies reflecting on white snow.

The cards may be purchased for $3.75 per box of 25, from the Michigan Arthritis Foundation, 27308 Southfield Road, Lathrup Village, Michigan, 48075.

Proceeds help support programs of the Michigan Chapter, the nation's first voluntary arthritis organization.

Grange meets in Barnard

The Barnard Home extension club held its Nov. meeting in the Barnard Grange Hall.

Christmas ideas for decoration and gifts were shown. The lesson "Holiday Warm Up" was given by Mrs. Lawrence Boss and Mrs. Sanford Matchett.

Refreshments and an hour of visiting was enjoyed by all.

This meeting was in honor of all new ladies in our community.

Plans were made for the club's family Christmas Party which will be held Dec. 13, at 8 p.m. at the grange hall.

Ruppe reports

"Can you give me any information about the new Rural Affairs Council?" On Nov. 6, the President announced the establishment of a Rural Affairs Council, to coordinate government activities of special benefit to non-metropolitan American. This Council will first, help to upgrade government services, to rural areas, which I feel, have too long been neglected. It will, for instance, seek to rectify the fact that one third of our rural communities with a population of 1,000 have no public sewage facilities. It will seek to improve education programs in some areas, it is shocking to note that some 3 million rural Americans have not completed 5 years of schooling. Finally, it will aid the one-third of our rural population that is forced to exist in substandard housing.

But, the Council will do more than attempt to rectify present rural problems. It will seek to help local people create opportunities for economic growth and social development. In a time of urban overcrowding, we must see to it that the resources and potential manpower of our vast rural areas are fully utilized.

Since coming to Congress, I have stressed the need to upgrade our rural areas. As you may know, I introduced legislation to create a Hoover-like Commission to study rural development and to recommend action programs for countryside America. I have, further been working with executive department officials to establish a tax-incentive program which would stimulate industrial growth in designated rural areas. I am hopeful that I will have the opportunity to work with this new Council on regional economic development plans, and I will support the Council in every way possible.

Supper at Nazarene

The annual "Missionary Christmas" supper was enjoyed last Thursday by the families of the Charlevoix Church of the Nazarene in their fellowship room.

Mrs. Erwin Smalley, president of the local unit of the Nazarene World Missionary Society, directed the arrangements for the planned potluck meal.

The regular missionary service for December was held in the Sanctuary after the meal.

Swing into the world of outdoor cooking with PATIO SWINGER

Cook out—day or night—with Siegler's new gas grill and light combination.

COOK
THRU
WINTER

Barbecuing's a breeze on this new cook-out combination. The clean, effortless gas grill is easy on the cook—provides real outdoor flavor that keeps guests coming back for seconds. The handsome, romantic gas light is great for evening patio parties—gives plenty of light to cook under and makes the whole patio brighter, more cheerful.

We built your Patio Swinger tough to take all kinds of weather without a whimper. And designed it for convenience, too.

No need to lean over the grill when raising the top . . . it can be raised from both sides with either hand. And raised sides shield the grill from gusty winds while providing solid support for the rotisserie.

Crank up another convenient feature! Patio Swinger's exclusive crank lowers the grid to sear a juicy steak or raises it to slowly barbecue a tender rack of ribs. And you'll never have to turn your back on the party. The grill rotates 360 degrees!

Model SG-P
Portable with Wheels
Portable Model including rubber-tired wheels, cast base, chrome handle for easy moving.
Model SG-G
Grill Post-Mounted without Light
Post Model (post in ground) for permanent installation. Also available for deck or patio mounting with special adaptors.
Model SG-L
Grill Light Combination
Post-Mounted

ONLY SIEGLER'S PATIO SWINGER OFFERS SO MANY HELPFUL FEATURES

1. EXCLUSIVE: Throw away those asbestos gloves. You can raise or lower the grid just by turning the crank! Sear meats right over the coals . . . then raise grid up to 5½" to cook to perfection. Only Siegler has it!

2. SUPER-SIZE STAINLESS STEEL COOKING GRID—For party size service, the Patio Swinger grid is a full 24" x 15½". The turned up sides provide extra rigidity and make food easy to remove with the spatula. High quality stainless steel for a lifetime of service.

3. UNIFORM BRIQUETTES FOR EVEN HEAT—A specially designed grate holds briquettes uniformly over burner for even heat distribution. And they're all the same size so chips won't fall through the grate.

4. SPECIAL BUN WARMER—Hamburgers taste better on hot, toasty buns. These sturdy racks are specially placed for perfect heating—with never a scorched bun.

5. RAISED SIDES BLOCK WIND—High side design shields the cooking grid from changes in the wind and offers solid support for the rotisserie. The grill can be rotated 360°.

6. LIFT TOP FROM EITHER SIDE—No reaching over the hot grill to open top. Open the Patio Swinger with either hand.

Ruppe Reports

Each week, I receive a number of letters from constituents who wish to protest the misleading advertising, the unfair packaging, or other inadequacies of a purchased product. There seems to be little recourse for these victimized consumers, who very often justly feel that they have been cheated. They write to ask for help, not only for themselves, but for every American citizen who has been sold an item under false pretenses.

Congress, in past years, has attempted to equalize somewhat the position of the producer and the consumer. The Food and Drug Act with its amendments has been effective in protecting the consumer from harmful foods and drugs. Likewise, the Fair Packaging and Labeling Act guarantees that the consumer is not misled about a product's weight content. And last week, the President signed into law a provision to protect children from dangerous toys.

I do not think, however, that such legislation goes far enough, because the individual citizen still has nowhere to turn when subject to unfair selling practices. I have, consequently, introduced new legislation to establish an Office of Consumer Affairs. This office would coordinate all Federal programs and activities affecting consumers. It would represent the consumer and his interests before Federal agencies. More importantly, it would serve as a clearing house for consumer information. The average citizen would finally have an agency to turn to, when he has a consumer complaint. Each customer would, finally, have a national office working, and asking questions, in his behalf.

President Nixon has endorsed the general concept of a Consumer Affairs Office. He has expressed his hope that such an office could resolve conflicts, initiate research, and recommend improvements in government policies affecting consumers. He has urged, further, that a consumer protection division be established by the Department of Justice, and that stronger consumer laws be enacted. I feel, as does the President, that the need for greater consumer protection is urgent, and I will work for speedy passage of new legislation in the House.

Major Vote of the Week: H. R. 14580. The Foreign Assistance Act of 1969. Passed 176-163. PER vote: Yea. Since the Department of Defense has announced a cutback of 8.6 billion dollars in new spending authority needs for the 1970 fiscal year, I feel that our nation is finally beginning to shift emphasis from military involvement to economic and technical assistance in foreign nations. For this reason, I voted in favor of the foreign aid authorization. I feel that I must, however, work to reduce this year's appropriation for foreign aid to the spending level of last year.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Phillips have returned to their studies at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo after spending the long weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Phillips.

The Red Rayders, fresh from a triumph over Petoskey will be in action twice next week, as most conference schools play games on Friday and Saturday nights. It could be a real big test for the Rayders, playing at home Friday against Rogers City, then taking to the road for their stiffest test of the young season at Cheboygan.

The Rayders had a well-balanced scoring attack against neighboring Petoskey, and tripped the Northmen, 74-69. Leading the way were Kraag Lieberman and Stewart Coleman with 19 each, followed by Norm Ostrum with 14. The Northmen had four men in double figures with John Helbert's 19 points leading the way.

Rogers City had a 37 point performance from Paul Newhouse in beating TCSF, 82-73, but had a poor showing in their opening loss to Gaylord two weeks ago. The Hurons aren't strong enough to win here Friday.

Cheboygan's Chiefs picked up where they left off last year, and looked good in beating Gaylord, 63-51. The Chiefs were a strong pre-season pick to finish in the upper portion of the conference standings, and could be well on their way should they get by Charlevoix Saturday.

The Chiefs have a well-balanced scoring attack led by Joe Beatty, Dan Nieland, and Greg Johnson. This threesome teamed up with 54 points against Gaylord last week.

The Northmen can expect plenty of trouble this week as they face strong teams from Boyne City and St. Ignace, and could quite likely find themselves deep in the cellar come Saturday night.

Petoskey is at Boyne City Friday night. Boyne dropped a one point decision to highly favored St. Ignace two weeks ago, but clobbered Alpena CC, 84-69 last weekend. The Ramblers look strong in their first two games, and are favored here.

The Northmen will jump right out of the frying pan and into the fire as they play host to the always tough St. Ignace Saints on Saturday night in the Northmen gym. It should be a good match between Petoskey's Bob Vratanina and St. Ignace's Leo Donovan. The Northmen won here last year, but it would be out of the question Saturday.

The Saints will be busy Friday night hosting Alpena CC, but the Thunderbolts will be outclassed here.

Another team in for trouble this week could be Traverse City St. Francis. After taking on Cheboygan on Friday night in Traverse City, they must travel up to Gaylord the next night. Their appears little, if any chance for the Gladiators to pick up their first win of the season.

Boyne City plays their Saturday night game at Rogers City, and could be in a good position to pick up their third straight win of the season. The Hurons are known to be tough cookies on their home floor, and proved it last weekend in beating St. Francis. The Ramblers could well be the surprise team of the conference this season, making height and aggressive play pay off.

Eight games in two days. This should really separate the men from the boys, and sort of shape up things to come. The way it looks from here, the league champion could drop as many as two or three games and still win it.

Debaters in match

The CHS debate team traveled to Michigan State University December 6, to compete in the Spartan Invitation High School Debate Tournament. Both Charlevoix teams attending participated in the novice division which was only for first year or beginning debaters.

Competing from Charlevoix was Chris Carey and Jeanne Smith, affirmative, and David Hess and Linda Gill, negative.

Each team debated in four rounds with the Charlevoix affirmative team winning three and losing one and the negative team winning one and losing three.

So, they returned home with a 4 and 4 record and a little more debating experience.

Rod & Gun elects officers

Charlevoix's Rod & Gun Club elected officers for the coming year at a meeting last week.

Elected were: Frank Zednicek, president; Dave Cease, vice president; Clarence Koteskey, secretary; Jerry Paul, treasurer.

Re-elected to the Board of Directors were O.V. Cunningham and Clare Staley.

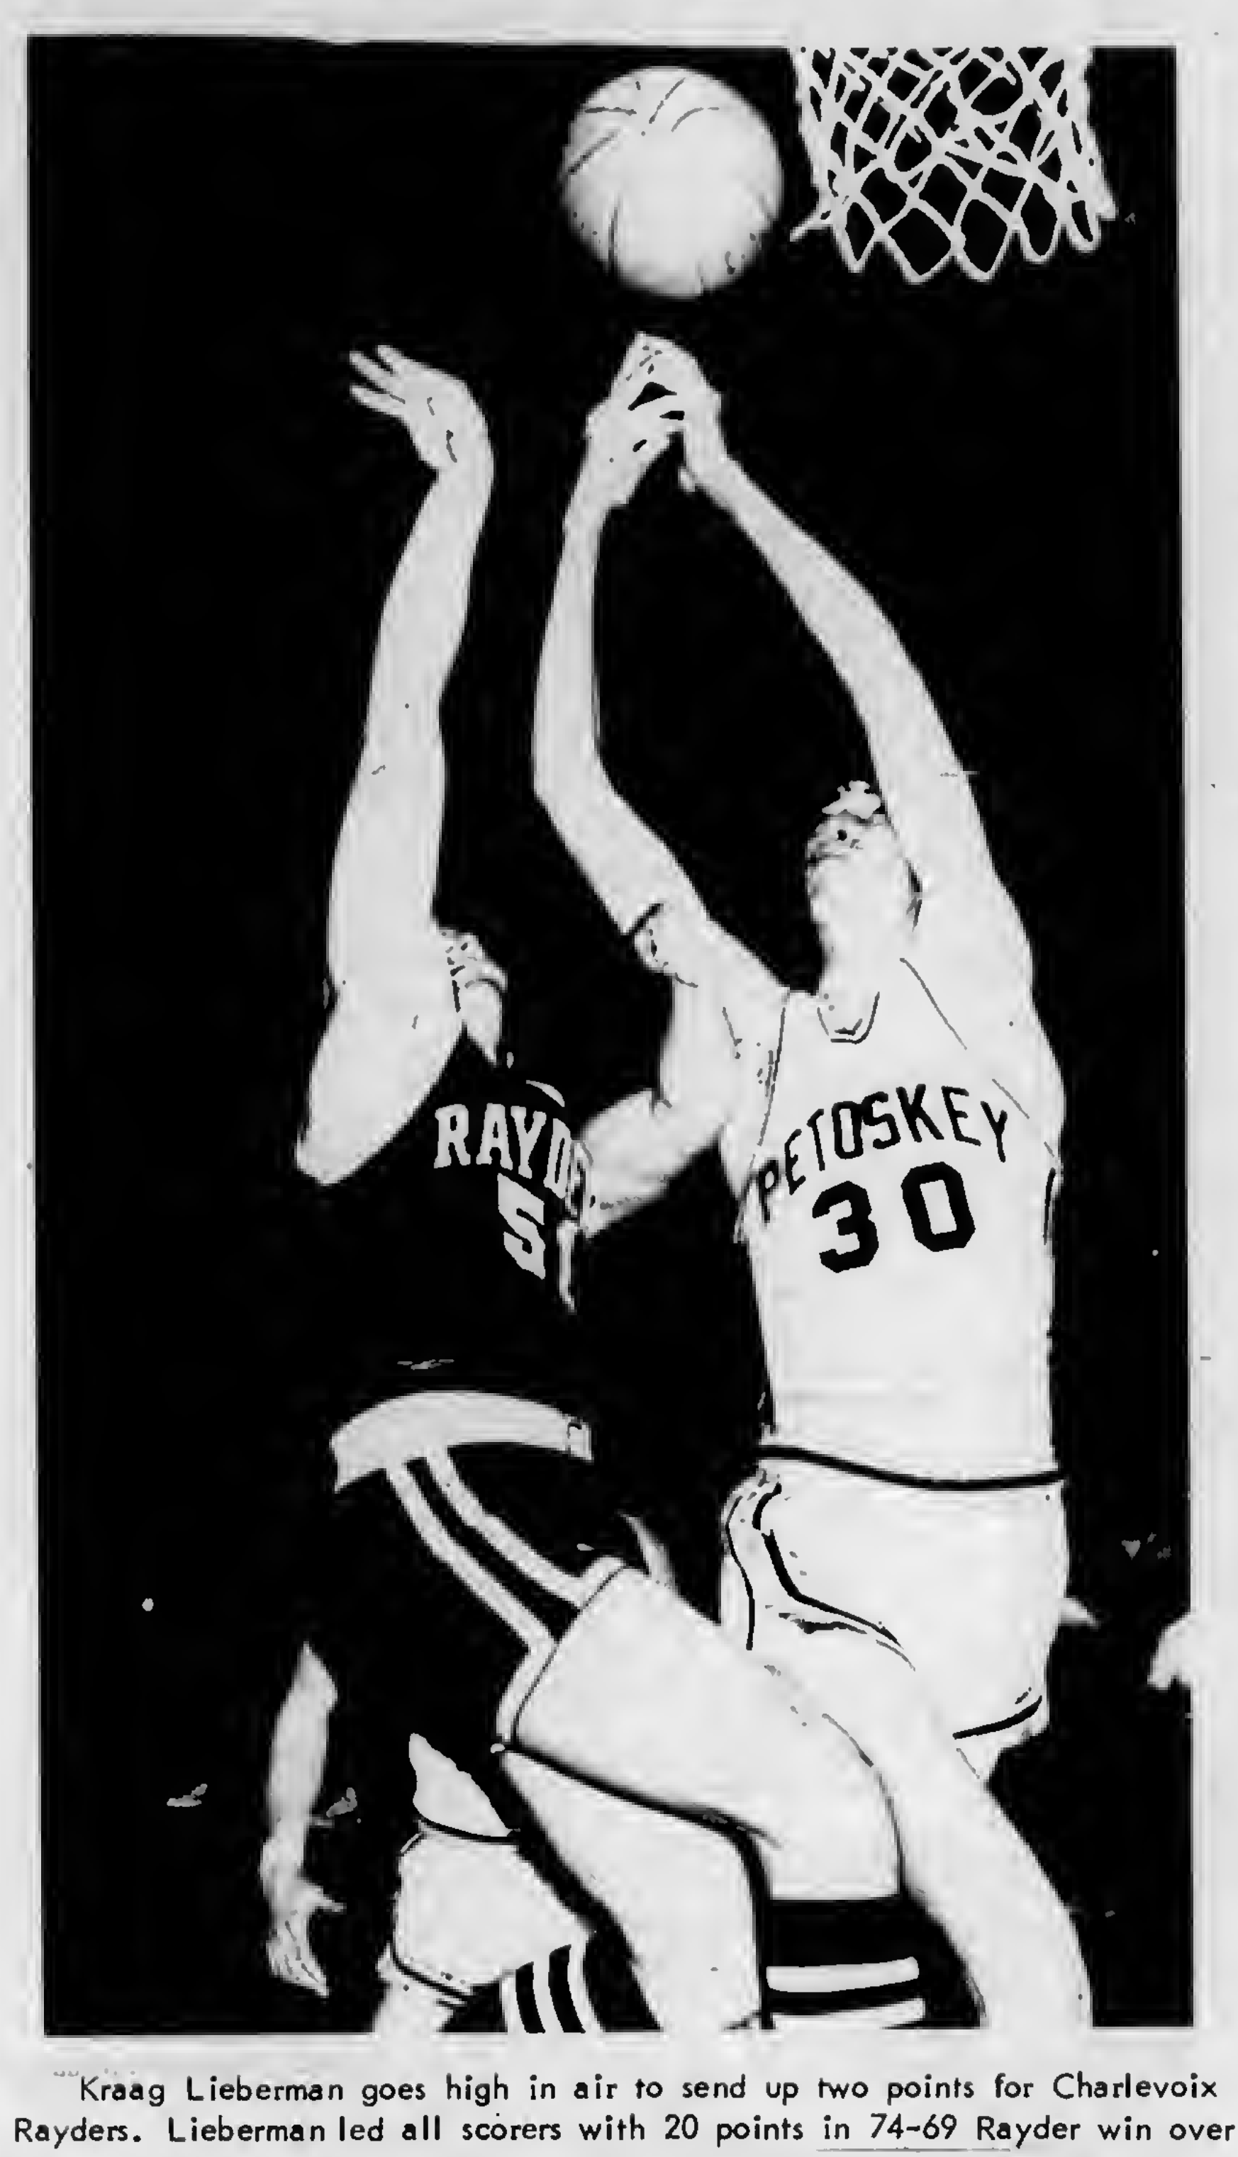
Red Rayders first after 74-69 win over Northmen



Kraag Lieberman goes high in air to send up two points for Charlevoix Rayders. Lieberman led all scorers with 20 points in 74-69 Rayder win over Petoskey last Friday.

The Charlevoix Red Rayders took over first place in the Michigan Huron Shores Conference with a 74-69 victory over the Northmen of Petoskey High School. The comparitively small Rayders withstood a late surge by the much taller Northmen.

Led by the sharp outside shooting of guard Stew Coleman, and Kraag Lieberman's under-the-basket-duties, the Rayders took a ten point lead at the end of the first quarter. Charlevoix connected on 80 percent of their shots which was another key factor in their early lead.

Petoskey didn't get rolling until the third quarter when replacement John Helbert moved into the center position and the starting center, Bob Vratanina, moved to the forward slot. This allowed Helbert to take over under the basket and scored 11 points in the third quarter.

The Northmen had 19 of 23 shots at the free line but the Rayders held a 31-25 margin in the field goal department.

The leading scorer for Charlevoix was Kraag Lieberman with 20 points followed closely by Stew Coleman with 19. Norm Ostrum posted 13 for the Rayder cause.

The leader of the Northmen scorers was Steve Splan with 18 followed by Helbert with 17 and Vratanina. While doing a good job on defense, Dennis McGeath also scored 12 points.

In the final stanza, the Northmen came within six points of Charlevoix but with Coleman, Lieberman and Ostrum accounting for all 21 points in the final period, the Rayders were able to hang on to win.

In the Junior Varsity game, the Rayders made a sweep by defeating the little Northmen by a 59-52 score.

At half time the Rayders were ahead by twelve with a score of 38-26. The third quarter saw the Northmen slice off a few of the Rayders leading points, but they were themselves outscored by the Rayders 13-11.

Jerry Pease led all scorers with 27 while Doug Graham was high for Petoskey with 20 followed by Jim Conway who scored 12.

Charlevoix, Michigan

Dear Sir:

If it would be possible I would appreciate having the enclosed article printed in one of the issues of the Charlevoix Courier. This article contains several items of information that are typical of present times and should be brought to the attention of the general public in hopes that they will stimulate serious thought.

Sincerely,
Roger A. Olney

COINCIDENCE?

In May of 1919 at Dussaldorf, Germany, the allied forces obtained a copy of some of the "Communist Rules for Revolution." Nearly 50 years later, the Reds are still following the rules. As you read list, stop after each item and think about the present day situation where you live and around our nation. We quote from the Red Rules:

A. Corrupt the young: get them away from religion. Get them interested in sex. Make them superficial; destroy their ruggedness.

B. Get control of all means of publicity, thereby:

1. Get people's minds off their government by focusing their attention on athletics, sexy books and plays and other trivialities.

2. Divide the people into hostile groups by constantly harping on controversial matters of no importance.

3. Destroy the people's faith in their natural leaders by holding the latter up to contempt, ridicule, abloquy.

4. Always preach true democracy, but seize power as fast and as ruthlessly as possible.

5. By encouraging government extravagance, destroy its credit, produce fear of inflation with rising prices and general discontent.

6. Promote unnecessary strikes in vital industries, encourage civil disorders and foster a lenient and soft attitude on the part of the government toward such disorders.

7. By specious argument cause the breakdown of the old moral virtues, honesty and sobriety.

C. Cause the registration of all firearms on some pretext with a view to confiscating them and leaving the population helpless.

This was quite a list, wasn't it? Now stop and think how many of these rules are beung carried out in the nation today. I don't see how any thinking person can truthfully say that the communists do not have any part in the chaos that is upsetting our nation. Or is it just one big coincidence? I doubt it.

Freedom to choose

The freedom of opportunity for every Charlevoixan to work at an available job for which he is qualified is an objective of our way of life. Employment and assignment to jobs should be determined solely by matching an individual's skills and qualifications with the requirements of an available position.

The proposed Employment Opportunities Enforcement Act–designed to eliminate unlawful hiring practices–would give the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission almost unlimited power, including cease-and-desist orders patterned after those of the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB).

It would necessitate the addition of substantial numbers of lawyers and hearing examiners, together with a large supportive staff, at a time when the Administration is making sincere efforts to reduce the size of the federal bureaucracy. Also, the act would combine within one agency the power to enforce the purposes and policies of the Act, and, at the same time, serve as a decisional agency on questions of fact and law.

Experience has proved that it is impossible for a single agency to serve both as an advocate and an impartial judge. Broader enforcement authority will not prove an effective remedy.

Opposition to the proposed legislation in no way indicates that we are opposed to equal employment opportunities for everyone. We strongly support efforts to assure this objective, but we believe that those who create and sustain jobs should not be subjected to unnecessary harassment. We feel that the courts should review in full any alleged violation so as to protect the rights of all parties.

Christmas Seals time

With Thanksgiving behind us, we all begin to point towards Christmas.

And, most of us in Charlevoix County have received Christmas Seals through the mails. This traditional fund-raising event has done much for many.

Let's not forget the place a small check in the mail this year. And, put Christmas Seals on all your holiday mail.

Our representatives

As a public service, the Courier offers readers the address of our legislative representatives in Washington and Lansing.

Questions, problems, comments or opinions can be directed to them....the results are often surprisingly favorable.

Pay to hunt?

The State Department of Natural Resources (DNR - formerly Conservation Dept) has quietly buried plans for pay-to-shoot pheasant hunting on state land.

There seems to be two reasons: Opposition from some sportsmen groups and built-in bureaucratic inertia.

The opposition comes from traditionalists who feel free hunting is a national heritage and the right of every citizen. The inertia is built-in because government provides few incentives for its officials to serve the people better. No bureaucrat ever got in trouble standing pat.

In this case, standing pat means the average citizen is not going to have pheasant hunting in Michigan. Pheasant hunting is now almost a dead sport. The pheasants just aren't there. The picture is the same across the entire pheasant range from the Dakotas to New England. No one is sure of the reasons, but the long decline rules out a cyclical drop that can be expected to reverse itset.

The DNR had an opportunity to try out pay-to-shoot pheasant hunting. Private operators offered to lease state land, or operate it on a percentage basis. The DNR would have had no investment and no financial risk. If the idea didn't work, it could have been abandoned in a year.

If the idea had worked, pheasant hunters could have been assured of shooting-at a cost of about $5 per bird. That's about half what it costs at private clubs (including dues and other charges) because private clubs have the cost of land ownerships.

$5 a bid doesn't sound cheap but it's said the average hunter now makes a round trip of 100 miles to go pheasant hunting. Figure car, gun, license, lunch and possible dog costs and we think a lot of hunters would be happy to throw in another $10 for a couple of birds.

At the very least, the DNR owes Michigan sportsmen a chance to try the idea. The sportsmen's money was used to buy thousands of acres of public hunting land. Now, let's see if we can provide some hunting on it.

9 wishes to success

These are the thoughts of one of the greatest poet-philosophers of our western heritage. Although written 200 years ago, they make every bit as much sense today. They are Goethe's 9 wishes for a successful life:

"Health enough to make work a pleasure.
Wealth enough to support your needs
Strength enough to battle with difficulties and overcome them
Grace enough to confess your signs and forsake them
Patience enough to toil until some good is accomplished
Charity enough to see some good in your neighbor
Love enough to move you to be useful and helpful to others
Faith enough to make real the things of God
Hope enough to remove all anxious fears concerning the future."

LET'S STOP preaching idiotic axioms to our kids, such as: "Quitters never win and winners never quit." One that makes more sense is that a good big man will beat a good little man every time, and you'd better believe it.

A defense against Spiro

First the TV networks. Then the New York Times. Spiro Agnew is obviously working his way up and it is only a matter of time before he gets around to small-town editors. I plan to be ready for him.

Spiro says we writers are no longer free from criticism. Which sure shows how dumb I am. I always figured I was the most criticized slob in town.

At the country club recently, several merchants kept tripping me as I walked around the pool table. And under the poker table, they kicked my shins. They were peeved because I'd printed that they should have uniform store hours instead of each store locking the customers out on a different half-day. "Let's hang him," said a car dealer, "but not until he buys a round." Only my economical nature saved my life. Fortunately I had brought my round for 1969 the month before.

On my desk right now is a sweet postcard from a reader who really knows how to hurt a guy. He sends me an insulting note every week, which is bad enough, but he doesn't even pay the postage. The newspaper pays it. This clown somehow got a large supply of our return-postage-paid cards. You are supposed to use these cards to order subscriptions but this anonymous bird uses them to call me names. The latest message said: "You nigger lover. You want to raise a nation of half-breeds and mulattos. I'd hate to see your family. Why don't you wake up and wise up?"

I wasn't particularly stung by the snide reference to my family because I don't get along so well with them, either. In fact, they are my severest critics. My wife says I'm unfair to women, my daughter won't speak to me because I wrote she didn't play the guitar so hot, and my smart-aleck son goes through every edition with a black crayon, circling misspelled words.

Geez, I remember once when I wrote that our churches were full of prejudiced phonies. The next day I walked down main street and so many people crossed to the other side to avoid me, the downtown area tilted.

But Spiro Agnew says newspsper writers weren't criticized until he came along. And from now on we should be prepared to defend ourselves, he says.

Far be it for me to argue with the man who is a breath away from this nation's top office. I might better spend my spare time praying for President Nixon's health.

But just recently, while in a rather giddy mood, I did write something like this: "The name of Spiro Agnew has now become a household word. In my household, some young rebel wrote it on the basement bathroom wall."

That's just the type of thing Spiro was talking about. He doesn't believe in censorship by government, but he doesn't believe in censorship by newspapers, either. His scorn is for the news executives who censor the available news, choosing what to print and what to scrap. Some dummies call this editing, not censoring, but what were they ever vice president of?

The next time you go to the butcher, don't accept those lean pork chops, so neatly trimmed from the whole pig. Insist that all the discarded fat be included, too. Tell 'em Agnew sent you.

In the meantime, I am preparing my defense. My offense, as I see it, was taking a quote out of context and applying it unfairly.

So I am making a list of all the other dirty words on that bathroom wall.

ON THE 'FLIP' SIDE

By now residents of Charlevoix have received their 1969 Christmas Seals.

There is a long history behind the Christmas Seals that are used to raise funds for the operation of the Michigan Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

It was 65 years ago that the first Christmas Seal was conceived. It originated in Denmark where a post office worker thought contributions to the Seals would raise money for poor children sick with tuberculosis.

In the United Sttates, during those days, tuberculosis was known as the "White Plague." It was very difficult to get anti-tuberculosis dollars because the public felt is was a hopeless disease.

A few doctors, led by Dr. Edward Livingston Trudeau, a pioneer in the fight against TB, were treating several charity patients in an open-air shack near Wilmington, Delaware. Results from the fresh-air treatment were encouraging but financial support had ceased. Rather than send their patients home, one of the doctors turned to his cousin, Emily Bissell, a fellow health worker who felt tuberculosis could be cured, and asked her to help raise more money. She remembered a magazine article about the Christmas Seal of Denmark and in 1907 she designed and sold the first Christmas Seal in the U.S.

The profit, a total of $3,000 was used to support a little tuberculosis hospital in Delaware.

Ever since, the Seals have been fighting for the prevention and eradication of tuberculosis, still the nation's number one infectious disease killer.

This year, as in more recent years, the Christmas Seals also stand for the fight against other respiratory diseases as well as their causes. Emphysema and chronic bronchitis, for instance, accounted for 1,359 deaths in Michigan in 1968.

This year the colorful Seals show a dozen happy, healthy children dancing around a Christmas tree. The designer, Miss Bernice Kochan, a resident of Cleveland, Ohio, and a commercial artist, competed against other artists in "A Call for Artists" national contest from which her Seals were chosen for the 1969 Christmas Seal campaign.

Contributions to Christmas Seals also help the Michigan TB and Respiratory Disease Association fight asthma and hay fever as well as air pollution and cigarette smoking.

All Charlevoix residents are urged to answer their appeal letter as soon as possible and to use the colorful Seals on all their holiday mail.

The 1960 Community Chest campaign surpassed its goal by $656.11 with a total of $9,131.11.

The Charlevoix City Council voted to engage a firm from Ann Arbor to study the city's electrical power system.

There was a noted drop in the killing of deer this season. The hunters blamed the drop on the weather.

The Charlevoix Rayders opened up their 1959-60 basketball season with a 50-16 win over Pellston.

Mrs. Parsons on television

Mrs. William Parsons of rural Charlevoix will be a guest on the television program "Accent Agriculture" produced in the studios of WPBN, Channel 7, in Traverse City. Her appearance is scheduled for Wednesday, December 17, at 6:45 a.m. Hosting the show will be David Mead a member of the state staff of Michigan Farm Bureau, and a representative in the counties of Northwestern lower Michigan.

Mrs. Parsons, who is chairman of the County Farm Bureau's membership drive presently under way, is in Washington, D.C., this week. She is among approximately 300 Farm Bureau leaders who are making the trip from Michigan, to attend the 50th Anniversary Celebration of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Attendence at the Washington meeting is expected to set a new record when 6,000 farmers and ranchers gather from 50 states and Puerto Rico to observe their golden anniversary. In 1969 approximately 1,850,000 families voluntarily chose to join Farm Bureau, making it the world's largest farm organization.

Secretary of Agriculture, Clifford M. Hardin, will address the convention at the opening session, following the annual address of Charles B. Shuman, president of the Federation. Other top United States Department of Agriculture officials who will appear at the meeting include: Dr. Thomas K. Cowden, Assistant secretary for rural development and conservation; Clarence D. Palmby, assistant secretary for international affairs and commodity programs.

The week will continue with conferences in various fields of agriculture and will conclude on Thursday with the final adopting of policy resolutions by the voting delegates of the member State Farm Bureaus.

In her television interview the morning of December 17, Mrs. Parsons will share her experiences and impressions of the national annual meeting as "Accent Agriculture" strives for closer rural-urban understanding.

Groups to meet

The Charles Dickens Study Group will meet at 1:30 p.m., at the home of Mrs. Clark Coulter, Park Avenue. Dickens Christmas traditions will provide the theme for this meeting. Mrs. Harley Ochs will review Dickens' Christmas Carol.

The Discussion Group of the Charlevoix Woman's Club will meet on December 15, at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Ethel Wiesinger, 201 Petoskey Avenue. This will be a continuation of the discussion begun at the November meeting on the need for sex education in the schools and the need to establish guidelines for planning such programs.

There will be no other interest group meetings during the month of December.

The next regular meeting of the Charlevoix Woman's Club will be on January 5, at 1:30 p.m., at the First State Bank Community Room. The program for this meeting will be presented by the Discussion Group. Mrs. John Finegan, Associate Director of "Michigan Partners of the Alliance" will tell about this partnership program between the people of Michigan and the people of British Honduras, and will show films to illustrate what the program is accomplishing.

The ladies and young girls of the Church of the Nazarene honored Mrs. Thomas Rash, wife of the pastor, at a birthday party which they held in the home of Mrs. C.J. Fiedler at North Point.

They served a buffet supper and decorated the tables in a Christmas theme. Mrs. Delbert Batdorff arranged a rectangular centerpiece of holly greens and tall spikes of velvet red poinsettas.

Since Mrs. Rash is a teacher the social hour featured "A Day in School." Walnuts concealed a scroll with a thought on food from the Bible, and Biblical questions on history, home economics and arithmetic.

Miss Lisa Fiedler directed a treasure hunt for the girls who attended; Kristina Fiedler, Darlene Smalley, Debby Smalley, Linda White, Carol White, Barbara White and Debby Batdorff.

Other guests who attended were Mrs. Mae Barror, Miss Agnes Lombard, Mrs. Lena Lombard, Mrs. Erwin Smalley, Miss Linda Smalley, and Mrs. John Stevens.

We were shocked and saddened to hear of the sudden death of Ole Lynklip at his home in Detroit Friday morning. Mr. Lynklip was a native of our community, having attended our local school and he and his family spent their vacations in his family home and attended our local church. Burial will be in Detroit. Everyone of our church and community extend their sympathy to Mrs. Alice Lynklip and family.

Mr. and Mrs. William LaValley have moved their trailer home, and are building a permanent home in its place.

The special Church meeting this past Sunday afternoon was well attended and plans are in the making for new programs and functions to be presented after the holiday season. Also, the family night dinner was enjoyed. Rev. Harmon showed movies of several trips they had made, including pictures of their recent California trip which were most interesting; also, the Ivan Parsons Maple Syrup Bush and gathering the sap by several of our local residents which was amusing and also interesting.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Russel and Mrs. Lydia Orvis and daughter Alice Schinck left last week to spend the winter in Arcadia, Florida.

From the Wise Men . . .

"They presented unto Him gifts; gold, and frankincense, and myrrh."

Thus St. Matthew symbolizes the spirit of Christmas. It is the spirit of giving generously, for the Wise Men gave of their best — precious gold, rare frankincense and myrrh, two resins prized in the making of incense.

Most of all, it is the spirit of worship and rejoicing, for Wise Men and shepherds alike knelt at the manger, in the awe and wonder of His birth.

To the Holy Manger . . .

"Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass." Luke 2:15

Humble shepherds came to behold the Miracle of the manger, and Wise Men journeyed from the East.

Today, thousands of Christians make the pilgrimage to the hill town of Bethlehem each Christmas. A high point of their visit is the Grotto of the Nativity — the rock-hewn stable where, traditionally, Christ was born.

As Shepherds Watch . . .

"For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord." Luke 2:11

Bethlehem stands high on a hill, and below it is "Shepherd's Field," where tradition says the shepherds heard the glad tidings of the Nativity.

The Jerusalem YMCA holds carol services in the Field on Christmas Eve. And shepherds, who still tend their flocks in nearby fields, come to watch and share in the celebration.

Spirit of Christmas Spreads Good Will and Good Cheer

Ringing Bells

Among the merry sights and sounds of Christmas, none is merrier than the ringing of bells.

Since earliest times, the pealing of bells has announced important events, both happy and sad. The first use of bells to call Christians to worship took place, it's believed, at Christmas in Italy, about 400 A.D.

Tradition once held that Christ was born exactly at midnight. In medieval Britain, church bells tolled sadly during the hour before midnight on Christmas Eve. On the stroke of 12, a joyous pealing announced the Miracle of Christmas.

Today, church-spire bells and carillons ring out the glad tidings of Christmas.

Burning the Log

From a miraculous Star to a tiny candle, gleaming lights have cast a glow over holiday festivities for centuries.

Pagan sun-worshippers lit candles and kindled fires at winter festivals to help the returning sun gain strength.

Traditional for both light and warmth is the blazing Yule log. Like all "Christmas lights," it has both a religious and a festive significance in holiday lore.

Because legend says that the Christ Child was washed and dressed beside an ash wood fire, the people of early England always had Yule logs of ash wood. Ash had a practical aspect, too, because it was the only green wood which would burn.

The Yule log of England and continental Europe was often believed to have mystical powers to protect the home. To give this protection, the Yule log had to be kept burning all through the 12 days of Christmas.

Later, the "blazing Yule" was primarily associated with the feasting and festivity of the winter holidays.

IN NEW ZEALAND

Not all living Christmas trees are spruce or fir. In New Zealand there's one called "Christmas tree" that doesn't even need decorating — it blossoms with its own red flowers. The tree earned its name since it blooms in December and January.

Giving Gifts

Since the Wise Men gave of their treasures to the Christ Child, giving has been part of the tradition of Christmas.

The idea of gifts as homage dates from even earlier times, when kings demanded special tribute from their subjects during holiday seasons. Thus the Wise Men, in offering precious gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh, expressed their reverence for the newborn King of mankind.

Giving to celebrate a happy time was a familiar part of many pagan festivals.

When these pagan customs of exchanging gifts were transferred to the celebration of the birth of Christ, church leaders added a new idea; selfless giving. Through the ages, giving to help the less fortunate has been a special tradition of Christmas.

Sending Greetings

Perhaps even more than the giving of gifts, the sending of Christmas greetings symbolizes the seasonal spirit of good will.

The personal exchange of good wishes at holiday time is a custom that's older, probably, than Christmas itself.

Though greetings and Christmas have long been associated, the printed greeting card is a relative newcomer to the Yule scene — introduced little more than a century ago. Nowadays, Christmas greeting cards go out by the billions.

In the glad tradition of sending greetings, today's edition of this newspaper presents the special greetings of local merchants, as they express their good wishes and gratitude to customers and friends.

Yule Music Blends Joy, Reverence

Across the centuries, man has looked to music to express his happy feelings at Christmas time.

From the medieval "Hayl, Mary, ful of grace" and "Mervele noght, Josep" to the modern "White Christmas" and "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer," songs have been a favorite part of Christmas celebrations.

In the tradition of Christmas music, there are simple carols, blending reverent wonder with quiet joy — Martin Luther's "Away in a Manger," for instance, or the mid-nineteenth century hymns, "It Came upon a Midnight Clear," "We Three Kings of Orient Are" and "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

There are merry songs, celebrating the jolly mood of the Yuletide, such as the time-honored "Deck the Halls," or the modern "Rudolph" and "Frosty the Snowman."

Composers Inspired...

Famous composers have found in Christmas inspiration for some of their most renowned music. At Christmas, and Easter, too, people gather to hear performances of Handel's "Messiah." Bach's Christmas Oratorio" and Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" are other examples of "serious" music often specially performed at Christmas.

Twentieth century composers, too, have written music around Christmas themes. Probably the most familiar example is Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors," an opera commissioned for television and performed annually. Honegger's "Christmas Cantata" and Britten's "Ceremony of Carols" are other notable examples.

First in U.S. . . .

First Christmas carol composed in the United States was the work of an 18th century leather worker named William Billings, reports The Book of Knowledge. A tanner by trade but a tunesmith by inclination, Billings composed the carol, "A Virgin Unspotted."

The song isn't one that is still sung, and few hymnals now include it, but carol singers today owe William Billings a considerable debt of gratitude.

During Puritan times in England, the singing of carols and, indeed, the whole celebration of Christmas, was banned. The Puritan-minded American colonies followed suit.

It was William Billings, more than any other individual, who managed to persuade the Puritan New England settlers that singing songs at Christmas wasn't sinful.

Source of Song

Among the well-loved Christmas hymns is "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear." The words to this one were written by a Unitarian minister of Weston, Mass., named Edmund H. Sears. Time? Just about a hundred years ago, says the Book of Knowledge.

One melody for this hymn was composed by a Detroit journalist and editor; another melody was adapted from an old British folk tune by a composer better known for his long string of light-hearted operetta hits. This was Sir Arthur Sullivan, of the team of Gilbert and Sullivan.

For Family's Christmas Fun

Little Prune People Bring Good Luck

From the South of Germany comes a centuries-old custom of making "Little Prune People" for Christmas decorating and eating.

Legend has it that the appearance of these "little people" in the home during the holiday season will bring good luck and good harvest during the coming year. They take on characterizations of people of all ages and occupations, including St. Nicholas himself.

If Dad has some heavy wire and some scraps of plywood in his workshop, and if fruits and nuts are on hand (as they usually are at Christmas), almost any family could make some "lucky little prune people" this Yuletide. For groups large or small, planned or impromptu parties, the creation of prune people could be an enjoyable Christmas Day pastime.

Most people will quickly come up with their own ideas for prune characters they would like to create. The characterizations are limited only by the imagination and the materials that can be used..

Traditional materials used to create "prune people" are: heavy picture wire, prunes, dried figs and raisins, unshelled nuts, quarter-inch plywood scraps or wood scraps from crates, pliers, hammer, small awl, foil, scraps of Christmas wrapping, glue and a little imagination.

To make prune people, follow these steps:

1. Cut a three-inch square wooden base. Make two holes one inch apart in center of base and cover with paper or foil.

2. Cut wire 30" long and put each end through holes in bottom of base. The base will now stand with wire perpendicular and ready to string on nuts or prunes.

3. Punch hole through two Brazil nuts and string wire through holes to form feet and glue nuts to wooden base.

4. String two or three prunes on each wire for legs. Then twist two strands of wire around each other to form one strand so that body can be made from prunes or figs (five or six figs or two or three prunes).

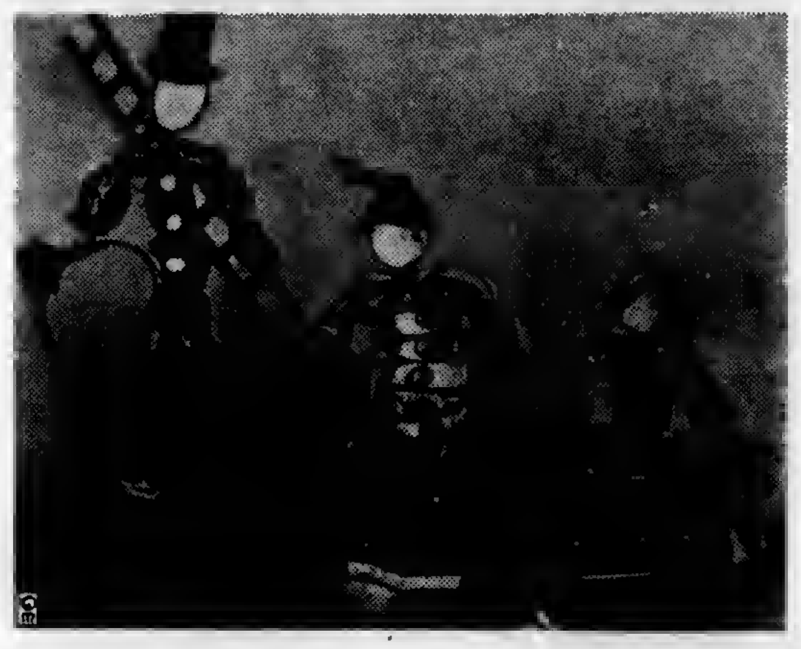
5. Twist strands of wire again to hold torso in place at neck. Then separate wires and bend down arms. Make arms of prunes, adding raisins for cuffs or hands, snip off extra wire and bend into loop to hold fruit in place.

6. For the head, make small hole in end of walnut and insert short piece of wire in walnut — just far enough to hold head in place, using balance of wire to wrap around wire that forms body of figure.

7. With scraps of cloth, thumb tacks, small balls of foil or raisins and a little creative thought, dress the little prune figures.

PRUNE PEOPLE BRING luck during the coming year, legend says. They are easy to make with ingredients most families have on hand at Christmas time — prunes, figs, Brazil nuts, together with plywood scraps, picture wire and scraps of such decorative materials as foil and gift wrapping paper.

• • •



SOME CHARACTERS that might be created from prunes and other ingredients are shown at right. The chimney sweep is prunes from neck to toe. His ladder and hat are made from shiny black construction paper. He and his companions, the Tyrolean prune couple, stand on a three-inch wooden base covered with foil. Each has Brazil nuts glued to the base for feet, and a walnut for a head.

"NIGHT OF CAKES"

In Ireland, Christmas Eve is often called the Night of Cakes. This name is based on the custom, still practiced, of baking special Christmas Eve cakes spiced with caraway seeds.

Plant Wins Yule Favor

One plant particularly favored at Christmas in the United States and Canada is the poinsettia. The holiday colors of this green shrub with its star-shaped red clusters make it an appropriate symbol of the season.

If it had not been for the interest of an American diplomat, Dr. Joel Poinsett of Charleston, S. C., the poinsettia might never have attained popularity. Serving as the first U.S. minister to Mexico in 1828, Dr. Poinsett, discovered this tropical plant.

Impressed with its beauty, he brought it back to the United States and introduced it into cultivation. Later, the plant was named the "poinsettia" in his honor.

Albert Ecke, a California farmer, developed and improved the plant, and first marketed it in 1906. Since then, it has become a favorite Yuletide decoration.

Holiday Celebrations Reflect Customs from Far and Near

Celebrating the happy holiday of Christmas is an almost universal custom, and many of the traditions belonging to the day are universal, too. Gift giving, merrymaking, gaily decorated trees and brightly glowing lights are holiday habits that have found their way to almost every corner of the globe.

Along with the similarities in the way people observe Christmas go just as many differences. From country to country, from city to city, from family to family, holiday customs vary, sometimes just enough to show the touch of individual imagination, and sometimes so greatly that it seems hard to believe the same day is being commemorated.

Gift Giving . . .

It's traditional to receive gifts during the Yuletide season, but the time is not always December 25, and the gift-giver is not always Santa.

One of the earliest Christmas giving times takes place in the Netherlands, according to the Book of Knowledge. Here, the children receive their gifts from St. Nicholas on December 5. The date, appropriately enough, is called St. Nicholas Eve, in honor of the real St. Nicholas, a fourth century bishop.

The time for gift giving in Puerto Rico and Spain is January 6, the day when, traditionally, the wise men came to Bethlehem.

In Germany

From Christmas trees to Christmas toys, many Christmas customs now universally observed came first from Germany.

In the medieval town of Nuremberg, the highlight of the Christmas season is the "Christkindlmarkt," or literally, Christ Child's Fair.

The "Christ Kind," or Christ Child, is the gift giver, and the culmination of the fair, on Christmas Eve, is a visit by the Christ Kind to the balcony of the historic church, the Frauenkirche. Days of group caroling by the children precede this event.

Fun and Feasting . . .

A merry, hearty feast is traditional at Christmas, but the ingredients are not always the same. Norwegians might serve, instead of turkey and trimmings, codfish and pickled pork, while baked carp is a favored Christmas delicacy in Austria.

Christmas dining customs change with time, too. History describes a "traditional" Christmas feast of seventeenth century Quebec, a feast that would be considered somewhat unusual today.

Before each diner at the feast was placed a bowl of birchbark or polished basswood and a spoon of bark. The diners supplied their own knives, and there were no forks.

Into the bowl went first the appetizers — cornbread and a boiled mixture of eels, salmon and beans. The soup course was a rich meat broth, thickened with nuts. Vegetables included corn, peas and baked squash.

The main course featured roast venison and squirrel pies, with baked wild pigeons, partridges, blackbirds, owls — all served together.

Dessert consisted of cakes of maple sugar or sunflower seeds and nuts, topped with a sauce of boiled dried berries.

Lighting Up . . .

Since the Star shone on Bethlehem, lights have been a part of Christmas celebrations. Today, candlelight services are traditionally held by many churches at Christmas.

How to Make 'Apple People,' for Family Fun

Fun for the family on Christmas afternoon can start with peeling an apple — and making a doll.

So says Mrs. Mona Belle Fahrney of Springfield, Mo., who ought to know. From the same start, peeling an apple, Mrs. Fahrney has won renown as a designer and creator of apple dolls. Making the dolls is a family project, in which she enlists the aid and enthusiasm of her husband, Ben, and her daughter, Dorothy.

Apple dolls are in the tradition of making dolls from materials at hand, and they reflect the home craftsmanship of early America. Though craft specialists have revived the custom of making these dolls, they are still quite a novelty. And, says Mrs. Fahrney, apple dolls will always be unique, because no two heads turn out the same.

Even though the features are identically carved in fresh apples, the final result cannot be known until the apple heads have completely dried.

In the Fahrney family, wire bodies for the dolls are constructed by Mr. Fahrney, while the apple heads are carved by Dorothy Fahrney Murphy, a portrait artist who is, in private life, Mrs. K. L. Murphy.

Mrs. Fahrney completes the dolls, with unusual costumes made according to patterns which she creates.

Whatever the division of craftsmanship, any family group can easily make apple dolls, for holiday fun or year-round enjoyment, maintains Mrs. Fahrney.

She offers the following instructions:

Select firm apples — they make the best dolls. Peel apples and carve "faces" for doll heads.

Put carved apples on sticks and insert sticks into holes punched in a coffee can or other container. Set this in a graniteware kettle.

Place a lighted sulphur candle in a small dish and set it on a mound of damp sand, inside the kettle and alongside the apples.

Cover kettle and leave apples inside until sulphur is burned up. This helps preserve color of the apples, and kills any insects which might be present.

Remove apples and set to dry, indoors. This usually takes two weeks or longer. To further preserve the apple color, add clear nail polish to the faces, immediately after apples are dry.

Apple doll bodies can be constructed from wire and bits of wood. The wire should be sturdy, but flexible enough for arms and legs that can be bent at will, or made to stand or sit.

Wire body, arms and legs are covered with cotton batting. Twist thread around batting and fasten to hold firmly.

Attach apple head, still on stick, to body, securing with wire and glue.

For hair, white yarn is glued to the apple head.

APPLE DOLLS BECOME characters of olden times, as created and dressed by Mrs. Mona Belle Fahrney of Springfield, Mo. She favors old-fashioned prints for dresses, and bonnets with open crowns, to show a bun of yarn "hair." Apple men wear dark suspender pants, bright shirts and scarves. Musical instruments were made by Ben Fahrney.

Mrs. Fahrney recommends white-headed floral pins for eyes. Cut off the point, push pin into eye socket and paint the "iris."

Arms, hands and feet can be painted with flat white tinted with oil color for flesh tones, and toes of feet indicated with a brown pencil or painted on.

Then, the apple dolls are ready for dressing.

Mrs. Fahrney likes her apple dolls to be about nine inches high, and says they are "much cuter" that way. However, she designed a special Santa doll, larger in size, for display during the Christmas season at Myrtle's Ceramic Christmas Shop, on Melville Road in Springfield.

For Decorations

Not all peoples use living greenery in their festive holiday decor. In Scandinavia, where greenery is symbolic of mourning, people use bright colored papers, ribbons, fringes, fancy balls, sweetmeats, flowers and fruits for Yule decorations.

Dolls, Dolls, Dolls! Each Has Story to Tell

"It's fun to get a doll for Christmas."

This statement comes from a real authority, who is a former Marine, a world traveler and international airline executive — and who is also a man who has more dolls than almost anybody except Santa Claus!

Collector Samuel F. Pryor is the founder of the International Doll Library in Greenwich, Conn., where more than 8,000 dolls are gathered in fabulous variety.

Begun in 1953 when he inherited 300 dolls from a friend, the still-growing collection includes hundreds of dolls searched out by Mr. Pryor himself, and it has also been augmented by gifts from some of the thousands of visitors to the Doll Library — hence Mr. Pryor's personal knowledge that a doll under the Christmas tree is truly a source of delight.

The Doll Library, so named because every doll has a story to tell, is attractively housed in a 1792 barn, remodeled to provide appropriate settings for the dolls. Visits to the Doll Library are by appointment only.

Here, there are antique dolls, historic dolls, craft dolls, religious dolls, dolls of every land and every era. The dolls indeed have much to tell to the serious student of world history and world civilization.

But to Mr. Pryor, the important thing about the dolls is that they are objects of affection — cherished by little girls wating for Santa, and by everyone who loves dolls, to play with and admire.

Along with their legacy of love, the dolls bring a record of mankind's ingenuity.

Among the antique dolls in Mr. Pryor's collection is a 19th-century beauty who turns her head, flutters her eyelids, heaves her bosom and plays a lyre, to the tune of a hidden music box.

Many other dolls in the Pryor collection make it plain that mechanical accomplishments are by no means limited to the dolls of today. For instance, a group of early American dolls includes the "Autoperipatetikos"—a walking doll patented in 1862.

Another kind of ingenuity is manifest in the craft dolls, lovingly fashioned by thoughtful hands from virtually any and every convenient material — pen wipers, shells, newspapers, wishbones, sponges, corn cobs, pine cones, pipecleaners, clay pipes, even an old potato masher.

Among them are "Mr. and Mrs. Crab," dolls with faces made from crab claws. These do-it-yourself dolls were featured in "Godey's Lady's Book" for May 1867, with illustrations of Mr. and Mrs. Crab and "how to" instructions.

Among the Library's little inhabitants, dolls of other lands form a miniature United Nations. A turbaned Brazilian dancer, a Spanish matador with cape and sword, a Japanese geisha, a Belgian lady, a German tourist, an Arabian desert prince, an Argentinian gaucho — the list is seemingly endless.

Differences may divide nations — but not in the Doll Library. Mr. Pryor's dolls get an opportunity to enact the holiday spirit of peace and good will, all year. As a pastime, he likes to bring dolls of many nations together in friendly groups.

DOLLS AND CHRISTMAS GO TOGETHER — and this doll with her golden curls and golden harp seems to symbolize the happiness of the season. She's one of more than 8,000 dolls in the Samuel F. Pryor International Doll Library*, Greenwich, Conn.

The Doll Library may be visited by appointment only.*

Symbolizing Victory

In legend, the laurel and the bay have told the story of victory and triumph since the days of ancient Greece.

Ivy was the convivial green of pagan holidays, and was supposed to express the joyousness of Bacchus. The yew and the cyprus symbolize eternal life.

Yule Greens Set Scene For Festivity

From the welcoming wreath on the door to the Christmas tree glowing with lights and bedecked with packages, from the cheery poinsettia plant on the mantel or table to the sprig of mistletoe with its promises of kisses and laughter, greens and plants set the scene for holiday enjoyment.

Many of the greens now used for Christmas decorations once adorned pagan rites, and were credited by the ancients with certain mystical powers and virtues.

Today, using greens has become holiday custom, regardless of religious or symbolic significance.

About Trees

Perhaps the most common use of holiday greens is seen in the lively, decorated Christmas tree found in many homes at this time of year.

There are many legends concerning the origin of Christmas trees. One belief is that the first Christmas tree was a palm tree brought from Egypt. The 12 parts of the palm were supposed to represent the 12 apostles, according to the editors of the Encyclopedia Americana.

The use of pine and cedar Yule trees is generally thought to be of German derivation. The introduction of the evergreen Christmas tree came to English-speaking peoples after the marriage of Victoria of England to the German prince, Albert.

Yule Season Is Always a Memorable Time

For the children, this is the very best Christmas that ever was. The adults agree — but still, they look back a little wistfully at the Christmases of yesteryear, with nostalgic thoughts of "a good old-fashioned Christmas," or of a special Christmas memory.

Memories enhance the seasonal joys, and with good reason, for Christmas is a memorable time. Since the first Holy Night, some of the most important events of both religious and secular history have taken place at the Christmas season.

A look at the past reveals momentous occasions, joyous or poignant, as well as many of the little things that give bygone times living meaning — and all taking place on or about Christmas Day.

Holly in Legend

In the legend and lore of Christmas, holly has both a merry and melancholy significance.

Fairies, so it is said, loved the holly. They found its leaves such a comforting shelter that even after holly was cut from the trees, they lingered about, allowing themselves to be carried indoors, where they protected the home from evil spirits.

Later, Christian believers saw the thorny leaves and bright red berries of the holly as symbols of the Crown of Thorns and the sacrifice which the Christ Child, grown to manhood, made on Calvary.

Mistletoe Magic

Ancient followers of the Druid religion were the first to regard mistletoe as a sacred plant, say the editors of The New Book of Knowledge. They supposed it to have panacean virtues in warding off everything from witches to disease.

Each year, about the time Christmas is celebrated today, there was a ceremonial rite in which Druid priests, using a golden sickle, cut the mistletoe leaves from the "sacred oak" and distributed them amongst the people.

The Saxons also valued this plant; they were the first to call it mistletoe. To them, mistletoe symbolized everlasting peace.

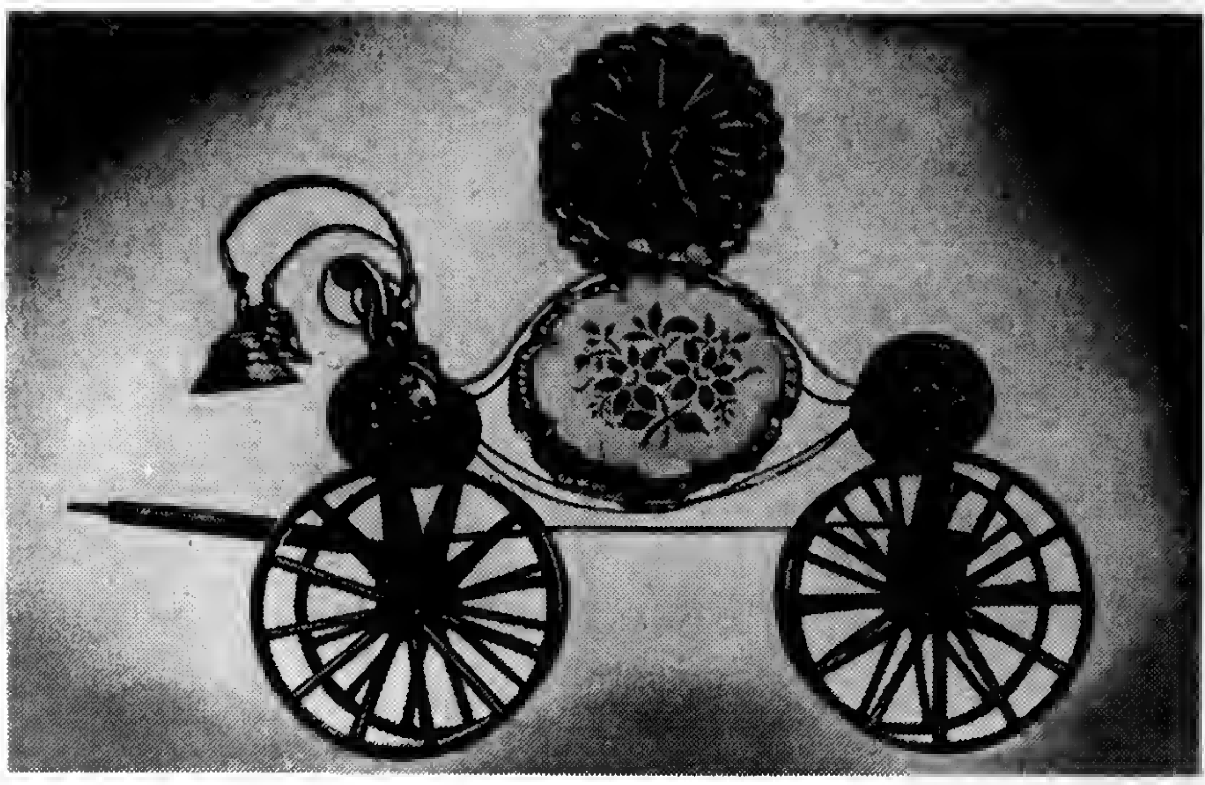
Toys, Dolls Bring Ageless Delight



Modern Marvels Have Their Rivals In Wondrous Playthings of Past

By ANNA MANG

Under the Christmas tree of today, the walking doll struts, the baby doll cries and takes her bottle, the fashion doll displays her wardrobe and the talking doll shows off her vocabulary.

Side by side with the dolls are toys equally fabulous. The model train wends its way through a realistic model town, while electrically-powered miniature racing cars execute exciting maneuvers along intricate stretches of track. Milk trucks, fire trucks, police patrol cars and a myriad wheel toys come equipped with "real life" features.

Recent years have brought great changes in the variety and intricacy of dolls and toys — so much so that even young parents, not many years removed from "waiting for Santa" themselves, now find their children's Christmas playthings beyond their experience.

What About Toys of Yesteryear?

One toy manufacturer, it is said, includes these instructions with "to be assembled" toys: "Caution; Adults, hands off! This toy can be assembled only by a child."

If Christmas doll-and-toyland is a strange and wondrous place for the not-so-oldsters of today, how would it have seemed to the child of yesterday? Would a little boy or girl of the 1880's, for instance, have found the modern array of toys and dolls amazing or bewildering?

To yesterday's child, the wealth of packages under today's Christmas trees might well have been bewildering. Until quite recently, Christmas gifts were few in number, though their very rarity made them at least as prized and cherished as the modern Yuletide bounty.

As for amazement, today's toys and dolls are marvels of mechanical ingenuity — yet that ingenuity would not have seemed so very strange to yesterday's youngsters. Complex though they are, modern playthings have their counterparts in the wonders of the past.

Following Fashion — and Invention

Since earliest times, dolls have followed fashion, and toys have copied man's inventions. In some cases, toys may even be said to have sparked inventions — witness the velocipede, a favorite toy a century ago. Inspired by foot-powered hobby horses of the early 1800s, the velocipede in its turn became the forerunner of the bicycle.

Toys today reflect modern living — and so did toys of long ago, in their day. For instance, toy racing cars came onto the gift market early in this century, when the automobile industry was getting its start.

As for dolls, the electronically-motivated walking, talking wonders of today are only the latest development in a long line of magical, marvelous dolls. Yes, modern dolls are fabulous in their complexity — but dolls of the 17th and 18th centuries were frequently even more elaborate!

Has Dual Role

Since ancient times, the doll has played a dual role, as toy and as religious symbol. Today's creche dolls, displayed as part of the manger scene in churches and homes, have historical counterparts in the dolls used as religious figures, or idols, by primitive peoples.

Dolls fashioned of clay, stone or bone have been unearthed by archaeologists from tombs thousands of years old. Their presence in the tombs is thought to mean that the dolls were intended as idols.

The word, "doll," in fact derives from a Greek word, "eidolon," which means "idol."

Historians say that, before the birth of Christ, Egyptian sun worshippers idolized a doll-like figure, or child, at the season of the year now celebrated as Christmas. The doll was meant to symbolize the coming "rebirth" of the sun in the spring.

Dressing Dolls

France, famed for its fashions, early gave attention to dressing dolls known as "fashion babies." First created about 600 years ago, the "fashion babies" in later years became ambassadors for French styles.

In the early American Colonies, for instance, the arrival of a group of "fashion babies" from France was greeted with great excitement. For payment of an admission fee, Colonial women could see the dolls displayed, and observe the newest fashions, in miniature.

Works of Art

The elaborate European dolls of the 17th and 18th centuries were the precious possessions of the very rich. Often, they were court dolls, prized by royalty.

In times of war, these valuable dolls were treated like works of art — as indeed they were. Special arrangements were made to transport them to safety and a peaceful refuge for the duration of the war.

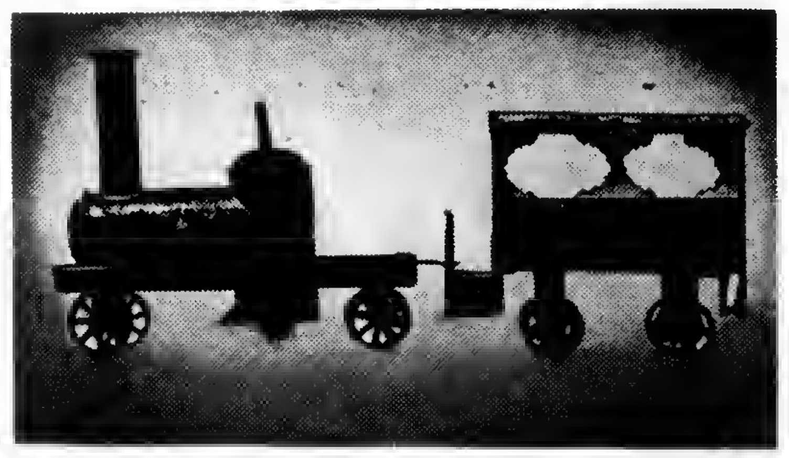
For Every Child

During the past century, the doll has really come into its own, as a precious plaything for every little girl. Now the wonders of the doll world, once the province of kings, are at the disposal of "little mothers" in homes across the nation.

From waking, talking, well-wardrobed creations of wonderful complexity to soft and cuddly rag dolls of sweetest simplicity, dolls timelessly delight little girls. For, yesterday or today, one thing is certain. In every generation, packages from Santa evoke the same sparkle in young eyes, for a child's delight in a dream come true never changes.

FEATURES ROBIN

One of the first Christmas cards ever published, a small (two by three-and-a-half inches) greeting printed in London in 1862 by Goodall and Son, features a robin presiding over a pastoral winter scene, framed by paper lace.



Wheels Have Lasting Appeal

IN EVERY AGE, wheel toys capture children's hearts. Today's youngsters thrill to Christmas gifts of miniature, motorized racing cars. More than a century ago, the wheels might have adorned a diminutive "horse-drawn" buggy of tin. But the thought is always the same: to please a child.

* * *

AMONG THE FIRST to make playthings in quantity for American children were the tin-toy manufacturers of the 1850s, says Mary Childs Black, director of the Museum of American Folk Art. Often, the tin toys were wheel toys, with delicate, open-spoked wheels repeated in a wide variety of vehicles and styles.

* * *

TIN-WHEELED TOYS pictured here are from the collection of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Barenholtz, Princeton, N. J. After founding their own toy firm in 1950, the Barenholtzes developed an interest in old as well as new toys. Their tin toy collection began in 1956, with a milk wagon painted blue — a gift to Mrs. Barenholtz.

Who's Pelsnickle? In Doll Library, He Shows Why Naughty Children Might Dread His Visits

Where there are dolls, there's the spirit of Christmas.

In the Pryor International Doll Library* at Greenwich, Conn., there are more than 8,000 dolls, and naturally, many of them suggest Christmas in a very special way — from creche figures that symbolize the religious meaning of the holiday to a jolly Santa doll who wrinkles his dried-apple face in a smile that sums up all the joys of the season.

From a Christmas-season point of view, one of the most interesting dolls is a figure representing "Pelsnickle." Though little known to modern celebrants, Pelsnickle holds an important place in holiday lore. According to legend, he accompanied St. Nicholas as his servant and, while St. Nick rewarded good children with gifts, Pelsnickle had the unwelcome task of punishing naughty boys and girls with "gifts" of lumps of coal and switches.

The Doll Library's Pelsnickle sports Santa Claus whiskers, wears a coat of shaggy fur and holds a bundle of switches.

While Pelsnickle and switches are usually associated, a study of Christmas lore reveals that in earlier legends he traditionally carried a birch cane, says Mrs. June Anderson Douglass, whose responsibilities as curator of the Pryor Doll Library include researching and cataloguing each doll.

Like St. Nicholas, Pelsnickle was a European figure, known primarily in Holland and Germany. He came by his name very logically, since he was generally believed to wear a fur coat. "Pelz" is the German word for fur.

Today, the custom of having Pelsnickle appear at Christmas time is still observed in some Pennsylvania Dutch homes, according to the editors of The New Book of Knowledge.

DOWN THE CHIMNEY

Legend says that St. Nicholas and the Italian gift-giver, Befana, rang bells on their way down the chimney to deliver Yule gifts.

PELSNICKLE "rewarded" naughty children at Christmas, says legend. Here, he's pictured as he appears in the Doll Library.

Greeting Cards Chronicle Manners, Customs, Events

It all began in 1843 when John Calcott Horsley, a prominent London artist, drew the first Christmas card. Horsley's pioneering greeting was a tryptich, a prime example of contemporary recording. The central panel showed a jolly family with young and old tippling toasts from brimming glasses, while the two side panels gave a sobering effect with scenes of the poor being clothed and the hungry fed.

From that time on Christmas cards have faithfully chronicled the manners, customs and events of their times.

One Christmas card collection, that of Norcross, Inc., greeting card publishers, houses hundreds of cards that capture for posterity the fads and foibles, changes and evolution in sports, fashions, modes of transportation, current events, filial love, amusements, even children's pastimes and music making.

According to Miss Esther Mooney, who is a curator of the collection, many of the cards are gems of social comment.

"In an English card of 1892," said Miss Mooney, "the formality existing between children and parents in that Victorian era is quite clearly expressed by the artist. He depicts a little girl on bended knee at her mother's feet solemnly offering her a Christmas bouquet. Just 40 years later, a Christmas card of 1930 shows how relaxed filial relations had become with its breezy greeting that says, '3 cheers 4 a Merry Christmas and you, Dad!' ".

Christmas card artists have always been quick to pick on innovations as subjects.

The advent of the horseless carriage was duly recognized in a card of 1910. Cut out in the shape of a car of that vintage, it cheerfully puns:

"You 'Auto' be Happy
As you, on Pleasure's
Motor-Car
Steer merrily thro' Christmastide . . .
Speed gaily as fun always
'Auto!' "

And in 1950, the early days of television were noted in a Christmas greeting which shows Santa tuning in TV.

An historic event is frequently the inspiration for a Christmas card. When Lindberg flew the Atlantic, the artist drew his "Spirit of St. Louis" flying over New York on a 1927 Christmas card.

During World Wars One and Two Christmas cards became unblushingly patriotic. Verses like "On Christmas Night . . . With Holly Berries Gleaming Bright, Our Thoughts fly true O'er Ocean Blue and take a Christmas Wish to you" on a 1917 card brought balm to homesick doughboys.

Personalities who were household words of their times often popped up in Christmas cards. A topical card of 1934 offered five famous faces for the price of one. It showed the Duke of Windsor (then the Prince of Wales), Mussolini, Garbo, Chevalier and Mae West all wishing the lucky recipient seasonal greetings in their own particular style.

In 1959 Christmas cards entered the space age when Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov decorated his season's greetings with pictures of three Lunik satellites. And after John Glenn's space flight, American card companies came out with a spate of cards that featured space ships, orbiting Santas and rockets.

In the prosperous 1960's Christmas cards have blossomed forth with a rash of current status symbols. Victorian cards showed the magic lantern or the piano every well-to-do Victorian home possessed.

On Christmas greetings of today, it's the transistor radio and the stereo hi-fi, the set of golf clubs or the scooter, elegant ladies in furs and golden Cadillacs that mingle with the holly and mistletoe.

Ideas Vary On Customs Of Yule

Some people enjoy a White Christmas, while some people go swimming or picnicking on December 25. Some people say it's traditional to serve turkey at the holiday feast, while some people favor a Christmas goose, and still others contend that carp or fried eel is the very thing for a tasty Yuletide dish.

Around the world, Christmas customs vary, but on one point nearly all are agreed. It's a season to celebrate.

In the United States and Canada, the "melting pot" origins of the population result in a medley of Christmas traditions from all over. Americans and Canadians from Central Europe still prepare their traditional Yuletide foods with carp, while those from Italy might hanker for some Christmas capitoni, made with fried eels.

Especially during a severe winter, residents of the Northern U. S. and Canada would be glad to change places, or at least change weather, with those Australians, South Americans and others who enjoy summer activities at Christmas.

On the other hand, North Americans have made their own contributions to Christmas around the world. For instance, there's Santa, white-bearded and red-suited, who is now replacing St. Nicholas and other Yule gift givers in many countries.

In Germany

The celebration of a West German Christmas is filled with tradition, foremost of which is the Christmas tree, dating back 400 years. Until recently, trees were trimmed with candles, and although artificial lighting for tree ornaments has been introduced, the candles are still preferred by many.

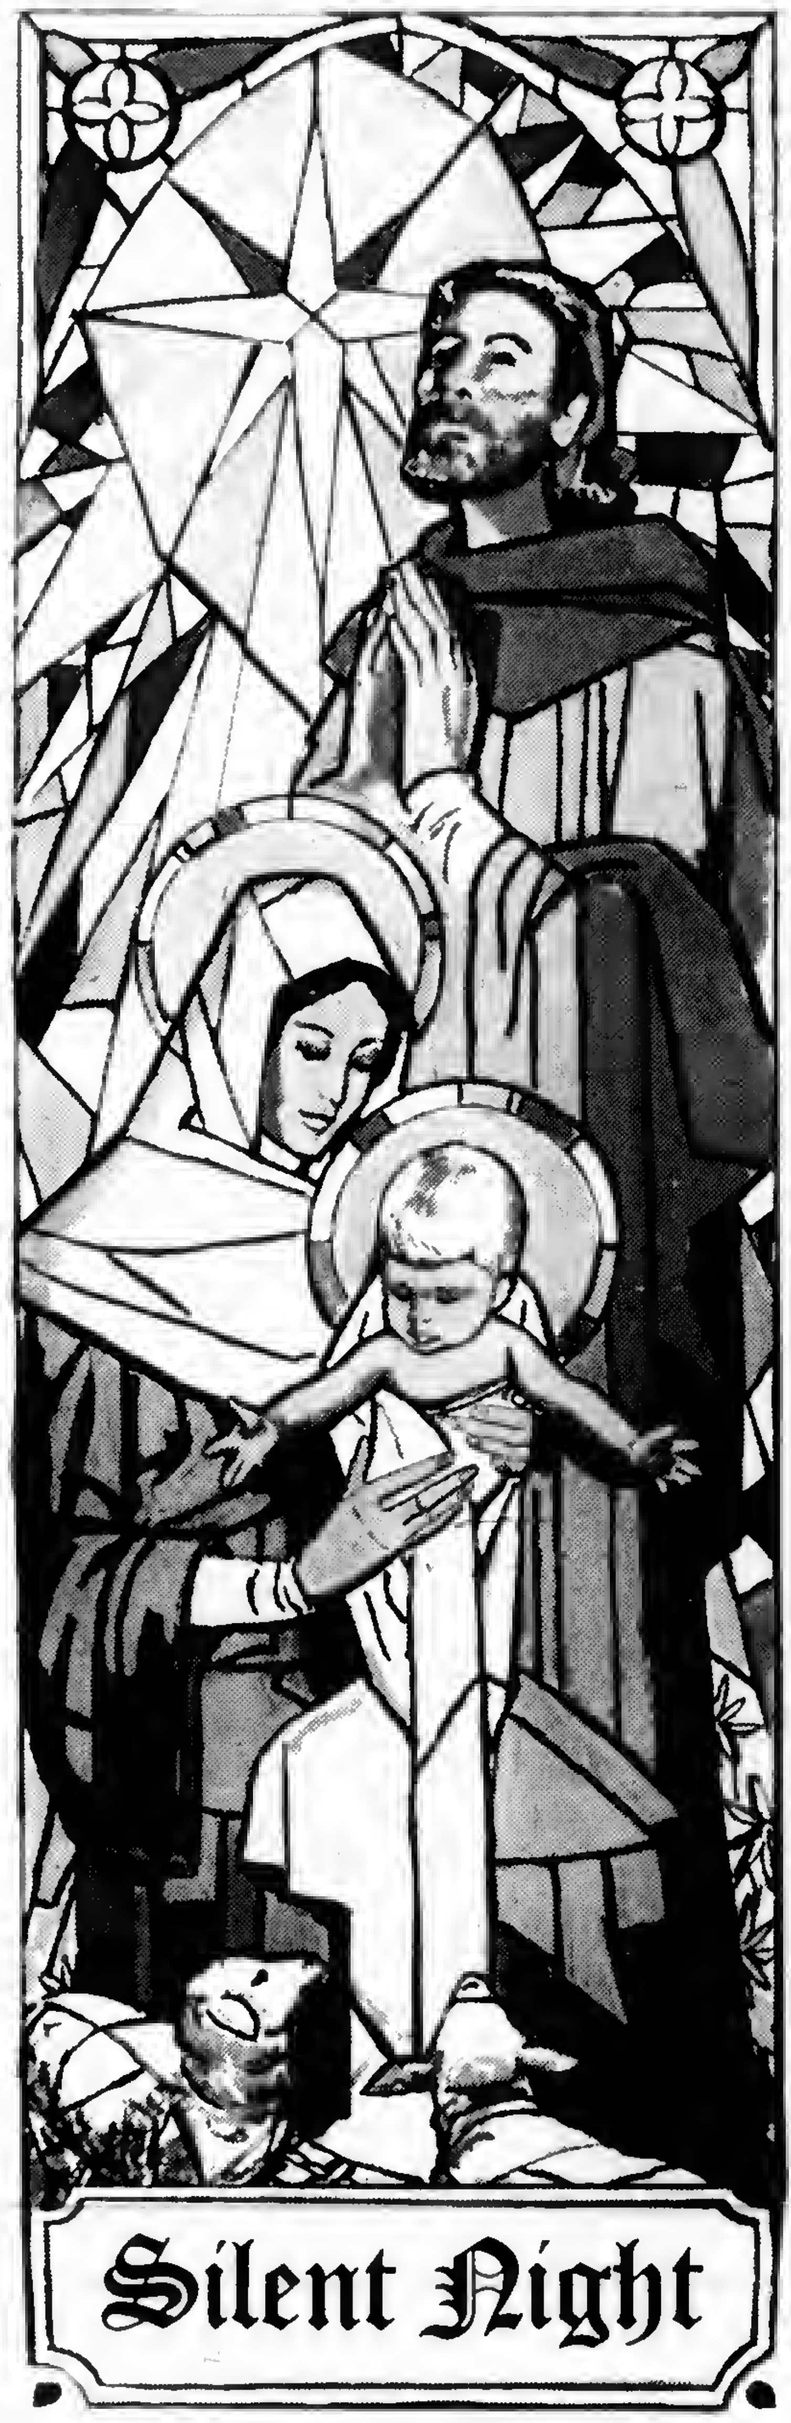
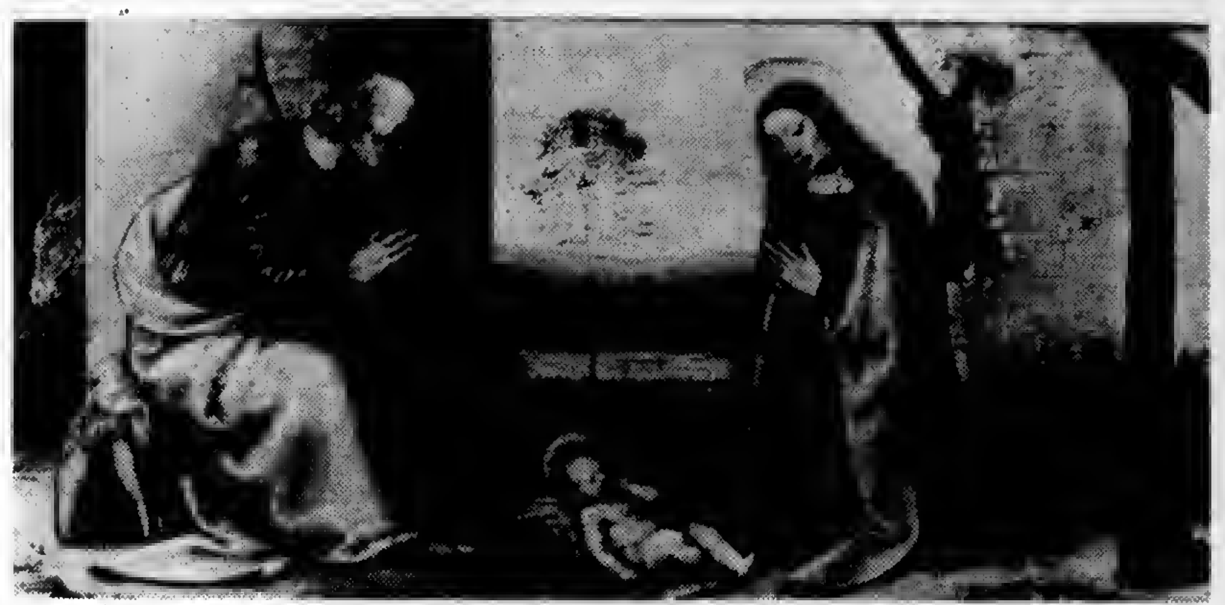
"Christ Is Born"





FAITHFUL TO THE SPIRIT OF THE FIRST CHRISTMAS is "The Nativity," by the Florentine painter Mariotto Albertinelli (1474-1515). The simple scene presents the Christ Child, with Mary and Joseph, in a realistic setting, and background detail suggests a hillside manger, typical of the rocky caves which were used for stables in Bethlehem. Painting is in the Uffizi Gallery, in Florence, Italy.

Christians Celebrate Holiday With Joy and Prayer

"And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."
— Luke 2:13-14

In church services this Christmas season, Christians everywhere gather to commemorate the miracle of a holy night nearly 2,000 years ago. The message of Christmas lives anew — in candlelight and carols, in pageants and prayers.

Joyfully, the happiness of Christmas finds expression in music and song. Choirs sing the praises of the Babe of Bethlehem, and sacred hymns and carols reflect the spirit of rejoicing. Even as the herald angels sang to shepherds long ago, so now exultant voices join in proclaiming the Birth of Christ, with "on earth peace, good will toward men."

"And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us.

"And they came with haste, and found Mary and Joseph, and the Babe lying in a manger." — Luke 2:15-16

Along with the joyous exultation, there is a spirit of thankful humility in celebration of this holy Day. In both church and private devotionals, Christians ponder anew the word of the Christmas story, as it was told by two of His disciples, Matthew and Luke. It is read and re-read, remembered and reflected upon. And it is beheld, symbolically, in Nativity scenes that, by treasured tradition, recreate the manger of His birth.

Prayerfully, each congregation and each individual celebrates Christmas, keeping always in memory that the glory of His coming was first revealed to humble shepherds, and that the Holy Child was born in a simple manger. Worshippers give thanks to God, for the Miracle and its meaning.

"And when they were come into the house, they saw the young Child with Mary His mother, and fell down, and worshipped Him; and when they had opened their treasures, they presented unto him gifts, gold, and frankincense, and myrrh."
— Matthew 2:11

The Wise Men, says St. Matthew, followed a Star to seek and find the Babe of Bethlehem. Their joy at beholding Him, and their precious gifts in homage, express much of the wonder and majesty of the Christmas story, as it is envisioned today. Yet in those gifts was a prophecy, a poignant reminder of the sacred solemnity, the highest meaning of Christmas.

Gold was a precious treasure, fitting gift for the newborn King. Frankincense, an ingredient of incense, expressed the legendary belief that "incense owns a deity nigh."

The third gift was in sad token of great sorrow to come. Myrrh, used by the ancients in funeral rites, symbolized Christ's own supreme gift of life and foretold His death upon the Cross.

At the manger, there was the shadow of Calvary.

Thus Christmas is celebrated, joyfully, prayerfully, solemnly, with dedication to its sacred meaning: The Child born in a manger was the Son of God, destined to take up the burdens of mankind and bear them to the Cross, where He died that the spirit of man might live forever.

Message Of Christmas Lives Anew

"And lo, the Star, which they saw in the east, went before them, till it came and stood over where the young Child was." Matthew 2:9.

"And they came with haste, and found Mary, and Joseph, and the Babe lying in a manger." Luke 2:16.

From two who became His disciples come the words that tell the story of that Holy Night, the first Christmas. Matthew the tax collector wrote of the Star that shone in the east, and of wise men who followed it to find and worship Him.

Luke the physician wrote of shepherds watching in the fields and herald angels singing in the heavens.

At church services during this Christmas season the words of the tax collector and the physician will be read and studied once again, with ever-deepening meaning.

And as the story is told anew, it is also reflected in the many observances of Christmas, both in churches and in homes.

The joyful sound of carols harks back to the first of all carols, the words of the heavenly host, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

The glow of candles symbolizes the birth of Christ as the Light of the World, and it also mirrors the eternal gleam of the Star of Bethlehem.

The spirit of giving takes guidance from the gifts of the Wise Men, who brought gold, frankincense and myrrh to Him.

Above all, at Christmas, mankind experiences once again the reverence, wonder and rejoicing of the wise men, of whom Matthew says,

"And when they were come into the house, they saw the young Child with Mary His mother, and fell down and worshipped Him."

Churches Echo With Yule Tale

"And she brought forth her firstborn Son, and wrapped Him in swaddling clothes, and laid Him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn." Luke 2:7.

At Christmas, in church and home devotions, Christians turn again and again to the Biblical story of that Holy Night nearly two thousand years ago.

From the words of two of his disciples, Luke and Matthew, they learn of humble shepherds watching in a field, of herald angels singing, of a Star that shone in the East to guide the Wise Men on their way.

In every word of the sacred story, the first Christmas lives anew. And most cherished of all are the words that tell of the simple manger scene, of Mary, and Joseph, and the Christ Child.

"And she brought forth her firstborn Son, and wrapped Him in swaddling clothes, and laid Him in a manger."

The words, as simple as the scene, inspire awe and wonder, for the glory of the moment, for the miracle that was wrought. Yet the same words bring a homely comfort, too. It is a miracle that even a child may comprehend, for there, living again in the words, is the Baby Jesus, wrapped in swaddling clothes.

'Because there no room for them in the inn."

In the glory, there is poignancy, too.

"No room in the inn."

The words echo across the ages, and rejoicing is tinged with bittersweet. That — as in the words of the famous carol, "Away in a Manger," — "the little Lord Jesus" had "no crib for His bed" weighs on the heart of Christianity.

Even here at the manger there is the shadow of suffering in store for the Son of God, of trials soon to begin with the flight into Egypt, and to end on the Cross.

But the glory prevails, in the miracle of the humble manger, and ahead, through the shadows of the future, through anguish and agony, shines the radiance of Easter.

It is Christmas, and Christians everywhere rejoice at the words of the angel.

"For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord."
Luke 2:11.

Board of Directors of First State Bank of Charlevoix has declared an extra dividend of $1 per share to stockholders in addition to regular $2 dividend, which is declared semi-annually. Said Jerrald Redeker, President, "Even though the economy looks to be in a rather tight position for the next two or three years, our Board was very enthusiastic about the increased earnings shown by First State during the past year." The extra dividend; though not the first in the bank's history, is the first in many years.

Library gets mystery gift of 12 originals

Charlevoix Pulbic Library has a king-size mystery on its hands in the recent unheralded arrival of 12 original pages from as many ancient bibles forwarded from the private library of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Keith of Malibu, California.

The pages are imprinted in the Latin, Dutch, German and old English of their day and are dated from 1543 to 1769, which shows even the latest to be 200 years old.

The accompanying letter merely stated the volumes from which were extracted were collected over a long period of years and represented many religions and many cultures.

Even the Michigan State Library was unable to offer a clue other than a Mr. Stanley S. Slotkin, a Los Angeles business man, had been publicized in the Pittsburg (Pennsylvania) Post-Gazette on March 21, 1969, as having given biblical and ancient medical writings--Hippocrates (1500 A.D.) Galen (1515 A.D.) Helmonti (1706 A.D.) and Herbals (1620 A.D.) to the Allegheny General Hospital. To Duquesne University he had given a 24x36 inch sheepskin of the Gregorian Chant dated 1140 A.D.

It is possible that the Charlevoix donation is from the Slotkin collection which was originally valued at $4 million. It is known that Slotkin first began distributing complete volumes to churches, but the churches seldom displayed their valuable books, so Slotkin began taking the books apart and giving them away in sets of 12 pages on condition they be publicly displayed that every man as well asscholars might learn and appreciate the various types of printing, parchment and design of the Holy Bibles that had played such an important role in the Christian growth.

The Charlevoix donation is, however, labeled "from the library of Harold and Diane Keith". It is possible that for some reason unknown to recipients of their largess, the Keiths are simply carrying on a work begun by Slotkin. With such eminent donors involved the mystery, deepens; why and how was Charlevoix Library chosen to share in this benevolent project? Did the donors toss darts at a wall map of the United States and forward their ancient relics where the darts dug in?

It is a mystery that may never be resolved, but Charlevoix's library staff is certainly looking their new gift horse straight in the mouth with a genuine respect and appreciation for an almost unbelievable good fortune: The pages of the Koran Bible along sell for $25 per page.

Needless to say the 12-page limitation is also a mystery. Why just 12, unless, possibly each page represent a Disciple of our Lord Jesus. The 1543 date is an early Latin theologican book printed about 100 years after the first printing of the Gutenberg Bible. It has been of utmost importance of their predecessors.

The German religious work dated 1764 A.D. was purchased in 1966 in Budapest, Hungary, from the Kultura Section of the government. It had been stored with thousands of books in the basement of an army barracks. It is something of a miracle that the book ever say the light of day again.

The Roman Missile dated 1677 was found in Nazareth--where Jesus walked in his earthly life.

The Dutch Bible dated 1624 was the result of a two-year conference in Amsterdam--1618-1619. It is still the official bible of Holland today.

The costly mountings for the ancient pages have been produced in memory of Herbert and Betty Wile, also unknown locally.

The story of Stanley S. Slotkin and his Bible Fortune was featured in the Los Angeles Times on May 15, 1969, and has since been repeated in some 5,000 newspaper via Associated Press. Now this fabulous project (or a similar project) has hit the grass roots of the Nation with the Keith donation to Charlevoix Library.

There's no doubt that our local library has gained prestige imaginings... Scholars will now be compelled to relate to Charlevoix Library in the quest for the sum total of the ancient writings and the Charlevoix Schools now have a valuable collection for study and appraisal and perhaps a new appreciation for the faith of our Founding Fathers.

Twp.-City set annex meeting

Charlevoix Township Supervisor Oscar P. Stroud has announced that there will be an open discussion meeting on annexation on Wednesday, December 17, at 8 p.m. at the VFW Hall on U.S. 31 North.

There will be representatives of both the City and Township on hand to answer questions relating to annexation.

All interested persons are invited to attend.

CHS photos distributed

Student pictures for grades nine through 12 have arrived at the high school. They are to be passed out by the homeroom teachers in homeroom groups.

Each envelope contains complete instructions for re-ordering, and money return envelope. The entire package costs $2.60. It has been requested that all checks to made out to Charlevoix Public Schools.

Students are asked to make the necessary payments by this Friday.

Public invited to view salmon

Myrl Keller announced today that shipments of salmon eggs have arrived at the Charlevoix hatchery.

"We have over one million eggs here," Keller stated. "In the past, many local residents have visited the hatchery to see the eggs and young salmon. We're happy to invite the public to the hatchery again this year."

Biologist Keller noted that the hatchery is open to the public daily from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Chest elects Lachman, announces final figures

The annual meeting of the Charlevoix Community Chest was held last week in the County Building. Mrs. John Lignell,

JOHN LACHMAN

Charles England and John Lachman were elected for three year terms to succeed retiring directors, Mrs. James Williams, Robert Clock and Thomas LaBlance.

Other members of the board are Mrs. John Fratrick, Mrs. Wayne Rank, Mrs. Charles Berg, Edward McNamara, E.D. Hawley and William Peck.

The new board elected the following officers for 1970: President, John Lachman; vice president, Charles England; secretary, Mrs. John Lignell and treasurer, Edward McNamara.

Mrs. Don J. Anders, executive secretary, presented her campaign report; however, she reports that since December 8, an additional $58.40 has been received by the Industrial Division, bringing total funds received in the campaign to $18,985.41. Charlevoix's goal this year was $17,914. $2,726.45 of this year's contributions represent payroll deductions and pledges.

Treasurer Edward McNamara reported the following expenses: stationery, postage, and supplies, $170.33; delegates to Michigan United Fund meeting in Lansing, $200; executive secretary's salary, $425; miscellaneous expense, $14.80.

John Lachman, Industrial Chairman, gave the following breakdown of his division's receipts: Medusa Portland Cement Co., $1,200, employees, $733.44; Freedman Artcraft Engineering Corp., $540, employees, $537.70; Hoskins Mfg. Co., $300, employees, $707; American Mold Engineering Co., $290; employees, $290; Consumers Power Co., $135, employees, $403.40; Paul-Reed Inc., $100, employees, $89; Will-Flow Corp., $150, employees $40; Great Lakes Fabrication Inc., $25, employees $39; Hufford Industries, Inc., $75; employees, $25; Electra Machine Co., $20, employees, $36.40; Wojan Aluminum Products Corp., $50, employees, $5; LexaLite Corp. employees, $77; Ever-Seal Sash & Door Co., $15.

Charlevoix residents employed by Michigan Bell Telephone Co. contributed $143.30, while the company gave $90. Local residents working at Penn-Dixie Cement Co. gave $15 and also contributed their vending machine fund amounting to $50. A check in the amount of $100 was received from Michigan Consolidated Gas Co.

Final campaign results of the various divisions are as follows: $5,054.09, Special Gifts; $1,497.35, Residential; $1,289.88, Outlying Areas; $6,281.34, Industrial; $3,021, Commercial; $1,706.75, Professional; $135, Organizations.

Santa will visit Sat.

Like the song says, "Santa Claus is Coming to Town". He'll arrive in Charlevoix this Saturday, at approximately 2 p.m.

Santa's pre-Christmas visit will again this year be sponsored by the Charlevoix Volunteer Fire Department, with an assist from the City Council.

Santa will begin greeting children at the foot of Clinton St. at 2 p.m. He will hand out small favors to all comers. As in the past, Santa will have a city fire truck for a seat.

All parents are urged to bring their children down to talk to Santa Claus.

His arrival in Charlevoix will be by chartered flight.

Christmas Courier is early

Several changes intended to help the shopper and merchant are planned for this year's Christmas edition of the Courier.

Rather than publish on Wednesday, December 24, the regular publication day, the Courier Christmas edition will be delivered to readers on Monday, December 22, giving subscribers and merchants the opportunity to take advantage of last minute shopping bargains.

Due to the early publication date, all news stories and advertising copy must be in the Courier office by noon, Friday, December 19.

Rev. Tenhopen is Association pres.

The Charlevoix Ministerial Association has elected the Rev. Lawrence Tenhopen President for 1970.

Rev. Tenhopen is pastor of the Congregational Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. Bob Rutlede of the Assembly Church of God was elected vice-president, the Rev. Thomas Rash of the Church of the Nazarene was elected the association's secretary, and the Rev. Elmer Faust of the First Methodist Church was elected treasurer.

All of these offices will be held for a one year term.

The Ministerial Association meets on a monthly basis with no particular project, but many duties. They usually meet at one of the churches in the city or in the church's parsonage.

Some of their tasks are to set up union service such as the ones on Good Friday and Thanksgiving. They also set up "Hymn Sings." The Baccalaureate Services before graduation are also part of their yearly agenda.

One of their prime objectives is to talk over their individual duties within their own church and what can be done to help the churches as a whole.

Harry Bingham was released from Charlevoix Hospital last Thursday following treatment of burns after a fire at this Pine Point cottage. Bingham, retired principal of Charlevoix High School, was burned in the face and neck area when the oil space heater in the cottage exploded last Wednesday morning. Charlevoix firemen received the call at approximately 11:15 a.m., and contained the fire by removing the heater from the building. Cause of the explosion is under investigation.

Ruppe Reports

"What is your position on the proposed Congressional reform legislation?"

I recently testified before the House Rules Committee, with regard to the need for immediate Congressional reform. I feel that we must make the Congress a more effective institution for reflecting the views, and implementing the needs, of the nation's voters.

I strongly favor the Committee provisions for open Committee hearings. I think that we should avoid all unnecessary secrecy in governmental procedures. Furthermore, I feel that the people of this nation are entitled to open review of such hearings. AFTER all, such hearings affect legislation, and legislation affects voters.

During the testimony, I also proposed a number of changes in the Regulation of Lobbying Act. We must insure that those who promote legislation before Congress are genuine, overt, and completely above board. For these reasons, I support a broadening of the coverage of the lobbying act, and more complete disclosure of lobbying activities.

I also testified in favor of the abolition of the existing military academy system. I do not believe that it should be the duty of any member of Congress to make such appointments. I have therefore used the competitive selection system, based on merit, since coming to Congress. I have further introducted legislation to authorize the military academies to establish their own admittance systems, free from all political interference. Such systems would insure more equal treatment of all young military academy applicants.

The passage of a strong Congressional reform bill would be one of the most important legislative efforts for the coming decade. Certainly, if we are to meet the challenges of the seventies, we will have to "gear up" Congress as an institution.

The Senate has voted in favor of a raise is the personal tax exemption. The amendment would provide for a $700 exemption in fiscal year 1970, and an $800 exemption as of fiscal year 1971. While I had introduced parallel legislation in the House to provide for a four step raise to $1,000, I was happy to note than the Senate provided at least some tax relief for the middle income citizen.

Rep. Davis Speaks

"I suspect that nearly every elected official in the country has been receiving inquiries about the newly reformed draft system, based on a lottery drawing," said Rep. Robert W. Davis (R-St. Ignace). "Normally I only comment on State issues. However, this is one national issue which affect so many families in our area and throughout Michigan that I believe I should comment."

"In my opinion," said Rep. Davis, "the most important aspect of the new draft program is that a national administration has finally taken positive action to make draft procedures more equitable. Draft reform has been discussed for many years. But President Nixon, during the last campaign, pledged to young Americans that he would achieve draft reform. He has kept that pledge. The President also added that the matter would not rest there. He said that efforts would continue to improve the draft with the eventual goal of eliminating it altogether." "I, personally, prefer an all-volunteer armed force and I think this can be achieved within four to eight years," added Davis.

"Draft-eligible men who have reached their 19th birthday but have not reached their 26th birthday by the end of this year will be affected by the 1970 draft. After the first year under the system, only 19-year-olds and persons whose deferments have ended will be subject to the draft. If present conditions continue, persons with birthdays on the first one-third of the dates selected have a high probability of being selected.

Those with birthdays in the second third of the list have what is called an average probability of being selected. Those in the bottom third of the list will probably not be drafted if predictions on manpower needs are accurate.

"As far as I can determine," said Rep. Davis, "the standards for deferments and exemptions from the draft will not change. The only changes I know of are the method of selecting eligible men (the random lottery instead of discretion of local boards) and the age emphasis (drafting the youngest eligible men rather than the oldest.).

According to Davis, "the last I had heard, full operational details of the new system had not been received by local draft boards. They were apparently unable to immediately answer all questions from citizens but should have complete information soon. It is also possible that special problems will come to light which may cause some changes in the regulations."

"Quite obviously, no draft plan will ever please everyone. However, the new draft program is more equitable and does remove most of the lingering uncertainty inherent in the old system. Now, at least, a young man will only face prime draft eligibility for one year instead of six or seven. This should be very helpful to young persons trying to establish a career and family life.

"It saddens me that we have to have any system at all. which involves sending our young men to war. But, if we must have such a system, we can at least attempt to make it as fair as possible. This is what President Nixon has tried to do."

Library Notes

Beautiful new children's books have recently been purchased for the Library, and they will make good reading during the restless days before Santa Claus arrives. All of them wear bright covers and are profusely illustrated.

"How Can I Find Out?" by Mable Gee and Mary Bongiorno is a delightful slender book about a little boy who finds an ant and wants to learn about it. Both parents and children will love it. Reading time: about five minutes!

New books about the states in the Enchantment of American series include: one on "Indiana," one on "New York," one on "California" and one on "Maryland." These, also, are slender, well illustrated books, descriptive and informative.

"The Big Book of Real Fire Engines" is perfect before-Christmas reading for all the little boys who intend to grow up and become fireman. It is a slim, easy-to handle book containing mostly large bright pictures.

"Helen Keller, Toward the Light," by Stewart and Polly Anne Graff, is a beautifully told biography of this courageous and inspiring woman. The print is large, the colored illustrations are charming.

Four new books in the Colonial American Craftsmen series include: "The Wigmakers," "The Papermakers," the "Hatters" and "The Glassmakers." These are slender books with unusual black and white block-print drawings. All of them are pleasant and informative histories of the subject. "The Hatters," for example, tells about Daniel Boone hats, Indian headdresses, George Washington tricorn hats, etc.

"Impunity Jane," By Rumor Godden is a small book written by an incomparable author, about a four-inch doll who didn't like being cooped up in elegant doll house. She wanted to get out and see the world, and finally she gets her wish! Tucked in a boy's pocket, she discovered all the marvelous adventures that only a gang of lively boys could devise.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER
CHAMBER MANAGER

Well, another Chamber of Commerce annual Dinner-Meeting has gone by and 92 dinner guests met the three new Board of Directors--Bruce Bartlett, of Bartlett Tile & Carpeting; Charles Themm, v.p. of First State Bank of Charlevoix; and George Richardson, president of the Weathervane Inn group. The Mexican dinner, of course, was quite different, not hot like some anticipated, but it was pretty well split as to who enjoyed it and who did not. I hope we can struggle another 12 months to another annual get-together.

It seems to me that the retailers this Christmas season, who chose to decorate their inside display windows, have done a magnificent job. I had hopes of being able to have some prize money and make up a real contest, as is done in most other communities. Harbor Hardware went a little farther again and set up their playing of Christmas carols, the sounds of which are well heard out on Bridge Street, through two outdoor speakers.

A number of different factors seem to enter into the idea of having a couple of weeks retail stores open evenings before Christmas; however, it does appear practically all will be open from about December 17 or 18.

I understand the 1970 fishing licenses have been distributed to several thousand local dealers throughout the state. It is indicated the license fees are as follows:

"Resident annual, $3.10; non-resident annual, $6.10; resident trout and salmon stamp, $2.10; non-resident trout and salmon stamp $3.10; resident 7-day, $3.10; non-resident 7-day $5.10; special 1-day resident and non-resident for Great Lakes and Lake St. Clair, $1.10; and special resident (for persons 65 years and older), 50 cents.

The new licenses and stamps will entitle buyers to fish for the balance of this year as well as throughout 1970. December 31 is the expiration date of 1969 fishing licenses."

I hope many of you recently observed carefully several articles the Courier published with relation to drugs and narcotics. These bugs, so to speak, seem to have really taken hold and in more recent years. It makes one wonder especially when quite a number of these bugs were in existance for a long time. Only today on the noon news I heard some remarks and/or reports on this situation by Governor Milligan, and it indicated that according to checks and/or inventigations down state the more predominate users are 20 years old and under. Some sure want to get an early start and in one sense have a lifetime back of them by the time they are 25 years old.

A headline in a recent Marine News issue "No Business Like Sno-Business." Snow-mobilers to the left of us and snow-mobiles to the right of us and the gang noisily goes forward.

I notice the city had to make some rules in an effort to prevent the snow-mobilers from destroying the municiple golf course. Now that the rules are established, how about the enforcement?!!?

Rayders win, lose

Charlevoix's Red Rayders began a busy weekend last Friday with a 75-58 triumph over Rogers City in the local gym.

They didn't fare as well, however, on Saturday, as they traveled to Cheboygan and ended up on the short end of a 62-51 score.

For the Rayders, it meant loss number one this season and a drop into third place in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference.

Friday, the Rayders pulled away from the Hurons in the second period and took a 36-28 lead into the locker room at halftime.

They claimed a 13-point (57-44) lead at the end of three periods and won going away.

Stewart Coleman, Bruce Meggison and Kraag Lieberman led the onslaught for the Rayders.

In Cheboygan, the lead see-sawed back and forth throughout the first quarter. At the end of the third stanza, the Chiefs led the local quintet by five, 45-40.

Coleman notched 15 for the Rayders, followed by Lieberman with 13.

In Junior Varsity action, the Rayder reserves upped their record to 4-0, with a 59-45 win over Rogers City, and a 68-58 nod over Cheboygan.

Junior Rayders leading the way were Larry Potter, who collected 40 points in the two games, and Jerry Pease, who got 27 in the wo games.

FOR YOUR HOME OR CHALET...

Radarange®
MICROWAVE OVEN

Made by Amana.

FIRST portable all electronic 115 volt cooking unit for your home!

Reduces actual cooking times up to 75%

FOR EXAMPLE:
- Prepare a 5 lb. roast in 37-1/2 minutes;
- Hamburger (in a bun) in 60 seconds;
- Frozen corn in 5 minutes;
- 3 lb. whole chicken 25 minutes.

And, it uses less electricity than an ordinary fry pan!

a new exciting way to prepare meals for your family!

For an EVENING MEAL

5 lb. roast well done 37½ min.
Baked potato 4 min.
Frozen corn 5 min.
Pineapple upside down cake 7½ min.

For a HOT LUNCH

Hamburger in a bun 60 sec.
Baked beans 6¼ min.
Hot dog in a bun 60 sec.
Baked apple 2 min.

For a LATE sleeper BREAKFAST

Crisp bacon 4 min.
Baked eggs 90 sec.
Hot cereal 1¼ min.
Hot chocolate 1½ min.

Fast GOURMET tricks & TREATS

Lobster tail 2½ min.
Beef Stroganoff 8 min.
Sukiyaki 4 min.
Veal Scallopini 15 min.

SOMETHING NEW! Freshen leftovers to almost original goodness!

A leftover roast is freshened in minutes with a "just cooked" taste and eye-appeal.

Just like fresh cooked when a casserole is re-heated in the Radarange. And, it is so delicious.

Garden fresh taste! Leftover vegetables take on a sparkling look when freshened in the Radarange

So delightful your family will never know

It takes minutes, even seconds, to freshen leftover foods. And, they taste and look almost like the first time you served it

Amana first to bring genuine space age technology into your kitchen

Pat

When they sang The First Noel I almost cried because it was so moving, but I didn't dare for the tears would have frozen into ice pellets on my cheeks.

In any case that was the last year of the backyard ice rink and for two good reasons. One, the children were older and wanted to socialize at the public rink; and two, Jack gave me a car so I could drive them there.

For the past two years they've been having fun skating at the city rink and like a darn fool I've been dropping them off and picking them up, but not this year. This is the year of the great change. I'm going to join the skaters. I too want to get in on the fun of steaming my wool mittens on the stove and scorching my nylon jacket 'cause I backed too close to it.

I want to see the young boys try to get up nerve enough to ask the girls to skate around with them.

I want to see the giggling girls hoping desperately for some handsome swain to ask them to skae.

I want to hear little girls scream with delighted rage because some eight year old boys have stolen their hats.

I want to see the boys with the girls' hats on their heads skate off with the little girls in hot pursuit.

In short I want to be in on the fun at the ice rink.

After all that's where the action is and it's so exciting that maybe no one will even notice that I'm too old to be wearing hockey skates.

Council Proceedings

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix set on the above date with Mayor Fochtman presiding. Aldermen present: Gill, Hanna, Klooster, Mol, Sundberg, and Boss. Absent: None.

The Minutes of the November 24, 1969 meeting were approved as presented to the Council in writing and as recorded in the Council Minutes book.

Moved by Alderman Klooster and supported by Alderman Sundberg that the City purchase and install one Fran Air Products, Inc. exchange non-directional Radio Beacon at the airport, and that the Mayor and Clerk be authorized to sign on behalf of the City of Charlevoix the "H" Facility Agreement with the Michigan Aeronautics Commission.

Motion adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Aldermen Gill, Klooster, Mol, Sundberg, and Boss.

Nays: None.

Absent: None.

Moved by Alderman Boss and supported by Alderman Klooster that the Mayor and Clerk are hereby authorized to sign on behalf of the City of Charlevoix an Easement Deed to the United States of America on the United States Coast Guard property.

Motion adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Aldermen Gill, Klooster, Mol, Sundberg, and Boss.

Nays: None.

Absent: None.

The following Rules and Regulations were discussed and agreed upon.

RULES AND REGULATIONS Governing SNOW-MOBILES
using the Charlevoix
GOLF COURSE for RECREATIONAL PURPOSES.

1. No Snow Mobiles of any type, or at any time, are allowed in the vicinity of the sixth (6th) green, namely the area bounded by the Woodshed property; Division Street; Mercer Boulevard; and Petoskey Avenue.

2. No Snow Mobiles, or other vehicles, are allowed on any of the nine playing greens or their fringe areas; or the practice green or it's fringe area, at any time.

All posted signs are to be obeyed at all times.

All man-made obstructions are to be avoided at all times.

3. No vehicles are allowed on the Golf Course at any time, except snow-mobiles, and then only when there is a minimum of four (4) inches of snow on the ground, and between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 11: p.m.

4. This action is being taken to enable use of a public facility by citizens of the community, on a trial basis only. Any abuse of the privilege will result in closing of the entire facility for use by snow mobiles.

5. No racing or contests will be allowed on the Golf Course!

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX

The Finance Committee having examined bills totaling $55,254.81 find them correct and recommend they be allowed.

Moved by Alderman Gill and supported by Alderman Mol that the bills be allowed and orders drawn for their amounts.

Motion adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Aldermen Gill, Klooster, Mol, Sundberg, and Boss.

Nays: None.

Absent: None.

On Motion the Council adjourned.

Hugh Mayne, City Clerk

The Red Rayders were knocked out of the list of the undefeated last Saturday night, but aren't considered out of the race for the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference championship. Cheboygan remained undefeated, and prepared for next Tuesday's battle with St. Ignace, by downing Charlevoix 62-51 in Cheboygan Saturday night.

While the Rayders were winning against Rogers City, 75-58, their fortunes turned sour against the powerful Chiefs the next night. The Rayders have the most powerful offense in the league. with four starters averaging in double figures. It could well be another still test when the rangy Gaylord Blue Devils come to town this weekend.

Gaylord had little trouble in disposing TCSF, 88-51 in Gaylord last Saturday night. The Blue Devils used their first string for only three quarters, and found victory quite easy. Gaylord's height will be difficult to cope with, especially in the rebounding department, but the game is considered a toss-up. It will be a good shooting night that will determine the winner. Look for the Rayders to squeeze by.

Cheboygan goes to Boyne City Friday in what could be another close contest. The Ramblers are always tough at home, but need some fine scoring to win this one. These two teams are considered the strongest teams by weight in the conference. Cheboygan gets the nod, but look for a close game.

The Petoskey Northmen make the long trip across the state to face Alpena CC. The Northmen have had close games in losing to Boyne City (59-58) and St. Ignace (69-61) and should find the Thunderbolts a breather for a change. Big Bob Vratanina's 40 points came within a single point of breaking the conference scoring mark against the Saints last week, boosting himself to the No. 1 spot in scoring. The Thunderbolts were bombed in their last two starts by St. Ignace and Boyne City, and haven't fully regained from that. Petoskey wins easily.

The Saint Ignace Saints face a dark-horse Rogers City squad at home Friday night before taking off for a tough encounter with Cheboygan the following Tuesday. The Saints found the Northmen tougher than they thought they were last weekend before winning 69-61, but will find the Hurons a breather. Rogers City's Paul Newhouse has come on strong since his poor showing against Gaylord with games of 37, 25, and 26 to take over the second spot in the leagues scoring race.

The Hurons surprised Boyne City last Saturday winning by a 56-46 score. Again it was Newhouse and Grulke that did the damage, but the Ramblers played without Mike Mueller, and that could have accounted for the outcome.

TCSF has the weekend off, and probably needs it. They haven't been able to find the scoring punch in their first four games of the season, and lost them all. They lack the big man it takes to get the rebounds, but they do have a top scorer in Mike Comstock.

LIMITS OF FREEDOM. "However attractive anarchy may be as a philosophy, it is not feasible in a world of imperfect men. Men's freedoms can conflict and when they do, one man's freedom must be limited to preserve another's--as a Supreme Court Justice once put it, "My freedom to move my fist must be limited by the proximity of your chin'."--from Capitalism and Freedom by Milton Friedman, professor of economics, University of Chicago.

The Sunday School Program and Christmas entertainment will be at seven o'clock in the Church next Sunday evening. Everyone will be welcome to meet with us.

Mrs. Minnie Hansen has returned to her home in St. Petersburg, Florida, after being a guest of Mr. and Mrs. N.C. Christensen the past ten days.

Mr. and Mrs. William Crowe are spending this holiday season with their daughter and family in Detroit.

The Steak Supper which was sponsored by the men of our church this Saturday evening in the church dining room was most successful and enjoyed by every one who attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Friend and daughter Suzanne of Petoskey spent this Sunday afternoon with the latters parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Alexander.

Mrs. Effie Arthur will be spending Christmas and several weeks of the New Year with her children and other relatives and old friends in Detroit.

By next weekend your home will be spicey with the fragrance of a Christmas Tree and bright with shiny glass balls instead of old fashioned ropes of popcorn and cranberries and shining bright with many colored electric lights in place of wax candles that were used several years ago. All these things have been the Spirit of Christmas to us for many many years.

Martin Luther has been credited with the originating the Christmas tree. He was walking through the hills one snowy Christmas Eve and was so impressed with the beauty of the stars shining through the branches of snow covered evergreens that he took home a small tree and decorated it with candles for his children. This story may be fiction but it is true that Germany was the real home of the Christmas tree. The decorated tree was customary in Germany from 1700 on. Lonely Hessian soldiers brought the idea to our country and by 1840 was widely accepted. And it was made truly nationwide with the naming of the huge General Grant Sequoia as the Nation's Christmas tree. This 267 foot giant is the scene for impressive services each year.

A Merry Merry Christmas to all our friends and neighbors this holiday season.

Dennis Essenberg, 21, of Howell, was killed Friday, November 28, in a car accident. He was the grandson of Andrew Essenberg Sr. Funeral services were held Monday Dec. 1, at Howell. Dennis was employed at Sears of Howell. He was the son of the late Donald Essenberg. Left to mourn besides his grandfather are his mother and a brother Donald. Andrew Essenburg Sr., left Monday morning to attend the funeral.

S / Sgt. Jack M. Tornga spent the Thanksgiving holidays at his home with the Jake Tornga family. Jack left early Sunday for Minot Air Force Base, North Dakota, where he is presently stationed.

Roy DeVries, who is attending the Wesleyan Seminary at Marion, Indiana, spent the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sieblo De Vries and sister. Lee Strange of Central Lake was a Thanksgiving dinner guest with the De Vries family.

Mr. and Mrs. John DeVries accompanied their son Henry and wife and family to Grand Rapids for a family dinner at the home of Mrs. Jeanette Pluger. As a birthday present for Mrs. DeVries, the children had arranged a telephone call to her brothers in the Netherlands. At 12 noon on Saturday the call came through and Mrs. DeVries and her 3 oldest children John, Jeanette and Alice enjoyed a 22 minute conversation with her brothers.

I have one service mens address this week and would urge others to send them as quickly as possible. Sp-4 Chester W. Drenth, 377-46-4692 Box 143-Company E. Maintenance Battalion, 2nd Log Command, A.P.O. San Francisco, 96248.

BELOW FREEZING

Each year at our house we have the great ice skate try-on to see who can wear what skates and which people can't possibly fit into any skates at all and need new ones. I start the proceedings by tossing the basket of skates into the front hall and just letting everyone grab.

This is a good plan except for one person–me. For the past two years I've been the dumbhead who hasn't grabbed out his skates first so someone has worn mne. Well I'm too cheap to buy new ones just for myself and besides everyone else in the family would hate me for it so I just end up by not skating, but not this year.

This year I grabbed first and do you know what I found? I found that someone had punched a skate hole in the toe of my nice white CCM ice skates and so unless I want to have colder toes than I usually do, I'll just have to wear Chris's outgrown hockey skates as they're the only ones left that fit me.

Oh, well, in my later years I don't feel that old compulsion to spread an illusion of glamour anymore, just be physically fit and preserve myself and to do that ice skating sure beats jogging by a mile.

For several years we made our own ice rinks. One year we had a pond on our front porch. It was small, but adequate and a real snap to maintain. We simply ran the hose from the kitchen sink, through the dining room and out the front window. In that way we could flood the rink while standing in the dining room. You must admit that this was pretty ingensus, and so easy but the next winter our family went over our heads and dug a huge rink in the backyard.

Or I should more honestly say that Jack dug a rink in the backyard for be spent all Christmas Day digging out the rink. Then on December 26, he abandoned us to the snow and ice and flew south to the Virgin Islands. He claimed that the trip was purely business, but I still wonder if he was just tired of digging.

In any case Chris carried on valiantly for the next three weeks in his dad's absence. Every morning before dawn and every evening after dusk he flooded the rink, and in just three days we had enough ice for skating. Well it was really great. Everyone in the neighborhood came over to skate and we had a great old time.

During that vacation it was stormy and cold and Owen Blanchard who had come in from the country to spend the night with us got snowed in for three days. During that time there was constant skating and great planning for an ice show.

Everyone put his skates on in our kitchen and the room got so cold from the back door swinging open that I had to wear a ski jacket and sheepskin boots while I fixed meals, which is something that I seemed to be doing constantly.

On New Year's Eve the little gang put on a beautiful ice show on the backyard rink under the floodlight. Doris and Gunnar Luntlegon and I watched the show during a howling blizzard. The children re-enacted the nativity story with some of the children even playing the part of sheep so that no one would be left out.

Mr. Agnew and the press

Vice President Agnew's blast at television news policies launched a tempest of charges and countercharges, but his message was not all that new. He was voicing criticisms which that "great silent majority" has been thinking for a long time.

Many people don't trust their sources of news, in spite of the fact that newspapers, radio, and television are probably behaving more fairly and more responsibly now than at any time in our nation's history. Newsmen are better educated than they ever have been. They have better technical tools. Most important, the professional standards of news broadcasters and commentators have risen along with the standards of the news profession as a whole.

Mr. Agnew is correct when he points to the networks' tremendous influence on public opinion. He is incorrect when he implies that the men who present the news arrived at their positions through some conspiracy, secret society or divine right. The TV news business is highly competitive. The men who write, select, and present the news on nation-wide programs do so because, on the whole, they are the most competent and professional of the breed.

Mr. Agnew is correct in proclaiming that the public ought to pay more attention to how decisions are made in the media. He's correct that a small number of men decide what appears on the air. There's no other way to do it; competent, responsible newsmen have to be trusted with this difficult job. But the public should and does voice its views about the decisions which are made.

His most valid criticism is that network broadcasters occasionally reveal their own prejudices in the way they present the news. Opinion should be labelled as opinion. (However, this coloring of the news occurs far less frequently than Mr. Agnew indicates.)

The greatest danger of Mr. Agnew's remarks--and it's no small danger--is that he seems to be promoting a guideline that the selection of news and the presentation of opinion should agree with the view of (1) the Administration, and (2) the "majority view."

"The views of the majority of this (TV news) fraternity do no represent the views of America," Mr. Agnew said. "As with other American institutions, perhaps it is time that the networks were made more responsive to the views of the nation and more responsible to the people they serve."

"Freedom of the press' means the media must be able to publicize information or to express views which differ from the view of the government or of the majority which happens to prevail at the moment. This is just as true at CBS as it is at the Littleton Independent. Editors and broadcasters must make news judgements as independently as possible from pressures of government, the corporate owners of the networks and stations, and special interest groups. Mr. Agnew's failure to recognize this basic premise is what has most upset the broadcasters and other journalists.

Giant step backward

If our first Astronauts had landed in Marblehead, Mass. instead of on the moon Neil Armstrong might have said -- "one giant step backward for mankind," because of the citizens' recent action to outlaw observances of Christmas and Hanukkah for Christians and Jews in the schools.

Schools, supposedly, are the source of enlightenment; the centers of learning and understanding. Marblehead, apaparently, has given up on the idea of learning from each other, that we really can live successfully together. Apparently, their shortrun thoughts assume that things will merrily continue along by ignoring differences. If this were true, would Viet Nam be any better, would civil rights improve by turning our backs to it. . .hardly. The past shows that when we turn away, attitudes don't improve, invisible walls are built, communication among groups become fragmented, lack of knowledge of each other increases, suspicion of each other is born, and soon those transparent walls become forts, while defenses are reinforced.

Atheist Mrs. Madelinna Murray of Baltimore, Md. who succeeded in banning prayer from schools is a perpetuator to building "forts when she tried to reinforce her defenses by bringing suit against the astronauts last Christmas Eve for their reading from the Bible in outer space. Thankfully, she was rebutted when the court decided that the charge was "an infringement on the rights of the astronauts" as reported by the media.

Perhaps this marks a turning point to the adsurdity of banning religion in school as an infringement on the well-rounded education of our communities.

Farmers support the adoption of an amendment to the Constitution of the United State to guarantee the right to offer prayers and to read the Bible in public schools and other public places.

Teachers should be encouraged to devote a period to spiritual meditation and patriotic instruction at the beginning of the school day.

Prohibition isn't the answer. If America still believes in the ideal of democracy, religious freedom and the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, we must be knowledgeable and open minded with respect to other beliefs.

Happy Holidays, Marblehead. It's hoped you are not starting a trend.

Juvenile court cases

BY JOHN REDDY

Sometime this winter there probably will be a ruling by the United States Supreme Court that will create something of a stir in many states.

The case involves a Dodge County, Nebraska, youth named Clarence DeBacker. The youth's defense counsel is asking that the court include within the meaning of "due process" three guarantees.

They are:

1. The right to trial by jury on a charge of delinquency where the basis for the charge is the commission of a crime which if committed by an adult would entitle that adult to a trial by jury.
2. The right to be proven guilty beyond a reasonable doubt when accused of misconduct which would be felonious if charged to an adult.
3. The guarantee that the prosecutor will not have unreviewable discretion in determining whether to prosecute the juvenile accused in a juvenile of criminal court.

Essentially, the youth is accused of taking a forged check to the store and cashing it on behalf of his mother. But the legal questions are raised because in its landmark Gault case of 1967, the Supreme Court extended the protection of the due process clause of the 14th Amendment to juveniles accused of delinquency without delineating the scope of that protection or precisely defining the nature of the juvenile adjudication.

Probate judges and juvenile courts in Michigan, would not be drastically affected should the court rule that the three procedures are in fact Constitutional guarantees.

The Michigan Juvenile code guarantees a right of a juvenile to be tried by a six-man jury; many states do not. So judicial machinery exists to implement a policy that as yet is not national law.

Michigan law is not clear, however, on whether a preponderance of evidence is sufficient to convict a suspect or whether adjudication must be determined "beyond reasonable doubt." Rules of evidence are more stringent in the latter.

So, while the high court ruling might not create a demand for additional court facilities and personnel, it certainly may bring uniformity in the manner judges and juries use in evaluating accusations against minors.

Charity season

The fall season is undoubtedly the time for charities.

All of the various committees of all the various organizations have spent the summer planning happenings that will help finance their worthy causes.

Because there is such a concentration of these happenings from Labor Day to Thanksgiving, the recipients of the kind invitations get a little frustrated because they are sometimes invited to as many as three affairs for the same evening, and you just can't dress up in your bib and tucker three or four times a week over a 2½ month period.

Possibly somebody should devise a central clearing office to avoid duplication, but I think it might be more effective if the charities were to get together and have a non-happening.

If a charity has a dinner dance the committee has to go out and either solicit from industry or pay for invitations, cocktails, dinner, an orchestra, and a place to have the affair. If they are unsuccessful in getting any of these items donated, then that cost must come from the profit from the sale of the tickets.

If the invitee pays $100 and goes to the dance, them the Internal Revenue makes him subtranct the reasonable cost of the dinner from the ticket price before he can claim a charitable deduction.

On top of that, if the same invitee is going to several of these functions, his wife certainly can't appear in the same dress, so he goes to great expense in preparing to attend the function.

Under the non-happening concept the committee could sent out invitations to the most spectacular ball imaginable, but never actually hold the function, and the people would be making their contribution to the charity and avoid the cost of actually having to attend.

This is not meant to be cynical, but it is obvious that the same people-who have made the magic contribution list-are invited to practically all the same functions. If they attempt to attend all of the functions they eventually will be so worn out that they will pass up many of the opportunities, which will eventually, because of low attendance, phase out this type of fund raising.

Most families allocate a certain amount of money toward charity each year and they will spend it for their favorite charities whether they attend a function or not. By not having to attend the functions they could save a lot of wear and tear on themselves.

If it Fitz

Unfair to girl watchers

SPIRO AGNEW is right. TV doesn't show the whole story. Shirley Jones' legs, for instance.

The other day I arrived home from work in time to see the Mike Douglas Show. Miss Jones, the singing actress, was guest hostess. And there she was, in glorious color, in a mini-skirt. Oh my.

Now I saw Shirley win the academy award in Elmer Gantry. And I saw her as Marian the Librarian in The Music Man. I enjoyed her. But due to stupid costuming, I never really noticed her legs until this marvelous afternoon when she sat down to talk with Mike Douglas.

Steady readers (Mother and Aunt-Madeline) will not be surprised to learn I am a leg man. To me, Jane Russell always looked like she should wear a bell around her neck. But Betty Grable was something else. When she married Harry James, I didn't know whether to kill myself or take trumpet lessons.

Mini-skirts are the greatest invention since sex itself. Sure, a lot of women wear them who shouldn't. But one Shirley Jones makes up for a dozen silly broads with jiggling thighs. As long as I can look at girls like Shirley, I'll not be too critical of grandmothers with bare knees (Besides, I've seen a mirror of myself in Bermuda shorts and I don't feel qualified to throw the first stony stare).

ANYWAY, MY SON beard me panting at Shirley. And he heard me mutter when Mike Douglas switched his attention to other guests and there was no more Shirley on the screen. "She'll be on again tomorrow," said Eddie, who knows how to please his lecherous old father.

So the next day I arranged my schedule (hid the work under my desk blotter) so as to be home by 5 p.m. And sure enough, there was Shirley again, on camera for most of an hour. But what a rotten, lousy trick she played. She was wearing long, baggly pants.

"Those are elephant pants," my daughter explained when she found me pounding the TV with my head.

Elephant pants! I never heard of such a thing. But the name is appropriate. An elephant could wear them and have room for a spare trunk.

What about those stupid maxicoats? Everytime I see one, I think the girl is trying to smuggle a boy into her bedroom. The girls claim they wear 'em to keep warm. Phooey. They wear 'em because that's where it's at this season. My daughter will probably wear a maxicoat for wading into snowdrifts this winter. But she'll have toeless sandals on her freezing feet. She says she can't wear boots because there isn't room for them in her locker at school. But she'll find room in it for 100 yards of coat if that's what the girls are wearing this season.

Women are silly slaves to greedy manufacturers who have no shame about how they hustle a buck. Women are nuts. And women like Shirley Jones are also unfair to girl watchers.

Spiro should make a speech about it. I wonder if he knows that Shirley Jones stole her pants from the GOP elephant?

ON THE 'FLIP' SIDE

We have wandered through the business district several times the last week or so, taking pictures of store window displays and Christmas shoppers.

The city and merchants should be congratulated on their decorating efforts. Most store windows are nicely decorated, many of them with no attempt at commercialism.

We have never seen a town where so many people do their shopping so early. We start thinking about Christmas the week after Thanksgiving. . .many people in Charlevoix have completed their gift buying by that time.

Where is Santa Claus? Williams Cigar Store prompted the Jolly Fellow to pay a visit for a few days the weekend following Thanksgiving, but since then, we haven't heard about a single appearance in the city. Why not regular hours at City Hall or the Chamber office from Thanksgiving until Christmas next year? Then, every youngster can tell him how good they have been, while Mom slips downtown to do some shopping.

It has been our experience to find that such a set-up keeps many merchants busier during the holiday season.

The Courier will issue a special Christmas issue next week. The paper will be printed on Saturday, and arrive in the mail on Monday. News and advertising deadlines have been moved up. . . so anyone with a news item should bring it to our office by Friday morning of THIS WEEK.

School reorganization, a strong possibility in Charlevoix, if Gov. William Milliken's education reform package is passed by the Legislature, is causing concern among local school officials.

Of the three possibilities, only one strikes us as even remotely acceptable. A merger of the Charlevoix and Ellsworth school districts appears to be workable (we'll probably draw the wrath of our Ellsworth readers with this thought). We do not feel a county school district or a merger with Petoskey schools would be beneficial in any way.

Operating loans help save farms

Some farms in Antrim, Charlevoix, and Otsego Counties have turned worn-out or little used land into productive farmland. This has been done with the help of the Farmers Home Administration Operating Loan Program.

County Supervisor, Ernest Schuette, said that "the way to success in most cases, is willingness to sacrifice immediate wants and concentrate on long - range objectives!

A Farmers Home Administration County Supervisor helps farmers work out a farm and home plan to make the best possible use of the resources available and to increase their incomes.

Farmers Home Administration operating loans may also be used to develop recreation and other non-farm enterprises which will supplement farm income.

Schuette said the interest rate on operating loans in 6 5/8 percent with a repayment period of one to seven years.

In addition to operating loans, Farmers Home Administration makes loans to purchase and develop farms, to build housing for farm laborers as well as senior citizens and other rural citizens, individual housing, and soil and water conservation measures.

Further information may be obtained at the Farmers Home Administration Office in the Bellaire Office, Plaza Bldg., Bellaire.

Obituary

H. Jacobs

Funeral services for Harold J. Jacobs are set for Thursday at 10:30 a.m. at Winchester Funeral Home. A native of Charlevoix, Mr Jacobs died Saturday in Phoenix, Arizona, where he had lived since 1954.

He was born in Charlevoix August 29, 1892, and attended Charlevoix Public Schools.

He married the former Gertrude Block November 22, 1913.

In 1915 they moved to Flint where he was employed by Buick Motors until he retired in 1936. He continued to live in Flint until he moved to Arizona in 1954.

Besides his wife, he is survived by one brother, Kenneth Jacobs, of Arlington, Virginia; a brother-in-law Kenneth Ellis, of Petoskey and one niece and several nephews.

The Rev. Elmer Faust of the First Methodist Church will officiate at the ceremony: Burial will be at Brookside Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home this evening (Wednesday).

Plan ahead to call Viet over holidays

Local residents were advised today by Michigan Bell Telephone Company to plan ahead if they wish to talk during the coming holiday season to relatives or friends stationed in Vietnam.

"It is generally easier for a serviceman to call home than for his family to try reaching him in Vietnam, " said Kenneth T. Harrold, manager here for the company. "And to avoid disappointments, servicemen are encouraged to notify their families in advance if they expect to telephone home, particularly during the holidays."

More than 42,000 calls were completed between the United States and Vietnam last year. Most of the calls were made from Vietnam rather than the U.S. because of the difficulty in locating servicemen when calls come in from the States, Harrold said.

"The heavy concentration of so many troops in a small country at war creates some real communications problems," he added. "Service is still not what we would like it to be but it has been improved substantially in recent years."

Travel restrictions and curfews in Saigon complicate the task of locating servicemen to take telephone calls. For this reason, when a call is made to Saigon it is important for the caller to have the serviceman's unit, his APO number and, if possible, a telephone number where he can be reached.

Until 1967, a servicemen could call home only from Saigon. Calls now can be placed from hospitals and bases on Ton Son Nhut, Long Binh, Cam Rahn, Bay, Nha Trang. Qui Nhon and Da Nang.

U.S. callers, however, can reach only telephones in Saigon and the immediate vicinity.

The speed of handling a call to Vietnam depends on the volume of calls pending at the time and the availability of the serviceman in Vietnam. Calls between the U.S. and Vietnam average about 350 a day, but this figure is expected to increase during the holiday season.

CARPENTER'S SON BORN IN STABLE, NAMED JESUS, THE CHRIST

HOLY BIRTH IS REPORTED IN BETHLEHEM

(Special To The Courier)

BETHLEHEM--A strange phenomenon took place here last night, when a star of extraordinary brightness appeared to stand still over the city, its light causing all other stars in the heavens to seem to disappear.

Simultaneous with the advent of the star was the birth of an infant boy in a stable behind a local inn that has the population of this over-crowded city excited with reports that the child is the Son of God, of a virgin birth, and that he is destined to establish a new kingdom on earth.

The Roman authorities in this poor land discount the rumor, calling it superstition, but the populace in the street is not of the same mind as their foreign rulers.

Religious leaders in the synagogues are closeted behind closed doors and the high priests are reported to be discussing seriously what the advent of this birth, and the presence of the bright star over the city, might really mean.

The parents of the child, who has been named Jesus Christ, are a Joseph and Mary, who came to Bethlehem for the annual, Roman tax count, along with the thousands of others who are here to comply with the law.

It was a silent and cold night when their son was born in a manger in a stable behind an overcrowded inn that has no room for the expectant mother. Joseph, on foot, leading an ass, on which rode Mary, expectant with child, had journeyed a long way to comply with the law and the ancient prophesy that a Messiah would be born in this normally sleepy little village.

Finding the inn crowded, Joseph and Mary were directed to the stables at the rear of the inn, where they could take shelter from the cold, driving rain.

Inside the stable, by the flickering light of an oil lamp, Joseph made Mary as comfortable as conditions allowed and the wait began for it was apparent that her infant would be born in a few hours.

Joseph, like all fathers, paced nervously near the entrance of the stable, which was in a shallow cave in a cliff front. Nearby, a patient ox stood silently, and the bedraggled donkey which had carried Mary from Nazareth munched noisily on hay from the manger.

Sheep in the stable waited silently in one of the stalls and the odors of the animals and their frosty breath filled the damp, stable air. Then a strange pure light filled the stable, coming from the stall where Mary, enconced behind a cloth screen which Joseph had hung over one of the stalls, lay in labor.

Then, it was reported, Angels, sent to attend Mary, slipped back the cloth and the mother of the babe brought Him forth, wrapped Him in swaddling clothes and laid Him in a manger filled with fresh-cut hay.

The animals in the stable raised their heads to gaze upon the infant, around which this strange light that visitors to the stable since the birth have called "pure".

Swiftly, the Angels that had attended Mary departed, saying they must go tell the world of the birth of the long-awaited Messiah, the king of kings. And high above the stable, in a sky cleared of storm cloud and rain, this strange, bright and brilliant star, hovered almost directly above the stable.

If this is a king, it was a strange birth. There were no royal robes, no jewels to welcome him, only the simple shelter of a stable in a storm, and the adoration of Angels, of Joseph and Mary, and the dumb beasts of the field.

Will the world know Him and recognize Him as a king? Will His kingdom be as other kingdoms, of men and material things? A part of the answer was soon forthcoming.

For in a shortwhile, voices, singing and chanting, were heard approaching the stable. They were the voices of approaching shepherds, coming from the bleak hills around this little village, and they were saying, "Glory to God in the Highest. Alleluia! Christ the Savior is Born."

Mary, Mother of Infant, Says Angel Told of His Mission

(Special To The Courier)

BETHLEHEM--Mary, the mother of the infant, Jesus Christ, who was born in the stable back of an inn here in Bethlehem, said today the birth of her son and the excitement caused by His birth, was no surprise, because she had been told by an Angel of God that she would bear such a child.

Asked how she was told, Mary said an Angel appeared to her and awakened her from sleep to announce to her that God had chosen here to bear His Son. The Angel, she said, declared, "Hail, woman favored by the Lord; the Lord is with you."

Mary said she was surprised and frightened a bit at that visitation, but that the Angel reassured her, saying, "Do not be afraid, Mary. The Lord has given you His favor and has chosen you to be the mother of a son whose name shall be Jesus.

"He shall be great; and shall be called the Son of God; and the Lord shall give Him the throne of his father David. He shall be a king and shall reign over the people of God forever; and of His rule there shall be no end."

Mary also said she was incredulous that she, an ordinary peasant woman, should be so chosen, and that the Angel further said to her, "The Holy Spirit shall come upon you, and the power of the Most High God shall be over you; and the Holy Child which you shall have shall be called the Son of God."

Asked what her reaction to this was, Mary said she told the Angel, "I am the servant of the Lord to do his will. Let it be to me as you have said."

She was also asked how an infant born of such a poor family and of no nobility could become a king, and what kind of kingdom he would have. Mary was reported to have said that her son would answer these questions at the proper time.

Facts Support Miracle Claim

This strange event that has focused so much attention on the village of Bethlehem, this birth of a baby boy to Mary, wife of Joseph of Nazareth-is this truly the miracle it seems to be?

The evidence points to the truth of such a miracle.

First, Angels from the Heavens appeared in the skies over these hills proclaiming Him to be the Son of God. They sang out in great choruses words of praise for both the babe and the glory of God.

Second, there is the report that the mother, Mary, was a virgin, and there are none to impugn the truth of this claim.

And third, no ordinary birth would bring to this tiny village the presence of three such wise and distinguished men as the Magi, Caspar, Melchoir and Balthazar. Nor would men of such stature lavish expensive gifts on an ordinary child.

And lastly, he is of the lineage of David, and is it not written that there will be for the people, a king and saviour born of this line? And was it not foretold that this King of Kings would be born, not in a palace, but in a lowly place, and wrapped in swadling clothes and cradled in a manger?

The facts are too much to deny. Couple the facts with the concern being expressed by King Herod over the threat to this throne by the advent of a new king, and the rumor that Herod may order all male babies born in this time slaughtered, and the strength of this event grows even more.

But if he is the prophesied King of Kings, what kind of kingdom will he establish? What can be expected of this son of a carpenter? Although descended of David, His relationship is too remote to insure Him entry into the inner circles of the priesthood or of noblemen.

Certainly, man is in need of a leader who will insure justice and fair play, honesty and dignity. Such a leader is long past due and when He shows himself to be such a leader, He will have our unqualified support. -The Editor.

Rumblings Heard of Danger To Idea of New Holy King

(Special To The Courier)

BETHLEHEM -- Fear of something new apparently is behind reports of opposition that is reportedly rising here, to the idea that Jesus Christ, son of Mary and Joseph, is also the Son of God and will grow up to cast new light on old religious practices.

Philosophers and the prophecies of wise men are now being rejected in certain quarters, as disbelievers gather in inns and around the synagogues to discuss the reported miracle that took place in the stable behind an inn on the edge of Bethlehem.

Apparently there is as yet no formal opposition organization with any concrete program designed to discredit the reported virgin birth, but usually reliable sources indicate the birth has shaken the palace of Herod.

Romans, in whose charge the whole country has been placed, tend to discount the whole story as being a superstition and an official spokesman said, "We have enough to do collecting taxes and keeping order without listening to tales like the ones that have been going around the city all day and night."

Shepherd was Eye Witness to the Visit from Angels

(Special To The Courier)

BETHLEHEM -- The local shepherd, Zechariah, who first saw the brilliant illumination that was coincident with the birth of the son of Mary and Joseph, gave a first-hand report of the miraculous events that took place as he tended his flock and kept watch while other shepherds slept.

Zechariah reported that the light appeared quite suddenly and spread over the hills rapidly, so that every rock and every sheep, could be easily seen.

And then, he said, there in the heavens, was an Angel, who told the shepherds of the birth in Bethlehem stable, that Christ the Savior was born.

After the messenger Angel made this pronouncement, Zechariah said, the sky behind him was filled with a chorus of Angels, singing in a great chant, the words, "Alleluia, Glory to God in the Highest."

Then, said Zechariah, the shepherds consulted among themselves, asking what it all could mean, and if it were true, and they decided to leave their flocks and go into Bethlehem, to the stable behind their inn, and pay their respects to the new-born King.

The birth must be that of a King, said Zechariah, reasoning that only a Holy birth would prompt choruses of Angels to appear to man and sing songs of praise.

And so it was that the shepherds left the stony hills and their flocks and went to the stable where, falling on their knees, they were received by the Christ child and Mary and Joseph.

Ebenezer Cites Line Of David as Reason for Accepting Holy Savior

(Special To The Courier)

BETHLEHEM -- This small Judean village hasn't had so much attention focused on it since it was the home of David, the shepherd boy who killed the giant, Goliath, 28 generations ago.

But the fact that it was the home of David lends credence to reports that the infant son Jesus Christ of Mary is, indeed, destined for his own place in history.

Why? Because it is through a line of descendants from David, the Shepherd King, that Jesus Christ comes, whose birth from this line of antecedents is foretold in the tablets of Judaic prophesy.

Ebenezer, wiseman and philosopher of Bethlehem, whose own ancestors have lived here and on the surrounding plains for centuries, commented on this prophecy this week, as well as on the origin of the name of the village.

The philosopher, whose own name means, "stone of help," said he had studied the various meanings of Bethlehem and that for hundreds of years the plains around the village were fruitful and fertile, affording many acres of good pasture land for cattle and sheep, and for production of crops and vineyards.

Consequently, Ebenezer continued, its name comes from the old Hebrew word meaning, "house of bread", because of the former fertility of the region.

But in this day, at this time of the birth of Jesus Christ, descendant of David, the countryside is vastly different. The soil is depleted, the crops are sparse and the grazing limited. It is a poor land, indeed, that has been witness to this miracle of the star that hangs over the hamlet of Bethlehem.

Heavenly Vision Inspired Choice of Child's Name

(Special To The Courier)

BETHLEHEM -- A heavenly vision inspired Mary, wife of Joseph and mother of the baby born in a stable manger behind a local inn, to name him Jesus Christ, it was learned in an interview shortly after the birth.

The mother reported that she received a vision from an Angel, who instructed her, "Thou shalt call His name Jesus, for He shalt save His people from their sins."

A check of records disclosed that the name, Jesus, is from the old Hebrew name Jashua, meaning "Jehovah is salvation." Jesus, it was reported, was born to fulfill the mission of salvation for people, Joseph, the father said.

It is customary to name children to indicate their purpose in life, or the wishes of their parents.

For example, the name, Charles, means strong or manly. John means God is gracious, and Robert, which means "bright in fame". Girls are similarly named. Alice means truth; Ann means grace, Dorothy means "gift of God," and, with this historical basis, the parents, Joseph and Mary, following the dictates of the vision seen by Mary, named their Son, Jesus Christ.

The name, Jesus Christ, means "Son of David," and "Messiah," also "the anointed one," and "Savior," the parents emphasized.

The Ebenezer Christian School P.T.A. met in the Ellsworth Christian Reformed Church for their December meeting, Monday. Harry D Groat, vice president, was in charge of the meeting and led in prayer and read the Christmas story from Luke 2.

The secretary's report was given by Mrs. Martin Rubingh and treasurers' report by Mrs. Bill Wynsma. Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Kuiper and Mr. and Mrs. Joy Kuiper comprised the program committee for this month. Group singing of Christmas songs were enjoyed. Miss Joyce Vander Slik, accompanied by Mrs. Martin Rubingh, sang "How big is God" and "In the Image of God." Mrs. John Veldkamp gave readings entitled "One day at a time" and "The Christmas Gift."

A musical number by Joy Kuiper, his daughter, Mrs. Martin Rubingh and her daughter Jana was played on the piano. John Veldkamp closed the meeting with thanksgiving.

Lunch was served to a good sized group by the Meslames, Mattie Vander Ark, John Klooster, Willard and Peter Vander Ark.

The Christmas program of the school was given Dec. 17 at the Ellsworth Church.

At the annual congregational meeting of the Christian Reformed Church held Tuesday December 9, Fred Bolhuis, Harold Jansen and Melvin Essenberg were elected as elders to serve a two-year term and Wayne Daining and Versile (Harold) Veldkamp were elected to serve as deacons for two years. The proposed budget of 1970 was also approved.

Ski economics

Has the cost of skiing really kept up with inflation ? Or is it, like electricity, one of those rare bargains left?

"Boyne Country" is a good local example to use to examine the question. Not only are Boyne Country's rates the highest most Mid-America skiers encounter, but it also offers the most skiing.

When Everett Kircher opened his Boyne Mountain Ski Club here in 1948, a lift ticket on the Midwest's (really the world's) first chairlift cost $5. The lift could take 300 skiers uphill an hour.

For that five bucks, a skier had his choice of two ungroomed, stump-pocked slopes. There was a small warming lodge with 1,200 square feet of space, a poorly plowed, rut-marked parking lot and only the snow nature delivered.

Today, the top Boyne Country ticket costs $8. For that you can ride one of 14 chairlifts, on 53 meticulously groomed slopes (ranging from gentle beginner's to almost free-fall speed expert), at four different ski areas.

The 15 chairlifts (four quads, four triples and six doubles) will carry 5,000 people upill an hour.

Several hundred miles of snow making equipment serves the slopes.

There is now more than 176,000 square feet of lodge and guest room space at the four Boyne Country areas. There is parking for 3,000 cars and miles of paved road.

In 1948 there was one ski instructor. This winter there will be 64, headed by Othmar Schneider, director. The eight Boyne Mountain employees in 1948, have been replaced by some 400 this year.

There is a free airport with 4,200 foot lighted runway and radio beacon.

While all of this has been added (at an increase of from $5 to $8 for a lift ticket) wages and taxes have at least doubled and the price of chairlifts has tripled.

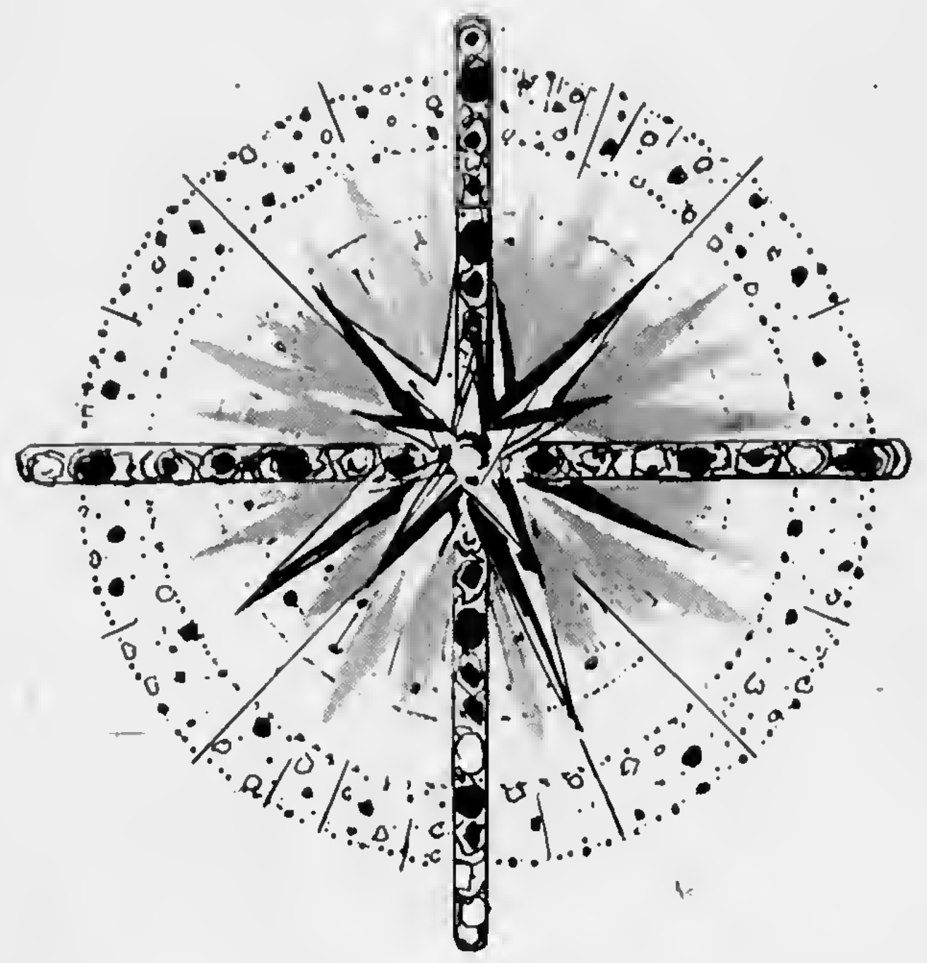
Oh. And someone is bound to point out that if there was a pretty girl on the slope in 1948 she was bundled up like a turtle. Now the slopes are swarming with pretty girls who look (and act) like pretty girls....at no increase in cost.

Locals

Mr. and Mrs. Cal Gould and daughters, Judy, Kim, and Penny have left Charlevoix on a ten day visit with their sister in Jacksonville, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. A.D. Cunningham returned recently from a three weeks visit in Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Davenport and family.

Mrs.. Raymond Baok left recently via plant to spend the winter in Palmetto, Fla.



Joy and Peace at Christmas

Around us, the wonder of Christmas spreads its joy and warmth. The radiance of a Star shines into our hearts, as once it shone above a sacred manger, heralding the miracle of the Holy Birth. As you observe Christmas with those near and dear to you, may you rejoice anew at the true, deep meaning of this most glorious time. And may the peace and joy of the season be an ever present blessing, to light the way for all men, everywhere.

Christmas church services

Above picture is a scene from the Christmas play "To All People" which was presented by the Youth of the Charlevoix Assembly of God, 203 East Upright Sunday evening at 7 p.m. The three act play, directed by Mrs. Bob Rutledge, related how an unwanted guest at Christmas time renews a family's weakened faith in God.

Members of the cast include Jerry Drost, Norma Eby, Connie Drost, Carol Elzinga, Bill Gengle, Denny Way, Sue Way, Bunny Gengle, Greg Revoir, Bonnie Drost, Ed Drost, Mickey Gigg, Steve Bearss, Chris Drost, Kelly Drost, Carol Russell, Sandy Gigg, and Lorraine Brown.

The Teen Director is Sandy Way and prompters are Kitty Gengle and Donna Martin. The Youth concluded the play by singing a song "To Everyone Everywhere" in which Chuck Elzinga played the trumpet and Bunny Gengle the drums.

The church choir presented a special Christmas arrangement of songs in the Morning Worship service at 11 a.m. The choir sang the following songs: "I Heard The Bells", "Ring The Bells", and "Oh Holy Night".

The Pastor's Christmas message will be entitled "The Jesus That Is" and is taken from the scripture text Hebrews 1: 10-12 and Hebrews 13:8.

The church's Sunday School begins at 10 a.m. and the lesson for this week is entitled "The Living Word".

On Monday evening the church's "Kouples Klub" will be meeting at the home of Doug Way in Atwood for a time of caroling across country by snowmobile. Afterwards they will return for a time of fellowship and refreshments.

Pastor Rutledge and the congregation extend a warm invitation to everyone for these Christmas activities and wish everyone a very Merry Christmas.

Services at United Methodist

The United Methodist church will hold a Candlelight service on Christmas eve, Dec. 24, at 11 p.m.

A varied and inspirational program of Christmas music is planned. At the center of the program is the fine work of the adult choir under the direction of Mrs. Mark White.

Because of the lateness of the hour, there will be no nursery care provided. The community at large is warmly welcomed.

Greensky Christmas services

Greensky Hill church will have its Christmas program at the church on Wednesday, Dec. 24, at 7:30 p.m.

The program will include a variety of parts, using mostly children. It is under the direction of Della Oliver and Glenna Willis.

An offering for the United Methodist Children's Home at Redford, Mich., will be taken. A cordial welcome is extended to all.

Programs at Nazarene

Beginning at the Sunday School hour at 10 a.m. the Charlevoix Church of the Nazarene presented the annual Christmas program of the Sunday School members. A treat was given to every one present.

The pastor, Rev. Thomas Rash, delivered his "Christmas" Sermon in the worship, service, at 11 a.m.

There was no Young People's service at 6:15.

At 7 p.m, there was a "Candlelight" service, with the pastor directing. He read between several musical numbers. A solo was sung by Jim Fiedler; a duet by Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Batdorff; a solo by Agnes Lombard; a quartete of four Junior girls, which is composed of Debby Batdorff, Lisa Fielder, Kristina Fiedler, and Darlene Smalley; a Baritone horn solo, by Rev. Rash. Carols also was sung by the congregation.

After the service, Rev. and Mrs. Rash hosted an "Open House" at their mobile home, located next to the church. All members and friends of the congregation were invited.

On Monday evening, Dec. 22, at 7 p.m., the young people will meet at the church, to conduct a tour for Christmas caroling in town. The president, Mrs. Jim Fiedler, will lead the tour. There will be a time for refreshments and fellowship later in the church hall.

The weekly prayer and praise service, usually held on Thursday will be changed to Tuesday at 7:30, to observe the most meaningful birth of all history.

A week later on New Years eve, December 31, a "Watch Night" service will be held from 10 p.m. 'til 12. The Nazarene's of Alanson and Boyne City are invited and will participate in the program of the evening. There will be a social hour, as well as serious religious meditation.

The friends and neighbors of the church are cordially invited to enjoy these services.

Reformed churches present programs

On Sunday night, December 21, the combined choirs of the Atwood Reformed Church and the Charlevoix Reformed Church presented the Christmas Cantata "Joy To The World" by John Peterson. Those carrying the solo parts were Rev. R. Vander Werff, Marvin Shooks, Mrs. Jerry Redeker and Mrs. Robert Klooster. The Director was Kenneth Drenth.

On Monday night December 22, at 8 o'clock the annual Christmas program will be presented by the boys and girls of the Sunday School. The Youth Fellowship will also present a play entitled "The Christmas Miracle" under the direction of the sponsors, Dr. and Mrs. J. Baillargeon.

Other members of the Christmas Committee are Mrs. Carolyn Klooster, Mrs. Janice Glass, Mrs. Mary Brock, Mrs. Elise Redeker and Mrs. Sandra Bixel.

The Junior Youth Fellowship will participate in the worship service of lighting The Advent Candles. Miss Beth Ann Boss is sponsoring the Junior group. They will also participate in the musical part of the program.

Everyone is welcome to attend these services.

Pat's Reaction

The last mile

Well it's that time of year again. Time to get out and start shopping. The last few days before Christmas are always the best I find for at that late date the merchants get a little panicky that they aren't really going to be able to unload all of those Barby dolls and H.O. cars and if they're ever going to get rid of them at all, now is the time.

Last year, for instance, I walked into Oleson's toy store on December 24, and picked up two large Giggles dolls and two cribs for them. If I hadn't been able to buy those toys at a bargain price I never would have bought them at all.

And invariably I place my catalog orders so late that those toys never get to Charlevoix on time, but do I panic? Heck no. Every child has a list that's so long that they'll never get everything anyway so I just substitute.

Actually I find that it pays to wait until just before Christmas to shop because children so often change their minds about what they want and husbands so often forget that they asked for something and go buy it. So even though my family starts threatening me by announcing only 25 shopping days left before Christmas and calling out each diminishing day I usually wait until the last three days to swing into action.

And this year I've abandoned the idea of sending Christmas cards for although I appreciate the thought the truth is that I don't get around to reading the cards until the day that I take down the tree, and by that time I'm usually out of the spirit of the whole thing.

This year I'm just going to take Christmas calmly and enjoy it. I'm going to try to think more about God and less about presents and I think that our whole family will be lots happier.

Now I'm going to pass on to you a little poem that Mrs. Robert Bridge clipped out of a Chicago newspaper many Christmases ago, because no matter how well you prepare for Christmas it always seems to end up like this anyway.

The Day After Christmas

'Tis the day after Christmas and inside and out
The holiday carnage lies scattered about.
And Ma with a wet towel atop of her head,
And aspirin tablets has crawled into bed.
The kiddies, God bless them,
are raising a din,
With thundering drums and shrill trumpets of tin.
While Pa, like a school boy,
forgetting his years,
Is all tangled up in the bicycle
gears.
Old Duffer, the Dachshund,
delightfully smug,
Lies gnawing a wishbone upon the new rug.
And Muffet, the kitten
despaired of a lap,
On the dining room table is taking a nap.
Plaid neckties, pink socks,
and what-nots galore,
Await their exchange at the five and ten store.
While tidbits and knicknacks of leftover sweets,
Must furnish the menu for future day eats.
'Tis the day after Christmas and once every year Folks willingly pay for their holiday cheer.
With toothaches from candy
and headaches from bills,
They call up the doctor and order more pills.

Food for thought

Holiday candy

With the sweetest of holidays ahead, candy-making may well be on your agenda of things for gift-giving or for yuletide entertaining.

There's something very special about home-made confections, but if your goodies don't always turn out to be as special as you'd like, you may need to know a little something about candy chemistry.

For example, did you know that rain and humidity can affect candy? On a damp day candy syrup can easily absorb moisture from the air. So, cook the syrup to a temperature two degrees higher than usual when the weather is wet.

Another little known fact is that some candy, like good cheese, needs time to ripen. Typical is fondant. This delicate sweet needs to stand in a covered container for several days to ripen. Then you can mold it more easily into pretty shapes. Fudge also becomes softer and more velvety after 24 hours storage.

You see, there are two main types of candy—crystalline and non-crystalline. Crystalline types such as fondant, fudge, penuche get their distinctive creamy texture from tiny sugar crystals. Non-crystalline candies such as caramels, butter-scotch or brittles are free of crystals and may be chewy or very brittle.

With crystalline candies, it is important to develop a creamy texture by controlling the size of the sugar crystals. For example, stir the ingredients until the sugar dissolves and then do not stir again until the candy is ready for beating.

Stirring may splash sugar crystals on the sides of the pan or may start a chain reaction of crystal formation. One single sugar crystal dropped into hot fudge can "seed" it for thousands of small crystals to form.

Always cover the pan for the first three minutes of boiling candy so that steam can wash down any sugar crystals forming on the sides of the pan.

Use a candy thermometer whenever possible. But if you must test candy by "spinning" a thread of syrup from a spoon, or trying a small amount of syrup in cold water to form a ball, be sure to dip your spoon quickly into the boiling syrup without stirring.

Let candy cool until it is lukewarm before beating. Then beat or stir continuously until any graininess dissolves into a smooth creamy stage. Do not scrape sides or bottom of pan when pouring candy into another pan for cooling. Even at this late stage some crystallization could start.

with it's message of love and peace,

Auto club, police give holiday aid

Automobile Club of Michigan's 57 division offices plus city police and sheriff offices and almost every liquor outlet in the state have been declared Alcohol Education Centers from now through New Year's.

Education Centers – which all have special display posters to help guide drivers through the holidays safely – have been established as part of Auto Club's "First a Friend, Then a Host" safe driving campaign for Christmas and New Year's.

Displays, one of the new items in use this year, are one-by-two foot, full-color posters which provide practical tips for persons who will drink and drive. In addition, there is an alcohol chart which shows how many drinks a person can consume before driving ability is affected.

Auto Club also has added alcohol charts to bottle sleeves, which are designed to fit over liquor bottles as a reminder that moderation is the best policy.

Bottle sleeves will be available free to the public at all Auto Club division offices across the state. Alcohol Education Displays can be seen at most police departments and liquor establishments.

This year's "First a Friend, Then a Host" campaign was introduced to the public in Lansing recently in cooperation with the Michigan Liquor Control Commission and the Michigan Licensed Beverage Association.

Alcohol Education Center displays and bottle sleeves are being shown this year for the first time in almost every package liquor and liquor by the glass outlet in Michigan as a safety reminder to the 80 percent of motorists who will drink and then drive.

City police and sheriff offices are helping with statewide distribution of materials in cooperation with the Michigan Liquor Control Commission.

"Three years ago, Auto Club took a unique approach to holiday motorists who have one or two social drinks and still drive," says Auto Club General Manager Fred Rehm. "We publicly stated that although drinking and driving can never be condoned, there is little anyone can do to prevent this holiday practice.

We know that eight out of every 10 motorists over the holiday will have a social drink or two and still drive."

Rehm added that past holiday safety programs which state "Drunk Drivers Go to Jail" and "Alcohol Kills" plus other similar admonitions are ignored by the bulk of the public.

"The 'First a Friend, Then a Host' program is the only positive approach to holiday drinking taken by a safety-oriented organization," adds Rehm. "Our program places the responsibility for motorists who drink and then drive on those persons who serve the alcohol – namely the holiday host."

It is pointed out that during the holidays, private party hosts will serve over 70 percent of the alcohol consumed during that period.

Some of the pointers which Auto Club's full-color poster makes are:

Pouring double shots is no favor to your guests. Two shots of 100-proof whiskey double chances of an auto accident.

Stop all drinking an hour before the party ends and serve food.

Before any drinking begins, eat food items such as mashed potatoes or beans since they act like a sponge in the stomach, retaining alcohol.

Auto Club reminds partygoers who must drive over the holidays about the practicality of eating food with this humorous headline on its display: "Eat 'Em Mashed... And You Won't Get Smashed."

Aircraft count up

The number of airplanes registered in Michigan has increased 50 percent during the last five years, according to the Michigan Department of Commerce.

The MDC's Aeronautics Commission said 5,333 aircraft are registered in the state this year, compared to 3,569 in 1964.

During the same period, the number of licensed pilots in Michigan has increased from 7,700 to 11,330.

Locally, Charlevoix County lists 30 registered aircraft; Antrim County, 12; and Emmet County, 20.

Nearly one-third of all aircraft registered in the state are located in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

Wayne County ranks first in aircraft registrations with 851.

Christmas: better safe than sorry

Fall and Winter mean holidays and holidays mean parties, decorations and Christmas trees. To keep your holidays joyous, the Insurance Information Institute offers these fire safety tips:

Keep the tree away from fireplaces, radiators and heaters. Place it in a water stand and water it daily.

Use only flameproof decorations.

Don't set up electric trains or similar equipment around or near the tree.

Check sockets and wires of tree lights to see that they are in good condition.

Place the tree so that its lights can be turned on and off from a switch located away from the tree.

Don't leave tree lights burning while away from home.

Don't overload electrical outlets.

When putting up decorations and lights, use a balanced ladder – never a box, bench or chair.

Teach your children the importance of observing these safety precautions.

Boxers to compete

Amateur boxers from this area interested in participating in the Golden Gloves early in 1970 will compete at the L.C. Walker Arena in Muskegon before entering competition in Grand Rapids.

Robert Todish, general chairman of the Grand Rapids, event, sponsored by the American Legion Furniture City, Post 258, said all boxers living north of Muskegon and in Grand Haven and Holland, will enter elimination events in Muskegon January 2, 1970. After that, they will compete in Grand Rapids where the state finals also will be held.

Advantage of the two Western Michigan elimination contests is that boxers will be required to compete in fewer bouts in Grand Rapids. Previously, as many as 50 bouts have been held in a single evening.

The Muskegon event will be sponsored by the Greater Muskegon Junior Chamber of Commerce. Dr. Thomas Boyd, a Muskegon dentist, is general chairman. Amateur boxers planning to compete should write to 992 W. Broadway, Muskegon, Michigan 49441, giving name, address, age, weight, and previous experience. They will receive entry blanks prior to the event.

Those eligible must be between the ages of 16 and 26 years. Amateurs between the ages of 20 and 26 years will be entered in open classes. Others will be in novice classes.

Heise on Yorktown

Seaman Clarence P. Heise Jr., USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence P. Heise Sr. of 310 Mason St., Charlevoix, is serving aboard the anti-submarine carrier USS Yorktown in the Northern Atlantic.

Yorktown recently visited the ports Copenhagen, Denmark, and Kiel, Germany. In Keil, Yorktown was host to more than 5,000 visitors during a general open house.

Following the stay in Denmark, the 41,000-ton carrier resumed routine anti-submarine training operations.

Rep. Davis Speaks

According to State Representative Robert W. Davis (R-St. Ignace), "Governor William Milliken recently outlined a plan for establishing a State Commission on Investigations which merits legislative and citizen attention."

The commission would be a permanent, independent four member panel charged with responsibility to probe organized crime and public corruption. The idea for the Investigative Commission grew out of an eight month study by a special committee headed by Oakland County Circuit Judge Philip Pratt. Governor Milliken, in endorsing the recommendations of the committee, said he would present legislation to implement the proposal.

"In my opinion," said Rep. Davis, "any plan which promises to help expose organized crime and corruption anywhere in Michigan is worthy of consideration. The State of New York has reported good results from a similar investigation unit. This tends to add to the importance of the proposal."

Under the proposed plan, the commission would have powers of subpoena, taking testimony under oath, granting immunity to witnesses and citing for contempt. However, the commission would not have the authority to prosecute. Their findings would apparently be turned over to the existing law enforcement and judicial officials for action.

"The Commission would not replace grand juries," added Davis. "Rather, it would supplement their work and have fewer restrictions on its authority. Grand juries could continue to pursue specific investigations while the new commission develops into more sweeping and long-range crime and corruption problems."

The effect of the new proposal on pending legislative efforts to strengthen the grand jury system cannot be fully assessed at this time. Earlier the House passed a bill aimed at eliminating one-man grand juries and concentrating on larger citizen grand juries. Action on this measure is still pending in a Senate-House conference committee. One of the considerations delaying action is whether to simply do away with one-man juries, to gradually phase them out, or to retain them.

"This possible effect on grand jury reform, considered vital legislation by many persons, should certainly be a factor in our deliberations," said Rep. Davis. "My initial reaction to the investigation commission proposal is to hope that, after careful study, it proves to be a beneficial idea. If so, then I would want to proceed with legislative action on both the commission proposal as well as strengthening our grand jury system."

The special committee report stated that, no matter what name you use for it, "there is in Michigan an organized confederacy of concerted criminal activity. It poses an insidious threat to our people."

The report goes on to say that organized crime activity appears to be expanding despite the best efforts of law enforcement personnel with the means presently at their disposal.

The Will-Flow Corporation

Charlevoix

Will you be among 60,000 'un-starters'?

Nearly 60,000 Michigan motorists including a few in Charlevoix will be unable to start their cars the first day the temperature drops to the five above zero mark.

When thermometers hit below that mark las January, appraximately 58,000 drivers called for assistance in getting their vehicles started. Two-thirds of the calls were from individuals who couldn't spin their engines because of either battery or starter failure.

Since the key to successful winter driving is a strong battery, any motorist who begins the winter with a weak battery has two strikes against him even before he turns the ignition switch.

Yet, not only do many motorists attempt to get through Michigan's coldest months with a weak battery, but they do not take the proper steps to safeguard against winter driving troubles.

To help drivers get their cars started and keep them moving even under the worst conditions, here are "The 10 commandments to cold weather car care":

1. Make sure your car battery is strong enough to meet the demands of winter.

2. Change to a light-weight oil.

3. Install snow tires.

4. Have antifreeze tested.

5. Check the ignition system.

6. Check the exhaust system.

7. Have your car lubricated.

8. Park the car in garage or carport.

9. Check heater, windshield wipers and other accessories.

10. Get a safety check.

When temperatures fall near the zero mark, the power output of the battery is greatly reduced. Since more power is needed in colder weather to spin the engine, a strong battery is a must.

Proper battery care includes keeping the battery cells filled with fluid and checking the terminals and cable clamps for dirt, corrosion and proper contact.

A light-weight oil reduces engine friction and makes the engine easier to turn over on cold mornings. The thermostat, radiator and heater hoses also should be examined.

A check of the ignition system and an engine tune up may be necessary. The alternator and carburetor should be examined, and paints and the condenser should be replaced if needed. The automatic choke should be cleaned and adjusted for winter driving.

A faulty exhaust system can be dangerous since it is no secret that carbon monoxide kills. A good lubrication prevents dust, dirt and moisture from moving parts.

Accessories such as windshield wipers, defrosters, turn signals, lights and the horn all should be working properly. A final inspection by a qualified service station attendant or mechanic can locate other possible trouble spots.

The belief that your car won't start because it is too cold is a myth because on the same day your car won't budge, you will find many autos of the same make and age being driven.

Problem of winter.....now that the cold weather is with us, scenes to one above are common. The stalled auto was pushed to the side of the road after this photo was snapped.

Co. Supervisors buy new cruiser

The Charlevoix Board of Supervisors recently approved the purchase of a new car for the police department.

They received two bids. A $2,300 bid from Parcel Oldsmobile was accepted plus a trade-in of $1,445 for the old Plymouth. The second bid was from Jack Dickout of Boyne City for $2,878 plus a $1,000 trade-in on the present car.

A resolution approved by Kalkaska County relaxing to recipients derived from the sale of various minerals and other state lands was discussed and referred to the resolutions committee which will present a similar resolution at the January meeting.

County clerk Clarence Babach reported that the number of county building employees enrolled in the Blue Cross insurance program was below the 75 percent necessary to participate in the group category.

He also make the statement that the insurance would be extended for 90 more days to see if any changed could be made. The problem was submitted to the insurance committee for study.

The architect for the new jail, Steve Gerganoff, reported that the soil boring and penetration tests had been made and completed and were ready for use.

The building grounds committee was advised to find a sale for the outmoded addressograph which must be disposed of to make room for a new machine.

Ed Rebman of the County Planning Commission reported on the various phases of county planning that were nearing completion.

Clayton Smith proposed to open a regional Health Department office in Gaylord. The board, however, opposed the move.

The board made the recommendation that the Building Authority be paid $35 per diem plus millage of 10 cents per mile and other expenses that were related to the office.

UF leaders honored

United Fund Campaign Leaders from all over the State celebrated their 1969 achievements at a noon luncheon provided by the Michigan United Fund at the Kellogg Center, MSU Campus in East Lansing, recently.

Charles R. England, Campaign Chairman of the Charlevoix Community Chest, was invited to attend from Charlevoix. Mrs. Richard Hamerski, Campaign Chairman of the East Jordan Community Chest, was invited to attend from East Jordan.

Campaign Chairmen from local United Fund, Community Chest, Red Feather, and Torch Drives in Michigan were honored with award plaques which will be presented by Richard G. Cotton, senior vice president, Personnel & Public Relations, Wickes Corporation and president of Michigan United Fund. He was assisted by Miss Michigan, 1969, Sandy Gillespie of Hastings.

Heading the program was Willis H. Edmund, nationally known speaker on human relations.

Local churches plan services

Bethany Yule plans

The Christmas Eve children's service at Bethany will reflect the celebration of "Christmas around the World". The Children and young people of the congregational in song and verse with the aid of a film strip will proclaim the world-wide job of Christmas. The service will begin at 7 p.m. All of the community is invited to join us in this celebration. The service will be held at Bethany Lutheran church on Bridge St.

The worship service entitled "Christ and Christmas Around the World" was written by K.H. Reidenbach Mrs. C. Sundberg will be in charge of the program. The service will open with Miss K. Elzinga, Miss S. Brady and Mr. J. Sundberg representing the three races kneeling at the altar for prayer. It portray's all men united and worshiping the Triune God. The film strip will show all lands remembering the birth of their Savior.

The music by the Sunday school, the young people, and the congregation will be favorite carols from the many lands. Mrs. H. Springer will sing a carol sung in Mexico entitled "There Was No Room for Mary There." Other carols to be sung are an English carol-"God Rest You Merry, Gentlemen" a French carol-"The First Noel" and the German favorite of many-"Silent Night, Holy Night" You may join us as we gather at the Lords Altar to remember anew the Grace of God in the gift of our Savior Jesus Christ, on Dec. 24 beginning at 7 p.m.

ANOTHER CHRISTMAS HAS COME AND WE SUGGEST IT'S TIME TO----- FORGET-----

1. WRONGS DONE US - REAL AND FANCIED.
2. HURDLES MET - THOSE THAT STOPPED US AND THOSE THAT DIDN'T.
3. TROUBLES - COULD HAVE BEEN WORSE; AT LEAST SMALL COMPARED TO THOSE OF SOME.

REMEMBER

1. GOOD DONE US; AND THE GOOD WE'VE DONE.
2. EASY LIFE WE ENJOY COMPARED TO A LOT OF OTHERS.
3. JOYS THAT MAKE LIFE WORTHWHILE.

Christmas of 1620 was bleak

BY BERNICE WEXSTAFF

There's little doubt but that the smallest village across the length and breadth of the land is in the throes of Christmas preparations either secular or religious. . . Christmas in America has become more important in the minds of the people than Independence Day on July 4th.

As the Christmas season was celebrated in the Old World it was celebrated in the new colony at Jamestown as the adventuresome English Blue-bloods resisted a nostalgia for their home land as they endeavored to keep up their aristocratic traditions.

In the Southwest the Spanish kept Christmas with traditional lights — votive candles set atop earthen mounds to light the way of the Christ Child to each humble home.

But nowhere in the New World was Christmas so meagre as was that Christmas day in 1620 when the Pilgrims huddled aboard the Mayflower anchored in Plymouth Bay off the New England coast.

Christmas was a time of trial for both passengers and a crew who wanted nothing so much as to be on their way home. . . They were almost at the point of mutiny against Captain Christopher Jones who steadfastly refused to leave his passengers on the wintry shores of the New World until a common building could be constructed to shied them from both weather and the savage Red Men who had little understanding of the newcomers who were trespassing on the land they had held for centuries.

THE MAYFLOWER had been skirting the coast for weeks in an effort to find a suitable site and it wasn't until the day before Christmas they finally settled on the bay now known as Plymouth. Here there was fresh sweet water in a bubbling brook – a welcome respite from the stagnant keg water aboard the ship.

All day on that 24th day of December 1620, the menfolk had felled the trees while the boys chopped off the heavy branches that the actual construction might begin the day after Christmas. Of course, Christmas, like Sunday, was a holy day to these devout people who had left snug homes to pioneer the wilderness in search of a place where they could worship God in a manner they considered right and proper.

But, there was no frivolity on that Christmas on Cape Cod in 1620. . . To the Pilgrims, God was holy and the day should be spent in bible reading and prayer except for the Christmas feast and even the feast was a solemn occasion. . . But it did serve to mellow the crew members of the ship who heretofor had eyed the little band balefully. . . It was noted that one of the crew who had been most profane in his estimate of the bible-toting passengers had been kinder to the children on the ship after the Christmas feast.

Christmas Day continued to be a bleak day for pioneer children for many years. . . Our pioneer forefathers were victims of a poverty at which the poorest in our land would rebel over today. A sturdy birth limb with an animal-hide thong for a bridle on one end and a piece of wool fringe for a tail on the opposite end made a "stick horse" that all early day children were well acquainted with. A Christmas gift!

But as the wilderness was pushed farther and farther westward with the turn of the centuries and living became easier as the threat of marauding savages lessened, Holidays brightened and Christmas became commercialized until now 350 years from the stark Christmas of the Mayflower it is a day of beauty in church and shop window. . .

Today there are colored lights and Merry Christmas banners swaying in tropical breezes or polar winds along every village street across the length and breadth of our land. . . The Birthday of the Christ Child is hallowed in anthem and hymn in church after church after church. . . Even entertainment media hails the season in song and drama, and of course, the inevitable sports' parade for those who find it difficult to maintain the solemnity of the occasion for the entire day.

With all the advantages of the 20th century, do we really appreciate our material possessions and fully recognize the importance of the Day as did our forefathers aboard the sailing ship MAYFLOWER? One wonders.

Insurance meets need

Automobile insurance with a lifetime guarantee is being offered to most of the 728,000 Automobile Club of Michigan members insured by Triple-A. With a $100,000,000 premium volume, the Insurance Exchange at Michigan AAA is 19th largest auto insurance company in the U.S.

The plan will be available to any Auto Club member insured by the Exchange or Motor Land Insurance Company for five or more consecutive years, in his own name as owner or principal driver.

"This does not involve any increase in our present price structure," said Ed Daniels, Insurance Exchange assistant general manager. "Current driver's licence and vehicle registration must be maintained, and Club membership dues and insurance premiums paid," Daniels said.

"This is the only lifetime car insurance guarantee offered in Michigan," Daniels pointed out. "It is not to be confused with short-term plans offered by other insurance companies. To our knowledge, this guarantee is only available in one other area, to Triple-A members insured by the California State Automobile Association in the San Francisco area," Daniels said.

Scout camping director named

H.C. JOHNSON

A new position has been created in the Scenic Trails Council, Boy Scouts of America, with the appointment of Harold C. Johnson as Director of Camping, announced Joseph G. Groszek, Scout Executive.

Johnson will be responsible for all programs pertaining to camping including operation, development and maintenance of all council properties.

He has a long record of Scouting, having entered the Scouting profession in 1941 as a District Executive serving a "less chance area" in Chicago, Illinois. Since that time he has had several promotions, serving in Freeport, Illinois; South Bend, Indiana; Green Bay, Wisconsin; and Joliet, Illinois.

In 1958 he became a Scout Executive in East St. Louis, Illinois, serving in that capacity for five years. He raised the camping record of that council from 98 boys to 800 Scouts in this period.

Because of his strong beliefs in the Camping program, he resigned as Scout Executive and became the Director of Camping in Madison, Wisconsin. His major assignment there was the building of a new Camp and developing an all-new camping program.

During the last four years he has served in the Kalamazoo Council as the Director of Camping and Program. That council is now reaching 60 percent of their registered Scouts in camp every summer.

Johnson will be residing at the ranger home at Camp Greilick located 12 miles from Traverse City.

He and his wife, Marion, have three children, all married and living in various parts of the country.

The Johnsons are members of the Methodist Church and Harold holds a Local Preachers license within the church. They are members of the Central United Methodist Church of Traverse City.

Johnson attended the University of Wisconsin for two years and the University of Illinois for one year. He is an Eagle Scout and a Vigil Member of the Order of the Arrow. He also has served as Scoutmaster and Neighborhood Commissioner in the Chicago Council.

"We are most fortunate to have on our staff a man of his caliber," said Groszek. "Most boys who join Scouting want to go camping and hiking and with a full time staff member devoting his time to this phase of the Scouting program, all boys will have an opportunity to fulfill their desire for activity in the out-of-doors," concluded Groszek.

Old school house is new rec home

Charlevoix's oldest existing school house has now become the northern recreation home of Henry F. Pierce, his wife Lee and four children who recently purchased the Nina Ouderkirk dwelling at 403 Mason street.

True, only the front section of the house was the school house as additional wings have been added from time to time, but it is certainly a coincidence that the Pierce's bought that particular house insofar as Mrs. Pierce is a working school teacher teaching intermediate remedial reading in the Dearborn school system.

Pierce is a landscape architect doing business under the name of Oakland Landscape Company on Telegraph Road in Southfield, Detroit. The couple makes their permanent home in Dearborn.

Although the Pierce's two older children are married and permanently settled in homes of their own, Greg, age 15 and Cynthia, 19, are eagerly anticipating ski weekends in winter and summer vacations in their new Charlevoix home.

The Pierce's have great plans for their Charlevoix dwelling. However, they can do little more than replace the worn-out roof and porch this year, hopefully before winter sets in. But unlike the well known song regarding "This Ol' House", the Pierces are young enought to have plenty of time to mend the windows, the floors and the doors. With Mr. Pierces landscaping skill, there's little doubt but that "This Ol' House" will one day be a show place in the 400 block on Mason Street.

CYCLONE LEADS THE WAY. Dearborn (Mich.) was "Cyclone Country" recently when more than 300 Linclon-Mercury dealers and dealership representatives from Michigan and northern Ohio participated in a day-long merchandising program at Ford Motor Company's headquarters. Lyle Miles, (right), Erber Auto, Charlevoix, was greeted by R.F. Lewis, Lincoln-Mercury's Central Regional Sales Manager, as he took delivery of a 1970 Cyclone for his dealership. The program included merchandising presentations and performance demonstrations at the company's test track and concluded when 150 Cyclones were driven to dealerships throughout the Detroit district.

*Here's an old-fashioned kind of Merry Christmas full of heart-felt wishes for you to share, in the good will of the season..with those you hold near and dear.
And we also offer an old-fashioned "thank you" for the patronage and consideration you've shown us.*

Plan Commission Favors City-Township Merge

To the Editor:

The Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission is a non-political group appointed by the legislative bodies of the city and township. Its main function or purpose is to plan for the growth and development of the area.

We all know that a rapid rate of growth has taken place in the past 10 years. For example, school enrollments have increased by over 60 percent of which only a small part is due to the inclusion of rural school districts which have consolidated. In the 1960 census there were 290 people in Charlevoix Township; now there are over 300 registered voters alone.

Based on the trends of the entire northwest lower Michigan region, it is estimated that the combined population of the city and township will increase by 4,000 persons by 1990. This growth will occur, regardless of the form of government and a great number of changes will take place. Three fourths of these people will of necessity live in the township as the city is nearing capacity for residential expansion. Over 1600 acres of land will have to be developed by 1990 to accommodate the increased growth.

It is the job of the Planning Commission to see that this growth takes place in an orderly and efficient manner, and the end result should be a community which is desirable to all.

The Planning Commission recognizes that very soon the township will have to begin providing services to its residents. Since the township is geographically divided into two distinct areas, duplication of many services will result. The administrative costs would be high as the added workload would necessitate full time services of at least some of the township officials almost immediately and inevitably all of them in the future.

The Planning Commission recognizes that a consolidation of the city and township will create the most economical and efficient form of government for the benefit of all citizens of the region.

Government mergers are not unique, as they occur in practically every developing area in the state. The downfall of many communities has been that they did not have the foresight to recognize these changing needs until many of the services had been duplicated and many of the economies made possible by a single governmental unit had been lost. Residents of Charlevoix Township and the city of Charlevoix in the past have demonstrate their ability to work together on numerous occasions for the betterment of the entire area. It is hoped that this unified effort in solving community problems will be continued.

The Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission endorses the proposed annexation of Charlevoix Township by the city of Charlevoix and urges Township residents to vote "Yes" on the proposal when they go to the polls January 6.

Very truly yours,
Nathan Boss, Chairman,
Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission.

OVERSEES FARM PROGRAMS—The newly-appointed executive director of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service programs in Michigan, Dorn Diehl, (left) briefs U.S. Senator Robert P. Griffin (R-Mich) on farm problems in the state. Diehl, who owns a 2,000-acre cash crop and seed farm near Danville, said inflation and steadily rising farming costs hurt farm families the most. Diehl was recommended for his new job by Griffin and will work out of ASC headquarters in East Lansing. All federal farm programs in Michigan are administered through the 77 ASC field offices in the state.

To teach in Spain

Kathy Hoffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hoffman of Charlevoix, has been selected along with 15 other Michigan State University seniors to do her student teaching in Spain.

She will teach American students at the U.S. Air Force Base in Madirid, Spain.

Miss Hoffman is an elementary education major.

No Injuries in mishap

Some 20 Charlevoix students escaped injury when their school bus left the road and went into a ditch near Bay Shore, this week.

The driver of the bus, Gordon Wolgamott, reported the accident took place while the bus was going down a hill on a side road.

The children were then taken home in another bus which was sent out to pick them up.

Lighting Contest

Again this year there will be the annual Christmas Lighting contest. Prizes will be awarded to the first, second and third winners in each ward. The cash prizes are $15, $10 and $5.

Judges for the contest, and the evening they will pick winners, will be announced later.

Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Podsiad of Coral Gables, Fla., have announced the marriage of their daughter, Cecelia Ann Duryea, to Peter Michael Sharrow of Miami on Nov. 14.

Sharrow is the son of Mrs. Lawrence (Pete) Sharrow of Miami and the late Mr. Sharrow and a former Charlevoix resident.

The couple is residing at 1700 Deleware Parkway, Miami, Fla.

LOCAL

Janis Peckham spent the long weekend with relatives in Lake City.

Islander sets record

The Beaver Islander, established a new record when it make its 300th trip this year, from its port in Charlevoix to St. James Beaver Island.

James Gallagher, manager of the boat company, stated that the reason for the new record was the great sailing weather. He also said that until this year, the record was 299 which was set in 1968.

The ferry will sail no later than December 31. At present, it is transporting supplies to the island for the winter months. After that date, McPhilips flying service will be the only traffic between the Beaver and Charlevoix.

McPhilips Flying Service now holds the mail contract for the winter months.

The Beaver Islander Ferry will be docked in Charlevoix during the winter months.

States are green with Michigan trees

With the exception of Mr. Claus, the Christmas tree is firmly fixed as the number one secular symbol depicting the advent of the yule season.

Few families, however, are aware of their trees life-cycle, which begins on most commercial plantations with the planting of eight-inch seedlings and culminates six to eight years later with the ornament-adorned evergreens that umbrella the Christmas gifts.

Equally sparse is the knowledge that Michigan, which ranks first in the harvesting of the popular long-needled Scotch Pine, has made Christmas tree growing a multi-million dollar business, and exports 8,000,000 trees each year.

Michigan ranks with Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, and New York as the leading growers of commercial Christmas trees in the nation. The Northeastern and north central states grow the bulk of the trees in the nation and also comprise the majority of the members belonging to the National Christmas Tree Growers, which now includes 28 states, affiliates of which Michigan has the largest membership, numbering about 500.

From 8 Inches to 8 Feet

Nature needs the attentiveness of man to produce a green, well-proportioned tree worthy of standing as the centerpiece of a home during the holiday season.

Planting commonly begins in the spring. Two or three year old seedlings that have been nurtured in nurseries are machine planted at the rate of 1000 to 1500 trees an hour.

As the trees grow, they require annual shaping or shearing, beginning about the second year after planting and continuing until the trees are ready to be cut for marketing. Throughout the six to eight year growing period spraying with pesticides is essential, the frequency depending on the fortunes of nature and the climate in which the trees are raised.

Harbor Springs grower George L. Wightman, who is also the president of the Michigan Christmas Tree Growers Association explains the severity of pest damage on Christmas trees grown in the cold climate of Northern Michigan is less than the damage found in warmer growing regions.

Before being harvested, most trees are spray-painted green as the natural green color tends to fade in some trees while they are still growing and others as they loose moisture after cutting.

Beginning in October the trees to be harvested are selected, tagged, and cut.

Before shipping the trees to market they may be graded as to quality, a necessary guide to wholesale purchasers. Federal inspectors classify trees into premium, number one and number two categories.

To be considered premium, a tree must have four full, proportional faces, be full green in color, possess a straight stem with a long handle, and be proportioned 70 percent in height and 30 percent in width. Number two tree specifications are less rigid, requiring these full faces and a 60-40 height-width proportion, while number three trees must have a 60-40 proportion but only two full sides are necessary.

To prevent damage to the trees during transporting they are wrapped in Vexar, a fish-netting plastic covering that compresses the trees into a snug cone. Dehydration is minimized while the trees rest in a compact cone while traveling to market.

Oh Tanneabaum

The carefully groomed trees for sale on city lots still resemble the evergreens cut wild from the forests of Europe, perhaps as early as the 8th Century when St. Boniface declared that a young fir tree would be the holy tree in commemoration of the birth of Christ.

Martin Luther is said to have been so entranced with the beauty of a snow-covered fir tree he observed on Christmas Eve that he reproduced the winter scene inside his house and named the evergreen a "Christmas Tree."

Regardless of the custom's initial conception, it appears evergreens were being utilized for Christmas ornamentation throughout Germany before gaining popularity elsewhere.

The Christmas tree was introduced to Americans by the German Hessian soldiers, who were fighting as mercenaries for the British during the Revolutionary War, and cut evergreens to celebrate Christmas in 1778.

The custom spread rapidly during the 19th century at which time trees were mostly wild-grown and shipped to urban areas.

At the turn of the century a few Christmas tree plantations began to appear. The reforestation in the 1930's by federal agencies seeking to employ workers during the depression provided impetus for the planting of evergreens, many of which were sold as Christmas trees.

In the 1940's commercial growing of Christmas trees expanded rapidly as did markets for the trees.

Organization Comes Quickly

Organization of Christmas tree growers has also proceeded rapidly since 1950. The Michigan Association was organized in January, 1953 with 10 charter members, followed in 1955 by the founding of the National Association, with eight states represented.

Dissention has fragmented chances of cohesive planning among the growers in Michigan. A large number of Michigan growers have not joined the state organization, and unity within the Association is lacking to establish a unified marketing program for Michigan-grown trees. Only 174 growers in the State bothered to respond to the more than 700 ballots mailed them. "Had the proposal passed we would have been able to raise at least $80,000 by collecting 2 cents for every tree harvested in the State to finance an advertising program to promote and find new markets for Michigan trees," says Mr. Wightman, who feels that a marketing program would benefit all Michigan growers.

Davis lists results

The following are the results of the recent Legislative Questionnaire sent out by Representative Robert Davis reguarding the Educational Reform Program.

Many millage issues are being defeated throughout the state, and it is felt that some changes in the method of financing education should be made. There is no doubt that to achieve these goals it will cost the taxpayers money.

This questionnaire gave the people of the 105th District a chance to give their views on how and by what means education should be financed.

The first two measures deal with the Constitutional Amendments and all Michigan voters would have to vote on them next November. The results are as follows:

Do you favor amending the constitution to eliminate the election of the State Board of Education and replacing it with a State Director of Education or a Board appointed by the Governor with Senate approval. 47 percent answered yes and 53 percent answered no.

Shall we amend the constitution to eliminate all local school operating property millage taxes and in its place allow the State to levy up to a maximum of 16 mills to replace it? The answer to this was 55 percent yes and 45 percent no.

Do you favor this concept but perfer the 16 mills be lowered to 12 mills which would require an estimated 2.4 percent increase in the State income? 35 percent of the people answered yes and 65 percent no.

The next ten items will be voted on by the State Legislature and are subject to the vote by the people.

Shall we eliminate the present 60 Intermediate School District and replace

Lancers lose to Boyne F.

Ellsworth traveled to Boyne Falls last week and came home on the short end of a 95-65 score.

Ellsworth stayed close for one quarter, scoring 20 points to Boyne Fall's 28.

However, Ellsworth's shooting fell off in the second stanza, while Boyne Falls continued to hit from the floor to take a 54-29 halftime lead.

Joe Donaldson led the Lancer's scoring parade with 19 points, followed by Denny "Hud" Drenth's 17. Ken Derenzy and Jim Jansen completed the Ellsworth double-figure scoring with 10 each.

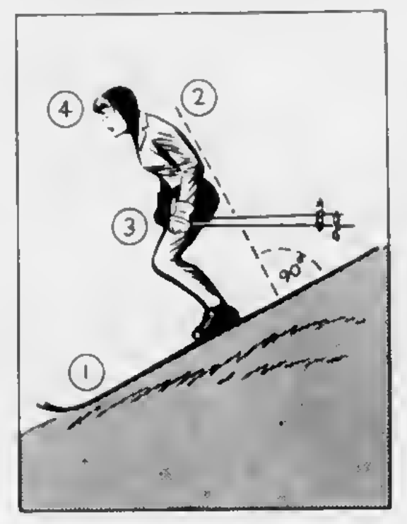
Sports shorts

If you have caught a really big "bragging size" fish in your lifetime, according to a widely traveled Tulsa, Oklahoma, expert fisherman, you are in a select group of outdoorsmen. "Most fishermen," says Carl Lowrance, an expert fisherman, "Never catch a fish they really want to be photographed with. The big ones are taken by a small group of expert fishermen."

Fish spend much of their lives in the shadows because they survive in a predatory world where the ones that hide are the ones that survive. Look for them around logs, rocks, docks and bridge pilings. Also fish where their food supplies are best. This may be the fast waters below a dam or riffle, or at the mouth of a creek where the small food fish are abundant.

Happily, however, Lowrance believes that you stand a better chance than ever before of taking home a trophy sized bass, walleye, catfish, or musky. The secret, he says, is to study the habits of the fish, then, learn how to find them.

Sports Tips



SKIING

Unless you favor cross-country skiing, most of your time on skis will be spent in downhill running which requires attention to these four cardinal points; 1. Keep skis close together. 2. Keep body vertical (at right angle to slope), knees bent, loose, relaxed. 3. Hands low, firmly gripping poles. 4. Gaze fixed ahead of skis to watch the snow contours. After a day on the slopes every skier enjoys a hot relaxing bath. A few drops of Desert Flower beauty bath oil in your tub will help ward off that bane of all skiers—dry skin. (NP Features)

Rayders beat Gaylord 69-66

The Red Rayders squeaked by the Gaylord Blue Devils 69-66 to post their fourth win in five outings.

Charlevoix took a first quarter lead of 24 to 18, but were outscored by the Blue Devils in the second quarter 12 to 14, to make the halftime score 36 to 32.

The third quarter proved to be a strong one for the Rayders. The Blue Devils only scored 12 compared to the Rayders 21. At the end of the third quarter, the Rayders had the lead with a 57-44 margin.

The next quarter was full of action from both the Rayders and the Devils. The lead changed hands numerous times during the quarter but a bucket by Tim Carey and a foul by Gaylord which was converted into another point, secured the all important win for Coach Carey and his Rayders.

Stew Coleman of Charlevoix led all scorers with 31 points.

Following Coleman and his 31 points was Bruce Meggison with ten and Tim Doan with eight.

For Gaylord, Kurt Mongeau led the Devils with 24 followed by Rich Catt and Dana Hird with 16 apiece.

In the Junior Varsity game, the Charlevoix JV's lost their first game of the season to the undefeated Devil Junior Varsity.

Jerry Pease again lead all scorers with 22 points.

Gaylord had a two point advantage at the end of the first quarter with a 16 to 14 score. However, a low scoring second quarter lead to a low 21-18 halftime score with Gaylord leading.

IN THE OPEN

BY LEE SMITS

In the affluent eighties and the naughty nineties "canvasback" had a lot of meaning. It was not merely the name of a duck, it was a symbol. When Diamond Jim Brady took Lillian Russell to dinner the cold bottle was the best champagne in the house, and the hot bird had to be canvasback - ayttha valisineria. There were two localities famed for canvasback – Chesapeake Bay and the stretch of water between Port Huron and Toledo.

Valisineria is wild celery, the preferred food of canvasback and all other diving ducks. Over the years the truly dedicated gourmets of the eastern seaboard learned that for the purest flavor, birds from Michigan were unexcelled. Detroit became the canvasback capital of the world. Canvasback from Detroit were in demand for diplomatic dinners at the White House and Buckingham Palace.

The most productive methods of harvesting canvasback were perfected between Lake Huron and Lake Erie along the Detroit River, St. Clair River, where two great continental flyways converge. The sneak-boat was devised for canvasback. The best decoys in the world were fashioned by carvers in this part of Michigan. It is therefore logical that the cult of the decoy should flourish in this southeast corner of Michigan. The late Joel Barber, wildfowling historian, acclaimed Michigan decoys as the best. As he explained, a working decoy must combine a convincing likeness of a duck plus the sea-worthiness of an able boat.

It is therefore fitting and proper that Detroit Historical Society should present an autumnal exhibit of wildfowl decoys, provided by members of the Michigan Waterfowl Decoy Association.

The exhibit includes some 500 decoys, together with other auxiliaries of the wildfowler's art. Authorities have acclaimed the decoy as an outstanding example of native art. Decoy shows are being staged, coast to coast and along the Mississippi flyway, with Detroit decoys always prominent. Tom Schroeder, national champion, is represented at the Historical Museum by some of his convincing portraits of wildfowl. John Zachman, of the Michigan Consolidated Gas Company Sportsmen's Club, a consistent winner at shows in the United States and Canada, is well represented. Zachman, by the way, was selected to teach the art of decoy carving in Detroit schools.

IN THE OPEN

BY LEE SMITS

"Balance of nature" is a phrase that has kind of gone out of style because the balance is upset continuously. The natural history of the state of Michigan records ond major upset after another, starting with the fur trade more than 150 years ago.

In recent years the upsets have included major gains in sporting resources such as the introduction of the coho, restoration of the wild turkey and elk and the declaration of war on pollution and hard pesticides.

In general, the works of man are bad medicine for wild life. In the early part of the nineteenth century homesteaders from New England – and from Europe – settled on the rich lands of the Lower Peninsula. The forest was their enemy. They cut and they burned to make room for grain fields, orchards, vineyards, farm and towns.

Elk, deer and bear were exterminated, not so much by guns and traps as by the destruction of habitat, drainage of swamps, building of roads. Meanwhile cultivation was favorable to some species, notably bob-white quail and cottontail rabbit.

Michigan lies in two biological zones – the Canadian and the Carolinian. The border line between zones cuts across the Lower Peninsula in the general area of Lansing. In pioneer days the snowshoe hare was found as far south as Lansing. In that era caribou were abundant in the Upper Peninsula.

Michigan probably has more deer now than at any time in the past. Logging, especially the cutting of cedar and hard woods, caused a dramatic increase in the deer herd. Second-growth cedar has given deer what they needed to survive winter cold and storms. There are now deer in every county. The fastest bucks are on farms in the southernnthird of the Lower Peninsula.

Meanwhile, as agriculture moved northward, two species moved with it – quail and cottontail rabbits. There are even cottontail in parts of the Upper Peninsula, particularly in the western end – perhaps immigrants from Wisconsin.

So much for the "balance of nature", which is out of balance most of the time as man wages war against his habitat. For a vivid description of this war, we borrow from a statement by Ralph A. Mac Mullan, director of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

Quoting from the M.N.R. magazine:

"In many ways, civilization and conservation are mutually exclusive. They are demonstrating too well their inability to live together. Yet man needs both worlds, and his inner being is steadily being torn apart by the conflict. In the meantime, the sprawl of civilization is increasing at the expense of conservation. We have been losing ground. This state of affairs promises to increase the tempo of the fight to save what's left."

Annex meeting held

On Wednesday night, about 35 Charlevoix Township residents met with State, Township and city officials to discuss the proposed annexation of the Township by the city.

Following the meeting, the concensus of opinion was that water and sewer benefits to be derived from annexation outweigh the inevitable increase in taxes.

Among the points cited by officials and residents were:

A study of the township water system made five years ago showed it would cost $257,000 to build a system to serve the then-115 homes. As the number of dwellings in the township has about doubled in less than ten years, annexation would mean more economical water rates.

Clarence Rabach, a former Township Supervisor for 14 years, called for total annexation to progress in an orderly fashion.

Oscar Stroud, Township Supervisor, noted that approximately $40,000 had been expended for a professional planner, Williams and Works, and the firm is of the opinion that annexation of the city and township is necessary. To not follow their recommendations, said Stroud, would be throwing the money away.

It was explained that the Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors will make a final annexation decision following the vote January 6. It was noted that if the populace turns down the proposal, the Board may not reverse the voter's decision.

Installation of city water lines will undoubtedly come before city sewers. The reason? Providing a water system is much cheaper than sewers. Much water in the township, according to officials, is contaminated or in danger of becoming polluted from leakage of septic tanks and other contaminants.

In addition, installation of a water system before road paving, sidewalk and curbing installation would aleviate the problem of tearing up that work after it is completed.

A portion of the tapping charge could be waved if township residents connected to the line when it is installed. For example, it could be set at $100, rather than $135.

Dean Mikulski, chief sanitarian for district Health Department number 3, spoke to the group. He said annexation is a must in his opinion.

"We have two major areas of problems," he said. One is waste water and the other is our water supply. Because of the geography of the township, the cost to put in facilities by ourselves is insurmountable. We would need two wells at the south and north ends of the township, plus a back-up well. For some township residents, their present water supply may be good, but it's only second best to city facilities. Municipal water is monitered every day...there are more safeguards in the city system. From the standpoint of environmental health, city utilities would be much better.

"The problem will become worse because of problems of septic tank contamination. I can say nothing bad about annexation in this case."

Cost of a water system now would be cheaper than two or three years from now.

After citing particular areas such as the Stover Creek subdivision and the Messmore subdivision, it was stated that "it is difficult to resolve these problems on an individual basis. But, wells are only second best. It is not the individual's responsibility to correct these problems, it belongs to the governing body. Annexation obviously leads to the better capability to handle such problems."

Mikulski added that there are "many built-in services in annexation."

It was pointed out that there are still a few places in the city where sewers have not been installed. They have not been installed in situations where no problem has arisen and where economics make sewers extremely impractical.

Steve LaBlance told the gathering that sewers might come to the township through annexation much sooner than most residents expect. "It's just a matter of a short time before the state steps in and forces us to correct the sewerage problem," he said.

Mikulski agreed with him.

The pullution of Lake Charlevoix, in part from waste leaking from septic tanks in the township, was briefly discussed. Mikulski warned that the lake could become "a cesspool" if the problem is not corrected.

The question was put to those in attendance, "Would you honestly vote for taxes for installation of our own utilities if annexation is defeated?" No answer was forthcoming. It was pointed out, however, that chances are residents would not vote the necessary taxes.

According to officials, with annexation, the tax increase would amount to 14.5 percent, not the 100 percent increase which is being talked about.

In summation, it was noted that city utilities are needed, and all municipal facilities and utilities are a step closer to reality in the township through annexation between Charlevoix Township and the City of Charlevoix.

Letters to the editor

Wants annexation

To the Editor:

As a resident of Charlevoix township, I would like to tell you why I play to vote for annexation to the city of Charlevoix at the Jan. 6 election.

In many respects, Charlevoix township has been a part of the city for many years. Away from home, most of us identify ourselves as being from Charlevoix without bothering to explain that we actually live in the township.

We in the township enjoy the city's parks and beaches; we take advantage of the city's summer recreation program; we participate in the Venetian Festival; we shop in Charlevoix and are just as proud to be a part of Charlevoix as anyone living within the city limits.

I know the city has been instrumental in attracting industry to the area, but most of the new industry is located in the township.

Aside from moral considerations, I believe there are many hard, practical reasons why the city and township should be one.

Before long, the township must begin providing some of the services, namely sewers, water, streets and police protection that are already available in the city. Providing such services from scratch would prove an unnecessary cost, since the groundwork for all of them is ready and waiting.

Those of us who have city water at present are pyaing double what Charlevoix residents pay. Our water bills will be cut in half if the township chooses to be annexed. With city water, huge areas of land will be opened up for residential, industrial and commercial development — land where such development is not feasible at present.

The city has said it must curtail the extension of any more city water lines into the township — a move which will certainly limit future township development, even on the fringes of the city.

We could reasonably expect that our 17 miles of roads would be better cared for by the city than the county, as they now are. The county road commission is responsible for the plowing and maintenance of hundreds of miles of roads, from Beaver Island to Chandler Hill. The city street department is responsible for only 25 miles of city streets.

We also could expect more police protection. Mayor William Fochtman says he anticipates an increase of $12,000 in the police budget if the township is annexed. The township presently is policed by the sheriff's office, which is spread pretty thin covering the hundreds of square miles of Charlevoix county.

For years, the township has contracted with the city of Charlevoix for fire protection. If we choose to be an-

Better health habits stressed

An appeal for Charlevoix residents to practice better health habits in 1970 is made today by the president of the Michigan State Medical Society, Robert J. Mason, MD.

"With the advances in medical care, it is inconceivable that so many people have not adopted good sensible health habits," Doctor Mason points out.

The Birmingham pediatrician reports that, "Doctors are deeply concerned about the many voluntary actions taken by people every day which effect their health and lives."

"While physicians work to improve the chances for a longer, fuller life by reducing infant mortality, by cutting tuberculosis further, by urging Pap Tests to reverse uterine cancer, etc., people continue to make poor health choices."

Doctor Mason said, "the state medical society in 1970 will work harder to provide authenic information about good health practices, and to seek new ways to challenge children, teen-agers, young parents, and all adults to be wise."

"Our committees concerned with cancer control, respiratory diseases, geriatrics, etc., all will work to develop and carry out positive campaigns to reach the schools, the parents, the workers, the public."

"Physicians must communicate more effectively," Doctor Mason suggests, "to explain why certain good health practices are important – why people must control their weight, why young people should not start smoking, etc."

Doctor Mason, new leader of the 8,000-member state medical society, is puzzled by the behavior of many people.

He continues:

"Irresponsible drivers – often while under the influence of liquor – cause many unnecessary auto accidents, injuries and deaths."

"Heavy smoking, we know, increases the dangers of lung cancer. And doctors are especially concerned about the recent studies by the Michigan Youth Commission that discovered growing smoking habits by children in the fifth and sixth grades."

"Medical science knows too that intemperate drinking leads to cirrhosis."

"Michigan doctors of medicine plead for their patients and the thousands of people who really have no family physician, to make the logical, proven, good choices to improve their daily physical and mental health," Doctor Mason stresses.

If it Fitz

MY TWO YOUNGEST CHILDREN had their hands out, as usual, so I asked them why they didn't spend some of their own money which is piled knee-high in their bedrooms.

"We need that money to buy you a Christmas present," Eddie explained.

This was last July.

Ever since, it's been the same story. Chrissie, 13, earns a lot of money baby-sitting. Eddie, 11, collects money like some kids collect bubble-gum cards. I think he holds up gas stations. None of this great wealth can be spent on the necessities of life – such as movie tickets, pantie hose, potato chips and ersatz tattoos.

All of this money must go into "the fund" to buy Dad's Christmas present. In the meantime, Dad pays all living and playing expenses. If he refuses, he is a lousy Scrooge who doesn't appreciate what his darling children are doing for him.

I can hardly wait until Christmas morning. Last year they gave me a Hershey bar and a bottle of Alka Seltzer.

Let me tell you what big-hearted, generous kids they are. Remember last summer when, under tremendous pressure, I mumbled permission for them to someday have a pet, maybe a goldfish? An hour later they were home with 2 cats. "If there were just 1 pet, they'd argue abbout who owned the end with the head on it," my wise wife explained.

SO RIGHT AWAY there was a big argument about what to name the cats. I suggested Dumb and Dumber, or Onward and Upward. But the kids finally settled on 2 names we've all forgotten because they are never used. Those cats were automatically named the minute my greedy kids became their owners.

Their names, conveniently interchangeable, are MINE and YOURS.

OR: This holiday season the kids sold some used toys they didn't want anymore. Seeing as I paid for the stuff in the first place, and then paid for the advertising to unload it, I thought it would be only fair that I share slightly in the profits.

"No deal," Eddie said. "You didn't buy that stuff. Santa Claus brought it. Besides, we need the money to buy your present."

That little miser hasn't believed in Santa Claus since he was 3 years old That's the same year he rejected enrollment in a Christmas Club because the banks don't pay interest.

People keep saying that Christmas is for the children. I'll buy that (With the help of 53 credit cards). And don't let my carping fool you, I love it.

All I want for Christmas is a magic potion guaranteed to keep 2 greedy but delightful youngsters from becoming just 2 more bewildered and despairing adults, awash in a world where even the good guys shoot women and children. Boy, if the 2 chiselers could save enough to buy me that, I wouldn't need the Alka Seltzer.

"Merry Christmas, son. I hope Santa brings you a high number in the draft lottery."

Christmas 1969

It is the time of year when good-fellowship, in spite of some commereial overtones, becomes eontagious--when friendly, king thoughts and aetions are direeted toward our fellow-man. It is a time when voices are heard in song and prayer--and the cares of the world melt away.

Let us try to extend the quality of the Merry Christmas of Christmas Day to the other 364 days in the year--by looking for positive ways to further the well-being of all mankind.

The celebration of Christmas takes on added meaning each year. It reminds us that material sueeess holds little value if we neglect the spiritual. The strongest tie in human endeavor is that of the family, and through this tie we projeet our good wishes and feelings to those around us.

Some of us express the holiday in material ways through an exehange of gifts, others through an exchange of cards, personal visits or telephone calls. But they all focus on the main theme of brotherly love.

nexed, this fire protection will be continued and its efficiency will be increased as water lines and hydrants are extended into residential and industrial areas. With the availability of city water, we also can expect our fire insurance rates to decrease.

The township will also become a part of the city's electrical system. Those who have REA can expect more economical electric power from the city.

Of course city services, at least some of them, cost money and we can expect to pay the same 8-mill tax rate as the people of Charlevoix, compared to our present 3 mills. But in any event, township taxes are going up. They will have to in order to provide the services demanded by township residents.

The people of Charlevoix pay a total combined tax of $38.89 per $1,000 valuation. For this additional $5 per $1,000 valuation (about a 15 percent increase in your tax bill) the people of the township will be served locally in such important areas as water, sewer, police and fire protection and will not have to look to other government agencies further removed from the immediate area.

If we remain a township we will have to establish these basic services for ourselves, starting with wells and pumping stations, a sewage system and disposal plant, a modern township government building and fire equipment to name a few of the necessities. All township residents will help pay for these services even though all may not benefit directly from them.

Why not do the job together with the city, thereby doing it more economically and without the danger of losing parts of the township, a little at a time, until what is left will be left out?

These are some of the moral and practical reasons I believe annexation will insure the orderly growth and development of the entire Charlevoix area.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Vern Mathews Jr.

Heart Assoc. makes plea

The Board of Trustees of the Michigan Heart Association has issued a resolution asking all Association members as well as other persons interested in advancing medical research to ask their Federal Representatives and Senators to fight projected cuts in Federal funds for medical research.

The resolution was proposed by the Association's Research Committee, chaired by Dr. Park W. Willis III, director of the Heart Station, University of Michigan Medical Center, and was supported by Dr. Edward W. Green, director of Cardiology, Children's Hospital of Michigan, who is president of the Association.

"Each year, inflation reduces by about seven percent the amount of research a sum of money can support," said Dr. Willis. The Federal government should now be increasing its support for research, not decreasing it." Dr. Willis said that a number of research projects supported by the National Institutes of Health, will have to be cut back or dropped in Michigan.

"The Michigan Heart Association would like to take up some of the slack created by the Federal government," Dr. Willis added. "But for the last three years our budget for grants to support specific projects has not been increased, simply because the Association, a Michigan United Fund agency, does not have the money. Our allotment, $559,000 which supported 77 projects three years ago, now can only support 65 projects."

The Michigan resolution is one of a series of actions that were begun by the American Heart Association and its affiliates at its national convention in Dallas early in November. Contrasting the costs of Apollo 12 with the costs of medical research, Dr. Walter B. Frommeyer Jr., the retiring AHA president, predicted research reductions would bring about a crisis which could undermine the base upon which future research and the health of the nation could depend.

D.I. actions over 100,000

For the first time since the Department of State's point system came into existence back in 1958, the state has taken actions against the driving privilege of more than 100,000 Michigan drivers.

And it appears that the final toll for all of 1969 will be more than 110,000 when license cancellations, revocations, suspensions, restrictions, and other driver improvement activities are tabulated for November and December.

Through October, nearly 103,000 drivers have had varying types of actions taken against them.

And according to Secretary of State James M. Hare, nearly 9,000 of October's near 15,000 drivers disciplined were under Public Act 332, Michigan's year-old license suspension law. Hare said the October totals were the highest month so far.

Hare said he "still feels that P.A. 332 is oppressive legislation, ensnaring many persons who have relatively good driving records but who for one reason or another may forget to pay a traffic ticket."

"The law provides that we suspend these persons until they clear up the ticket in question," said Hare. "We have had to suspend many persons who have had but a single infraction against their records since they began driving. To my way of thinking this is too punitive."

Through October . . . with the full impact of P.A. 332 not felt until April. . .4,500 Michigan drivers have been suspended under provisions of P.A. 332, noted Hare.

Unionism city topic

Mayor William Fochtman told City Council last Monday night that the collective bargaining in the labor disputes would be "impossible" under existing state laws.

Fochtman said that this issue was of vital importance to Charlevoix and all of the cities and towns in Michigan.

The majority of the non-supervisor city employees voted to be represented by the Communications Workers of America in collective bargaining with the city.

A new state law had previously been put into effect allowing municipal policemen and firemen to request cumpulsory arbitration to resolve labor disputes.

It is Fochtman's feelings that the new law effects only policemen and foremen, and it would be impossible for them to be represented by the same union as other city employees.

The city had previously petitioned the state Employment Relations Commission to set aside the representation election. January 5 is the date that has been set for the hearing on the petition.

Fochtman also said in his statement that, "Since the law (P.A 312) does not apply to other city employees, it has created a situation in which collective bargaining is impossible in a unit such as we have which combines policemen and foremen with all other non-supervisory city employees. In addition to setting aside the election, we are asking the commission to hold a hearing to determine a unit or units appropriate for the purpose of collective bargaining."

"We are hopeful the commission will look favorably upon our petition and resolve this matter in the near future," he added.

In other council preceedings, the council:

--OK'd the renewal of Oscar Ward's taxi license.

--Approved a temporary easement requested by the U.S. Corps of Engineers across former Coast Guard property.

--Adopted a schedule for sliding on Dodger's Hill on Grant and Antrim Streets. The city will not be responsible for any accidents.

--Paid bill totaling $87,258.29, including $34,854.18 in taxes collected for schools, $12,861.42 in county taxes, $8,201.50 to Charlevoix Oil for a truck, and a payroll of $9,220.44.

Spirit of Christmas seen in Yule decorations

BY BERNICE WEXSTAFF

For those summer vacationers who have called Charlevoix "Beautiful" in appreciation of its blue waters and hillside greenery the little city on three lakes should be visited in winter -- especially during the Holiday season when the scene becomes a veritable fairyland of twinkling lights.

It is not hard to imagine that all committees delegated to the task of selecting the winners in the outdoor Christmas spectaculers have many difficult choices to make but make them they must. This season's decorations may have been most difficult of all -- each was so beautiful and the oohhs and aahhs that each elicited must surely have pleased the household artists if they could have heard them as the committee swung up the streets and avenues in the City's police patrol car Monday evening.

This year's winners in the first ward are as follows: first place, William M. DePuy of 107 Petoskey Avenue; second place, Frank Zenicek, 505 Central; third place, Max Hosmer, 205 Elm Street; honorable mention goes to A.F. Werner, 98 Oak street, Dr. John Lignell, 423 Michigan Avenue, Ken Empey, 402 Dixon and Harold Dutcher, 104 Ainslee.

In the second ward: first place, Ted Lass, 217 Park Avenue; second place, Joseph Etienne, 319 Antrim; third place, Harold Black 207 Antrim street. Honorable mention, Jay Oliver 408 W. Lincoln, Glenn Sheppard 303 Clinton Street and Earl Young 306 Park Avenue and many, many others.

In the third ward: first place, Frank A. Schuch, Meadow Lane; Second place, Arthur Emmons, 102 Alice Street; third place, Forrest Muma Sr., Meadow Lane. Honorable mention to Dan Geneit, 1004 State Street, Eugene Towsley 502 May Street, Allan Campbell 907 Bridge Street and Charles V. Clifford 206 E. Lincoln Street.

Needy families in the immediate Charlevoix area had a little merrier Christmas this year thanks to the work of the Lions Club, Jean Miles and citizens of Charlevoix. The project, "Santa Anonymous", collected food, clothes and money for families unable to provide for their families at Christmas time. The packages were delivered Wednesday by the Lions, right after Larry Edwards took this photo.

Ellsworth cannery to be sold

By Mrs. Anne Osterbaan

The Board of Directors of the Ellsworth Community Chamber of Commerce was informed at their regular monthly meeting on December 15 that the local plant of Michigan Fruit Canners, Inc., was being offered for sale.

Several company officials met with the Board of give more details and answer questions. These were John Rutledge, Consolidated Foods Corp., Chicago, Ill., vice president in charge of real estate; Graydon E. Jones, Michigan Fruit Canners, Inc., Benton Harbor, vice-president in charge of production; Henry Ruis and Walter Rood, plant manager and assistant plant manager, respectively of the local plant.

Rutledge stated the canning industry as a whole had taken a dip, and Michigan Fruit Canners will, in the future, be placing greater emphasis on the production of fruit and specialty dessert items.

He advised the Board that the company wanted to "move in a way that was best for the community, and the company." The first move would be to try and sell as a "going" enterprise, and if this was not possible, the alternative would be to sell the property.

Rood pointed out that a company with a need for high grade of water would be interested, as there are 16 flowing wells on this property which produce a large quantity of good quality water. The buildings are there, and a certain amount of personnel.

Ruis stated that at the present time Michigan Fruit Canners is the largest taxpayer in the Township, paying approximately $20,000 in County, School, and Village taxes each year.

Directors give OK to merger

Statements were released today by managements of Medusa Portland Cement Company and General Stone & Materials Corporation indicating that the Boards of Directors of the two companies have approved an agreement providing for the acquisition General by Medusa and that this agreement had been executed by both companies.

Medusa, traded on the New York Stock Exchange, is an important producer of both gray and white cement together with specially cements and conventional heavy aggregates. With principal offices in Cleveland, Ohio, sales are concentrated in the midwestern and central states with white and specialty cements sold over a considerably wider area.

General Stone, traded over the counter, is a Roanoke, Virginia, based company serving primarily the terrazo flooring, precast concrete and marble industries. It is a producer of decorative marble and quartz aggregates, a manufacturer of terrazo divider strip and related items, a marble importer and in addition operates a network of sales and warehousing subsidiaries distributing these and other items to the building construction industry throughout the United States, east of the Rockies.

Under the terms of the agreement, General's stockholders would receive initially .19584 share of Medusa common stock for each share of General stock. An additional .00416 share of Medusa for each share of General will be issued on or about September 1972 if and to the extent that the value of such shares exceeds any deficiencies as to prior years' taxes or other warranties made by General. Such shares are referred to as Contingent Deficiency Shares. The Initial Shares together with the Contingent Deficiency Shares, if all are issued, would yield a ratio of one share of Medusa for each five shares of General.

Contingent on General's earnings for fiscal years ending in 1970, 1971 and 1972, its stockholders could receive up to an additional .05 share of Medusa for each General share, which shares are referred to as Additional Shares.

One Additional Share will be issued for each $14 of the aggregate aftertax earnings of General, as defined in the agreement, in excess of $857,800 for fiscal years ending 1970, 1971 and 1972. However, issuance of Additional Shares is contingent on a provision to the effect that such shares will be issued only to the extend that the total market value of all Medusa shares issued does not exceed $4,510,000 in terms of the average market price of Medusa stock for the month of July. 1972.

Medusa closed at 27¼ on December 8 with General Stone quoted on that date at 4-7/8--5 3/8. Based on General's 408,489 shares outstanding and current Medusa market price, the initial consideration has a value of $2,180,000, or approximately $5.34 per General Stone share. The Contingent Deficiency Shares, if all are issued, could add up to $46,270, or approximately $.11 per General Stone share based on the current price of Medusa stock. The Additional Shares, if earned and if issued, could add up to $556,581, or approximately $1.36 per General share based on the current price of Medusa stock.

Medusa earned $2.25 per common share in 1968 against General's 32 cents per share for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1969, and 76 cents for fiscal 1968. Closing of this transaction is contingent on approval by General's stockholders and one receipt of a favorable federal income tax ruling.

School merger

CHS students offer variety of opinions

(Ed. note: Gov. William Milliken's educational reform package, lying in limbo until the Legislature reconvenes after the first of the year, carries an enrollment requirement of 2,000 students (minimum) in a school district. Should this portion of the program be approved, the Charlevoix School District would be forced to merge to meet the enrollment figure. Courier staff writer Chris Carey filed the following report this week.)

There has been some talk around Northern Michigan and in Charlevoix about a possible merger between some of the surrounding schools.

So far, there has been three possible alternatives to solve the problem. If there is a merger, it is possible that it will be one of the following: (1) Charlevoix and Ellsworth with a school built in Charlevoix; (2) Charlevoix and Petoskey with a school built between Charlevoix and Petoskey and (3) All of the schools in Charlevoix County with a school built in either Boyne City or Charlevoix, or both.

The students of Charlevoix High School were asked to give their opinion on which school they would prefer to merge with and what their reasons were for their stand. The following are their replies.

Peggy Berg, a tenth grader at Charlevoix High School replies, "It is quite obvious that something must be done about our present school system. Eventually the State of Michigan will have to pass a law requiring every school district to have at least 2,000 students. If the district does not have the 2,000 students, it will have to be bused to a larger school. This will mean us. Therefore, joining with another school is vital.

"A merger with Petoskey would probably pass in Petoskey. As it is now, they are having financial

Women's World

Woman's Club topic Honduras

The Charlevoix Woman's Club will hold it's regular meeting on Monday, January 5, at 1:30, at the First State Bank Community room. Hostesses for this meeting will be: Mrs. Tom Erber, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Mrs. John Michael and Mrs. Robert Neff. The Discussion Group has planned the program. They have invited Mrs. Bette Finegan, Associate Director of Michigan Partners of the Alliance to tell club members about this "people to people" program between Michigan and British Honduras.

British Honduras is a small Central American country bordering the Caribbean between the Yucatan peninsula of Mexico and Guatemala. The program was organized in 1966 at the invitation of Governor Romney, under the chairmanship of former Congressman Alvin Bentley. Governor Romney called the organization meeting after receiving a letter from Premier George Price of British Honduras, expressing his country's interest in such a partnership. The program operates under the auspices of the Alliance for Progress of the United States State Department, but is privately incorporated in the State of Michigan.

A recent newspaper article tells of a shipment from Michigan to Belize of $21,000 worth of medical supplies and a bicycle, sent at the request of a Grand Rapids physician who toured five British Honduran hospitals in an effort to find out what Michigan Alliance doctors could do to help. Emphasis is on participation at the grass root level with individual people contributing the time, money and ideas. Michigan people and industries have contributed everything from vacuum cleaners to toothbrushes to canned baby food. A Michigan trucking firm even donated trucks to transfer the supplies to Mobile, Alabama where they met the banana boat that took them to British Honduras.

Mrs. Finegan will bring a slide film presentation, and will explain how individuals or organizations can become members of the Partners or can assist the partnership by adopting a particular project.

STEVE MILLER

Steve Miller gets diploma

Steve Miller, the new Standard Oil dealer in Charlevoix, has received a diploma from the Oil industry's most comprehensive course in service station operation.

A two-week course, it is conducted at a specially-equipped training center operated by the Stnadard Oil Division of American Oil Company near Chicago.

Entering the course this fall, Miller was schooled in all phases of service station operation and care of customers' automobiles. Especially stressed were maintenance of a clean, attractive station; management of money, manpower and materials. and Knowledge of Standard's broad line of quality products.

Throughout his period of instruction at the center he received a training allowance from the company.

A 1963 graduate of Boyne City High School, Miller also attended Washburne Trade School, where he took and auto mechanic's course prior to working for five years as a mechanic in a new car dealership. He and his wife, Nancy, and one child had made their home in Chicago prior to his taking over the Standard Oil station in Charlevoix.

Ruppe Reports

Since coming to Congress, I have worked with my colleagues to improve the Social Security program, and provide a decent standard of living for our Senior Citizens and disabled Americans. I have supported, and will continue to support, a primary benefit of $100 per month, and a substantial increase for those now receiving more than $100. I have also introduced legislation to provide automatic increases in Social Security benefits, whenever the cost of living rises, because I do not feel that our Social Security recipients should ever again be victimized by the inflationary spiral.

I was, consequently, most pleased when the Ways and Means Committee reported to the floor a bill to provide at least some relief for our Senior Citizens and disabled Americans. I am well aware of the difficulties met by our Social Security recipients, as they attempt to make ends meet in this time of inflation. I voted in favor of the 15 percent across-the-board increase last week, and I will continue to stand behind that increase.

"My class is planning a trip to Washington. Can you help us with our itinerary?"

I would be most happy to provide you with information and brochures, with regard to things to do and see in the Washington area. I can send a partial listing of area hotels and motels, a map of the downtown D.C. sights, a listing of daily events for the month, as well as other brochures on points of interest in Washington, and nearby Maryland and Virginia.

Have you driven out our way the past week to see our little community all shining bright for a Happy Holiday and a Merry Christmas Greeting for everyone? The Nelson Christensen home is ablaze with colored lights and singing carolers. Also the Charles Wagner home on Washington Street with its colored lights and shining star with Santa Claus ready to greet you as you enter the door. Also the William Vanderwall, Tom Nielsen and Ronald Fords homes are beautiful, but we give the first prize to Mr. and Mrs. Philip Myner who have their home in keeping with the real meaning of this never to be forgotten Birthday of Christ and with the Cross shining so bright on the back of our little church wishing each passerby prayers for peace. Good Cheer in the New Year.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond (Sonny) Williams and children, also Scott Cooper, are enjoying their holiday vacation in Arcadia, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harrison are visiting relatives in Detroit.

The William LaValleys are really progressing with their new home.

The lake is frozen from East Jordan down to the ferry. The temperature was down to eight degrees below last Monday, so winter is with us, but I found a catapillar crawling last week that was all light brown through the middle and dark on each end. Our grandfathers would say that the middle of the season will be light and more severe near spring. Now we will see how true their predictions were.

And there were very few cones on the evergreens this fall, which is another sign of a light winter. Time will tell.

The Sunday School Christmas program was well attended Sunday evening and well done; also, Santa Claus arrived as usual with his jolly good humor and candy and nuts for each child big and little and good wishes for a Merry Christmas for everyone.

Mrs. Ruth Roberts is spending this winter in Clearwater, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Scott are living in their home formerly called the ferry house and will be spending Christmas with Mr. Scott's parents in Nashville, Michigan.

Members of our Church choir were guests for Holiday refreshments after their weekly practice Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Alexander.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kemp had as guests their granddaughter Cindy Rubingh and Mr. and Mrs. John Varga and two children of Mt. Pleasant this Tuesday and on Christmas Day their grandsons Gary and Rodney Rubingh of Mt. Pleasant and Mr. and Mrs. Klon Johnstone of East Jordan were with them.

Mr. and Mrs. William Vanderwall will spend this Christmas Holiday with their children Carolyn and James in Ann Arbor.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gilbert have closed their home and will spend several weeks with their children in Detroit before going to New Mexico for a visit with friends.

Sharon Neilsen is home with her parents Tom and Mary Neilsen for the Holiday recess from her school work at Big Rapids.

Mrs. Charles Themm in Charlevoix. The rest of this holiday vacation they will spend with Mr. Woodbury's parents at Swartz Creek, Michigan.

Mrs. Moore:
Active senior citizen

By Bernice Wexstaff

By the grace of God and the blessings of modern medicines many Senior Citizens are remaining an active force in the community. Charlevoix's Mrs. Lillian Moore of 206½ East Carpenter avenue is one whom younger persons might envy. . Mrs. Moore was 85 years old last March 7 and she is still going strong!

Mrs. Moore was born in 1884 and she has been three times widowed. Grief is no stranger in her life, but today, she remains cheerful and chipper as a teenager and much beloved by sons, Wallace and Clayton Saunders, her grandchildren and great granchildren.

Mrs. Moore is an active member of the Methodist Church, Rebecca Lodge and the local Senior Citizen group...She chauffers her friends who can no longer drive an automobile and is usually present at organizational meetings and card parties.

Fortunately her aged automobile is holding up well, too, after some 18 years of Moore ownership, and she hopes it will last out the duration of her own lifetime. So far it has carried her on her errands around the town with no signs of a let-down.

Mrs. Moore sums up her personal philosophy of life in a poem written by her own mother, Adela Whitford Saunders in 1883:

When sitting alone relecting on the past

Remember that you have a friend, as long as friendships last.

Lillian Sandrock Moore was reared in an era of extreme deprivation as compared with today's affluence. True, she always had plenty of food to eat, clothing to wear and adequate shelter within the simple pioneer home of her childhood. But, motor cars had not been invented, musical instruments and other accutrements of culture were outside the reach of the pioneers in both cost and availability and mind-expanding drugs were unknown.

In spite of early circumstances, Mrs. Moore, who grew up in an era of thrift and sobriety, has remained a beneficent influence in her community her life long. Her life should always carry a challenge to the "Now" generation and hopefully today's guitar twangers, keyboard thumpers and percussion whackers will do as much for God and Country.

You, Your Child and TV: 3

THE VIDEO ZOMBIES: ARE THEY HYPNOTIZED OR JUST ABSORBED?

by Barbara Frengel Reeves

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series by the assistant director of research of the Children's Television Workshop, creators of "Sesame Street," the new, hour-long series designed to help prepare preschoolers for formal education.

Is there a Zombie in your house?

At the Children's Television Workshop we use "zombie" to describe a child who watches television in a certain way. You know the look: your youngster stares wide-eyed at the screen, not talking or even moving.

Some parents accept zombiedom, others find it quite upsetting. Seeing their children sit for hours in this trance-like state has prompted some parents to put a limit on how much TV the youngsters are allowed to watch.

While testing material for the new "Sesame Street" series, we at the Workshop have observed hundreds of children viewing television. We're well acquainted with the zombie syndrome and have discovered some reasons that make children watch this way.

First, the programs are complex, as complex as radio soap operas used to be. Tune in to one of the programs your child likes and you'll see what I mean. He has to give the story all his attention so that he can keep track of what's happening.

And how does he watch TV? Few children are able to watch a program undisturbed. Instead, mother polishes the furniture, brothers and sisters argue, people walk in and out of the room, the phone rings, the mailman comes to the door. And so on.

Don't be concerned if your child is a TV zombie. You know him well enough to make certain he's getting enough needed exercise and play.

Different people concentrate in different ways. Notice the man of the family when he watches a ball game. (And listen to another one on the radio at the same time!) And how many times have you been talking on the phone only to come to when the cake burned?

So don't be alarmed if your child is a TV zombie. That's only his way of concentrating.

NEXT: What do children really like in Television Programing?

PROJECT XUAN THUY
BOX 2600
WASHINGTON 20013

YULE GREETINGS TO HANOI—U. S. Senators Robert P. Griffin (R.-Mich.) and William B. Spong (D.-Va.) flank U. S. Jaycees representative Michael Forgash amid cards and letters that have poured into Washington in response to a campaign for better treatment of American prisoners in the Vietnam war. The senators, co-sponsors of Project Xuan Thuy (named for Hanoi's chief negotiator in Paris), sort through an estimated 40,000 Christmas cards received since the project was announced by Griffin in a Senate speech Dec. 10. The campaign asks citizens to send holiday cards to Project Xuan Thuy, Box 2600, Washington, D. C. 20013, with a request that the North Vietnamese release the names of American POWs, treat them humanely and release them soon. The Jaycees have undertaken the campaign as a national project, and plan to deliver the mail to the North Vietnamese Paris delegation in mid-January.

Pat's Reaction

Scrooge, get lost!

Boy would I ever like to get my hands on some of those little Scrooges who are going around town stealing outdoor lights, breaking outdoor lights and ruining Christmas displays. I'll bet that they're the same Do Nothing Gooders who squirt water pistols at the Memorial Day Paraders, and chatter in the bleechers during the Charlevoix band concerts. They're not smart enough to do anything constructive so they do things that are destructive.

It's a shame too that there are a few Scrooges around Charlevoix at Christmas, for there are so many angels of mercy doing good deeds.

There are the women of the Hospital Guild who decorated the hospital so that it would give cheer and hope to patients and to friends of patients at Christmastime.

There are the many men and women from civic and religious organizations who filled baskets of food for families in distress at this season.

There are the women of Charlevoix Christmas Anonymous who shopped for clothes and toys to give as gifts to children who would otherwise have no new toys and no new clothes at this holiday season.

There are the cub scouts who set up and decorated Christmas trees for shut-ins.

There are the carolers who spread out through town spreading joy.

There are the men and women who cleaned and decorated churches for the Christmas season.

There are the people who gave money generously to a multitude of the needy.

These are just some of the people around Charlevoix who made others happy.

A friend of mine, Mrs. Ethel Wiesinger made eleven little girls very happy when she planned and invited them to a Christmas party. Her five year old granddaughter, Debbie Grove was visiting from New York, so Mrs. Wiesinger planned the party so that she could invite other little girls in town who don't have grandmothers or kind aunts nearby to fuss over them.

Mrs. Wiesinger decorated her house for the holiday and she decorated round low tables in red and white so that the little girls could sit comfortably on the floor. Then she crowned each guest with a wreath made of candy.

For lunch she served miniature hamburgers on miniature buns and gingerbread men for dessert.

Mrs. Wiesinger planned Christmas songs and special games for the children to play. In short, she made Christmas a very special time for eleven little girls.

So Scrooge, stay away from Charlevoix for we don't need you at this happy season.

Did you know

Servicemen who are within six months of discharge will be offered training as police recruits under a new Manpower Development and Training Act Program. The program, which is designed to relieve the critical shortage of police manpower, will operate until October 1, 1970. Soon-to-be-released servicemen will be trained by junior colleges and other police science institutions under a subcontract with the International Association of Police Chiefs, Inc.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER
CHAMBER MANAGER

Today, December 18, is my deadline for this column. It is a beautiful sight to look out over a portion of our parkway downtown, seeing the beautiful snow fall and not only accumulating on the ground but on the branches of the large beautiful pine trees. This certainly would be appropriate and beautiful for Christmas. Maybe the Power will cause it to linger.

Again there were many interesting bits in recent releases by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. One entitled, "Economic Discomfort Ahead Viewed as Acceptable." The view ahead is now clear, but the road is not. We have pretty well moved past the deep ditches and the massive boulders on the road to stable growth and we are now faced only with obstacles that one could characterize as pebbles and pot holes. There is still ahead of us some discomfort, but nothing that a sturdy and healthy economic machine can't negotiate with an acceptable level of discomfort. There is no reason for us to have to go back over the same road again...Doctor Maurice Mann, Assistant Director, Bureau of the Budget.

It was also indicated "Strikes Setting New Record." Some 4,000 strikes that have occurred during most of 1969--the largest number since BLS has been keeping strike records. The trend is expected to continue because of inflationary pressures. Unions are preparing themselves. Walter Reuther's UAW will have $20 million in its War Chest when it negotiates with the auto industry next year. The Machinsts are asking their 900,000 members to double their payments into the strike fund from $5 million to $10 million a year.

I am pleased to report since last issue in response to a certain line, I have one public stenographer listed, who expects to be ready for business in a couple of weeks here in Charlevoix. She has had about 15 years of experience; she has her own equipment, such as a typewriter, mimeograph, and a copy machine. This gal has had legal experience and also executive secretary experience. As yet, I have no babysitters listed.

The first regular meeting (meetings always scheduled the first Tuesday of each month) of our Board of Directors will be Tuesday evening, January 6, 1970. As earlier indicated, there will be three new Directors for a three year term each, replacing those whose terms will be up December 31, 1969. This meeting, of course, is opened by the present President, Lyle Miles, and the first order on the agenda is to call for an election of officers by the Board of Directors, themselves, voting for a President, Vice-President, and Treasurer for the year of 1970. This is done at the first meeting of any year to give each of the Directors a chance for an office. Believe you me, I will have quite an agenda scheduled for them and I hope I can cause them to realize that they each have one year of hard work ahead if we are going to succeed. You know, folks, actually, it is a lot of work and responsibility for the Directors to assume and execute. It is much more that just a title capacity and / or a meeting night proposition. For example, the general outline for the President of the Board of any Chamber of Commerce is outlined briefly as follows: 1—Being the organization's chief spokesman. 2—Organizing community leaders into working groups to carry out Chamber activities. 3--Preside at the Board meetings. 4--Spearhead development of a program of work for the coming year. 5—Encourage participation of Chamber members in the organization's activities. 6—Urge adequate financial support of your Chamber's program. 7—Work closely with other community groups in efforts to solve local socio-economic problems. 8—Appoint committee chairmen. 9—Select committeemen. 10—Analyzing problems, considering proposals, and making special assignments.

It appears like a large order, doesn't it? Yes, it does to some degree; however, there must be an outline or a program. It is generally true that his most important co-worker, of course, is the Chamber Executive, usually known as Secretary-Manager, the man more or less responsible for the administrative affairs for the Chamber. Beyond this there are the other officers and fellow Board members, who are expected to provide willingly excellent support and council. I have high hopes of being able to sort of stimulate a Board Interest and Participation, and involving more of the membership and other citizens. I have always said that we have plenty of talent here in Charlevoix but the problem continues to be, to get this talent out for a bit of exercise.

I hope the readers of the Courier have observed that they have several times published "Our Representatives." That is, the names of our State Representatives, State Senators, United States Senators, etc., and their addresses. I think this is quite a convenience and I have clipped the article and have it on file for a ready reference, as from time to time I have communication with these gentlemen.

To our membership and contributors otherwise, we are about to mail out approximately 200 Christmas Letter Greetings. Now, to those who are not in our registers, this Chamber's Board of Directors and myself wish all of you a very pleasant and enjoyable holiday season and a Happy, Healthy, and Prosperous New Year!!!

December rites in Congregational

CHARLEVOIX - Rita Jean Sanford became the bride of Thomas F. Hawley in a double ring service solemnized at the First Congregational church Saturday afternoon.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Rowena Sanford and Mr. and Mrs. E.D. Hawley.

Seasonal flowers and greens formed a setting for the service at which the Rev. Lawrence Tenhopen officiated. Mrs. Charles Bellinger, at the organ, played a program of traditional music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Robert Tollas, who sang "O Promise Me", "The Lord's Prayer" and "Ave Maria".

Escorted to the altar by her brother, Larry Sanford, the bride chose a floor length gown of taffeta Peau D' Soie and re-embroidered lace for her wedding. Fashioned with a lace bodice, high neckline and long sleeves with full lace ruffles, appliques of the same lace were scattered over the A-line skirt which ended in a chapel length train. A Dior bow with re-embroidered lace secured her veil of bridal illusion. She carried a pinnacle bouquet of white roses and carnations centered with a white hybrid orchid.

Pamela Haight of Clio was maid of honor and Beverly Castle of Cedar Springs, Sharon Christie of Manton and Mildren Sanford, sister of the bride, served as bridesmaids. They wore identical royal blue velvet gowns and carried colonial bouquets of white roses and carnations tipped with blue.

Bennett R. Cunningham of Saginaw assisted the bridegroom as best man. James Stewart, John Ochs and Lawrence Edwards were groomsmen and Vance Wood and Steven Bergmann seated the guests.

Mrs. Sanford selected a turquoise linen dress and matching lace coat and bone accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Hawley, mother of the bridegroom, wore a silk worsted costume in a burgundy shade with pale rose accents. Their corsages were of pink rosebuds.

A reception followed at the Weathervane Inn. Assisting were Mrs. Anthony Genia of Norman, Okla., sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Bennett Cunningham of Saginaw, Mrs. John Ochs, Toni Goss, Pamela Selph and Mrs. Joel Richards.

After a wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania, the bride will return to her studies as a senior student at Michigan State University and the bridegroom will report for duty with the U.S. Naval Reserve. He attended Ferris State College and is a graduate of Northwood Institute.

Wedding guests were present from Lansing, Norman, Okla., Grand Rapids and Wayland.

Mr. and Mrs. Hawley entertained at a rehearsal dinner at the Pine River Room of the Weathervane Inn Friday evening.

Library Notes

This week, Library Notes suggests a few books guaranteed to sooth shattered and frayed holiday nerves. All of them offer good relaxing reading, and all of them can be recommended to friends.

The first book, however, is not recommended for anyone who doesn't like dogs, because "Four Paws Into Adventure" is a simple and endearing tale about the remarkable experiences of a resourceful and loyal little dog. At first Diogenes belonged to a tramp and used to sleep under the Paris bridges, then he began a new kind of life with a family in a picturesque seacoast town. This charming book was written by Claude Cenac and it won the Prix Fantasia prize for literature. It is definitely a holiday family book for children and adults alike.

Art Buckwald is always fun and "Son of the Great Society" is a proper name for this collection of witty essays, because the author is, indeed a son of the Great Society. The table of contents proves how versatile this nationally known columnist is. One article is titled "Vorn Flakes and the Feminine Mystique," another- "Ham on Rye," still another "Why Parents Can't Read" and "The Children are Restless". Very very good reading on every page.

"The Last Voyage of the Albatross" was written by Chuck Giege who signed on the "Ocean Academy Ltd." for an 8-day cruise, planned to give carefully selected boys seafaring experience along with their regular high school courses. When the Albatross went down in the Gulf of Mexico, Chuck was one of 14 boys aboard. The loss of the ship's log made his own personal letters home the only existing record of the voyage, and it is from these letters that he and Felix Sutton, author of many adventure books, have reconstructed this exiting and authentic experience. The book was written in between Chuck's homework assignments. The book has excellent photographs of the voyage.

As a final suggestion, the Library recommends "Boom Cooper" by Angus Murdock. This story of the first U.S. mining boom, is without question one of the finest and most readable books ever written about Michigan. It is a book which, once started, cannot easily be put down. During World War II, the book went out of print because the copper plates were destroyed, but it has fortunately been reprinted. Boom Copper is not a dull book of history. It is an exciting adventure story which deserves a second and third reading.

A Christmas decoration contest was again held by the village council on December 20. Prizes of $15, $10 and $5 were given for the best residential participants only this year.

Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Dessie Farrell were her children, Mr. and Mrs. Don Farrell and children of Norwood, and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Farrell and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob DeYoung and family of Lansing were recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Alward. On Saturday evening Mrs. Alward invited the Alward families to celebrate Bob's birthday.

Sunday evening, Dec. 21, at 7 p.m. there was a Christmas program at the Eastport Church. This program was divided into two parts. The first period was the expression of the Junior Dept.

The second period wss presented by the teen-age through the adult department. There were readings, a variety of musical arrangements including trios, duest and solos. Also "black light" drawings in delightful color arrangements of the Nativity Scenes by the pastor.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Keuper left Grand Rapids recently for an indefinite stay in Florida.

Our young people who were away at college are come during this week to spend a couple weeks vacation.

The Michigan Fruit Growers furnished the season pack this week.

The Girl scouts enjoyed a Christmas party at the Community Hall Wednesday with the Borwnies entertaining the Jr.; Mrs. Neis Nelson is the Jr. leader and Mrs. Garret Waffle is the Borwnie leader. There are 34 members. Election of officers was also held Wed. with Nadine Heeres as scribe and Sharon Prevo as treasurer. Julie Way and Diana Waffle as patrol leaders. Mrs. Nelson reports the girls are planning a "12th" night on January 6. for the burning of Christmas trees on the bell field across from the school. Christmas cookies and coffee will be served. Everyone welcome. Bring your trees.

CHS Rayders up record with 67-65 win over TC

A spirited St. Francis Gladiator team almost pulled and upset over the second place Rayders in a game at Traverse City Tuesday night.

The Gladiators took a first period lead of 12 to 10 and a half time lead of 15 to 18.

The third period still found the Rayders trailing by eight with a 38 to 30 deficit that ended the third period.

In the fourth quarter, the Rayders went to work, outscoring the Gladiators 23 to 15 to tie the score at 53 to 53 at the end of the fourth quarter to put the game into overtime.

In the first overtime, the Rayders almost had the victory wrapped up when Stan Kozlowski sank a basket at the buzzer to tie the score again at 59 all.

In the second overtime the score again see-sawed back and forth. Then Stew Coleman put the ball through the hoop with 25 seconds to go which tied the game up. Coach Don Carey then called a time out to set up the winning play. When the clock began, Coleman threw a long pass to Ostrum at mid-court who then threw it to Meggison who sank a thirty-foot jumper at the buzzer that won the game for Coach Carey and the Rayders, 67-65.

For Charlevoix, their big problem was at the free throw line, hitting on only nine out of 19 charity tosses. However, they hit on 29 field goals to make up the difference for the win.

St. Francis hi on only 24 field goals but had 17 out of 24 free throws.

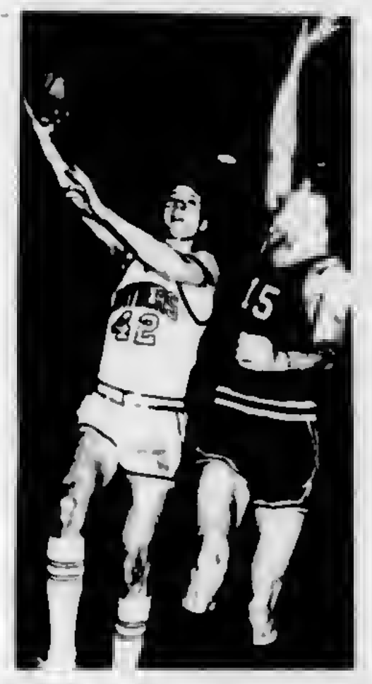
Bruce Meggison lead the Rayder scorers with 21 points, scoring eight in the two overtime sessions. Stew Coleman, who ran into foul trouble early in the game and was taken out until the final period, scored 14 points.

Tim Doan and Kraag Lieberman hit for nine each and Norm Ostrum notched eight for the Rayder cause.

For Traverse City St. Francis, Mike Comestock hit on 21 points with Stan Kozlowski totaling 19 and Mike Haplin hitting on 16.

The Rayders won't play again until January 9, when they take on the Boyne City Ramblers (2 and 3) on Charlevoix's home court.

"We're looking for a good year in basketball so that we can stay in contention for the all-sports trophy." These are the words of STEWART (SPOOK) COLEMAN, a 5' 11" senior guard on the basketball team. Stewart is the son of Mrs. Irish (Marge) Coleman. Stewart's courses this year are trig. and advanced math, government, economics and sociology, English 4 and physics.



TIM DOAN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Doan, is one of the senior members of the Charlevoix Red Rayder Team. Tim, who is 5' 11" tall, is playing the forward position. In school, Tim is taking trigonomitry, chemistry, typing, government and English 4. When asked what were his outlooks and desires for this year's basketball season, Tim replied, "My desire is first place. My outlook is third."

IN THE OPEN

BY LEE SMITS

Man, within the span of three centuries, has so changed the land, waters and air of Michigan that our state bears little resemblance to the wilderness that French explorers found when they penetrated the interior from Detroit, Mackinaw, St. Ignace and the Soo.

In the present century, outdoor values have provided Michigan with its No. 2 industry – recreation, tourism, outdoor enjoyment. The wounds inflicted by axe and plow, bulldozer, dredge and fire have healed. Our state motto is justified – "If you seek a beautiful peninsula, look about you."

Man continues to effect dramatic changes that alter the life patterns of animals, from deer to woodpeckers.

Some spectacular changes in Michigan's fish and wildlife populations have been intentional. An outstanding example is the introduction of the coho. Our most important game bird, the pheasant, was introduced within the memory of hunters who are still hale and hearty. Another exotic that established itself happily for all concerned was the rainbow trout.

Reviewing other attempts to bring in foreign species we find that hopes and plans have not always succeeded. A herd of raindeer was released in the mid-section of the Upper Peninsula, with tragic results. A deficiency in the available forage caused deformity and sickness that doomed the project.

Another introduced species that flourished, but did not become popular, was the carp. At one time a profitable carp fishery was in operation in Michigan. The carp, shipped alive in tank cars, sold well on the New York market.

Going further back in the history of wildlife experimentation, we find that a large number of elvers were released in Michgan waters. An elver is an infant eel. he critters flourished and spread. Eel were being caught in mill ponds throughout the southern part of the state. But an important fact in the life cycle of eels had been overlooked. Eels spawn in the south Atlantic, swimming hundreds of miles to get there. The elvers planted in Michigan were blocked off from the ancestral breeding grounds and eventually the last Michigan eel was captured.

Two foreign species that are well established are the English sparrow and the starling. Although they are sometimes rated as pests, it is probably that these birds do a great deal of good, gobbling insects that might ruin lawns and gardens. The starling is credited with seeking out undesirable bugs in their winter sleeping quarters. The communist government of China declared war on sparrows because they fed on grain. A highly organized slaughter of sparrows was carried on, until it was noted that harmful insect life increased as sparrows were eliminated. The war against sparrows was called off.

In addition to the planned additions to fish and wildlife populations, there have been changes in outdoor resources that came about without planning. The bob-white quail flourished as farming dominated the southern counties. Quail spread throughout the state wherever there was suitable habitat.

The opossum and the turkey buzzard drifted in from the south. The country-wide population explosion of raccoon reached Michigan some years ago. As prairie chicken declined, sharp-tail grouse appeared, from the west. The coyote was an univited immigrant that found conditions to its liking, flourishing in spite of bounties. Moose stray into Michigan from Ontario, but except for the Ile Royale herd, moose have not established themselves.

Change is a law of nature. If man and all his works were removed from Michigan, change would continue. Forests would expand. Shallow Lakes would become boggy marsh. Lightning would start destructive fires. Exploring species of fish and game would find their way into new habitat.

The national census

How many people are there in the United States? Where do they live--and work? What do they buy? Where do they buy?

How do we meet the population changes? How can we plan ahead for housing, schools, shopping areas, open lands and transportation?

The answers to all these questions and many more are in the offing every ten years when the national census is taken. It is used as a guide in government, business, industry, education to anticipate the increasing demands of a successful American economy.

While plans are being developed for the 1970 census, there has a been a flurry of controversy as to the coverage and procedures. Even Congress has evidenced concern.

Congress should incisively examine the plans because the cost of the operation is borne by the public. However, an adequate census is not a luxury but a necessity. The decennial census is not only authorized, but required; and not by legislation enacted by Congress, but by the Constitution itself.

It is the responsibility of every citizen to cooperate in making this 1970 census. The census is not an act of harassment or government prying, but is the performance of a necessary government function.

As plans are shaping up for the 1970 census, it will provide the essential information necessary for both government and business to make the necessary projections for the next decade and beyond.

So, when you are asked for census data, give the time and effort necessary--to help yourself--your neighbor--and your nation.

Our wishes for the New Year

Within a few days, we'll be faced with a brand new year. . .and tradition tells us that it is the opportunity to wipe the slate clean and begin anew.

If we were granted the power to make wishes for 1970 come true, we would definitely include the following:

Money enough to operate the best school system in the state.

No football games with St. Ignace to mar an otherwise perfect season.

Success and good fortune to new City Superintendent Tom Hanna, City Council and Mayor Bill Fochtman.

The absence of dust to set residents and Medusa officials at ease.

A "Yes" vote next week at the Township-City annexation election.

A summer when everybody comes to our city in a "low" boat so our bridge doesn't go up and block traffic constantly.

Lots of snow for ski enthusiasts, but clear roads for motorists.

Record business volume for Charlevoix merchants. . .and no vacant stores in the business district.

Completion of channel-widening work on schedule and with no damage to property.

Fewer maxi coats and more mini skirts for local girl-watchers.

Peace and contentment for all our readers.

Best Wishes for a

Happy 1970

Countdown

BY UNCLE RON

WELL, I SEE WHERE the papers have started to count the shoppin' days till Christmas. As kids, It was always the most excitin' time of the year, and even now it puts a little more zip in life for old Granddad, and the countdown each day built up the suspense until each day seemed at least a week long, but Christmas always arrived finally, with its presents and excitement and feastin', leavin' us unwound and satisfied.

One of the most looked-for gifts each year for all of us kids was Granda Smith's. She always knited every grandchild a pair of bedroom slippers. These were usually red tops that were stitched onto a pair of leather soles that she bought at the dime store, but they were the most precious gifts we ever got and they were always the same.

Poor Gramma, she had so many grandchildren she hardly knew what to do, but she loved us all equally well and by giving us all the same fift none could feel extra special nor rejected by that wonderful gal.

Which brings up a problem that as grandparents is a farily serious one and it seems that as grandchildren that their parents don't have a chance to buy for their own little ones.

AS GRANDPARENTS, we usually have at least a little more money that we had as parents and its too easy to our sons or daughters mention something that their children would like, or they would like to get for the little fellers, to rush in and get it for them, thereby deprivin' the parents of the joy of gettin' something for their own.

We see a toy much fancier than the parents maybe could buy or would want for their little ones, and it's easy for us to over-ride our children, because they don't like to talk back to us. So we buy noisy, old-fashioned or hard to keep up (like battery operated) playthings, dump 'em on the little ones and leave while the parents put up with the noise or inconvenience that they could care less for. Many times we've heard some young mother say "I know my folks love to get things for my children, but I wish they'd let us have the pleasure of buyin' those things ourselves," so at our house we've come to the point where our gifts to our grandchildren are usually clothing and home-made candy or fudge.

The little fellers always seem to look forward to these things and our daughters-in-law have told us how much they appreciate it. So maybe we better bend an ear toward our children and see what they'd like us to get the grandchildren, 'stead of askin' the little sproggins, and make more people happy and us more welcome.

And a Ho-Ho-Ho to everybody from Ol' Grumpy....

(Uncle Ron in the Otsego County Herald Times)

What a big waste of $

The Federal Government is spending millions of dollars each year to be for and against smoking at the same time.

On one hand, the government spends about $7 million a year trying to discourage people from smoking. On the other hand it spends about $50 million a year to subsidize the tobacco industry.

Other Federal inconsistencies over tobacco are;

--The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) said it wants to ban all cigarette advertising from radio and TV, while the U.S. Agricultural Department recently approved $210,000 to help pay for cigarette advertising in Japan, Thailand, and Austria.

–The U.S. Office of Education, The National Cancer Institute, The National Heart Institute and the U.S. Public Health Service have all been publishing materials designed to discourage people from smoking, while the Federal Commodity Credit Corp spent $71.2 million in the last 3 years to keep tobacco prices up.

–The FCC ruled that radio and TV stations must give free time to broadcast ads designed to discourage smoking, but Congress now has before it a bill which would forbid any regulation of cigarette advertising by any Federal, state or local agency.

–And Robert H. Finch, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, on a recent day in Washington, D.C., sat chain-smoking cigarettes while explaining that he was against cigarette advertising on radio and TV.

Shooting for sick record

AS IT MUST TO all men, illness finally came to me. Now I can appreciate how Lou Gehrig felt when he missed his first baseball game in 14 years.

My one claim to fame has always been that, in 19 years of newspapering, I've never phoned in sick. Verily, oh verily, there are some mornings when I feel miserable. But I always come to work anyway.

I don't know what spurred Gehrig on to his record of 2,130 consecutive games. Maybe it was because he wanted Gary Cooper, and not William Bendix, to play his part in the movie "Pride of the Yankees." (Bendix played Babe Ruth, who hit a mess of home runs but also got sick on beer and hotdogs. And "The Babe Ruth Story" was a terrible stinker. On the other hand, the Cooper - Gehrig movie had considerable class except, ironically, for the Babe Ruth part. This time it was played by the Babe himself and he was worse than Bendix. And haven't you got something better to do than read this nonsense?).

Anyway, I figure I have showed up 4,959 consecutive workdays. Never mind how many of them I worked. (And never mind checking my figures. It is my policy to pay no attention whatsoever to anyone who corrects my arithmetic).

Many of those mornings I operated on raw courage alone, plus the sure knowledge that this was the day for my wife to vacuum our bedroom, and there is no way short of murder to make little kids shut up, so I might as well suffer with my clothes on.

My stiffest test came last Tuesday. I had been up and down all night with a disease which is best left undescribed. Suffice it to say that my wife admitted she also couldn't sleep all night. "I kept worrying about which suit to bury you in," she said.

CAME THE DAWN and, despite the protests of my fearful family, I staggered off toward work.

"I want to get my name in the record books," I explained. "There were lots of times when Lou Gehrig was sick but he'd start the game anyway. He'd play half an inning and then go to bed with his consecutive string unbroken. That's what I'm going to do. I'll be back home in an hour with the bravos of my co-workers still ringing in my ears."

And that's what I did. It was marvelous.

The kids were in school, the cats were banished to the outdoors, and the vacuum cleaner never erupted. I just stayed in bed, hour after hour, and listened to the steady murmur of my wife talking on the telephone 2 rooms away.

The gang at the newspaper, obviously concerned, sent me a bourbon. Very medicinal. The kids bought me a dirty pocketbook they knew I'd been wanting to read.

I didn't get meals in bed but, when I spilled my soup all over the kitchen floor, my wife didn't make me clean it up myself. Instead, she let the cats in.

After all these years, I've finally found out how to become appreciated.

I was back at work the next day, but with no firm plans for staying beyond the 2nd inning. That Lou Gehrig knew how to set a record.

Onward and Upward.

ON THE 'FLIP' SIDE

"I hope I didn't miss a youngster. Now, I can wish everyone a Happy New Year."

problems and, too, they just completed a new high school on the farthest side of town from Charlevoix.

"If we merged with Ellsworth, it wouldn't work well either. Would the students from Ellsworth be bused to Charlevoix? This would surely cause a problem because our facilities would soon become overcrowded.

"As far as the rest of the schools in Charlevoix County are concerned, I don't think it would do much good either, the largest independent school system left is Boyne Falls.

"The only possible solution would be to ask Boyne City and East Jordan if we could merge with them. And even the location of the school would not be to our advantage.

"The conclusion that I come to is that the voters of Charlevoix blew is bad when they didn't pass the proposed merger with East Jordan. And now they will just have to take the next best thing."

Jerry Pease, also a tenth grade student, stated he would not like to merge with anyone. "I dislike big schools and it would make things that much more confused that what they are in our own school."

Sherry Austin, a Junior, said she would rather merge with Petoskey because, "It would give us a larger curriculum."

Another tenth grader, Jean Carey, replied, "I think eventually there will have to be a merger. By what I hear, Ellsworth is really hard up. I think that if we did merge with Ellsworth the size would be good. But I don't like the idea of having a school so far from home. But all-in-all, I think the advantages outweigh the disadvantages."

Joe Jones, also a tenth grader, replied, "I think we should merge with Petoskey, because we would have a lot more subjects to choose from and a bigger and better sports system."

Larry Potter, a tenth grader, gave his answer as, "I would not like to merge with anyone because it would make the school too big and would present too many more problems."

Also a tenth grade student, Rita Mosses, would like to see a merger with Ellsworth. "Because it is a smaller community."

The preceeding answers should give the voters of Charlevoix and the surrounding areas just what the students want and those wants and needs are important for a workable school system.

Decorations

Only one award was given to those residing on the perimeter of the city and it went this year to Mr. Patricia Ivanoff of 435 Carson Avenue, whose indoor-outdoor Christmas extravaganza was filled with the spirit of Christmas. However, honorable mention was awarded to Robert Withers of Stove-rd., Joel. Arvilla of Carson Avenue and John Stebe of Division Street.

The committee of three judges (Mrs. Ray Wood of the Garden Club and Mrs. Harold Geiken and Mrs. Arthur Wexstaff of the Charlevoix Woman's Club) is however, fully aware that there were dozens of displays that merited mention among which are the Walter Russell's of 403 W. Hurlbut, Byron Wright's of 200 Lewis, E.D. Hawley's of 300 E. Dixon and Karl Erbert of 314 Meech Street.

But even a lone candle burning brightly like the illuminati of the Spanish which traditionally lights the way of the Christ-child, adds to the beauty of the snow scene in Charlevoix the Beautiful and its owner is adding his mite to the prevading Spirit of Christmas.

Tax firm to open

H & R Block Inc. America's largest income tax service, announces the opening of a new office in Charlevoix. The Block firm operates over 4,000 offices throughout the United States and Canada.
